CANADIAN ENGINEERS INSPECT CONCRETE ROADS

Party of Fourteen Visit Wayne County, Michigan, and Get First Hand Facts

Last week a party of Candian Highway Engineers and Municipal Officials interested in good roads, under the guidance of Mr. L. S. Bruner of the Canada Cement Company Limited, visited Detroit and Wayne County, Mich., to learn how this progressive American community is building a comprehensive concrete road system of which it is justly proud.

The party included: J. F. Ure, Woodstock, Ont., Engineer for Oxford County; R. H. Spencer, Acting Mayor, Trenton, Ont.; G. R. Marston, Simcoe, Ont., Engineer for Norfolk County; F. M. Rutherford, St. Catharines, Ont., Engineer for Lincoln County; W. J. Hollingsworth, Hamilton, Ont., Assistant City Engineer; M. Manigault, Strathroy, Ont.; J. H. Jackson, Brantford, Ont.; R. Clarke and W. E. Nesbitt, Merriton, Ont.; L. J. Wookey, C. P. Bataford and W. Coles, Toronto; L. S. Bruner and R. S. Muller, Montreal.

Wayne County now has nearly one hundred miles of the finest concrete roads in the world, one stretch of which extends in a smooth unbroken surface for a distance of 21 miles passing through the villages of Wayne and Dearbourne and it is a noteworthy fact that after much experimenting with every kind of road building material, the Board of County Road Commissioners has adopted concrete as its standard.

The party covered about eighty miles of highway of every description and in every condition from the worst to the best. The tour proved an exceptionally strong object lesson to everyone of the party and much gratification was expressed at the completeness of the building equipment and the excellent results obtained.

THURSDAY HALF-HOLIDAY TRIPS

The Steamer Geneva will leave George Street Wharf on Thursday Afternoon at 2 p.m. Street Railway Wharf at 2.15 for Golva Landing.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR HEALTH SAYS G. T. R.

"The first and most important consideration in railroad operation is Safety." This message has been sent out to all officers and employees of the Grand Trunk Railway by Mr. Morley Donaldson, Vice-President and General Manager of those lines.

The Company, in the development of its Safety First Work, has also taken a novel means of impressing upon its army of workers the necessity of promoting safe conditions and practices. To engineers, firemen and others in the Motive Power and Operating Departments, a label has been issued with a request that it be attached to the inside of hats and caps.

This sticker says: "No Grand Trunk employee is expected to take unnecessary chances for the sake of saving time or for any other reason." It will serve as a reminder, easily carried, that "Safety First methods of work are expected of all for the protection of the employee and passenger alike. Indeed every factor that tends towards safe operation is being insisted upon by the officers of the Grand Trunk System. In a bulletin just issued right methods of living are considered.

In order to continue promoting safety, it is every engineer's duty," this bulletin says, "to conserve the natural organs of the body. Normal mind is necessary to service, and good health is necessary to the normal mind. Temperance in living, plenty of rest, plenty of sleep, and the required amount of exercise must be taken in order to be a continuing element of safety in the service. These laws of health being observed, the normal mind is retained and continued and the service benefit ed accordingly."

WHEAT CUTTING HAS COMMENCED

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Ont., July 14 — Wheat cutting commenced in several places in this district to-day, the earliest in many years. Following splendid showers, the grain is in perfect condition and a big yield is certain. Oats are coming along splendidly, and will be shortly ready for cutting. The harvest in general will be a bumper one.

A circular approved by Mr. Morley Donaldson, Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, announces the appointment of Mr. Louis Low, as Resident Manager of the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton. This is the latest of the splendid hotels which the Grand Trunk Pacific is providing for the travelling public in the Dominion and the finishing touches are now being placed upon it.

The site chosen for the Hotel is possibly unequalled anywhere in Western Canada, for it combines convenience to the business centre, with a wonderful outlook over the Valley of the Saskatchewan River. The building has been located on McDougall Street, almost at the crossing of Jasper Avenue and directly opposite the Edmonton Club. The site is ideal and the building was planned in such a manner as to take full advantage of the view across the beautiful ravine of the River which bounds the entire southerly exposure of the property.

Mr. Low, chosen as its Manager, is a practical hotel man of wide experience. He was formerly in the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, and has latterly been Assistant Manager of the Fort Garry, Winnipeg.

WAS RESCUED FROM DROWNING

Quick Action of Arnold Parrington Averts a Tragedy

Yesterday afternoon while some young boys were in bathing at the boat houses near the C.P.R. bridge, one young fellow got beyond his depth and was struggling to regain the shallow water. Arnold Parrington, who is 16 years old, was out paddling an old punt nearby and saw the danger to the boy, who had got beyond his depth. As he was in his bathing suit, he quickly jumped into the water and reached the helpless lad and got him into the punt and then paddled him to shore, where it was found that he was none the worse for his ducking except being a little sick and scared.

Trainmen May Go On Strike

Examiner Special:

CHICAGO, Ill., July 15 — With ninety-nine per cent. of the trainmen in favour of a strike unless the demands for shorter day with the same pay are granted, the prospects for a strike that will tie up a hundred and fifty thousand miles of railroad, some of it extending into western Ontario, loomed larger to-day. Conferences between the men and Managers were resumed to-day. Both sides are firmly resolved to stand to their guns.

In County Police Court, Tuesday morning, before His Worship County Police Magistrate Edmison, Richard Alford of Lakefield, Auctioneer, was charged with selling by auction without having a license.

Since he has received his summons he has taken out a license, and in view of that fact, His Worship imposed a fine of $13.15, being the amount from March to the present time, which constitutes the period the defendant had been without a license. Four dollars and seventy-nine cents were addd as costs.

Alleged Theft of Hay.

Wm. George Scott, charged J. Kellegher both of North Monaghan, with taking hay to the value of between $10 and $15 from his property.

Much evidence was taken and the lawyers interested were at differences several times. The defence was that the defendant was an illiterate person, and acting on instructions he received from Reeve Howden, and Mr. Dickson, cut the hay.

Local Man Fined $7.50

Is Celebrating the 12th Local Youth Wishes an Axe to Avenge Himself on Lindsay Officers

Charged with creating a disturbance at the G. T. R. station, a young Peterborough man, only twenty-two years of age, was assessed $7.50 in all. He was particularly violent in the cell and besides using bad language, threatened the officers with all kinds of revenge: "if he only had an axe." He was drunk and besides breaking all the windows in the main police cell, destroyed the bench and woodwork in cell number one. This second charge cost him $8.00, so that outside of his fare, meals and incidental expenses, this twelfth celebration he will remember as costing $15.50 for its aftermath.—Lindsay Post.

WILL LOOK AFTER ALL ITS VISITORS

The Grand Trunk Pacific, as the most modern of transcontinental railways, passing through newly-opened-up wonderlands, will be the route chosen by thousands of tourists on their way to the Panama-Pacific Exposition opening in San Francisco on February 20th, 1915. The Passenger Officials of the Company have just been advised that San Francisco now has 2068 hotels, rooming and apartment houses—an increase of 786 in three years. Before the Exposition opens, 150 more hotels, etc., will be ready for occupancy. Every assistance will be given to visitors anxious to secure accommodation by the hotel bureaus, approved by the Exposition Management. The San Francisco Hotel Bureau, with a membership of more than 300 hotels, has fifty thousand rooms on its lists. Rates will be $1.00 to $3.00 a day, each person, European plan, for any date or any length of time desired.

NEED FOR CAREFUL DRIVING AT CORNERS

The need for the further realization of the danger that exists at street crossings, was evidenced last night about 11 o'clock at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. The last car from Jackson Park was coming east, and had almost reached the above named intersection, when two rigs, containing parties from the country, dashed north on Aylmer at a fast pace. Had the driver of the street car not had perfect control of his brakes, a bad accident would have ensued. As it was, no one was injured, although the occupants of the second rig received a slight shock.

PERCHERONS IN PRIZE LIST

Fair Directors Decide Upon This at Last Night's Meeting

The directors of the Exhibition Board, last evening, decided on the addition of the Percheron Class of horses in the prize list.

There is a number of pure-bred Percherons in this locality, and the addition of this class is welcomed by the breeders here and in the surrounding district.

Mr. W. G. Morrison's handsome cup for the best carriage horse has already stimulated efforts in this direction and the contest for the Cup promises to be one of the features of the Exhibition.

The attractions this year are expected to exceed anything of the kind yet put on by the Exhibition, which should be the best Fair on record.

Hot milk as a nourishing and valuable drink in cold weather, especially in the case of colds, has no rival. For those who are unable to drink hot milk, tea made with boiling milk in place of water will be found most nourishing and palatable. The tea should not be allowed to stand in the pot above five minutes before using.

When a splinter has been driven into the hand, it can be extracted painlessly by steam. Nearly fill a wide-mouthed bottle with hot water, place the injured jart over the mouth of the bottle and press tightly. The suction will draw the flesh down, and in a minute or two the steam will extricate the splinter and the inflammation will disappear.

Nothing if not ambitious the young minister of Popham determined on a plan to gain him greater popularity.

"Well, John," he said to the beadle after service one Sunday morning, "I was just thinking it might greatly enhance my sermons if you would oblige by saying 'Amen' now and again."

"Right, right, I will, sir. But hoo am I tae ken whaun tae say 'Amen'?" inquired sturdy John.

"I'll have a bag o' green peas beside me, John, and if you just sit under the pulpit I'll drop one when I wish you to speak," was the reply.

The following Sunday all went well, until suddenly John exclaimed, hurriedly: "Amen, amen, amen, ame—"

CHOICE RECIPES

Pineapple Rice Griddle Cakes.
Add one cupful of boiled rice to two cupfuls of sweet milk, add the yolks of two well-beaten eggs and one cupful of flour to which has been sifted one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt; lastly, add the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot griddle. While hot spread with sweetened grated pineapple which has been simmered for a few minutes on the back of the range. Roll up neatly and dust with powdered sugar. If the pineapple is too juicy drain off a little of the syrup and serve it with the cakes. Serve very hot.

Delicate Currant Pudding.
One cup currant juice, one cup of water, six tablespoons of cornstarch, one-eighth teaspoon salt; one-half cup sugar, whites of two eggs. Put the currant juice and water on to cook. When boiling stir in the sugar and cornstarch, which have been mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Stir until it thickens and then cook fifteen minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs until light and stir into the hot starch. Turn into a cold, wet mould. Serve cold with a boiled custard, made of the yolks of two eggs, one and one-half cups of milk, and four tablespoons of sugar.

CHERRY PIE.
Use ripe red cherries, and remove the pits. The cherries may be stewed a few minutes in plenty of sugar and their own juice, and then baked in a single crust with lattice-strips of paste over the top. Or the cherries may be placed in the dish, lined with good pastry, in alternate layers with plenty of sugar. Shake over the top layer of cherries a tablespoonful of flur mixed with the sugar. Cover with a thin upper crust that is well pricked with a fork.

LARGEST CREAMERY

Australia has the largest creamery in the world. It is "some pumpkin," if we may judge from the following description from the pen of an Australian writer:

"A few weeks ago the big Byron Bay Cooperative Butter Factory, in New South Wales, added another record to the many that it has put up in the past. It output no less than 200 tons of butter in seven days. The season has been late, owing to a dry summer, but the rains arriving at last characterized the autumn with a wonderful growth of grass, and the cows have apparently been trying to make up for lost time in the lactation period. Besides the turnover in butter, this factory handles more pigs per week than any other farmers' concern in Australia.

"It used to be said that there was a larger butter factory in America than the Byron Bay. But the writer a couple of years ago tried to get particulars for comparative purposes without success. Apparently the American factory was satisfied they did not come up to the colossal Australian.

"The double advantage of the Byron Bay factory is that the whole of the money in it belongs to the suppliers, who also see that the management is entirely in their own hands. As an object lesson to farmers, this concern is unique."

Plow the old strawberry bed and set the late cabbage, or sow rutabagas on it.

Tie tomato vines to stakes. Better not let more than one or two stems grow.

Keep flowering stalks off of the rhubarb.

Another planting of string beans may be made.

Early summer-flowering shrubs may be pruned just after flowering.

Keep the cultivator going. Every weed alowed to go to seed now means many weeds next season.

It is often a good plan to pinch back muskmelon and cucumber vines to make the fruit grow more rapidly.

Keep sweet peas, pot marigolds, and other annuals picked if you would have good flowers all summer.

Lime of sulphur dusted over rose bushes or other plants that are beginning to mildew will often stop the trouble.

Are the onions growing nicely? Hen manure or nitrate of soda may be sown broadcast over the field or cultivated in if they appear to be standing still.

Plums and apples may be budded the latter part of July or early in August. Try a few. It is an easy way to increase good varieties.

WELL DESERVED COMPLIMENT

The finest compliment I have ever heard paid to a woman, said a woman recently, was by her husband, and he said in speaking of her: "We always think of her as a morning glory because she looks so bright and cheery and pretty at the breakfast table."

How many breakfast tables are presided over by women who make no effort to be dainty! And there are a great number who are at once untidy and even uncleanly to look at.

The claim that household duties keep women from looking well in the morning is easily disproved, for in many a household where the lady gives a helping hand in the kitchen a big apron will thoroughly protect her dress, and then, too, cooking, unless one makes it so, is never dirty work.

That woman commits an error who looks uncared for and badly dressed in the morning.

The other woman who wears any old thing to the breakfast table is also making a mistake, for that is the time when the men of the household ought to see a woman at her best and not specially rely on her appearance in the evening, when the soft and charitable light of the lamp will hide many defects.—Ex.

Stock Markets

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.

NEW YORK, July 15. — The stock market rallied to-day and there were a few stocks that showed good support. There was some fair buying of UP to-day, right after the opening. I have not changed my opinoin that we will see very low prices by the end of the summer but I am in doubt as to the next point or two. It looks to me as if we would have a traders' market for a few days. Union Pac. won the equitable suit tto-day. This might result in a rally of a few points but I look for a big decline in it after it sells rights. US could rally again to about 62½ where I would sell it. Utah is not likely to decline much and as stated before is certain to sell above 70. MOP rallied above 12; would sell it if it rallied to 15. NH made another new low and I think ti would be a fair sale at or above 55.

NYC has reacted 5 points and it ought to be a purchase around or below 87 for a rally. LV may be sold near 130 and NG above 164 or 165. Copper may be sold above 71 and CAN 28⅛.

Lassen Peak In Eruption.

REEDING, Cal., July 16.— Black smoke belched a mile high from the crater on Lassen Peak yesterday and then drifted southward before the wind in a banner ten miles long.

The amount of falling ashes was small compared with the great eruption of June 14, although the volume of the cloud was fully as great and the duration of the disturbance longer. The first violence of the outbreak began to dwindle after two hours, though the mountain still boiled smoke. This is the eighteenth eruption since May 30.

GENERAL HUERTA HAS MADE HIS EXIT

Official Abdication is Dealt With in House and Huerta is Expected to Hasten to Europe

MEXICO CITY, July 15. — Gen. Victoriano Huerta resigned from the Provisional Presidency of the Mexican republic last evening and his resignation was accepted by the Senate and Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 121 to 17.

Francisco Carbajal, Foreign Minister, was then appointed President and took the oath of office in the joint session of Deputies and Senators.

Huerta's resignation was submitted through the Department of Foreign Relations. It was read in the House and was greeted with cries of "Viva Huerta." It was then referred to the joint committees of Gobernacion After brief consideration the committees reported, accepting the resignation in the following terms:

"Article 1.—We accept the resignation presented by Gen. Victoriano

GEN. VICTORIANO HUERTA.

Huerta as President of the Mexican United States.

"Article 2.—We call Licentiate Francisco Carbajal, Minister of Foreign Relations, to assume the Presidency."

A ballot was taken and the joint session approved the report.

President Carbajal proceeded to the National Palace under an escort of Presidential guards, and all along the way was greeted with tumultuous cheering.

Official announcement was earlier made that, actuated by highest motives of patriotism, and complying with his supreme duty to his country, President Huerta would send in his resignation to Congress.

Villa Is Disappointed.

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 15. — "I would much prefer that Huerta had remained in the Presidental chair or in Mexico City until we could set our hands on him," Gen. Villa said yesterday in Juarez, when he learned of Huerta's resignation.

"That is the only comment I care to make on the subject," he added, "I am a soldier of my country and do not care to express my opinion of the traitor's resignation."

May Go To Europe.

WASHINGTON, July 16. — Rear Admiral Badger reported to the Navy Department last night that reports reaching Vera Cruz say that Gen. Huerta and Gen. Blanquet would "leave Mexico City by train under escort."

There was no mention of their destination, but officials here think the retired dictator will go to Puerto Mexico to board a foreign man-of-war for Europe.

Admiral Badger also announced that the British cruisers Hermoine and Bristol sailed from Vera Cruz to Puerto Mexico at six o'clock last night. Earlier in the day the Dutch cruiser Kortenaer, whose commander went to Mexico City a few days ago, started for the same port.

MINISTER ATTACKED.

LONDON, July 16.—Two militant suffragettes yesterday made a violent attack on the Rt. Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood, Secretary of State for Scotland, as he was leaving his residence. The women were both armed with heavy horsewhips, with which they struck Mr. Wood several times across the shoulders. They were both arrested.

Only for the timely intervention of his stalwart butler, it is very probable that the Secretary would have been soundly thrashed. He was just leaving his residence when a woman rushed up, horsewhip in hand, exclaiming: "You Scottish pig, if you don't stop the forcible feeding of women we shall smash you."

The militant lashed him across the chest, but before she could deliver a second cut the butler, who was standing on the steps, seized her and threw her sprawling to the ground, leaving him free to tackle the second woman, who was shouting: "Let me get at the Scottish pig."

She made a rush with her whip at the Secretary for Scotland and was still struggling in the butler's grip when the police arrived and bundled both women to the police station. They were later sentenced to fourteen days in jail.

EDITORS MAKE TROUBLE.

PARIS, July 16.—An acrimonious controversy which is going on between Paul and Guy Cassagnac, editors of Autorite and L. Fuchs, correspondent of The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, and Carl Lahm, correspondent of The Leipsic Tageblatt, appears likely to cause diplomatic tension between France and Germany.

Guy Cassagnac recently challenged Fuchs to a duel, which the seconds decided need not take place because Fuchs had nothing to do personally with an article, which was the original cause of the controversy approving a sentence of one year imprisonment imposed by the Leipsic courts on the Alsatian cartoonist Hansi.

Paul Cassagnac challenged Lahm because he did not leave the country in 48 hours, as had been demanded by Autorite.

It is understood that the German Embassy in Paris is prepared to uphold what it conceives to be the rights of German correspondents.

MERSEY OFF FOR HOME.

Wreck Commission's Chairman Leaves on Calgarian.

OTTAWA, July 16.—Lord Mersey and Lord Brooke left for Montreal yesterday afternoon and they will sail together on the Calgarian to-day for England.

As Lord Mersey came over to the Empress enquiry as the representative of the British Board of Trade, he will report to that body on his return. He will also be paid for service on his return. The Canadian Marine Department will study the recommendations of the commission of enquiry, and the Department will then send to the British Board of Trade the recommendations which it thinks advisable in view of all the facts. Whatever action is taken for greater security for navigation on the St. Lawrence will be by co-operation of the British and Canadian Governments, as most of the vessels using that route are of British register.

Prosperity There.

HAMILTON, July 16.—A sign of returning prosperity was contained in the announcement made yesterday by Emil Magor, vice-president of the National Steer Car Co., that the concern had let the contract for an extensive addition to its passenger car department. The company has secured large orders for equipment and placements ease, which means that by the early autumn the big plant will be running day and night. In addition to the regular staff about 500 more workmen will be required. —

SAYS HE TOOK CHARGE OF THE BOODLE FUND

Witness on Enquiry Into Charges Against the Premier of New Brunswick Tells How Flemming Asked Him to Become Treasurer.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 16.—At the inquiry into the crown land charges made against Premier Flemming of New Brunswick, which was resumed yesterday before the royal commission, E. R. Teed told the commission that he had been asked by Premier Flemming to take charge of the foreign fund. He had been asked to receive contributions. He understood that Premier Flemming had been informed that the lumbermen were raising a fund for party purposes. The Premier had refused to have anything to do with the fund, however, but had offered to nominate a man to take charge of the fund and had accordingly selected witness (Mr. Teed) for the purpose.

Teed said Mr. Flemming told him that Mr. Berry had informed him that the lumbermen were arranging a fund to be paid over to the Government for Government purposes. Mr. Flemming said that he told Berry that he, being an officer of the crown, could not touch the money, but if the lumbermen were content to go ahead with the fund he would appoint a man to take charge of it. He accordingly asked witness to do this, to which the latter consented. The funds were to be used for the "good of the party in the province."

Teed was continued on the stand during the afternoon session. He told of several transactions in connection with the money collected. He had placed the money in a safety deposit vault in the Royal Bank of St. John, but after the charges were made by Mr. Dugal he had placed the cash in the form of a special deposit in the Bank of Nova Scotia. Before this he had loaned the Flemming-Gibson Co., Ltd., the sum of $15,000 out of the fund on the note of the company. This fund had all been paid back, with interest.

Before the session adjourned Mr. Calvell asked witness what party the fund was for, and the witness replied that it was for the local Government party.

CAPITAL IS SUFFICIENT.

C. P. R. Has No Need For Funds Just Now Says Shaughnessy.

MONTREAL, July 16.—In order to set at rest rumors that any issue of new stock and other disquieting stories about Canadian Pacific Railway affairs, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy yesterday issued the following statement:

"After the payment of all fixed charges and dividends, the company entered upon the new fiscal year, July 1, with $26,000,000 in cash and $4,000,000 in equipment securities after having spent upwards of $20,000,000 on railway and steamship construction, for which four per cent. consolidated debenture stocks have been authorized, but not offered on the market.

"The end has nearly been reached with all the important works of construction and improvement that were in progress, and only a comparatively small portion of the money in hand will be required for their completion.

"No new works of any magnitude are contemplated at present, and therefore no necessity exists for the further issue of capital stock.

"It is not unlikely, however, that the directors will, at the meeting in October, recommend to the shareholders that the authorized ordinary share capital be made to conform to the amount for which the company has legal warrant, so as to provide for the future capital requirements, as and when they arise."

Sorry He Sought Legacy.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 16.—When Emil Doll Allen left his job here to collect a big legacy in Germany he forgot that he deserted from Germany when he was 17 years old and could be called upon for army duty. He writes his wife now that he has been forced into the army and instead of collecting the legacy has been "collected" himself.

Accused of Murder.

GUELPH, Ont., July 15. — Gladstone Ray, charged with the murder of John Burr, was given his preliminary hearing yesterday. Burr was found dead on June 22nd on Elmer street, and Ray was with him during the day and evening. About $400 supposed to have been on Burr, was missing after the murder. There was in all about seventeen witnesses.

G. T. P. Sections Linked Up.

OTTAWA, July 16. — Collingwood Schreiber, chief consulting engineer of the Government, returned from an inspection of the G. T. P. from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert, announces that all sections of the line are linked up and will be ready to operate this autumn. As the Government has completed the eastern section, this means that the only gap now remaining from Halifax to Prince Rupert, is the Quebec bridge.

NOBODY LIKES BILL

Amended Ulster Exclusion Measure Simply a Makeshift

LONDON, July 16. — "Despite the feeling of optimism which is said to prevail as a result of Lord Beauchamp's declaration in favor of a conference on the lines of Lord Dunraven's amendment it is difficult," says The Daily News, writing of the situation up to last night, "to see how a settlement can be arrived at owing to the present temper of the parties."

The amending bill is disliked by all parties and is regarded as a device solely to prevent bloodshed. The attitude of the Government to the changes introduced by Lord Lansdowne and his colleagues with the object of safeguarding Ulster is still obscure, but certain conclusions of which there is support in Parliamentary lobbies may be noted.

The time limit is, by general consent, gone. The Government will resist the deletion of the referendum, but it might concede the grouping of the six "plantation" counties as one area to be decided by one poll, thus abandoning the original county option.

The fiercest fight, if the amending bill ever goes into committee, will be on the referendum.

The Prime Minister had a long conference with the Irish leaders yesterday, and it is expected that the whole situation will be discussed at to-day's Cabinet meeting, in the light of the new developments in the Lords.

The visit of the King's private secretary, Lord Stamfordham, to the Prime Minister at the House of Commons yesterday, and the hurried return of Sir Edward Carson to London have set many reports afloat as to a renewal of conversations. The Government, however, has made no approach in that direction. The interview of the King's secretary with Mr. Asquith had no undue significance, while Carson's journey to London was due to the possibility of the Government putting down the amending bill for discussion this week in the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister will announce to-day the exact date of the introduction and second reading of the amending bill.

If the amended bill be compared with the bill as originally presented by Lord Crewe it contains twelve clauses against the original nine, and with drastically altered provisions regarding the time limit area of exclusion, administration areas, partition of judiciary, reserve forces, constabulary and several other matters.

If the two bills were placed in parallel columns it would be found that the amending bill is virtually a new bill. The general story from Westminster to-day is that politicians are once more feeling optimistic, but it is difficult to perceive in what material aspect the position has changed overnight. The complete absence of hostile acts in connection with the celebration of the 12th in Ulster doubtless affords politicians some ground for breathing more freely.

DEAL IS CONCLUDED.

C. N. R. Trust Deed Is Ratified at Cabinet Session.

OTTAWA, July 16. — The trust deed in connection with the C. N. R. bond guarantee has been practically put through. An order-in-council was passed yesterday afternoon authorizing the execution of the trust deed and the appointment of the trustee. The deed only remains to be formally signed up, and this will be done to-day.

Sir William Mackenzie has been here all through the negotiations. As in connection with all such guaranteed bond issues, the Government must approve the rate at which the bonds are sold and also the place. It is believed that some of the bonds will be sold in New York. Only a portion of the, $45,000,000 worth of bonds will be put on the market at one time, of course.

The trust deed in connection with the G. T. P. bond guarantee of $16,000,000 will be taken up to-day, but may take a day or two to settle up.

Plural Voting Bill Ends Journey.

LONDON, July 16.—The House of Lords yesterday rejected by 110 votes to 49 the plural voting bill, which embodies the principle of "one man, one vote," and provides that a man who has more than one residence must before an election select which of his votes he desires to register.

Earl Beauchamp, on behalf of the Government, intimated that the defeat of the measure was purely academic, as the Government intended to see that it went into operation before the next general election.

The bill already has passed twice through all its stages in the House of Commons.

Boy Rider Ends Fatally.

VANCOUVER, July 16. — Their automobile having overturned at a street corner in Burnse, six miles out from Vancouver, five persons were crushed under an overturned car at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. Peter Rinan was killed outright, her husband badly hurt as were R. P. Seward, the chauffeur, and F. Brady, another passenger. Seward had taken his employer's car out for a joy ride.

WHAT WILL CARBAJAL DO?

Washington of Opinion That He Will Yield to Carranza.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Naturally the resignation of Gen. Huerta caused great jubilation among Constitutionalist Juana members and in Administration circles when confirmation of the news was received here last night. Senor Rafael Zubaran, chief confidential agent of the Constitutionalists, received direct information last night from Mexico City that Gen. Huerta resigned at four o'clock in the afternoon, and that Francisco Carbajal was sworn in as Acting President last evening.

Washington is now awaiting the announcement by President Carbajal of his attitude toward the Constitutionalist movement in Mexico. Whether there will be more battles between the Constitutionalists and Federals will depend, it is asserted, upon whether Carbajal intends to offer further resistance or is willing to surrender the Government to the Constitutionalists upon the proper guarantees from the latter as to the protection of lives and property of Mexicans and foreigners.

The Wilson Administration is hoping that Carbajal will indicate promptly his decision not to further resist the Constitutionalists. The Constitutionalist agents express belief that Carbajal has merely taken over the executive power to hold until taken over by the Constitutionalists, and that there will probably be no more fighting.

French School Burned.

WASHINGTON, July 16. — The killing of the director and the inspector of the school of the Christian Brothers of Zacatecas, Mexico, and the imprisonment of eleven other members of the order, all French citizens, were reported to President Wilson yesterday in a telegram laid before him by Brother Clementius, a member of the order. The President was asked to take immediate steps to have the imprisoned men set free and to prevent threatened similar occurrences at Saltillo, Aguascinco, Mexico City, Miscoac, Morelia, Puebla, Queretaro and Toluca, where other schools are maintained.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Hazel: Get an ounce of cyrstos at any drug store and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put two or three drops daily in each eye. You will be amazed to note how the tonic will brighten and beautify your eyes and add youthful clearness. It will not smart or burn, and will doubtless save you all further weakness.

Hattie L.: You are rather young to worry about losing your good looks, but you are wise, however, in taking every precaution against the loss of your complexion and the coming of premature wrinkles. Keep the skin firm and the complexion clear with nightly application, using this simple, inexpensive preparation. Mix together an ounce of almond, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and 1-2 pint cold water. Stir and let stand for a few hours. This will give a healthy resistance to oily conditions of skin. Try this faithfully for awhile, and note how it encourages the natural coating without undue flesh. Many have found in it a return to skin-health.

T.V.L.: Indeed, dandruff is an unsightly thing, besides preventing the growth and beauty of the hair. Most of the "dope" on the market is, as you say, helpless to cure the trouble. I am certain you can do wonders to beautify your hair and get relief from that itching scalp by the use of this tonic which you, yourself, can prepare. In 1-2 pint alcohol dissolve one ounce quinozin, also get some canthrox for shampooing.

Mrs. McD.: You "dragged out" feeling is probably only due to lack of strength and all you need is a good tonic to brace you up. Here is an old-fashioned remedy which will not only make you feel better, but make you look better. Dissolve half a cup of sugar and one ounce kardene in half a pint of alcohol, adding sufficient pure water to make a full quart of the mixture. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This will ensure proper digestion, an active liver, free elimination and by cleaning out the blood will clear your skin and brighten your eyes.

Betty Dean's Beauty Book, 25 Adv.

Mattie: I cannot praise any one kind of soap; there are many good ones.

Adele: You are quite right in being "finicky" about your hair: it is for just such particular people that I always recommend Canthrox. Its use will cure dandruff and make your "straight, oily" locks full of vitality and fluffiness—much more attractive than artificial curling. Make this shampoo at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It is the most pleasing and effective shampoo I have ever tried.

Cinderella: This is the best neck bleach I know of: Dissolve 4 ounces of spurmax in half a pint of hot water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, let stand until cold, then cork tightly. Then apply to the neck, face, hands and arms, rubbing lightly until dry. You will find a great change in the length of time this preparation stays on and it seems a part of the skin. It is a splendid liquid powder, easily prepared at home. This will not only give you a firm, healthy skin, but it is extremely beautifying, and entirely harmless.

Anne M.: Your rebellion against the "fat and forty" idea meets with my hearty approval. I have often advised against the carelessness which allows so many women to lose the figure while yet young and it is so unnecessary. Just get 4 ounces of parnotis, dissolve it in 1 1-2 pints of hot water, strain it, and take a tablespoonful three times daily. It reduces weight slowly enough to permit a gradual tightening of the skin so there is no danger of sagging muscles and loose tissues. Exercise mildly and bathe often, but the treatment requires no vigorous diet.

Alice M.: The eye-trouble you describe, like most eye troubles, is caused by nervousness.

WOES OF THE FISHERMAN.

It Is Made Hard for Him When He Has a Big Story to Tell.

"A fisherman who was warming for trout on the Ythan," says a writer in Baily's Magazine, "had just laid his rod down to visit his sandwich box, when, without warning, it suddenly rose in the air and soared away like a Bleriot biplane over Easlemond Woods.

"For one wild moment he thought there were visions about, but the explanation was soon apparent. A trout had first seized the worm and had then in turn been seized and gorged by a heron. Away flapped the heron, only to find that it had captured something of unusual weight.

"Still, it bravely flew toward its nest in the treetops, and the angler might nevermore have recovered his rod had it not got entangled in some telegraphed wire, with the result that the cast snapped, the heron went free and the rod was eventually restored to its owner.

"I remember telling this story to a man who, before I had even got as far as the telegraph wires, interrupted me with the assurance that it was mere everyday commonplace to what had once befallen a friend of his when masheer fishing in India.

"It seems that his angling friend was casting with a large spoon, and in a back cast drove it into the ear of a tiger which had been going to spring on him from behind. Goaded by the pain, the brute sprang clean over him and into the river, and the fisherman actually played it for an hour as it swam to and fro in midstream.

"It is such stories which bring down on fishermen the unmerited reproach of being liars.

"Once when I had been describing some memorable fight with one of the big fish of the past, I wrote:

"'I live over those tense moments again and again.'

"Did the printer so interpret me? Not at all. What he preferred was:

"'I lie over those tense moments again and again.'

"This sort of thing is very hard. What made it worse at the time was the fact that the friend who drew my attention to the misprint was a golfer."

Force of Habit.

In the furniture department of a big store chiffoniers with a patent drawer that could be opened without pulling it out were on exhibition. All day long the clerk packed and unpacked the drawers of that chiffonier, showing how easy it was to stow away gloves, veils, blouses and men's shirts and collars. During one of the demonstrations the manager of the department stopped to watch him.

"Why don't you distribute things a little more evenly?" he asked. "Why do you devote the four top drawers to women's apparel and chuck everything belonging to men in the bottom drawer?"

"I guess," said the clerk, "I did it from force of habit. You see, I have been married for fifteen years, and I forgot there was any place except the bottom drawer for a man to put his clothes."

First Type Printed Book.

The first book printed with type, according to Pettigrew, was the Latin Bible published by John Gutenberg at Layenne, about 1455, but Haydn is inclined to assign a somewhat later date to this, making the Book of Psalms, by Faust and Schoeffer, printed on Aug. 14, 1457, the first book.

There are only twenty copies of this first edition known to exist, and the workmanship in type, ink and paper far exceeds that of any of the subsequent editions for two hundred years.

Towser's Loss.

"Hello, old chap," greeted the crowd at the club. "Back from your hunting trip? Bag anything?"

"No," responded Chappy Badshot wearily.

"Well, no wonder. You are a back number. The idea of going hunting with a tailless pointer."

"Oh, don't blame poor Beppo! He had a tail when he started."

The Story Humorous and Witty.

The humorous story is strictly a work of art—high and delicate art—and only an artist can tell it, averred Mark Twain. But no art is necessary in telling the comic and the witty story; anybody can do it. The art of telling a humorous story—understand, I mean by word of mouth, not print — was created in America and has remained at home.

LIFE OF A WATCH.

Depends Largely on the Timekeeper and the Man Wearing It.

The life of a watch, jewelers says, depends largely on the person carrying it and the care taken of it. As to the care of a watch some jewelers say that it should be oiled once a year, some once in two years; perhaps once in eighteen months would be about the right thing.

All jewelers say that a watch should always be wound at the same time daily. This is essential to make it give the best and most uniform results. If a watch is permitted to run down it may on rewinding keep different time and require regulating. With the watch wound regularly and kept running there is set up and established in the mainspring a certain tension. If this strain is wholly released by letting the watch run down the spring may on rewinding take on a somewhat different tension. This difference may be extremely slight, but it may be enough to affect the running of the watch.

While some watches are long lived, many are short lived, the long lived watches being of course those of fine quality that are also well cared for. But there is a limit to the life of any watch that is kept constantly in use. The best of watches, like the best of anything, will wear out in time.

A watchmaker had lately brought in to him for repair a watch 126 years old that had been running practically continuously. It might be difficult to say of just what duration its intervals of rest had been, but it was supposed to have been run practically continuously, and, though it had stopped at least once, it was still in fairly good condition and good for some future use. But this was an extraordinary case. Most watches, however excellent they may have been originally, would with constant use wear out in far less time.

Sometimes there are brought in to jewelers fine old and once valuable watches whose owners, desiring now to buy a new watch, wish to offer the old watch at some price in exchange, but it is of no value except for the weight of the metal contained in its cases. Every jeweler has an accumulative collection of such old works, which are of no value whatever, except that at long intervals there may be found among them a wheel or a part that may serve in some other old-time watch brought in for repair.

So watches do wear out, and as to the life of a watch, a jeweler said, a good average watch with fair care ought to wear from thirty to forty years and a fine watch fifty years; it might last seventy-five, but fifty years would probably be nearer the figure.

It may be thought that a superior watch would last longer than that, but really the wonder is that this delicate piece of mechanism running year after year ceaselessly should run so long.

Crockett Wouldn't Have Maggie.

The first school the late S. R. Crockett attended was the Free Church school in the village of Laurieston, of that parish, distant three miles from his home. When he was a very wee chap "Sam" used to be accompanied to school by Maggie—a girl somewhat older than himself, who was supposed to look after him. Their daily appearance together led one of the villagers to say to him one day as the couple passed her door: "Man, Sam, I think ye'll be mairryin' Maggie some day; ye're aye thegither." "Mairry Maggie —," was the indignant boy's response. "She diena ken the names o' the kings o' Israel yet!" The lady whose suggestion to the future novelist was so contemptuously received often recalled the incident with amusement.—Westminster Gazette.

Iquitos is a town on the Amazon river within four degrees of the equator. An equatorial swamp not only surrounds the place, but threats invading swales into the city itself. Open sewers run the length of the principal streets, which are quite innocent of paving. Yet an American surgeon, loaned from the public health service and loyally supported by the Peruvian government of the place, has driven out yellow fever even under such disadvantages as these and reduced the general death rate from forty-nine per thousand per year to twenty-eight. In the face of such an achievement, what excuse has any American city for harboring preventable disease?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Haggis as the Scotch Make It.

To make haggis take the heart, tongue and small liver of the sheep, one pound of bacon, four ounces of crumbs of bread, the rind of one lemon, two eggs, two anchovies (sardines may be used), a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Chop the heart, tongue, liver and bacon, mix thoroughly, add the breadcrumbs, the anchovies, chopped fine; the lemon rind, grated; then the pepper and salt. Beat the eggs and pour them over. Pack this into a kettle or mold, cover and boil or steam continuously for two hours. Turn it on a dish and serve very hot.

CORDWAINERS.

History of This Ancient Craft of Workers in Leather.

Of the ancient and influential guilds of London the cordwainers have a history second to none. They were first incorporated by Henry IV. in 1440, and in 1439 their charter was made to include all workers in leather within a distance of two miles of the city boundary. Later their control was extended over the London leather markets.

Cordwaining means working in Cordovan leather. These artisans had gathered themselves into an association at an early period. They were originally located on the fringe of the old city of Londinium when the Roman power was predominant in Britain. Here they remained for many centuries, their industry forming one of the staple trades of the country. The craft had long been recognized as an important factor in molding the municipal life of English towns. For instance, the Gilda Corvesaorum of Oxford in the twelfth century was successful in obtaining from Henry I. a royal charter upon payment of an annual fine of one ounce of gold.

In the old days the cordwainer, the tanner and the currier had separate rights in the preparing of alum leather, tan leather and working cowhides. The cordwainer was to make boots and shoes of calf's hide. No master was to keep more than eight servants, and the carrying of shoes through the streets for sale was permitted only before dinner.

The first ordinance establishing the Cordwainers' company was granted in 1272 by the will and consent of the mayor and the other barons of the city of London "for the relief and the advancement of the whole business and to the end that all frauds and deceits may hereafter be avoided." In the following reign the prices allowed to be charged for shoes were 12 cents for a pair of shoes of Cordovan leather and 10 cents for a pair of cowhide shoes.

Nowadays the Cordwainers' company exists primarily to keep up its traditions, give its members banquets and incidentally to promote technical education and contribute to charities. Its income is $46,500 a year.

History as She Is Wrote.

A text book of history, written by one Ilajavski, for Russian schools, contains some extraordinary statements, among them these, which the London Star translates:

"Louis XVI. was a peaceable and gentle monarch, who, in the course of his long reign, showed himself particularly skillful in finding expert ministers of finance. Loved and honored by his people, the aged monarch died suddenly after a glorious reign as the result of a fit of apoplexy. He was succeeded by his son, Louis XVII., who was obliged to conduct several wars, wherein the captain of his hosts, the royal marshal, Napoleon Bonaparte, conquered a great part of Europe for his king. Napoleon, however, abused his power and made a public attempt to rebel against his liege lord and to compass his own ambitious ends. Under the leadership of Alexander I., king and autocrat of all the Russias, the general was deposed, deprived of all his honors and dignities and all claims to pension. He was banished to St. Helena."

First Omnibus.

"Omnibus" was an almost brand new word in its modern sense when Shillibeer took it from the French in 1829, and in France the name possessed a special significance for those who knew their history, for from 1672 to 1676 Paris had already seen a regular service of roomy public vehicles, "carosses a cinq sous." Only these predecessors of the modern bus were not "omnibus"—for all. The letters patent which instituted them for the benefit of middle class people laid down that they were not to be used by soldiers, lackeys or any other wearers of livery or artisans and laborers. These exclusive vehicles faded out of existence, and the new ones, which were started in Paris in 1828, were named "omnibus" expressly to signify their democratic character.—London Chronicle.

LIBERTY.

They tell us, sir, that we are weak, unable to cope with so formidable an adversary. But shall we be stronger? Will it be the next week or the next year? Will it be when we are totally disarmed and, when a British guard shall be stationed in each house? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction? Shall we acquire the means of effective resistance by lying supinely on our backs and hugging the delusive phantom of hope until our enemies have bound us hand and foot? Sir, we are not weak if we make a proper use of those means which the God of nature hath placed in our power. Three millions of people, armed in the holy cause of liberty and in such a country as that which we possess, are invincible by any force which an enemy can send against us. Besides, sir, we shall not fight our battles alone. There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us. The battle, sir, is not to the strong alone. It is to the vigilant, the active, the brave. Besides, sir, we have no election. If we were base enough to desire it, it is now too late to retire from the contest. There is no retreat but in submission and slavery. Our chains are forged. Their clanking may be heard on the plains of Boston. The war is inevitable, and let it come! I repeat it, sir, let it come!—Patrick Henry.

Indigestion And Headaches

In the western Provinces, where so many thousands live far from doctors and drug stores, very many rely on Dr. Chase's medicines to cure disease and maintain health and strength. This letter gives some idea of what perfect control Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills exert over the most common ills of life.

Mrs. H. K. Hewer, farmer's wife, Eastburg, Alta., writes: "For about ten years I suffered from constipation, indigestion, headache and languid feelings. Treatment from two or three doctors afforded only temporary relief, so I turned to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and with most satisfactory results. Headaches have disappeared, regular habits established and general health very much better. Both my husband and I can speak highly of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver pills, as we have both been greatly benefited by them." The Ax in the Glacier.

Zurbriggen, one of the celebrated mountain climbers of the world, in scaling a peak of Les Anglaises, near Chamonix, accidentally let his ice ax fall from near the summit of the peak. It fell some thousands of feet. In the normal course of things it was buried in snow and swallowed up in the glacier, being covered deeper and deeper each year, and at the same time being carried slowly downward as the ice flowed on. Seven or eight years afterward Hess, C. G. Gruce and Harkbir, a sepoy chief, in descending a peak in the Alps just as night was falling met a great crevasse barred the way, being unable to find the bridge over it. cut a path down to the bottom, where Harkbir stepped on an ax which had "M. Z.," Zurbriggen's initials, on the handle. There could by no mistake as to the identity of the ax, as Harkbir had seen it and used it before.—Christian Herald.

A Heroic Slave.

There was a humble slave in the palace of the Caliph Haroun al Raschid. The caliph had in his audience chamber twenty rare vases, and it was written in the laws of Bagdad that he who should have the misfortune to break one of these would pay the penalty with his life. This slave one day broke a vase. He was instantly seized, tried and condemned to death. But the caliph had no sooner pronounced sentence on him than the slave turned, and, walking calmly to the other nineteen vases, with one sweep of the arm destroyed them all.

"Wretch," the caliph thundered, "why have you done that barbarous deed?"

"To save the lives of nineteen of my fellow countrymen," the doomed slave replied.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress. Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in costume, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience.

Artillery.

Until the time of Charles XII. of Sweden the artillery was not considered a part of the army. The men serving in it were not soldiers, but regarded as mechanics. The officers had no army rank. Charles XII. gave artillery officers a rank and regularly organized the artillery into companies. The battle of Pavia demonstrated the superiority of the gun in the hands of the Spanish infantry. The musket carried a two ounce ball and sometimes brought down at one fire two or three mailed knights. The French sent a flag of truce to remonstrate against the use of such barbarous weapons.

On the Advice of His Doctor

He Used Dr. Chase's Ointment for Protruding Piles With Splendid Results.

Too often a doctor can only think of an operation when asked for a treatment for piles. Some are sufficiently broad-minded to use the most effective treatment available, which is undoubtedly Dr. Chase's Ointment, as was proved in the case referred to in this letter.

Mr. Simon E. Jones, Railway street, Inverness, N. S., writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment the best treatment obtainable for protruding piles. For three years I suffered from piles, and was advised by a local physician to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. I had tried many treatments in vain, and therefore know which is the best. I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, and you are at liberty to use this statement."

The record of cures of every form of piles which stands behind Dr. Chase's Ointment is the strongest guarantee you can have that it will promptly relieve and cure this ailment, even in the most agravated form. 60c a box, all dealers.

O LITTLE MOTHER OF MINE.

When the shadows creep from the west,
I think of the twilight songs you sang
And the boy you lulled to rest:
The wee little boy with the tousled head
That long, long ago was mine—
I wonder if sometimes you long for that boy,
O little mother of mine!

And now he has come to man's estate,
Grown stalwart in body and strong,
And you'd hardly know that he was the lad
Whom you lulled with your slumber song
The years have altered the form and the life,
But his heart is unchanged by time,
And still he is only thy boy as of old,
O little mother of mine!
—Walter H. Brown.

SAGE SAYINGS.

The making of friends who are real friends is the best token we have of a man's success in life.—Edward Everett Hale.

Give to a gracious message a host of tongues, but let ill tidings tell themselves.—Shakespeare.

Solomon says, "He who answereth a matter before he heareth it is a folly, and shame unto him."

The French Academy.

The French academy is one of the five academies and the most eminent constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of forty members, the new member elected by the remaining thirty-nine members for life after personal application and the submission of the nomination to the head of the state. It meets twice weekly and is "the highest authority on everything pertaining to the niceties of the French language—to grammar, rhetoric and poetry and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. A chair in the academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.

The Land of Long Words.

Humboldt once said that nothing in Mexico strikes Europeans more forcibly than the excessive length of the words. This length, moreover, does not always depend on their being compounded, as in the Greek, the German or the Sanskrit. Thus the Mexican word for that simple thing, a kiss, is tetemamiquiliztli.

But that is nothing, says Mr. Charles W. Domville-Fife in his book on Guatemala, to what the Central American can do. His best efforts eclipse even Shakespeare's [illegible] quoted "honorificabilitudinitatibus," in "Love's Labour's Lost," for if you wish to call the boy who carries newspapers, you have but to murmur "amaBacuilolitquitzatlazahuilia," and he may possibly come.

Steam and Gas.

True dry superheated steam has every property of a true gas save one—it is not permanent. When heat disappears what appeared to be gas soon becomes water. Heat oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen as hot as possible in any expansion container and they will become rare, occupy more space, but allow the heat to vanish and the gases will resume their original temperature volumes. Freeze these gases down to liquid or solid, when the cold is so intense that it cannot be imagined. Restore the heat and the solids or liquids will be gases again—that is, they are permanent gases at terrestrial temperatures. Built From the Coliseum.

Many of the important palaces of Rome are made from stone taken from the ruins of the Coliseum, which, in spite of the ravages of two earthquakes, remained intact until the eighth century. The Barberini, Farnese, and Cancellaria were all built from the walls of this edifice, but the spoliation is not so unworthy when we realize the stone had fallen from repeated earthquakes, thus suggesting its transportation.

A Surreptitious Gift

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Martin," said my father to me one day, "I have been speaking with your mother about you, and we have decided that it would be pleasant for us all if you would go to Stuttgart and make the acquaintance of your cousins. When I came to America I left a sister, of whom I was and am today very fond. I cannot leave the business to make the trip myself, but later, when you have taken my place in its management, I hope to do so. It is better that you should go now before you have become absorbed in other matters."

I was delighted with the prospect of a trip abroad. My father not only gave me a liberal sum for the trip, but a separate amount which he intended that I should turn over to the family I was going to visit. "They are very sensitive," he said, "and I rely on your tact to turn this money over to them without hurting their feelings. I don't know exactly how they are situated, but I fear they are not overburdened with this world's goods."

I found my aunt and my cousins exactly what my father had described them. Never was there a more amusing and, to me, touching instance of a family striving to put the best foot forward. Having been coached as to this by my father, on my arrival at Stuttgart I put up at a hotel and announced my arrival by mail rather than go at once to their home, thus giving them time to make any preparations they might wish to hide their real circumstances. I heard nothing from them for twenty-four hours, when my uncle called on me and apologized for the delay in welcoming me, saying also that on no condition would the family permit me to remain at a hotel, but that their guest chamber needed attention, and they had been overhauling it.

I thanked my uncle for the proffered hospitality, but declined on the ground that I was troubled with insomnia and must be in a house in which I could go about at all hours of the night. However, I accompanied him to his home, a house of diminutive size, but very neat, and my aunt welcomed me affectionately. My cousin Anna, a girl of eighteen, I found so comely and with such a kissable pair of lips that I took advantage of my cousinship and tasted them at once.

All expressed much disappointment that I would be prevented by my insomnia from making their house my home during my sojourn at Stuttgart, but I was quite sure that they were much relieved. They invited me to dine with them, and, fearing they would be mortified at having to sit at a meager table, I declared that I was a victim of dyspepsia and would only accept their invitation if they would promise not to tempt me with any except the plainest food. And, remembering that sausage was a common and inexpensive food in Germany, I said that sausage was about all I ate. It did not occur to me that no worse food could be used by a dyspeptic till my aunt expressed surprise.

I spent a couple of weeks with my relatives, they trying to hide their poverty and I trying to hide the fact that I noticed it, or, rather, pretending that I could not use what they were unable to give me. And all this time I was studying how I could turn over to them what my father had sent them without their knowing whence it came, for I feared their pride would be hurt if I offered it in the form of money, yet I knew that was the only form in which it would meet their requirements.

The only method of giving them pleasure without racking my ingenuity was to ask my cousin Anna to show me the attractions of Stuttgart, paying the expenses, of course, myself. Going about in that way with a pretty girl brought about a love affair. Indeed, though my father had not mentioned the matter to me, when I saw Anna I suspected his real motive in sending me abroad was to make a match between her and me. At any rate, long before the end of my visit I proposed to her and was accepted.

The time of my departure drew near, and I had found no plan by which to leave my father's gift without hurting the beneficiaries. The amount was the equivalent of $1,000 in American money and could not be surreptitiously transferred in any ordinary manner. There was an old clock in the house which I thought I might pay that amount for, but when I expressed a desire to possess it my aunt begged me to accept it.

All ordinary plans I tried having failed, I was forced to a special expedient.

Anna consented to return to America with me, and I went for a tour through Europe. I said goodby, then went to my hotel, made myself up as an old man, watched for my uncle to leave the house, followed him till he entered a trolley car, took a seat beside him and slipped a roll of bills into his side pocket.

When I returned from my tour I found that my father had a new clock weighing ounce. But no one of the family hinted whence came the wherewithal to purchase it.

"Since my marriage I have no trouble in making gifts to her family. I give the money to her, and she passes it over to them.

My father in time transferred the management of the business to me and went abroad to see his sister and her family. When he returned he brought them with him.

An Aster Family Custom.

It is said that, according to the custom of the Aster family, Mrs. Vincent Astor renounced her dower rights in the vast Astor estate before her marriage. This has been done for generations in lieu of a settlement. The settlement is seldom generous in proportion to the vast wealth of the family. Mr. Vincent Astor's grandmother, Mrs. William Aster, renounced her dower right; so did Mrs. Ava Willing Astor and Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor.—Exchange.

ANNIE LOUISE CARY

And Her Favourite "Robin Adair"

The indisputable queen of song in her day was Annie Louise Cary. She was one of the world's famous contraltos when she retired from the operatic stage at the very height of her career in opera. She retained the sweet, wholesome characteristics of the American girl all during her musical triumphs. She made her debut in Copenhagen, although she studied in Milan. For three years she delighted European audiences before making her appearance in America. For over twelve years, with the exception of a brief European tour, she delighted American audiences with the charms of her voice and personality. But to hear her sing "Robin Adair," that simple old song, and that masterpiece of Arthur Sullivan's "The Lost Chord," and Longfellow's "The Day is Done," with the rich tones of the happy, good-natured personality that always charmed, she always left the audience breathless and spellbound.

"Robin Adair," "The Lost Chord," and many other favourites of Cary, are to be found in "Heart Songs," now being distributed to the readers of this paper. See Coupon elsewhere in this issue for terms.

There was such a demand for the Heart Songs that we had to discontinue inserting the coupon. We have now on hand a further supply, and the coupon will run for two weeks. If you desire a copy, save the coupons and together with 98c. you will get a $3.00 book.

Elephant and Tiger Enmity.

One of the most interesting employments of the elephant is in hunting tigers. From the lofty back of his elephant, at a height which, increased by the howdah, may be twelve or fourteen feet above the ground, the hunter can take his aim at a tiger with a coolness that he would not possess if facing the animal on terra firma. If, as sometimes occurs, the tiger makes a leap for the elephant he seldom succeeds in attaining the man in the howdah, although the driver in his exposed position on the elephant's neck, is in greater danger.

There seems to be a natural enmity between elephants and tigers, although an elephant will not attack a tiger unless provoked or compelled to do so by the tiger's own fault. But then a good fighting elephant will if he can once get his tusks to bear on his enemy gore him to death or literally crush him by kneeling on him. It is said that the mere presence of a dead tiger will drive some elephants to fury.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

No Place For Ladies.

A famous foreign newspaper correspondent, a German, was stopping at a seaside hotel where the dining room helpers, following the New England custom, were nearly all college girls, working during vacation in order to keep themselves at school the rest of the year.

The spectacled young person who presided over the table where the German newspaper man ate was undoubtedly of excellent breeding, but she never seemed to remember whether the eggs were to be fried on one side or scrambled on both.

Finally, one evening after he had been served with a meal entirely different from the one he had ordered, the foreigner lost his temper and spoke rather sharply to the young woman.

"But I do not vant a lady," said the German plaintively. "I vant a waiter!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Odd Death Certificates.

Certificates of death are not documents where one usually seeks for humor, but there is frequently to be found in them much of the unconscious variety. Here, for instance, is how the cause of death is stated in the case of a laborer:

The consideration shown for the feelings of the bull is a fine touch and suggests grave questions on the moral responsibility of the lower animals.

Again, a man is stated to have "died from the effects of injuries received after being run over by a railway train in motion owing to a misunderstanding between deceased and an engine driver." This description of a rather ordinary railway casualty is excellent.—London Express.

An Interrupted Wooing

ADVERTISING is like a lover courting a maid: it seeks to establish between two parties a bond of complete and permanent relationship.

Just as a lover would imperil his suit were he to suspend his wooing for three months, so does the manufacturer lose — perhaps forever — much of what he has gained at great cost when he interrupts his wooing of the favour of the public.

A suspension of summer advertising is much the same as giving a sales staff a three months' vacation, and leaving their customers to write in for what they may need, or to give their orders to competitors who have not relaxed their selling efforts.

Advertising is a sales agent whose work is real, positive, and perceivable though its influence and results in any given month may not be immediately calculable. Its worth is seen when sales are summarized and compared.

You can obtain helpful advice on advertising free of cost and without obligation by consulting the Business Department of the EXAMINER.

Jack and the Beanstalk

JACK'S mother picked over a cup of beans preparatory to boiling them for dinner, her keen-eyed son happened to notice a large, flat, brightly colored bean that looked so different from all the others, he could not help wondering what kind it was, and where it came from.

The snows had gone, and the trees had begun to put forth their buds, and all the world seemed to be awakening from its long slumber of weary winter, and everybody was making garden and looking forward to a pleasant summer with nice fresh vegetables.

Jack's mother lived in a little village, several miles from the city, and, like most homes, theirs had a nice large lot, where the poor widow always managed to have enough vegetables and small fruits to help provide for herself and young son.

The large bright-colored bean attracted the attention of the lad to such an extent that he could not resist picking it out from the others, and, as he examined it carefully, he decided suddenly upon a plan.

He would plant the bean and see it grew. He went immediately to the garden, selected a bright sunny spot, where the earth was black and light when stirred with the spade. He made a nice little bed and planted the bean in the center of it.

Each day, and several times a day, he went and looked to see if his bean was growing. Becoming impatient, he removed some of the earth, and was overjoyed to find the bean had sprouted and taken root, and was pushing up toward the surface of the soil.

Carefully replacing the earth, he

Finally, one morning, after a nice shower at night the green appeared. The bean had split open, and in a short time small leaves unfolded from the sides or halves of the bean hull, and the old bean soon withered and dropped off. The plant grew rapidly, and in a few days several other leaves were seen, and in a few days more a tiny tender shoot shot up and began to search for something on which it could climb.

Jack procured a long pole that lay at the back of the lot, and making a hole in the ground near the growing bean he set up the pole, which was about fifteen feet in height.

The vine grew rapidly, and soon found the pole, and in a few weeks was clear to the top of the tall pole.

Pretty purple blossoms came, and the honey bees visited the flowers, flitting from one to the other in search of honey.

As the blossoms faded and dropped, small bean pods formed, and soon assumed definite shape. Then beans formed in the long flat pods, and in a very few days the pods and beans were quite large, and the thrifty vine had such a lot of pods that all the neighbors were deeply interested in Jack's beanstalk.

Examination by friends, among whom was Mr. Jones, the gardener, who prided himself on his fine quality of all sorts of vegetables, pronounced Jack's beans a wonder.

They were so different, so much larger and finer than any others, they all urged Jack and his mother to save them all and plant the following season. This they decided to do.

The garden was carefully prepared, and the beans planted just the very best the good woman with the aid of her deeply interested boy knew, and the result was certainly most satisfactory. A splendid crop was raised, and the quality of the beans was such that expert growers came from a long distance to see them, and when the crop was gathered a prominent seedsman who makes a business of selling all kinds of garden seeds, and who is always on the watch for something new or extra good, came and offered Jack and his mother a handsome price for all the beans they had grown from the one Jack had picked from the cup of beans that were to be cooked for dinner that lucky spring day.

The seedsman explained it was a new type of bean, and a most desirable one, and he wished to get the entire crop so he could put it on the market and supply his customers. He offered the widow and her son $500, which offer was accepted, and the money was wisely used to pay off a mortgage on the little home.

Thus Jack and his beanstalk did wonders in reality. It was not the fable with which we are all familiar, but a reality.

The beans are grown nowadays all over the land, and it is one of the finest colored butter beans grown.

JOHN T. TIMMONS.

BERTHA'S LOCKET

BERTHA FLAGG gave a cooing laugh and flung her arms about the neck of her stalwart brother David.

"Well, wear it if thee must, Bertha," said the big hunter, reluctantly throwing a slender chain on which hung a round golden locket about his little sister's neck. "But thee knows I do not approve of vanities."

"It is because the locket was sent from England that I value it, David," said Bertha stoutly. With a smile David kissed her and, reaching for his hunting rifle, strode out of the cabin into the early morning sunlight. Bertha watched until the forest had swallowed him up.

The silence of the late afternoon hung over the clearing, when Bertha, a little uneasy at the lateness of David's return, stood once more in the doorway and shaded her eyes with her hand, searching every opening in the forest for some sign of the belated one. Disappointed, she turned and re-entered the cabin, but the next moment a man's hail brought her flying out again.

Nick Stedham, the Flaggs' nearest neighbor, staggered toward the cabin with an unconscious burden slung across his broad shoulders. It needed not his serious face and voice to tell Bertha that the form was that of David.

Trained to frontier emergencies, the little maid choked back her terror and helped Nick carry the man into the house and lay him gently on his rude pallet bed. To the unspoken question in her eyes Nick returned the answer which she expected and yet dreaded to hear.

"Indians!"

"Again?" she cried. "O Nick, what can have set them off again?"

"They be on the warpath is my opinion," said Nick darkly. "Philip and me came upon them just about to scalp David yander, and us had much ado to save our own skins. Better bar 'ee door, maid, and barricade the house. The divvils was in warpaint."

"Aye, Nick, I will do all," cried Bertha, summoning all her courage to be left alone. "Thee had best get to thy family—and many thanks."

"David will do nicely. Be a brave maid," said Nick kindly, and dashed off over the clearing in the direction of his own unprotected home.

Bertha barred the door, and turning, looked with contracted forehead at the moaning, writhing figure on the couch. She was not at all sure that Nick had spoken the truth about David's doing nicely. The eyes were more like the eyes of a wild beast than Bertha had known human eyes could be; the familiar laughing David had gone and left a stranger in his place. The little maid knew that while the danger was not immediate the services of a doctor should be secured.

She did what she could for the sufferer, then sat down and pressed her hand to her head. Three full miles away stood the doctor's cabin, where David studied medicine, and the woods between, Bertha thought with a shudder, was one long ambush of hideous feathered and painted redskins, on the warpath and athirst for blood.

"Thee must not be a coward, Bertha Flagg," she said herself contemptuously. "Thee must think of David and forget thyself and thy silly fears. 'Tis like Nick tried to frighten thee."

One of David's heavy rifles stood nearby, but the child realized that she stood no chance with a rifle against a gleaming tomahawk thrown from ambush. Unarmed, therefore, and with a last look at David, Bertha squared her shoulders and marched out of the cabin and closed the door tightly behind her. With the light step that is natural to the wood dweller, the child swung into the trail. She noticed, and strove not to let her heart sink too badly in the thinking, that the sun was sinking fast in the west.

To Bertha's vivid imagination every tree and wind-blown bush harbored a thousand dangers and stretched out a thousand shadowy daggers to impede her progress.

Before long the sun had entirely disappeared and the child had to stoop low to keep the trail in the dusk. The memory of David's need spurred her to preternatural efforts and at the thought of him alone and suffering, she gradually lost all sense of personal danger, all sense of caution, and ran blindly ahead, caring naught for the telltale snapping and springing back of twigs.

Suddenly a dark form loomed in the bushes before her, and a bronzed, gigantic Indian grasped her rudely about the waist, then tossed her to his shoulder.

Bertha's knowledge of the Indian code of bravery stood her in good stead in this crisis. Her heart thumped furiously against her ribs, but she uttered not a sound. The twigs of low trees and bushes caught in her gown, scratched her face and tore her hair, but with no whimper from her.

It was a very stolid, white-faced, stern-lipped little maid who was tossed from the dusky giant's shoulder into the center of a grinning circle of savages whose eyes gleamed cruelly in the light of the council fire.

Very quietly Bertha sat down, clasped her hands, and gazed into the fire, for what uncertain she could not say. Even when one of the warriors leaned over and covered her tiny hand with his great brown paw, striving to frighten her, she lost no whit of her self-possession, but smiled serenely up into the repulsive painted face. When others crowded about her and offered them her hand in some Indian fashion, and said, "How" with such a pretty affectation of fearlessness and innocence as to bring grunts of approval from them all.

That they were very much firewater Bertha knew because of their hilarity and unsteadiness, and because they attempted no violence. When their attention had been diverted Bertha looked about her with a lost-lorn little gasp and her eyes encountered those of a boy about her own age who wore an expression of great understanding and who solemnly winked at her. Bertha saw at a glance that he was not a full-blooded Indian and a thrill of hope warmed her heart.

When the little captive was bundled off into a wigwam a guard of several Indians was detailed to lie about the door. From the corner of her eye Bertha noted that not a move made by her captors escaped the boy who had looked his sympathy across the fire.

How long she lay watching the stars glimmer through the open flap of the wigwam and thinking of David, Bertha never knew. But of a sudden the face of the boy was between her and the stars, and Bertha made out that he was crouching outside with a warning finger at his lips. She sat up softly. With a swift gesture he motioned her to her feet. Her shoes had been taken away, but in her bare feet she stepped lightly to the door of the wigwam. The boy held out a pair of moccasins, evidently his own. Deftly Bertha slipped them on her feet and, taking the boy's hand, stepped with him lightly over the sleeping forms of the drunken braves.

"Will they not punish thee for this?" gasped the little maid as soon as they had cleared the outskirts of the camp.

The boy shrugged his shoulders.

"Full of firewater," he laughed. "They will har forget they capture you tomorrow—so drunk they are."

"Oui," said the boy, "but eet no mak me cra-razy. I am pot Indian. Voila!"

His tore open the collar of his hunting shirt and Bertha saw in the moonlight that the flesh beneath gleamed as white as her own.

"But thy face?"

"Walnut stain," smiled the boy triumphantly.

"Then you are a captive also?"

"Oui," nodded the boy.

Bertha stopped squarely in the path and caught her companion's hand.

"Come," she pleaded; "come back with me. David will love thee and be good to thee—I promise it!"

"Nay," said the boy; "they haf been good to me—the Kendans I haf cause to luf them, and I will not leef them, while they want me."

Then in his stilted English the boy told the sad little tale of his life. How the Indians had found him lost in the forest ill and almost dying. How they had befriended him and nursed him through a long fever, and of his hatred of the white hunters who had passed him by without a second glance. He hoped to be able to teach the redskins many things, he said, and he proposed to devote his life to the good of the people who had saved him from starvation.

"Thee is quite right to stay on," said Bertha softly when he had done. "I will not ask thee again to come—but will thee not wear this to remember me?" She slipped her hand inside her dress, drew out the round golden locket and flung the slender chain about the boy's neck. A smile was her only thanks, but Bertha was satisfied.

When they had come within sight of David's cabin the boy turned and strode back into the forest without a word. But as Bertha opened the cabin door a stream of light rushed out which Nick had kindled, and in the glow she saw the slender figure of the little French lad in his queer Indian dress, her locket in his hand, outlined against the trees.

Five years sped away. The Black Hawk war was raging, and Bertha, a tall maid of 18 years, was Dr. David Flagg's right-hand man in the care of the sick and wounded. He nursed to her as a gaunt brave was carried in unconscious and laid on one of the rude beds.

"He is one of the mightiest men among the redskins," said Brother Dawson, looking curiously at the patient. "He hath the knowledge of the white man and hath never taken part, for all his love of his people, in the wars against the white men. Still is he beloved of the whole Indian people. A strange case, a very strange. Soul o' me! See here."

David's deft brown fingers were drawing a slender chain with a small golden locket attached from beneath the man's shirt.

"It is my very own locket!" marveled Bertha with a little gasp of wonder and joy. "And he is no Indian, Brother David, but the little French lad who befriended me."

With a right good will brother and sister set to work over the unconscious man and by and by a flicker of life in the dull eyes rewarded their efforts.

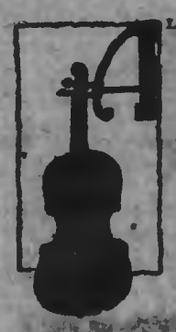
Two days afterward the patient was well enough to sit up and talk a bit. Little by little they learned the story of his life. How he had traveled overseas to obtain the knowledge which should help the people of his adoption. How he had worked and labored among them after the information was obtained. How, too, he had kept the memory of the little pioneer girl who was so brave and calm when danger threatened, and how he had kept the golden locket with the hope of some day again meeting its owner.

On the day when the Frenchman and Bertha were married David asked that the locket be given him as a very special favor.

"What—the bauble, the vanity?" cried Bertha mischievously.

"Aye," said Brother David, smiling tenderly. "It hath brought great joy to two hearts, and I wot not that it hath lost its charm. At any rate, I have a mind to try it."

When Mozart Was a Boy



ALMOST every famous musician has shown signs of his genius when very young, but no one at an earlier age than Mozart. He was only 3 when he first began to take an interest in music. One day his father found him picking out the harmonious notes in the octaves on the piano. It was unusual for a baby of that age to have an ear.

His father was also a good musician, and Mozart heard a great deal of music from his father's friends. These friends would come to the house to practice, and little Mozart would sit quietly by and listen. But on this particular occasion it happened otherwise. A famous well-known violinist of that day, brought some music he had composed to the house. He and some of his friends were going to play the score for the first time. The composer played the first violin, the court trumpeter played the second violin and Mozart's father the bass. When they were all ready to begin, they heard a queer noise coming from the corner of the sofa. And there was little Mozart sobbing bitterly because he had not been asked to play with them. He begged to play second violin, he said.

"But, my child," the father said, "you have never had a lesson."

"I could try, anyway. I can play, sir," he answered. The friends laughed, and persuaded the father to let Mozart try. So Mozart dried his tears and took his place. And strange to say, he played through the entire score, which he had never seen before. His father was delighted, and his friends congratulated him, for they all knew then that the child would become a great musician.

Another time little Mozart showed his father and his friends another side of his genius. The child would often play on the violin of a friend. One day this friend was at the house, but without his violin. Mozart picked up his own, played on it, and then said to the musician, "Your violin is tuned about half a tone lower than mine."

It was hard to believe the child, but the musician went for his violin. And when it came they tested it and found the child had told them the truth. When 6 years old he had written good compositions, and had played at concert. He was one of the greatest composers of his time, and you may hear his work almost every time you go to a concert in the city.

Princess Nibble's Husband

MICE were very plentiful in the storeroom in the kingdom of rats—more particularly in the royal palace where lived the rat king and queen.

And all because the one princess of the realm, Nibble, had bestowed her affections upon a rat of poor but proud family, and her parents had other ambitions for her.

"You, the most beautiful princess in all the world, to marry that penniless, low-born creature!" cried the king in a passion. "Really, Nibble, one would think that you had no pride—no appreciation of what a mighty personage you are. You are not fit to be trusted to find your mate; therefore, your mother and I will pick him out for you."

Poor Nibble sobbed and protested that she loved none but Frisk, but her stern parents locked her up tight in the tower room of the castle, and rallied forth to find the mightiest being in all the world for her.

Now, as they journeyed along the white roads the pair discussed the question of a mate with a great amount of earnestness.

"It appears to me," said the king, "that the Sun would be a fitting match for our daughter. Surely, he has more power than any other force in creation. He alone, it would seem to me, is worthy of our beautiful Nibble's hand."

"Yes, he must be worthy," agreed the queen, and taking hands the two ran up a nearby sunbeam. They traveled fast, but the journey was a long one and they were both puffing with weariness when they came to the audience chamber of the Sun.

The Sun greeted them with all kindness and courtesy and asked what he might do to serve them.

"We have come," said the king rat, swelling out his little gray chest in his most pompous manner, "to bestow upon you the hand of our beautiful and only daughter, Princess Nibble. You have chosen for this happiness, this honor, because you are the strongest being in creation, and nothing can oppose you!"

"Many thanks," said the Sun, bowing so low that the little king and queen did not see the twinkle in his eye, "but, indeed, you credit me with a great deal more power than I possess. If you are anxious that your daughter should wed one both more dauntless and powerful than I, I will have to refer you to the Cloud. Very often, I must confess, when I would dearly love to warm the earth with my rays, along comes the Cloud and forbids it, and I am powerless against him!"

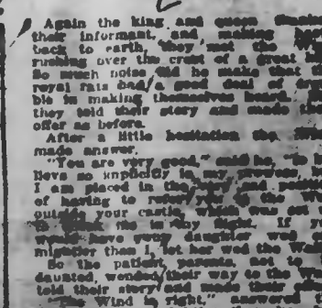
The king and queen thanked the Sun for his generosity and courtesy, and journeyed on into the land of the Cloud. Standing before the Cloud's throne they told their story and offered to him the hand of the royal princess, the peerless Nibble.

The Cloud puffed—pooh-poohed their plea that he was the most powerful force in the universe and referred them to the mighty Wind.

"For," said he, "I can survey, withstand his power. He will be delighted, I am sure, to accept your offer of the princess' hand."



Again the king and queen thanked their informant, and making their way back to earth, they met the Wind rushing over the crest of a great hill. So much noise did he make that the royal rats had a good deal of trouble in making themselves heard, but they told their story and made their offer as before.

After a little hesitation the Wind made answer.

"You are very good," said he, "to believe so implicitly in my powers, but I am placed in the very odd position of having to refuse you. Out in the world outside your castle, what was it you called me in your speech. If you would have your daughter wed one mightier than I, let her wed the Wall."

So the patient, paternal, but disappointed, wended their way to the Wall, told their story and made their plea.

"The Wind is right," answered the Wall, "I am mightier than he, but greatest Rat I am powerless. No can bore through me, weaken me, undermine me at will. No, I am sorry to say that the Rat is greater than I. Wed your daughter to a Rat if you would see her wed my superior."

Thoughtfully the king and queen returned to the palace and found the little Princess Nibble, themself and poor Frisk, when they had left, blissfully unaware of the scheme that had been collected for herself and her lover.

But they made her acquainted, hurry by Running Frisk at once to help tell the story of their discovery. Such a rat was, after all, the mightiest being in existence.

In history that history, that to save that after the death of the queen the king and queen, humble and meek, ruled the kingdom until and beneficently many a long year.

God's Other Children

HERE is so much to see these days that it is hard to choose, for Nature has all her workers hard at it, filling her storerooms with all sorts of food for the winter.

Most of the weeds hang their seeds in plain sight and in good, serviceable, brown cups, but some of the flowers still hold to the love of beauty and prefer gayly colored bowls. The rose, for example, colors her green cups a brilliant scarlet, and the white baneberry also loves to be conspicuous, and sets odd white berries with a black dot, "like dolls' eyes," on thick red stalks. Down on the ground, too, the pretty round leaves of the "partridge vine" are still green, and make a lovely setting for the clear red berries with their two little horns. The birds dearly love these fruits, and they have a pleasant taste to humans, too. By the roadside the tall, reddish stalks of the pokeberry dangle long clusters of purple berries and red-splashed leaves, and an ever-colored imitation of the [illegible] these and deep black-[illegible] of the wild grapes in the woods behind her.

The trees are busy, too, the nuts and pines shuttling their rich, fat kernels into hard homes, which will keep them soft and juicy. The persimmon carries her golden fruits high up on outstretched arms for Jack Frost to mellow into sweetness. The dogwood family, much lower down, spread their umbrella-like branches with a feast of red or black or white berries, to suit any bird's fancy; and the sumachs grow in thickness on every hillside. If you chance to see them, beware of the closely clustered light-colored blossoms, for they are among our most poisonous plants, much worse than poison ivy. The deep, rich red spikes are perfectly harmless, and the birds love them.

The trees are losing the last of their beautiful colored leaves. Softly they flutter down, like gorgeous birds that are too lazy to flap their wings. They have earned the right to be lazy, for it is their work to take nourishment which the roots in the [illegible] and in their countless little cells digest it (just as your stomach does your food), and turn it into nourishment for the tree. The trees have stopped growing now and want to rest and sleep, so the work of the leaves is over for the season, and as soon as Nature has stored up enough to feed the baby buds and start them in the spring until they are strong enough to work for themselves, the leaf is no longer necessary and falls to the ground, where Nature has need of it, to make the flower babies' winter blanket and begin again the marvelous round of her system. The rain and the snow will soften it, the winds will cover it with thousands of its kind, and, at last, it will sink into the earth and there go to nourish some little hungry rootlet and come up again through the sage to the sunshine.

Nothing is lost, nothing is wasted. The withered flower stalks, the dry brown leaf that we call dead, have done the work they were created to do, and will save their resurrection in God's marvelous order.

EDITH OLIVER.

The Fire Worshipers

THE Parsees of Bombay are called the "Fire Worshipers" of the east because they hold in great reverence the fire which they brought with them from Persia, and have never allowed to become extinguished in their temples; also because they worship the sun as the author of life.

The Parsees are the direct descendants of the Magi, who, when they heard of the birth of the mysterious Child who was born in Judea, traveled down into Jerusalem to pay him tribute. The Parsees have always held aloof from other people, and are famed for their commercial ability. As a consequence of this ability they are the wealthiest, most cultured and influential class in Bombay. So numerous are they that Bombay has been called the "City of Parsees."

The religion of the Parsees is one of the ancient religions of the world, and was the religion of Persia when that country was second in power of the four great empires of the world —Babylonia, Persia, Greece, Rome.

In a great many particulars the religion of the Parsees comes nearer to Christianity than any other oriental religion.

Tommy Atkins

AT ONE time in British history it was customary for the government to supply to each soldier a small pocket manual. In this manual was entered the name, age, date of enlistment, length of service, wounds and honors of its owner.

The war department in sending out forms used the imaginary name of "Thomas Atkins," in place of John Jones or Samuel Smith. In this way Tommy Atkins was used to designate any British soldier. In the same way "Jack Tar" became used to mark a British sailor. The soldier, under the name of Tommy Atkins, has recently been made famous by Kipling in his "Barrack Room Ballads."

The Bedtime Babies

"What's that you have?" said Bobby to Betty 'n Baby, who were very very busy "Sashes" answered Betty 'n Baby—not paying much attention to Bobby. "But you can't wear those to bed!" said Bobby "Why yes we can!" said Betty. She had a magazine all full of pictures of beautiful ladies, and she triumphantly read in a clear voice: "Sashes are being worn everywhere" "We all," admitted Bobby meekly. "I spose you can if it's fashionable" And so after that they all went quietly—very quietly to bed.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A TRYING ORDEAL

Her companion and fiancee, Merton Hull, divided an evident satisfaction and delight between her shining face and a bank book which both were scanning. It showed over $900 to his account.

Young Hull was a casual writer. He was generous, free-hearted, and this had led him into companionship with a heedless crowd of brother journalists.

When Eva became acquainted with him a sudden change came into his life. He abandoned reckless companions, gave up drinking, which had been his bane, and started in to win a home for the lovely girl who had given him the full, true affection of her deep, earnest nature.

She was employed as a stenographer and earned a good income. She had saved even more than Merton. Another year of thrift and economy and they would have reached the goal of their ambition.

"And what a grand hero you have been, bravely meeting distress and discouragement, never ceasing to look for work and never tiring of it when secured."

"Such as the work has been," responded Merton, with a helpless and resigned shrug of his shoulders.

"It is the lack of permanency. Mr. Worthington is paying me handsomely, but the work will last only a month longer."

"The steady work will come, don't worry, dear," said Eva encouragingly.

It was a rather mystifying task that Merton had secured through answering an advertisement calling for a writer and compiler. After working for Mr. Worthington for a week Merton knew no more as to his business or connections than on the first day of his engagement.

"I think Mr. [illegible]ington is preparing a v[illegible] on Criminology," Merton told Eva. "He leaves me to my work daytime and evenings, gives me a key to his rooms and his desk and seems to place absolute trust in me. Yesterday he left the city and said he would be gone for a week. He has left me in entire charge of his apartments."

At the request of Mr. Worthington he slept nights at the rooms of the latter. After he had left Eva on that particular evening he met an old journalistic friend whom he had not seen for years.

"See here, Hull," spoke Dudley Cragin, "I'd leaving in the morning. Can't you put in the time showing me around the old clubs we used to go to years ago?"

Reluctantly and from courtesy only Merton agreed to join Cragin at his hotel an hour later. He went to Mr. Worthington's room, put his writing aside, donned his best hat and tie and prepared to leave to keep his appointment.

A memory of old time late hours caused Merton to open a drawer where he had noticed a revolver. He took out the weapon and as he did so he was somewhat startled to notice a little package of fresh new bank notes.

There were 10 of them, each for $100.

At first flush the thought that came to Merton was of the risk and carelessness involved on the part of his employer in leaving all his money in so unprotected a situation. He started to place the money in the safe. Then a whimsical idea came into his mind. He was inclined to make a show of prosperity with Cragin. Merton placed the money in his pocketbook.

That evening was rather a bore and a burden to Merton. Merton did not partake and was not in harmony with the old-time revelry.

It was after he had reached the Worthington apartments that he made a dismaying and fearful discovery. His pocketbook was gone. Lost or stolen, it was out of his possession, and—

All night long he tossed on a sleepless bed. He wandered the streets aimlessly all that day. At eventide, wretched haggard, desperate, he went to Eva and told her all the truth.

She was only sorrowful. The question of replacing the lost money was the course honourable, inevitable. She made Merton draw his savings from the bank, she added enough of her own to make up $1,000. Then Merton purchased 10 new $100 bills and placed them in the desk drawer.

"We will just build all over again," said Eva.

Mr. Worthington continued to require the services of Merton. He finally made an arrangement where he was to remain as his private secretary.

One day a month later Mr. Worthington was cleaning up his desk. Merton stared hard as he saw him throw the money contents of the drawer into the waste basket with the words:

"Be sure you burn up all that truck, Hull."

"But—that money"

"Oh, that isn't money," replied the employer with a smile. "Some specimen counterfeits in a celebrated case we shall write up for my 'Criminology' column some day."

But Merton rescued the money—his and Eva's—and the happy wedding was no longer postponed, and the severe lesson he had learned made of Merton Hull a stronger, better man.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bustard, Maxwell, N.B. "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of what I believe was the early stage of locomotor ataxia, or paralysis. I cannot describe what I suffered but now I am entirely cured."

An old Wee Free woman was walking to church in Scotland with her family. The Auld Kirk minister rode past at a tremendous rate, and the old body said to her children: "Sic-can a wey tae be ridin', an' this the Sawbath day. Aweel, aweel, a guid man is mercifu' tae his beast." Shortly afterwards the Wee Free minister rode past just as furiously, but she changed her tune. "Ah, there he gangs," she cried, "there he gangs; the Lord bless him. Puir man, his heart's in his work, an' he's eager tae be at it."

THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

He came timidly into the editor's office.

"Pardon me, sir, but would you like an authoritative article on the immigration question?"

"That isn't quite in our line."

"How about feminism?"

"Afraid we cannot use it."

"Perhaps you would like to have Wall street shown up in an intimately witty and yet dignified and searching manner?"

"Sorry, but it does not interest us."

"Well, say a stirring article on Mexico, giving the inside facts."

"Nothing on Mexico today."

"Perhaps you would like a bunch of wonderful short stories?"

"We are rather long on short stories."

"Well, how about some poetical masterpieces? Anything from four cantos up. You know, they are quite fashionable now. Can let you have a metrical best seller in a couple of weeks."

"I am afraid not. Is there anything you cannot furnish?"

"Nothing, sir. Philosophy, history, poetry, humor—how about a series of snappy articles on health? Perhaps you would like to have your readers diet by a new system just invented. It makes no difference; there is nothing in the whole range of literature that I cannot supply you with. Here's my card. In case you want anything let me know."

He got up to go. The editor smiled.

"May I ask whether you run an agency or a syndicate?"

"Neither, sir. I am only the proud father of a nineteen-year-old girl who has a talent for literature and has just been graduated from an American college."—Life.

His Foolish Fear.

"Would you marry a man whose income was under $5,000 a year," he asked.

"How much under?" she replied.

"Is it between $3,000 and $5,000?"

"I might put it that way."

"Dearest! Why did you think I would let money stand in the way?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Few Casual Inquiries.

"Now, don't talk too much when you go to call on your neighbor. You may answer questions, of course."

"That is all I ever do," said the child. "And they ask a great many questions. Last time they asked how much salary papa got and if he ever quarreled with you."—Kansas City Journal.

"Then you can't get me a government plum?"

"No," said Senator Wombat. "But what's one paltry government plum? I have secured for you some plum seeds from the department of agriculture. Go home and start an orchard of your own, my friend."—Judge.

Modern Compliment.

"Of course mothers should be examples for their daughters," said Mrs. Evergay.

"And they are," replied Colonel Courtly. "The girls of today will be entitled to congratulations if they succeed in being as good looking as their mothers."—Washington Star.

Mayor Martin Wants Work Held Over Until He Returns.

MONTREAL, July 16.—Yesterday Mayor Médéric Martin wired the assistant city clerk, Rene Basset, from Toronto not to lay any official document before Acting Mayor Blumenthal.

Ald. Blumenthal was wrathy when shown the telegram and instructed the clerk that he was the mayor and declared that if officials did not fulfil their duties and lay all documents before him he would suspend them.

Trouble is looked for when Mayor Martin finds that not only has the acting mayor signed many documents but in addition has sworn in 17 new recruits to the fire department, which the mayor considers his own especial privilege.

Thaw To Get His Money.

PITTSBURG, July 16. — After six months of legal battle, Harry Thaw, in a decision handed down by Judge James W. Over in orphans' court yesterday, is awarded the income from his father's estate which has been denied him by the trustees since he was adjudged insane for the slaying of Stanford White. By the decision Thaw gets $100,000. [illegible] says Thaw is legally entitled to the money, despite the fact that attorneys declare Thaw is suffering from an exaggerated sense of self, which would make it unwise to commit any large sums of money into his personal charge.

The vice-consul himself says that his Government is anxious to preserve the strictest neutrality in regard to all religious denominations.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, July 15.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 46 cars, comprising 330 cattle, 1503 hogs, 636 sheep and lambs and 135 calves.

Butchers'.

Choice steers, of which there was one load reported, sold at $8.75; loads of good at $8 to $8.40; medium at $7.75 to $8; common to medium grass steers and heifers at $6.75 to $7.50; choice cows at $7 to $7.35; good at $6.50 to $6.75; medium at $6.75 to $6; common at $4.75 to $5.25; canners at $2.50 to $3.50; bulls from $6 to $7.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

The outside price for choice feeders would be $7, but we did not hear of any sales being made at that price. Prices quoted ranged from $6.25 to $6.75; stockers at $5.75 to $6.

Milkers and Springers.

A few choice cows sold at a little higher values, but the bulk went at steady prices. Quotations ranged from $60 to $90 each, the bulk selling at $65 to $75.

Veal Calves.

Prices were very firm, as the demand was greater than the supply. Choice calves, $10 to $10.50; choice, extra new milk-fed veals, $11; good, $9 to $9.50; medium, $8 to $8.50; common, $7 to $7.75; inferior, $4.50 to $7.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $5 to $6.25, and yearlings at $7 to $8; heavy ewes and rams at $3.75 to $4.50; spring lambs at $9.50 tot $11.

Hogs.

Selects fed and watered sold at $8.90; and $8.10 weighed off cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, July 15.—At the C. P. R. live stock market prices for cattle were unchanged since Monday, but the feeling was easy on account of supplies being more liberal and trade was slow. Sales of choice steers were made at $8.75 to $8.50, good at $7.75 to $8, fair at $7.25 to $7.50 and the lower grades at $6.25 to $6.40 per 100 pounds.

There were no choice butchers' cows on the market and the prices paid for this class of stock ranged from $5 to $6.50. Common and inferior bulls brought from $4 to $5.50 per 100 pounds.

The feature of the small meat trade was the continued weakness in the market for lambs, owing to the increased offerings, and prices scored a further decline. Even at the reduction sales were few, lambs fetching $8 to $8 each, as to size and quality, and old sheep $3 to $4 per 100 pounds.

Demand for calves was good at from $3 to $12 each. The market for hogs was easier, owing to the somewhat limited demand. Sales of selected lots were made at $9 to $9.10, and of heavy-weights at $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

Veals—Receipts, 100; active and steady; $5 to $11.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 1500; steady; mixed, stronger; heavy, $8.60 to $8.65; mixed and Yorkers and pigs, $8.65; roughs, $8 to $8.15; stags, $6.50 to $7.25; Canadas, $8.60.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1400; slow; ewes and mixed sheep, steady; lambs and wethers, easier; lambs, $6 to $9; yearlings, $5 to $7.65; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $3.50 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $5.50 to $6.50.

"Are there any left-handed barbers? Why, certainly," said the boss. "Aren't some of the greatest baseball pitchers left-handed? I have personally known two, and they were both excellent workmen.

"One of these men always stropped a razor with his left hand, but he shaved with his right, and then cut hair with his left. The other man used his left hand throughout, in stropping, shaving and hair cutting.

"You might think that being left-handed would be an inconvenience to a barber because it would make him work differently from other barbers who are right-handed. You see the right-handed barber always begins to shave a man on the right side of his face. I suppose there are scientific men who could tell us why he does this. I don't know the explanation myself, but I do know that the right-handed barber begins work naturally on the right side of the face, while the left-handed barber naturally begins on the left side.

"You might think that this would make a difference to the left-handed barber for the reason that it would make him get in the way of the barber on the next chair, or make that barber get in his way, but really it makes no difference whatever.

"If all the chairs in a shop were occupied by a line of men who had sat down at precisely the same time, all wanting to be shaved, and who might therefore be all in the same stage of shaving at the same time, why, then it might make a difference; then the left-handed barber might find himself in the way of the barber on the next who shaved right-handed, but this is very unlikely to happen.

"In the first place customers don't come in that way, filling all the chairs at the same moment and all for the same job; they string along in and they have different things done; and then some barbers are quicker then others, and the work would never progress exactly the same in all the chairs; and then the chairs themselves are adjustable for that matter, and the barber himself can suit his work to the circumstances. So the fact is that the left-handed barber doesn't get in anybody else's way and nobody gets in his; but he just goes ahead about his work, and his being left-handed is no more of a handicap to him than it would be to any other man in any employment if he was a good workman."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Lip Sores.

Lip sores are due to slight colds oftentimes, and they may be due to stomach trouble. The "festering" is due to the presence of pus germs in the skin. At the first appearance of the swelling if ice or very hot compresses are applied the sore may be absorbed. Also the application of camphor or pure menthol may check the process. After the sore has disappeared apply hot towels to the face for a few minutes to steam it, and then shampoo it thoroughly to remove all germs from the skin. If this is done once or twice a week for a time these sores may entirely cease to appear.

An English scientist says that kissing tends to alleviate the sense of smell. The man who has had just one drink before going home knows better.

Farm and Dairy Market Report

Toronto, Monday, July 13.—The fruit crop gets first attention on city markets at the present time. Cherries are arriving in immense quantities, and are selling for just one-half of what they commanded last year. Not only is the crop larger, but new orchards are coming into bearing and planting in all fruit sections is heavy. Strawberries are about done; the crop was a fair one. Peaches will be very short, though the crop is not an absolute failure as was at first reported.

General trade conditions are unchanged; slightly more business done than in past months, but nothing very active yet. Controller Simpson of this city states that there are more men out of work now than for many years past, and this the busy season of the year. What will next winter be? The ordinary layman is not inclined to be so optimistic regarding the outlook as is the Finance Minister. These conditions are affecting the farmers' market also. Particularly is this noticeable in meat; many consumers seem to have gone on strike.

WHEAT.

Latest Government reports from the United States predict a crop fully up to earlier expectations. These reports have not had the depressing effect on the market that might have been expected. Reports from the Canadian west are not so favorable. There is a fear that rust may yet do considerable damage to grain in the south-west. Hence the net result of the week's trading has been a slight advance on the quotations noted last week. No. 1 Northern is now quoted at 95½c; No. 2, 93½c. Ontario wheat is draggy at 90c to 91c. The dull demand for Ontario flour is largely responsible for lack of interest in wheat.

COARSE GRAINS.

The most active inquiry in coarse grains has been for barley, but so far quantities available have been small. Crop prospects are more interesting at the present time than market quotations. Oats, C.W. No. 2, 45c; No. 3, 43½c; Ontario oats, 40c to 41c; corn, 76c; peas, 90c to $1.05; barley, malting, 63c to 65c; rye, 62c to 66c; buckwheat, 65c to 70c.

Quotations at Montreal are: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 48½c; No. 3, 47½c; No. 2 feed, 47½c; corn, 76c to 76½; peas, $1.80 to $2.30; barley, 57½c to 60c; rye, 70c to 71c; buckwheat, 70c to 72c.

HAY AND STRAW.

Practically no new hay has arrived on the market as yet. Quotations on old hay remain firm; Choice No. 1, $14 to $14.50; No. 2, $12.50 to $13; No. 3, $9 to $9; baled straw, $8 to $8.50. Montreal is more affected by short crop news than is Toronto. Quotations there are: No. 1, $15.50 to $17; No. 2, $14 to $15.50. No. 3, $11.50 to $12.50; clover, $9 to $10.

MILL FEEDS.

Mills are not now heavily stocked, and demand and supply for mill feeds now equalize each other. Quotations here are: Bran, $23; shorts, $25; middlings, $25 to $27; feed flour, $30 to $32.

EGGS AND POULTRY.

Receipts of eggs are somewhat restricted, and there are no prospects of lower prices. Hot weather recently has resulted in poor quality of many shipments. Wholesalers are selling to the trade as follows: Strictly new laids, in cartons, 24c to 25c; extra firsts, 23c to 24c; ordinary firsts, 22c to 23c. Trade quotations at Montreal are 22c to 23c for firsts; selected, 25c to 27c, and down to 22c. Eggs at Montreal are active and steady.

Receipts of dressed poultry are increasing and quotations are easy. Fowl dressed, heavy, 15c to 16c; light, 13c to 14c; live, fat, 12c to 13c; chickens, dressed, milk-fed, 22c to 23c; ordinary, 20c to 19c; live yearling, 15c to 16c; broilers, 30c to 32c; turkeys, dressed, 20c to 22c; live, 16c to 18c.

POTATOES AND BEANS.

A few new Ontario potatoes are arriving and going to the trade at $5 to $ bbl. Old potatoes are commanded $3 a bag. Montreal dealers quote $1.30 to $1.45 in car lots.

Beans here are quoted $2.20 for primes and $1.30 to $1.35 for hand-picked. Montreal dealers ask $2 for hand-picked; one-pound pickers, $1.90; three-pound pickers, $1.75.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

Wholesale quotations are as follow: Cucumbers, hamper, 25; Canadian bkt., 40 to 75c. cabbage, each, 2c to 5c; green beans, 11 qt. bkt., 40c to 60c; beans, 11 qt. bkt., 60c to 75c; early apples, $1.75 to $2.25; plums, crate, $1.25 to 25; gooseberries, 30c to 50c; strawberries, 11c to 15c; raspberries, 14c to 18c; currants, red, bkt., 10c to 15c; cherries, sweet, 50 to $1.25; sour, 40c to 60c.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Cold storage men have laid in a good supply of butter of the June make and are not bidding actively for the less desirable July make. It would seem, though, that lower quotations are necessary to secure an export market for our surplus. In fact, on most outside markets this recession has already commenced. Wholesale dealers here quote fresh creamery prints, 23c to 25c; dairy prints, 19c to 20c; bakers', 15c to 16½c. At Montreal the tailing off in quotations has been more marked. Choicest creamery is now quoted at 23½c to 24½c; seconds, 22½c to 23c.

The cheese market also tends to easier levels. The recent advance in the Old Country curtailed consumption, with consequent oversupply. Only a fair trade is doing over this cable. Finest westerns are quoted at Montreal 13c to 13½c, and easterns, 12¾c to 13¼c.

LIVE STOCK.

Live stock have been a variable factor in the last week. Large receipts on a couple of days, notably Monday, gave buyers an excuse to hammer prices. In only a few lower grades, however, were prices appreciably reduced. The most serious feature from the butcher's standpoint is the noticeable decrease in consumption. Householders are being forced by high prices to reduce their meat bills and, incidentally, adopt a more healthy summer diet. Receipts, however, are not large enough to lead to any material reduction.

One extra good beast realized 8¾ last week. Others sold above the normal high levels. These prices, however, were exceptional. The majority of the offerings brought $6 to $6.60. Butcher cows were the weakest spot on the market. Stockers are now in greater demand. Quotations are: Choice heavy steers, $6.15 to $6.75; hardy choice steers, $6.15 to $6.50; butcher steers, good, $6 to $6.25; common to good, $5.40 to $6; heifers, $7.25 to $8.25; choice cows, $7 to $7.50; common to good, $4.60 to $7; butcher bulls, $4 to $7; feeders, $7 to $7.25; stockers, $6.50 to $7.25; canners and cutters, $3 to $4.50.

Milch cows are not going as rapidly as earlier in the season. Choice milch cows bring $65 to $80; common to medium, $40 to $65; springers, $40 to $80. Calves run from $6 to $12.75.

Sheep go at steady prices. Spring lambs, $7 to $7.50; wether lambs, $7 to $8; buck lambs, $4.25 to $7; light ewes, $5 to $5.25; sheep bucks and culls, $4 to $4.

Western hogs are still a feature of our trade. Packers at present are paying $9 to $9.10 f.o.b. country points.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1914

IDENTIFIED AS THE MAN WHO ESCAPED FROM THE LOCAL GOAL

Corner's Jury at Toronto Brings in Verdict in the Case of the Death of George Clark

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

TORONTO, July 16.—"George Clark came to his death by being run over by a G.T.R. freight train at Swansea on July 6." This was the verdict brought in last night at the inquest presided over by Coroner Hopkins in a case which caused some discussion as to identification.

George Clark, alias Coates, escaped from Peterborough jail on July 4; two days afterward a man tried to board a G.T.R. freight train at Swansea and was run over, both of his legs being cut off below the knees, while he sustained other injuries about the head and body. The man lived for some hours after the accident, and gave the name of Coates. He did not give any explanation as to how he came to be on the train. A letter was found upon him which connected him with Scranton, Pa., U.S.A. Several witnesses who viewed the body, including the doctor, testified that the man who was run over was identical with the photographs of the man who escaped from Peterborough jail. The chief point in dispute was as to the height. The Peterborough police gave the escaped prisoner's height as 5 feet 9 inches, while Dr. Singer, who measured the body, said it was only 5 feet 6 inches. It was thought, however, that the discrepancy was due to shrinkage after death and the mutilated state of the body. he doctor said he had no doubt that the deceased was the same man as the one photographed at the jail in Peterborough.

Keep Clear Of The Track

Some people take advantage of the narrow laneway between the green adjacent to the G.T.R. Station and the track, when it is hardly safe to do so. This morning a man walking with crutches took the route and crossed the track, notwithstanding that fact that three trains were in the yard. Citizens walking thus in the yard when trains are near and shunting is being carried on, take grave risks, and should remember the adage, "Sometimes the shortest cut is the longest way round."

LAMPS SMASHED WHEN WIRE BROKE

One of the supports of the trolley wires broke on Charlotte street this morning, the pole of a passing car breaking two of the lamps on adjacent standards. One wire was torn down and a horse belonging to Parker's Dye Works, becoming frightened at the noise, ran towards George street, but was caught before any further damage was done.

COUNCIL MEETING TO-MORROW NIGHT

When By-Law Will be Passed Authorizing Paving Company to go Ahead With Work.

ALL FOR ONE TURN

The City Council will meet in special session to-morrow night at eight o'clock, and at the meeting the report of the Board of Works Committee recommending that the firm of Foley and Gleason be awarded the contract for street paving, will be dealt with. Since the Warren Bituminous Company refused to accept a third of the work which had been given them by the Board of Works so othat the city would have a sample of both pavements, the work falls to the lot of the Ottawa firm, who, if the Council adopts the report of the Board of Works will now have the contract for the whole work. A by-law authorizing Messrs. Foley and Gleeson to go ahead with the street paving will have to be passed before they enter upon the work. It is partly to lose no time in getting ahead with the work of paving the streets that the meeting has been called for to-morrow night.

The streets for which the tenders for paving were received are all ready for the laying of the cement and asphalt and the work will be commenced at once as possible.

LINDSAY PEOPLE VISITED THE CITY

Two Hundred and Fifty Took in St. Mary's Club Excursion to This City Yesterday

The excursion of the St. Mary's Catholic Club, of Lindsay, came to Peterborough yesterday via the Steamer Stoney Lake. Two hundred and fifty people took in the trip, which proved to be a very enjoyable one. The steamer left Lindsay yesterday morning about 7.30 o'clock, and arrived in Peterborough last evening about half-past six. The excursionists disembarked and spent the next couple of hours in the city, returing to Lindsay on the nine o'clock G.T.R. train. The sail to Peterborough was voted an exceedingly pleasing one by all the merry makers, and an orchestra and refreshment booth helped to make the outing a success.

They were defended by Mr. Widdifield. It is possible that their records will be looked up.

UNEMPLOYED ARE GOING TO THE FARMS

The influx of immigrants is practically nil at the present time, according to a statement made to an Examiner representative this morning by the local Immigration Officer, Mr. W. L. Might. The demand by the farmers, he said, which is no small one, owing to the approaching harvest time, is being well filled by men from the cities, who, finding that no other occupation awaits them, are glad of the chance to earn a few dollars in the field.

Whatever men, however, are sent to this City by foreign authorities are easily placed with local farmers. He wonders what the unemployed in the City will do this coming winter, and is of the opinion that times will be harder than ever.

MINISTER APPRECIATES LORD BROOKE'S WORK

Has Presented With Pearl Pin and Pearl Pendant for Lady Brooke

OTTAWA, July 15.—In the office of the Minister of Militia and Defence this morning, Lord Brooke, who commanded the camp at Petawawa, was the recipient of a pearl pin presented to him by Col. Hughes as a personal gift from the Minister to show his appreciation for the manner in which Lord Brooke performed his duties at camp.

Col. Hughes stated that Lord Brooke had performed a difficult task with a great amount of tact and had secured the good-will of every officer and soldier in Petawawa. Col. Hughes also sent via Lord Brooke a pearl pendant for Lt.-Col. Earl, who acted as chief staff officer for Lord Brooke. Accompanied by Count Berthier de Sauvigny, of Washington, who is a old friend, Lord Brooke left for Quebec this afternoon to sail by the Calarian to-morrow. A large gathering of the militia staff saw him off at the station.

THE WEATHER

The hot, dry weather still continues unabated. Yesterday's highest was 88 degrees. Today, at noon, it was 90 in the shade.—W. P.

HOPES OF SETTLEMENT ARE FADING

Hard to Predict What Will be Fate of Home Rule Amending Bill in the Commons

WILL BE ALTERED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, July 16—A cable to the Tribune from London says: "What the fate of the home rule amending bill will be no one can predict, the circumstances being so abnormal. It may not survive its passage through the Commons, but if it should happen to do so the bill transformed by the Lords will be returned to the Upper House in a very attenuated condition. Hopes of a settlement by consent are fading.

Social at St. John's Last Evening a Success

A very enjoyable social evening was held in the St. John's School House last evening when the Ladies' Bible Class entertained the Men's Bible Class for the evening.

On the two following Wednesdays the Men's Bible Class will entertain the Ladies' Bible Class. Next Wednesday will assume the form of a debate, resolved "That women have the right to vote," and the following Wednesday will be in the form of an entertainment such as last evening.

On the 29th inst the combined classes has arranged for an excursion to Chemong.

Two vocal solos by Miss Blunt and a recitation by Mr. D. Eldred were much enjoyed last evening, as were the contests which were arranged.

Miss Philips accompanied the vocal selections in admirable style. It is the intention of the classes to thus entertain each other throughout the summer months, and it has been practically decided to hold the meeting in the open. It is hoped that much success will come of these weekly meetings.

Mr. R. J. McCormick—Following the recount by Judge McWatt, Mr. McCormick has been declared the member of the Ontario Legislature for East Lambton, with a majority of 25.

T.A.S. CLUB HOUSE WILL BE OPENED ON MONDAY

Opportunity Offered Young Men of Society to Enjoy Outing at Very Small Outlay—Every Advantage Will be Offered Those Who Desire a Holiday on The River.

DURATION INDEFINITE

A number of the young members of the two Total Abstinence Societies in the city intend to open the club house, which was built at T.A.S. Park for that purpose. They will go down next week, and the most of them will come up daily to work. Others will spend a regular holiday at the Park, and the idea will be carried out all summer if the young men desire it. Good meals will be provided and everything will be done to make the camp attractive. It is understood that Rev. Father Cote, of the Cathedral staff, will accompany the boys, and there will be thus offered the opportunity of attending early mass every morning.

CITY COUNCIL IS EXPECTED TO ACT

And Takes Another Step Towards Expropriating the Power Plant, To-morrow Night

PAPERS LOOKED FOR

At the Council meeting to-morrow night it is expected by those who have been following the matter most closely that another step will be taken towards the expropriation of the plant of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. The papers containing the list of contracts of the Company and the memorandum of their property which were sent to the Hydro Commission in Toronto, some time ago, have not yet been returned, and without them it will be impossible to make any material move to-morrow night, as they have to be examined by the Commission, who will make an estimate of the value of the Company's property. The amount that they fix will have to be paid into Court by the City, after which they can immediately take possession of the Company's plant. It is hoped, however, that the papers will be to hand for the meeting to-morrow night.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR THE WEEK

The bank clearings for the Peterborough banks for the week, as reported at the clearing house this morning, total $417,017. This is a decrease from last week's figures of $53,811.

He passed away on his boat, not having regained consciousness. Capt. Cox was forty-five years of age, and had sailed the Lakes since boyhood. He has had charge of different steamers of Northern Navigation Co., including the Germanic, Saronic and Majestic, and was a prominent Mason and Oddfellow.

This is the first time Peterborough has been visited.

Early in June the Thermometer Climbed Three Degrees Higher But You Can't Convince Average Citizen of That

MANY AT THE PICNIC

Mr. Walter Peters, the official weather cuckoo, informed the Examiner that at one o'clock to-day the thermometer registered 90 in the shade, which is going some. By the help of everybody on the street one would think that it was even warmer than it is. This is not the hottest day of the year, although it would be hard to convince the average citizen of the truth of this statement. For ten days the thermometer has registered 85 degrees or higher. The highest mark for the year was reached early in June, when the mercury climbed to 93. There is little relief in sight, although the thunder storms the weather man promises for to-morrow may cool the air.

In spite of the heat, or perhaps because of it, hundreds of citizens went down the river to the merchants' picnic this afternoon. Others sought the parks, while the small boy is spending the day in the water.

Arrested On Fraud Charge

Harry Harrison Wanted by the Toronto Police

Chief Thompson received a communication last night from Chief Grassett of the Toronto Police Force, asking him to apprehend, if possible, Harvey Harrison, whose home is in this city at 89 Hunter street. He is wanted in Toronto on a charge of alleged fraud. Detective Newhall, acting in accordance with instructions from Chief Thompson, went to Harrison's home this morning and took him into custody. He will remain in charge of the local police until sent for by the Toronto Constabulary.

MAYOR BULLER RECOMMENDED

At a meeting of the executive of the West Peterborough Conservative Association last night, the Examiner has heard that it was unanimously decided to recommend Mayor Buller for the position of Inland Revenue Collector. It is understood that the Mayor has signified his intention of accepting the position should the government act upon the recommendation of the Association.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT

MARMORA, July 16.—A distressing accident occurred in Marmora by which Bernard O'Brien lost his life. He was carrying a rifle, and upon two dogs beginning to fight, he took hold of the barrel of the gun and attempted to strike the dogs with the butt. The rifle was discharged, the bullet entering his body. Medical assistance was procured, but he died in a few hours.

ORANGE AND GREEN TO SAVE CONSCIENCE

GUELPH, July 16.—When Fergus Orangemen went to Arthur for the 12th of July parade they could not get a special train, so they engaged all the carriages and autos they could get to reach the fife and drum procession. The auto that carried "Dad" Hagdon, the father of the Fergus Lodge, was the property of a prominent Catholic, who eased his conscience by decorating one side of the car with orange ribbon, and the other side with green.

FIT FOR HOME RULE.

Ireland seems to be fit for Home Rule because that country, under conditions that tend to inflame popular feeling to the fighting point, has showed a remarkable self control. For months and months Sir Edward Carson and other Tory politicians have been preaching war, and using every means, fair or foul, to foment discontent and provoke actual conflict. Correspondents of yellow journals have done all in their power to misread the feelings of the Irish of both parties and inflame the passions of the impulsive and thoughtless. In the north of Ireland the Twelfth of July is always a day when party feeling is developed to the boiling point. The loud reverberation of party music, thundered on countless drums, and shrilled by ear-piercing fifes, has been wont to stir the blood, and aided of late, by inflammatory oratory, have contributed to making faction feeling assume its most belligerent aspect. Yet the day passed quietly, with no hint of the threatened hostilities, for which, if there had been any desire, the way had been so thoroughly paved. If the opposing parties of Ireland, under such provocation, can refrain from rioting and head cracking on a day like the Twelfth of July, when the tinder is made dry and the fire ready to break out, surely during the rest of the year both parties can show similar self control, when lack of it, might provoke something worse than a party-day riot—civil war. It is not probable that there will be any civil war in Ireland over Home Rule. The Ulster people, while firebrands have been preaching sedition, and the more impulsive, hotheaded and unthinking of the Nationalists have showed within the past few days a self restraint and self-control that, if maintained under a fair application of home rule, will tend to peaceful and amicable self-government, which can only be turned to evil by the evil work of politicians and factionists. Ulster is largely opposed to home rule, as it has a right, if not a reason, to be, but it will doubtless have the good sense to refrain from fighting till it has, if it ever will have, some concrete cause. It has now only imagined evil to justify its warlike talk or the warlike talk of those who seek, for personal or political purposes to dupe the people.

REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES

The circus was here a week, and there were thousands flocking to see the cheap entertainment, with the result that thousands of dollars that should have gone into the regular avenues of trade, and should have gone to provide for personal and family necessities, were taken out of the city. This money, in hundreds of cases, will work injury, and many who spent it for frivolous enjoyment will, the coming winter, be, to use the expressive slang of the street, "hard up." Many will even have to depend upon the charity of the thrifty for the means of living—to keep body and soul together. Many a dollar which should have gone to fill the fruit jars for the coming winter has been, from this point of view, wasted in this and other ways.

Of course people must have, or should have recreation and amusement; but it is possible to buy them at too high a price. There should be no sacrifice of the real, substantial requirements of living. We have to make sacrifices of our desires every moment of our lives. We must refrain in the interests of health from many things that are pleasing to the taste but injurious to health. A man may like strong drink, but he must deny himself; children like sweets, but over-indulgence leads to evil; and in a thousand other ways we have to deny ourselves, the enjoyment and use of things and actions that are agreeable at the moment, but indulged in then is harmful.

We all like recreation and amusement but we must draw the line at the point when we sacrifice present and future benefits to their enjoyment.

We have the experts telling us that "hard times" are upon us; that the next winter will be a hard one, with probable increase in the high cost of living and increase of unemployment; and the pinch of both could be offset by proper living—proper employment of the means that come into the possession of the people. If we spent more on things that count and less on things that do not count, the level of popular ability to provide for the wants of the people at large, would be higher. If we spend carefully for the present, and wisely for the future, if we should forego many things, often falsely-called, pleasures, and provide for the future, we should be better prepared for the rainy day that, in spite of the present outlook, is sure to come—if we in the broad sense had done this as a nation and individually, we might not have had hard times of the severity that seem to threaten. If we spend according to our means, spend wisely for necessities, provide a little for the future, we should hear less of the suffering and privation that prevail every winter. While all cannot do this—must live from hand to mouth—there are thousands who can do it who do not do it. A little self denial of pleasures and activities, and amusements of doubtful value, would represent a good deal of the difference between comfortable living and privation in the near future. The remedy for hard times is prudent expenditure of means, and reasonable, or rigid, self denial, according to circumstances, in order to provide reasonably well for the present, and also for the future.

DEATH TOLL OF THE WATERS.

(Toronto Globe.)

There is need for a general agitation in Ontario to make the teaching of swimming an integral part of the public school curriculum wherever there is water convenient for the giving of lessons. The annual death toll of the waters in this Province is heart-rending. In yesterday's Globe there were reports of ten drowning accidents in Ontario, on Saturday and Sunday, and one more which took place on Sunday appears to-day. The utter indifference of those occupying positions of authority in the face of such figures is inexplicable. Can it be that we have become as prodigal and reckless of human life as our neighbours across the border?

It may be urged that the real remedy is to warn people that water drowns, and that he who cannot swim should keep away from it. A glance at the map will show how absurd is the idea that the people of Ontario can be kept away from the water. We have over fifteen hundred miles of lake shore on the greatest inland waters in the world. We have smaller lakes and ponds innumerable and many rivers of considerable depth. We have a climate in July and August that tempts the most timid into the water. These things the people of Ontario will have, generation after generation. Unless the knowledge of how to swim becomes general the death toll of the waters will increase year by year with every increase of population.

If the Department of Education does not voluntarily cut out some of the unimportant subjects now in the public school curriculum and substitute swimming there should be a vigorous demand for the change from the Press and the members of the Legislature. The terrible lesson of the Empress disaster, when even a slight knowledge of how to keep afloat in the water would have resulted in the saving of hundreds of lives, is reiterated daily in the tales of the hot-weather drownings that give such a tragic tone to the Press of Ontario.

CHILDREN ON THE STREET.

(Hamilton Times.)

It is not so very long ago since a few far-seeing men and women who proposed that playgrounds should be established, maintained and supervised at the expense of the public were looked upon as well-meaning, but dreamy people. When the project was first brought forward in Hamilton it received but scant consideration, and a lot of urging had to be done, and much discouragement encountered before any impression was made. Now the city has three supervised playgrounds, maintained, in part, by public money, and an inestimable benefit is being derived by the youngsters. But the city is not half equipped in the matter of playgrounds. The local association is taxed to its utmost to keep the three up properly, but would gladly undertake more if the grounds were at their disposal. The right of the children to play is conceded to-day as never before. Half of the automobiling done to-day is play—and it is done on the public streets, by grown-ups. Has the idea ever occurred to our readers in that way? Many an autoist, just for fun, loses patience with the child who is seeking recreation on a pair of roller skates on the smooth pavement. Yet the child has just as much right to the asphalt pavement as the autoist, especially if the municipality which provided the pavement has not provided a convenient playground.

"Conservation," the monthly bulletin of the Dominion Commission on Conservation, takes up the cudgels for the children in its July number in an able way, when it says:

"In connection with the 'safety first' campaign, much is being said just now as to the danger of children playing in the streets. Films are being shown in the moving picture theatres, presenting dangers from motor cars and other vehicles vividly before the eyes of the children themselves. No doubt this is a good work for the conservation of human life, but it is a sad state of affairs that the children have no better place than the streets in which to play. Very often the man with the automobile is only using the streets as a playground—there are as many autos bound on pleasure as on business—and if we give the man in the motor the right-of-way over the child on roller skates, it is incumbent upon us to find the latter some place in which to amuse himself, free from danger. If new sub-divisions were laid out on garden city lines, there would be a space in centre of every block where small children could play near home, and open spaces would be reserved here and there for larger children and adults. Much must be done, however, to remedy existing conditions, as well as to plan for accurate recreation facilities in future. A much greater use could be made of school playgrounds after hours than is now the case, and in many cities where sufficient playing fields do not exist, a very considerable expense is justified in providing such. A city is a place in which not merely to work, but to live completely, and complete living includes wholesale bodily exercise for every citizen.

Petes Overwhelmed Ottawa Making It Three Out Of Four On The Series

Schettler Held the Champs to Four Hits, While the Blount Gang Scored Without Much Trouble

FINAL SCORE WAS 9 TO 1

OTTAWA, Ont., July 15—Ottawa put up another farcical exhibition before a small crowd this afternoon, losing the third of the present series to Peterborough by 9 to 1. Peterson got along well until the third, when his own error, followed by that of Bullock's and Blount's home run touched off fireworks, the visitors scoring three runs. Paige succeeded Peterson and was also hit hard. He issued several walks and these, coupled with the Ottawa errors and base running blunders, gave the visitors six more runs. The stars gummed up nearly every play they attempted, while the crowd kept shouting to Shaughnessy "To get a new team."

Schettler had the Ottawas at his mercy, striking out eleven and being touched up for five scattered hits. He did not issue a base on balls. Only thirty men faced Schettler, who was master of the situation at all times. The crowd roasted the Ottawa players throughout. Neither Peterson nor Page could puzzle the visiting batsmen.

There will be a shakeup in the Ottawa team at once. Pitcher Ed. Killian, the Detroit veteran, is expected to report to-morrow, and Hank Perry is also coming with a view to strengthening the outfield. Rogers, the sensation of 1913, who has been a joke all season, is to be benched, or released; also Nill, Powers, and probably Smykal. The Ottawas are in desperate straits and have offered $1,600 to Adrian for Shortstop Mitchell. Shaughnessy and Dolan are the only ones who are playing any kind of decent ball. The score:

WILL MAKE AN OUTFIELDER OF IRWIN TROUT

Toronto Telegram:

The two Toronto ball clubs are undergoing changes. Catcher Trout will be shifted permanently to the outfield, and will be developed along that line. It is felt that he is too fast and too good a hitter to be used only in his turn behind the bat.

Catcher Snell, of the Internationals has been transferred to the Canadian League team as first string received in place of Trout, removed to the outfield.

Bill O'Hara had not got in from Rochester this afternoon, and his trouble with Manager Kelley, which brought down an indefinite suspension, has not yet been gone into. It is pretty certain, however, that O'Hara will be either traded or let out.

BASEBALL

We cop the following from an exchange, deeming it well worth wider distribution. It shows Willie Jones' examination papers and how he answered them:

Who settled New York and when?

Willie's answer — "The Athletics last fall.

What is meant by the Boston Tea party? Answer—"Speaker must be the party meant. His first name starts with a T.

What did Washington do at Valley Forge? Answer—"Washington never played there. It's not in that league."

Who founded Philadelphia and made a famous Indian treaty? Answer: "Connie Mack did. The Indian treaty was when he sined up Chief Bender.

In a tight battle against the Yankees Ping Bodie lost chances to win for the White Sox by failing to slide and by failing to back up an overthrow from Schalk. These plays cost two runs. Later on he poled one into the stands for a home run and broke up the game. That night he started out with a white carnation in his buttonhole and his hat planted on one side of his dome. He bumped into Jimmy Callahan.

"Well," said Ping, "didn't I bust one to-day?"

"Yes, you're a fine boob," answered his manager. "You lost the game twice and only won it once. You owe me another one to-morrow before you break even, much less come in for that carnation stuff."

"A guy's got a swell chance in this game," muttered the morose Ping as he pegged his carnation into the gutter. "I bust one up for him and I still ain't broke even. I guess I got to win a double-header to make it fifty-fifty."

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Ottawa Free Press: Catcher Kelly of Peterborough drew a twenty-dollar fine yesterday from Jockie Halligan. He jawed the umps and when chased from the coaching line kept it up. Halligan then slapped a ten buck fine on him. Kelly shouted back to make it twenty, and Halligan answered that twenty went. He threatened to stick on another ten and ordered Kelly from the bench. The young ideas take a long time to learn.

Shocker passed Miller in the second purposely with a man on to get Sterling, the latter retiring the side by forcing Miller at second.

Peterborough beat out two infield taps that looked easy outs, but fast sprinting and slow fielding turned both into base hits.

Ottawa Free Press: It was announced at noon to-day, the Ottawa Canadian Leaguers had accepted the terms of Hank Perry, who two years ago was the hitting sensation of the International League with Providence and he has been wired to report at once. Perry will either take Powers' or Rogers' place in the outfield.

Ottawa Free Press: The management of the Ottawa Baseball Club this mroning made a money offer of $1,500 for Shortstop Mitchell of Adrian, in the South Michigan League, and at the instigation of Frank Navin, of the Detroit Americans, have sent terms to Pitcher Ed. Killian, the veteran Detroit twirler, with instructions to report at once.

There is no doubt on the form shown by the champions of the last two weeks, they cannot expect to stay up very long in the first division. The pitching has been very in and out, while the fielding has cracked at critical times. Only one or two of the batsmen are showing anything in thew ay of driving in runs.

While Killian is an old head, he has been pitching good ball in the Association and one of the Western Class A leaguers is hot foot after him. Detroit wired to-day they would give Ottawa first call on him and Manager Shaughnessy promptly accepted the offer. He at least will not plow up under fire.

Paige, the new man, worked out yesterday and shows a good free movement and certainly knows how to pitch. He may be started any time this week.

No word has been received from Infielder Brazzell. He went to his home at Dayton nd that is the best heard from him.

Carpentier is 8 to 5 Favourite Over "Gunboat"

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., July 16. — One of the greatest crowds that ever witnessed a prize fight in England is expected to be about the ring at Olympia to-night, when George Carpentier and "Gunboat" Smith meet in a twenty-round bout to decide the "White Heavyweight" championship of the world.

Smith to-day declared he was confident of victory. He intends to challenge Johnsn immediately if he disposes of Carpentier, who was 8 to 5 favourite in the betting to-day.

DAD STEWART IS RELEASED

Dad Stewart, the veteran outfielder, who has been a consistent hitter since being signed up by the Petes, was released by Manager Blount yesterday. He has been on the bench for the past week. There was no fault to be found with Stewart's hitting, but Rooney is considered a better prospect by Manager Blount on account of his speed in the field and on the bases. In addition he has been hitting well since he replaced Stewart. The latter has been signed up by Ottawa.

Thirty men have been carried safely in a 30-foot lifeboat of a new type which, if overturned in water, will right itself.

The French navy has built an artificial island of concrete at Toulon for testing torpedoes and as an ammunition magazine.

Peterboro' Lacrosse Team Won Fast Game in Campbellford Yesterday

The Lacrosse Club came through with a 6—5 victory in Campbellford yesterday afternoon. This win will keep the team in the running, although Hastings' defeat of Havelock indicates that the Trent team will make a big bid for the championship. There is little chance that they will be beaten out, but there is a strong chance of their being tied. Peterborough's last home game is on Friday, July 24 when Campbellford plays a return game here. They are coming up with an excursion and a good crowd is expected for this game.

Peterborough took an early lead, and although the home team pressed hard in the long period toward the end of the game the locals came through with two scores, when they caught the 'Ford defence well out. Lou Lebar played on the home yesterday, making another of the old timers who was willing to help the game along as much as possible. He had been practicing with the boys and gave a good account of himself.

Thompson—Kennedy.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning, July 8th, by the Very Rev. Monseigneur Whalen, of St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, when Mr. Robert James Thompson was united in marriage to Miss Lillian Frances Kennedy. The bride wore her travelling suit of midnight blue silk moire, with Panama hat, and was attended by her sister, Miss Cecilia Kennedy, in a pretty gown of pale pink crepe de Chine, and white hat. Mr. Charles Beechie assisted the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of peridots and pearls, to the bridesmaid a purse, and to the groomsman a gold stick pin. J. Cameron, of Moose Jaw, Sask. The Rev. Mr. Wilson tied the nuptial knot. The bride looked handsome in a charming gown of cream shadow lace over a pale shade of pink silk with hat to match, She carried a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas and lily of the valley. The bride and groom were unattended, only the immediate relatives of the young couple being present. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. T. H. Henderson. The residence was beautifully decorated with roses and vines, and especially electric lighted for the occasion. The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, among which was a beautiful necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom. Mr. Cameron has lived in Moose Jaw for some years, and is a conductor on the C.P.R.

After a very enjoyable evening of music and other amusements, the happy couple repaired to their new home, 46 Athabaska Street west, carrying with them the best wishes and hearty congratulations of their many friends. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Henderson, Omemee. For some time Gladys was a member of the staff of Mr. Charles Ivory's general store and was very popular. Her many Omemee friends extend their sincerest good wishes.

The cadetts returned home on Saturday evening after a pleasant week at Kingston. They report a splendid week although some of them were a little homesick.

Miss Phyllis Brown is the guest of Lindsay friends.

Mr. Wesley Deyell of Toronto, was in town on Saturday renewing old acquaintances.

Heredity and Natural Selection.

Heredity is the tendency of every organism to produce its like. But in the production of the new forms there is, generally speaking, a slight variation in some cases from the parent form, and it is in the direction of these variations that natural selection acts. The variation repeats itself and keeps on doing so until finally the change is so marked that what practically amounts to a new species results. Thus are accomplished by slow results, extending through ages perhaps, the ends that man by artificial selection accomplishes in a few years.

A Better Campaigner.

Two candidates for the same office came into a certain town one day. The one called at a house, where a little girl came to the door. Said he, "Bissie, will you please bring me a glass of water?" Having brought the water, he gave her some candy and asked, "Did the man ahead of me give you candy?" "Yes, sir." Then he gave her a nickel and said, "Did he give you money?" "Yes, sir; he gave me 10 cents." Then he picked her up, he kissed her and said, "Did he kiss you?" "Yes, sir, and he kissed mamma too!"

Foreshadowed.

One morn Charlie informed his parents that he felt too ill to return to school.

"Hadn't I better send for the doctor?" asked his mother, hoping to test the genuineness of his illness.

"Oh, no; you don't need to," replied Charlie. "He'll be up pretty soon. I just stopped in his office on the way home and told him to come up to see me."

The Latin Language.

Latin was one of the original languages of Europe, and from it sprang the Italian, French, Spanish and Portuguese languages. Many words of our own language are of Latin origin. It ceased to be spoken in Italy about 581 and was first taught in England by one Adelmus in the seventh century. The use of Latin in law deeds in England gave way to the common tongue in the year 1650.

Opals.

Opals are so sensitive that their beauty is frequently destroyed by their wearer's proximity to an open fire. The lustre of this stone is caused by the presence of myriads of little fissures, which deflect the light into the characteristic prismatic color of the gem. The tiniest of these fissures is likely at any moment to destroy the stone.

Asiatic Turkey.

Asiatic Turkey had a civilization thousands of years ago. The interior of that country is populated to-day by farmers to whom modern knives and works are unknown; the spoons they use are of wood, and each family makes its own.

THE DOVE OF PEACE HOVERED OVER THEM

Speakers From Both Sides of Line Predict Another Hundred Years of Amity

MANY NOTABLES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 16—The Dove of Peace hovered over the Arena Rink this afternoon, where, under the auspices of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada, Province of Ontario, the representatives of the British lion and the United States eagle, celebrated the hundred years of peace and predicted another hundred years of best amity between the two great nations, divided, but united, by the rushing Niagara. M. W. Bro. W. D. McPherson, Grand Master, President, and many Masonic notables from both sides of the lines were amongst the speakers. The orator of the day was M. W. Bro. M. L. Johnson, Grand Master of Massachusetts, whose theme was "Masonry and Peace".

YOURS IN HASTE

You know when you receive a letter signed, "Yours truly," that he or she who sends it is not truly yours, since truth can seldom be consistent with these formalities. The ones signed "Sincerely", boast too much; self-conscious sincerity is no use to anybody and generally epresses itself in rudeness. "Faithfully yours" — why "faithful"? It's another merely formal note, and you don't want him to be particularly faithful; you may never hear from him again. "Respectfully?" Here is a letter from the last cook but two; she wants another character.

All these sign marks, we know, are but stamped conventions. Nobody heeds them save in so far as a certain gradation of intimacy is conveyed in the passage from "truly" to "very truly" and on. The true sign stamp of to-day—a signature which, we notice, is gradually replacing all the others—is "Yours in haste." It is perfectly true. He, she has no time for letters.

Count your friendly letters — as marked from your business ones—with this point in mind for a day or two, and see how many declare themselves yours in haste.

Horrid phrase for the affectionate, the sincere, the true! "I like you very much, but I haven't' got time to like you very long." "I am yours, but I must go." "I am devoted to you, but my train starts in two minutes." "How are you? Good-bye." So many alternative phrases which sum the meaning of "Yours in haste!"

What presumption it is, too, for them to think to escape their duty toward you by claiming the absurd hurry.

When we come close to them and see the way they live, you are aware at once of the manner in which they waste their time. They are always in a hurry to waste time. They rush in taxicabs to lunch parties (for example), then linger endlessly gossiping after lunch.

They rush to a shop and dawdle in it. They can spare an hour for face massage which is to smooth away the signs of worry brought on by hurrying to waste time. Yours in haste, indeed! We don't want you.

Yours tranquilly, yours peacefully, yours eternally, yours with nothing to do, immortally, endlessly yours—the simple "bien a vous," the formal Spanish "I kiss your hand," from the point of view of friendship, all are preferable to "Yours in haste."

The up-to-date housewife tabooes all heavy cooking utensils. Those of light aluminum, granite, and double-plated tin are great savers of energy.

If you spill tea on a tablecloth, cover it with common salt and leave it on for a while. When the cloth is washed, all stains will have disappeared.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

St. Michael must have neglected to lock the gate after that last little duty of his.

Oh, you mermaid.

Even Coca Cola has its limitations in this weather.

There are many things worse than being merely hot.

The lamb's quarters were sizzling in open fields to-day. You could scent the odour of their natural baking.

Said everyone to everyone else — "What do you know about this? It's the hottest yet."

Others said—"I don't wish the merchants any harm but really ten hours' rain would do a world of good."

One young man was wearing a girl's waist this afternoon. Honest he did. With a generous V it looked comfortable, and others envied him his nerve.

Is there any reason under the sun why men should not wear white and grey clothes during the summer? Certainly the garment manufacturers will not encourage the idea. Hence men must begin the novelty themselves.

Let men no longer scoff at the slavery of women to fashions. Those who live in glass houses———.

Do you imagine that the clerks just hated to leave their counters this afternoon?

After considerable thought one is forced to the conclusion that the hottest place in the county was the corner of Charlotte and George streets at eleven o'clock.

If any of the Blountmen have not been thawed into condition this is their chance.

An ideal job to-day would have been river driving in a bathing suit. Eh, what! Of course for the leisure class the highlands at Chemong Park are elysian quarters while the city bakes.

When we welcome the first robin, we forget the broiling summer will bring.

Most city people call for rain for the immediate purpose of cooling the atmosphere. It is the farmer who really thinks of the parched land.

The citizens should order pewter medals to be struck for the members of the City Council who botched the market and the swimming pools.

Old Country News

An inmate of the Barming asylum, Kent, who was formerly a joiner in Chatham dockyard, has carved from some old oak a magnificent reredos and screen for the church attached to the institution. The work occupied him for seven years, and experts place its value at $5,000. His first commission executed in the asylum was a handsome overmantel for the medical officer. This led the doctor to suggest other work, with the result that he carved some altar rails and the reredos and screen. The patient spends most of his time at the bench, and a chat with him always results in the production of all sorts of specimens. Many of his

NEEDLE LEAVES BODY AFTER 36 YEARS

SELINSGROVE, Pa., July 15.—To undergo the sterang experience of having a needle travelling through her body for 36 years, and have it make its reappearance from her shoulder today and be removed without pain, was the remarkable fortune of Mrs. Lester E. Dreese, of Selinsgrove.

When Mrs. Dreese was six years old and just learning to sew, she accidentally swallowed the needle. Physicians were unable to locate it, and as Mrs. Dreese suffered no inconvenience at the time, no further attempts were made to remov it.

For the last several months Mrs. Dreese has had strange pains in her shoulder. She imagined it was rheumatism; but it changed to an itching sensation last night, and when Mrs. Dreese arose this morning, her nightdress caught on the point of the needle, protruding from her shoulder. Her husband removed the needle with little effort, and the "rheumatism" has since departed.

ONE MORE BIG DAY FOR LINDSAY

Lindsay Post—There will be no more big celebrations in Lindsay this summer until the Firemen and Band tournament here on July 30th. Everything points to a monster demonstration, and one of the largest crowds in the history of the town will be in attendance.

Many towns in the surrounding districts have already signified their intention of coming, and they are all coming special trains. Those who are expected to attend are: Parry Sound, Midland, Barrie, Orillia, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Napanee, Bowmanville, and many others.

The local band and firemen have been planning for several weeks past to make this one of the best demonstrations that has ever been held.

Special rates will be issued on all the railroads, and no doubt many people will take advantage of this to view this very interesting demonstration.

A DESPATCH OF INTEREST TO MANY IN CITY

A letter has ben received in the City from Mrs. Carl Baldwin (nee Miss Parks), enclosing the following despatch, printed in a local southern California journal. Mr. Thompson, as well as the son referred to in the despatch, have frequently been in Peterborough, the former having married Miss Ostrom, whose previous to her death, as Mrs. Thompson, spent many weeks in Peterborough during the life of her mother, the late Mrs. E. K. Ostrom. The despatch is as follows:

Chicago, July 8.—In an endeavour to reach the bedside of his son, at Raton, New Mexico, A. D. Thompson, a millionaire mining man of Duluth, Minn., left here at 9:15 this morning on a special train of three cars.

Mr. Thompson was at Montreal when news that his son, Adam, was in a precarious condition, reached him. Dr. Wilbur Post of this city was telegraphed to proceed to Raton, and he accomplished the journey of 1125 miles in twenty hours, arriving at Raton this forenoon.

BELLEVILLE, July 15.— Yesterday a number of the egg buyers of the district met representatives of Montreal houses and the government representative, Mr. Porter, at the office of Mr. A. E. Bailey, in Marble Block, Front Street. The buyers present included Messrs. M. Sprague, G. F. Ostrom, A. E. Bailey, Mr. Owens, Mr. Berkley, Mr. McCrimry, J. Ashley, Stirling, Mr. McDonald of Scott, Hogg and Co., Peterborough; Mr. John Platt, Cobourg and Napanee and Picton buyers.

It was decided to endeavour to carry out purchases on the loss-off basis by means of which bad eggs are traced back. At this season of the year there is a heavy loss in bad eggs.

A good plan is to keep buttons in glass bottles. A glance tells you exactly what is inside, thus saving a god deal of time which would be taken up in turning over the buttons if put in a box.

Should the inkpot be accidentlly upset on the tablecloth or carpet, pour a little cold water over it at once. The ink will float on the water, and when the cloth or carpet is rubbed dry no stain will show.

Examination Results Are Expected About August First

The fate of 4,000 candidates for matriculation in the Province of Ontario rests with 200 examiners now seated comfortably at desks and tables in Toronto University. For the casual spectator the affair has no solemnity in it. Wit is thrown about wholesale and candidates who fail seem to fall without regret.

This does not presuppose any carelessness in marking, however, for the system used ensures the very best of treatment. In charge of the marking of each subject is a chairman, to whom in case of doubt or difficulty the answer is frequently read aloud. A decision is then arrived at as to the number of marks which should be awarded.

Candidates of other years were worried by the belief that examiners did not mark well just before dinner or on a hot day, etc., but the way examiners scrutinize every word the time they take to mark a paper and the salary $7.20 per diem) which they receive—has done much to eradicate such suspicions. All text books connected with a subject are kept close at hand and frequently consulted.

As in the case of the departmental results which have just appeared the paper of any candidate whose marks are below the required minimum, but very close to the line will be re-read by the chariman of the division before publication.

The results are expected to appear shortly after August 1st owing to the early date at which the matriculation was written. In the old days the results appeared about August 10th or 12th, nearly one month after the close of the examinations.

CENTRAL CANADA EXHIBITION

Prize List

Distribution of the Big Prize List for the Central Canada Exhibition, September 11th to 19th, 1914, has commenced. The here-to-fore large list of classes has been strongly supplemented by the addition of new and special prizes that go far to make this year's offerings greatly in advance of any previous show.

This year the Association will again pay all freight upon Live Stock Entries. This big feature was first introduced last season and met with such an overwhelming success that it was decided to again offer the same inducement to exhibitors for 1914.

Freight Charges (not express) on Exhibits of Live Stock, from points in Ontario and Quebec Provinces will be refunded to the exhibitor by the Exhibition Association. This means, charges from the last shipping point to Ottawa. The regular one-way fare must be pre-paid by the exhibitor and refund will be made by the Secretary upon production of the original bill of lading. Exhibits remaining intact will be returned free to original shipping point.

$30,000.00 is the sum to be given away in prizes this year and all departments will be the richer by the increases provided by the offering of this large sum. Receivers of this Prize List—no matter in what department they are interested, Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Agriculture, Horticulture or Art—will find extra classes and extra prizes in their own special lines.

In the back of each Prize List sent out is a well made out Entry Form so that intending exhibitors may make their Entry at once by filling this Form in and mailing it to the Secretary and Manager, Mr. E. McMahon, 26 Sparks St., Ottawa, Can., who will also be very pleased to provide all information as well as extra copies of the Prize Lists and Entry Forms upon receipt of your name and address upon a post card.

Ex.-Ald. G. A. Gillespie Honoured By Fire Brigade

ALDERMEN PRESENT

Everybody is ready to admit without notice of the question, and without requiring any appreciable time for consideration of the answer, that the members of the Council of this or any other city get knocks and criticism aplenty with very little of the spice of gratitude and genuine praise mixed in. And that, no doubt, is the reason why ex-Ald. G. A. Gillespie, recently Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, expressed in such warm terms his pleasure at receiving from the Fire Department last night, a most handsomely illuminated address, and at being the guest of honour at a delightfully informal banquet in the Fire Hall.

Fire Chief Howard presided at the banquet, and the thirty men who sat down to the very generous and unusually well-prepared table which had been arranged and provided by the Fire Brigade, were evidently well pleased that they had been honoured with an invitation to the unusual and happy function. For it was in a very pleasing manner indeed that through the medium and efforts of the Fire Brigade Mr. Gillespie came into a portion of his own, last night.

Besides every member of the Fire Brigade there were present at the banquet given in honour of Mr. Gillespie by the firemen in the Fire Hall, last evening, Mayor Buller, Ald. Green, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Ald. Stratton, Ald. Saunders, Ald. Anderson, ex-Ald. Batten, and ex-Fireman Geo. Grange. In the first place, let it be said that the meal itself, prepared and served by the fireman, was all, or to be accurate, more than could be desired. The several courses were all so appetizing that it was impossible to refuse any of the earlier ones in anticipation of those in future and, as a result, several of the guests were seen to look longingly at the halfdozen beds arranged in a neat line along the opposite wall, before the conclusion of the affair.

When the viands had been disposed of, Chief Howard, in a neat speech, told the history of the address and the reason of its being presented last night. During the two years of Mr. Gillespie's chairmanship of the Committee presiding over the affairs of the Fire Department the members of the Brigade had come to know Mr. Gillespie pretty well and to like him exceedingly well. A year ago two of the firemen came to him suggesting giving him some token of their regard and appreciation of his efforts, on behalf of the Brigade, but the matter was delayed until the eve of the last Mayoralty election, at which time, of course, he had refused to allow them to carry it out. Then, after the recent election they had come to him in a body, and knowing that Mr. Gillespie was too modest and considerate to wish anything that would put the firemen to great expense, he had suggested the address and an accompanying quit supper. The address was given over to an expert penman, and before it was ready Mr. Gilespie was one of the principals in another election. For that reason the giving of the address was postponed until last night. The Chief then presented Mr. Gillespie with the framed address, asking him to take it as a little token and reminder of the good feeling that exists towards him on the part of the men:

Mr. George A. Gillespie.—We, the officers and members of the Peterborough Fire Department, desire to express our feeling of good wishes and thanks to you at this time for your many acts of kindness toward this Department during your five years' term as an Alderman on the Council Board, and more especially during the latter two years as Chairman of the Committee of Council presiding over the affairs of the Department.

We have not forgotten your other colleagues who have rendered valuable assistance with you from time to time which has been appreciated by us.

The kind treatment we received from you at a time when the Department was hanging in a balance seemed to have the effect of drawing us closer to you, and we want you to know it.

We shall always think of you as a near friend and we want you to think kindy of us.

We ask you to accept this testimonial of your regard and respect for you.

In reply, Mr. Gillespie said that he did not think that he deserved the address, but that he only tried to do his duty towards the Fire Department during the time he was Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He was grateful for the spirit that had prompted the men, and their kindness in the presenting of the address. He would take the address to his home, where it would remain a memento of the friendly relationship between him and the Fire Department.

"As a two-minute speaker," said Ald. Green, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, when called upon to give a two-minute address, "I am not a success". But Ald. Green, in a very fit speech, belied his initial sentence. He congratulated the Fire Brigade and Mr. Gillespie, and expressed his pleasure at being present in a few well-chosen words.

Mayor Buller spoke briefly, saying that during the time Mr. Gillespie was on the Council, he (the Mayor) had been glad to work with such a good friend. All who knew ex-Ald. Gillespie knew that always he was a man and a gentleman.

Ald. Stratton announced that he did not come with the intention of making an after-dinner speech, but was pleased to have the opportunity of expressing his pleasure at being present.

NEW DAM AT FENELON FALLS NOW COMPLETED

The new dam at Fenelon Falls is now complete so fare s the Seympur Power Co. and the main section is concerned. For the last two months Lindsay's light and electric power has been obtained from the Seymour Power Co's system of water powers along the Trent Canal other than Fenelon Falls, where the water was shut off to allow the new dam to be constructed.

The water was turned in again on Thursday, and for the first time since April the big dynamos were running again Saturday last. However, the town of Lindsay is not yet receiving any of the power, as it is being used in Fenelon Falls while the village is rebuilding the dam and approaches to its own power plant.

After that, Lindsay will continue to get its power from the east and the Fenelon Falls plant will be kept merely as a reserve in case of breakdown of any part of the company's system or of overload. The Fenelon Falls plant develops about 1500 horse power. In spite of the changes made Lindsay has not been in any way inconvenienced during the two months.

Villa Is Not Satisfied

Special Wire to The Examiner:

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 16 — Will Gen. Villa be satisfied with Francisco Carbajal as President, and permit the country to rest in peace for a while. This question was put to the rebel leader, himself, to-day, and was not satisfactorily answered. He said he regarded him highly as a man, but would not accept him in an official capacity. To emphasize this he has already sent five hundred soldiers to retake the posts captured by the Federal troops yesterday. It is thought here that Gen. Carranza will eventually be named as President of Mexico.

100 BOYS ARE TAKING LESSONS IN SWIMMING

The Y.M.C.A. learn-to-swim campaign is meeting with marked success. In the three days that it has been in progress over one hundred boys have taken lessons in the afternoons, many of which have already learnt how to swim, while in the evenings the men are taught the art, and about 90 men have been attending the classes. This is a grand opportunity for any man or boy in the city who wishes to learn to swim which is something everybody ought to be able to do.

In a Long Island factory there recently was made a candle for religious purposes which, if burned continuously, would last for about nine years.

A CORRECTION.

In connection with the arrest of a pickpocket at Lindsay the other day, The Examiner stated that it had been accomplished by Chester Mowrey. This was an error, he offender was pursued and caught by J. Cunningham. Mr. Mowrey and Ed. McGregor went to his assistance and helped to bring the prisoner in.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality."

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronise your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here." — McAlester, (Okla.) Bulletin.

HINTS TO CAMPERS.

Before going camping make some wall-pockets out of scraps of oilcloth, cretonne, sahvas or any heavy material. Then pin them to the walls of the tent for they make such convenient little nooks for comb and brush, hand glass—in fact everything that it is hard to find a place for. One pocket can be made with small spaces to hold bottles. Try this and see if it does not make camp life more enjoyable. Another good idea is to take a long-handled corn popper with you; it is fine for broiling chops, bacon, etc., over a campfire, or for toasting crackers, etc., that have lost their crispness.

A WHISTLING LANGUAGE.

Gomera is two centuries behind the times, although it lies no more than fifty miles outside the track of steamers. In importance, as in size, it is sixth among the Canary Islands; but, according to a gentleman who has just sojourned there, it possesses one feature that is distinctive, the whistling language. By a curious graded scale of shrill whistlings the mountaineers of the region are able to converse over a distance of as far as four or five miles.

The art is of great antiquity. The original inhabitants of the islands were the Guanches, who were conquered by the Spaniards in the fifteenth century. These were a pastoral people, despite the mountainous nature of their territory. It was their need of a means of communication across long distances over the great ravines that cut the heights which caused the development of a system of crude signalling by whistles into a complete language. The like method is employed by the natives of the Atlas Mountains, and it may be that the primitive manner of whistling was brought thence to Gomera, since long ago there was considerable emigration of the Africans to the Canaries. But the signalling in the Atlas Mountains has never expanded beyond its original simplicity, while in Gomera it has grown into a distinct language.

As far back as 1880, Dr. Sprat, who was at that time Bishop of Rochester, wrote a letter to the Royal Society, in which he made mention of an Englishman he had met at Teneriffe. This unfortunate man had been made deaf for fifteen days by the shock of a native's whistling at his ear. Indeed, as one reckons on the distance that the sound is made to carry, it becomes apparent that the noise must be fairly deafening at close quarters. A hotelkeeper in Santa Cruz de Teneriffe employed a Gomeran as kitchen girl. She had a lover who worked in Laguna, almost five miles from the hotel. Yet the girl was accustomed to mount a hill that rose at the back of the hotel, and there indulge in a series of ear-splitting whistles. And always the lover arrived to visit her within an hour. That such performances requires special powers is demonstrated by the fact that the Gomerans of the mountains have extraordinary development of chest and throat.

It is small wonder that the island is little known, as it lies two days' journey from Teneriffe, and is without accommodation for guests. Its extent is only fifteen miles in length by thirteen in breadth, and the population numbers a scant fourteen thousand. It is, however, an ideal spot so far as climate goes in all seasons of the year, since rain is rare, and the temperature is uniformly delightful. The primitiveness of the place is shown by the fact that it has no roads, only bridle paths, and these are so steep that cruppers and breast girths are essential to hold the saddles in place.

One must adventure over the rough trails if he would hear the whistling language; for it is not used except by the mountaineers. Dwellers in towns are not familiar with it, since with them there exists no necessity for its use. To the mountaineers, however, it is a great convenience, and women employ it as much as men. Some of the less skilful resort to their fingers in the mouth, after the fashion of our own boys; but this is a confession of inability.

The language is made up like a sort of Morse code, with high calls and low, short calls and long, with rising and falling inflections, and with a curiously articulated utterance, something similar to triple-tonguing on a cornet. Quaint and impressive as this whistling language is, it seems a pity that it should die out. It is, however, surely passing, and a few years more will witness its extinction.

She Wasn't Feeling.

A fond mamma had found occasion during the morning to reprimand her small daughter with more than usual severity. It seemed to hurt the child's feelings considerably. In the afternoon the little girl sat on the sofa staring vacantly out of the window, apparently wrapped in meditation. The mother relented and, coming over to the side of the little girl, placed her hand on the child's shoulder and asked, "What are you thinking about, dear?"

"I 'us jus' finkin'," said the little girl, "if I want six or eight bridesmaids."

His We Might Have.

A famous writer said: "Man in general, or, as it is expressed, on the average, does not live above two and twenty years, and during these two and twenty years he is liable to two and twenty thousand evils, many of which are incurable. Yet even in this dreadful state men will strut and figure on the stage of life. They make love at the hazard of destruction and intrigue, carry on war and form projects just as if they were to live in Utopia and

NEW YORK, July 16. — Latest reports indicate the highest grade of buying on breaks, the market may be irregular, but is ready to cover. NEW YORK, July 16 — (Thursday's Letter, Chas. Baring.) — The good news on U.P. caused a rally of 1 1-2 points in that stock after which the whole market, last week again and broke from 2 to 6 points from the day's high figures. I told you last night that the next big move would be on the bear side. I do not look for any straight decline of 10 or 15 points until the general list has gradually sagged to considerably lower level as the straight lines moves always take place at the end and not at the beginning of the movement. I think the rate decision is almost sure to come out this week, possibly after to-morrow, and it should be followed by a sharp rally on the following stocks should be sold on that rally near the close. If you are short around the high prices of last week would stay short. As stated yesterday, that big move in the stock now quoted around 40 will not be ready for many weeks, we will give it when the time comes. —Chas. Baring.

AN INCENTIVE

"My purposes are broken off." — Job. 17, 11.

This morning at a time of discouragement was found an exquisite little poem of Ella Wilcox. Here are a few lines taken out of it:

"I may not reach the heights I seek,
My untried strength may fail me,
I may not triumph in success,
Despite my earnest labor,
But though life's dearest joy I miss,
There lies a nameless strength in this
I will be worthy of it."

No matter how much we try it often seems as if we make very little progress in our Christian life, but God knows and understands just how hard we are trying. It almost makes one tremble to think what our characters might be if we made no effort to overcome our faults. The greater our own struggle the greater our development and the keener our sympathy with others.

A man handicapped from life's start with hereditary evil tendencies, falls very low. May we not censure too severely? He may have tried and struggled to conquer himself more than we can conceive, but God knows, and more honor may be attributed to him than to another who has never thus fallen because he never was thus tempted.

For years we have been planning and working to attain some object. But just when success seems very near we fail, fail utterly and finally.

But just think what life those years would have been but for that incentive! How much has been gained in powers of will, determination and concentration. Also the thought is a comfort as well as an incentive, that if we may never realize our life's ambition, and enjoy love's dream, we will be worthy of it.—I.H.N.

A BIG FIRE AT BELLEVILLE

National Manufacturing Company's Plant is Gutted.

BROCKVILLE, July 17.—Spontaneous combustion among materials located in the japanning room and paint shop is blamed for the serious fire which gutted the finest masterly building of the local plant of the National Manufacturing plant Wednesday night. Shortly before 12 o'clock yesterday morning the fire which had been smouldering broke out again with renewed force in the building damaged Wednesday night, and with a strong wind blowing the fire brigade found themselves faced with a much more difficult situation.

The blaze worked its way from the storeroom to the paint and carpenter shop, which were gutted with their contents. Only the good work of the firemen saved the greater portion of the foundry. People living in the fire zone worked assiduously with bucket and garden hose. The damage by fire and water to finished stock will make the loss run up to almost $50,000, which is covered by insurance.

Falls From Roof.

TORONTO, July 17. — While engaged in shingling a house at 275 Waverley road, Robert Clark, of 14 Dixon avenue, lost his balance and met instant death by falling 30 feet to the ground. He was 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and one child. It is thought that he had been affected by the extreme heat, or had lost his balance while in a precarious position on the roof the house. A broken neck was the cause of death. The body was taken to the morgue, preparatory to an inquest being held.

To Run Labprite Again.

ST. CATHERINES, July 17.—The District Trades and Labor Council, notwithstanding the defeat of their candidate for the Legislature in the riding of St. Catharines, voted favorably to placing a labor candidate in Lincoln for the Commons. It is expected that this time a candidate with Conservative leanings will be chosen.

New Ontario Loan.

LONDON, July 17.—An issue will shortly be made of a new Ontario Government loan of five million dollars in 4 1-2 per cents. at par.

Last year Ontario floated a loan of $1,000,000, on bond security at 4 per cent. with time period of 30 years.

CARBAJAL PEACEFUL

He Will Resign in Favour of Carranza, He Says.

MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 17. — Francisco Carbajal, successor to Gen. Huerta, as Provisional President of Mexico, yesterday advised the United States Government informally that he intends to retire in favor of Gen. Carranza. Senor Carbajal wishes only that a general amnesty be proclaimed and protection given to the property of those who opposed the Constitutionalists.

This statement of the attitude of Huerta's successor, together with the announcement from Monterey that Carranza was willing to enter into negotiations with Carbajal relative to transfer of authority at Mexico City was regarded here last night as practically assuring a cessation of hostilities and the restoration of peace in Mexico.

The views of Senor Carbajal were explained in detail to Secretary Bryan yesterday by Jose Castellot, former member of the Mexican Senate, who called at the State Department with a personal telegram which he had received through the Mexican embassy.

The communication was dated Wednesday night and follows:

"I have just taken oath of office as President of the republic. Generals Huerta and Blanquet departed to-night for Europe. I desire to make it known with emphasis that my only purpose is to facilitate a solution of the grave problems which weigh upon our country. I have not the slightest ambition for myself and merely wish to terminate the internal conflict of our country. Please give me your impression of the situation in Washington. (Signed) Francisco Carbajal."

This message, Senor Castellot explained, meant that Senor Carbajal had taken office only as a means of bridging the gap from Huerta to the Constitutionalists, that the new President had no desire to remain in office.

Secretary Bryan thanked Senor Castellot for the information, and told him that while recognition would not be accorded Carbajal, the United States was amicably disposed toward him, and would applaud his patriotic efforts to bring about peace in his country.

Secretary Bryan himself was highly optimistic in the belief that peace at last was in sight in turbulent Mexico, and he told his friends that he believed the policy of "watchful waiting" and patience had been a success. In order to assure a transfer of authority without further bloodshed, however, the American Government began yesterday to use its good offices with Gen. Carranza.

DENIES EXTORTION.

He Didn't Know Threats Were Used Declares, Flemming.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 17.—Premier Flemming was the principal witness at the Dugal inquiry yesterday and vigorously denied collecting money from the lumbermen, directing that extortion, or receiving any of the money. He said he had selected E. R. Teed to take charge of the fund, which he described as a campaign fund. The Premier said he told W. H. Berry that he, Berry, must not receive the money, and that he told Berry he himself could not receive it; but, said Mr. Flemming, if the lumbermen are going to pay it, E. R. Teed is the man to handle it. He therefore assigned Teed to the job. Subsequently, he said, Teed, when very ill, sent him the keys to the safety deposit box containing the funds, but Mr. Flemming never used the keys, never went near the money, nor got any of it, except a loan of $15,000 which was repaid and $9,000 for a block of Gould stocks which he transferred to the fund.

Mr. Flemming explained that he did not know Berry was taking part in the levying of the grant, much less that he was using threats in doing so. The Premier said that if he had known compulsion or threats were being employed he would have put a stop to it.

E. R. Teed was the first witness at the morning session, and his evidence was largely an amplification of that given on Wednesday. He submitted a statement showing that he still holds the entire amount, except for the $200 paid to Mr. Brankley, and $1,000 he took himself for expenses.

Sicilian Safe For Home.

QUEENSTOWN, July 17. — The Allan Line steamer Sicilian, which put in here on July 9 with disabled machinery, sailed yesterday for Montreal, the damage having been repaired. The Sicilian's machinery broke down when she was two days out from Havre, whence she sailed on July 3 for Montreal, and she was forced to put back to this port. Her 260 passengers were transferred to another Allan liner.

NEW ONTARIO TOWN SWEPT BY FLAMES

Hundreds are Homeless in Hearst—Railway Centre is Easy Prey For Bush Fires and Residents are Compelled to Flee for Their Lives.

COCHRANE, July 17. — Their homes, even their town, destroyed by fire, three hundred refugees from Hearst, 134 miles west of Cochrane, on the N. T. Railway, reached here yesterday afternoon in their flight for food and safety. It is the old story of a pioneer hamlet of wooden buildings caught in the swath of a forest fire and speedily reduced to ashes because of its combustible nature and lack of fire-fighting apparatus.

The residents have been fighting bush fires for the past two or three days, with the very scanty appliances at hand. Fanned by a strong wind, the flames gradually ate their way towards the town Wednesday, and about two o'clock the fight became hopeless, and the inhabitants fled for their lives to the nearest place of safety, which was the track. Here they found refuge, and no one was hurt. About four or five hundred people have been rendered homeless, and most of them are quite destitute.

On the relief train which arrived here yesterday afternoon from Hearst there were from two to three hundred homeless people, and they are being taken care of. They all tell stories of a two or three days' and nights' fight with fire, nothing but a bucket brigade being available. Several times they thought that the fire had been conquered, but each time it sprang up again, and the weary fight was resumed. Wednesday the wind almost blew a cyclone, and men who had been through the Porcupine fire began to make for the tracks, fearing for their lives. At three o'clock it got beyond all control, and everyone took refuge on the Transcontinental Railway tracks. Mr. M. J. O'Brien, of the firm of O'Brien, McDougall & O'Gorman, who have their construction headquarters at Hearst, took all the homeless people to his camps at Pit 9, where they were all fed, and the women and children housed.

They passed the night and the next day till the train arrived in the middle of smoke and flame and torrid heat.

About a month ago a bush fire invaded the town and destroyed nineteen houses. Wednesday it finished its work. All the houses were of wood, with the exception of the roundhouse and station of the Transcontinental, which are both saved. The only other buildings saved are Jamieson's meat store and Heyworth's store.

Halifax Mush Perturbed.

HALIFAX, July 17. — Steps were taken at the meeting of the Board of Control to bring to the attention of the Nova Scotia Government, the Prime Minister of Canada, the Minister of the Interior and the Minister of Labor the text of a despatch received from Vancouver stating that negotiations were under way by the secretary of the American-Indie Colonization Co. to charter a steamer to bring five hundred Hindus through the port of Halifax.

"We do not want anything to do with this problem," said Mayor Bligh. "The city is strongly against the entry of any Hindus into Canada through Halifax."

Department Not Worried.

OTTAWA, July 17. — The Department of Labor is not disposed to view very seriously the action of the British Columbia Federation of Labor in suggesting a general strike of all labor in that province because of the Vancouver Island mining trouble.

A copy of the resolution has been received at the Department, and, curiously enough, one of its clauses is a criticism of the order-in-council excluding all classes of labor from the province. A referendum of the unions is to be taken on the strike question, and it is believed here that the proposition will be voted down.

INVADED BY ARMY WORM.

Farmers Working Like Titans To Destroy Scourge.

BRANTFORD, July 17. — Brant County is being swept with an invasion of the army worm in millions, and unless the farmers can keep them in check by fire, trenches and poison, it is feared that a great amount of the crops will be entirely ruined. Falkland, Burgessville, Burford, Hatchley, Northfield Centre, Fairfield Plains and Paris all report that the pest has been keeping the farmers at work almost continuously for two days.

Yesterday morning the pest made its first appearance in Brantford Township in numbers.

Reports from Burford state that worms are hatching out all along the banks of Whitman's Creek, as the low lands have both flooded and hatching conditions are favorable, while the same wet has exterminated the natural enemies of the worm.

The farmers are digging trenches between the worms and the fields and digging postholes in the trenches.

Convention.

"Don't you think men ought to have a voice in a political campaign?" asked Mr. Meekton.

"Certainly," replied his wife. "Every glee club should have a few bass voices in it."

Mate Killed Fireman.

MORRISBURG, Ont., July 17.—As the Hudson Bay terminal lighter No. 1 was approaching Morrisburg yesterday evening en route from Toronto to Hudson Bay, under command of Captain H. O. Jones, one of the firemen suddenly died, being overcome by excessive heat. His name was Thomas Morris, and his age about 30 years. He shipped with the boat on Tuesday, at Toronto, but his home is said to be in Belfast, Ireland. Captain Jones says he knows nothing of the man's antecedents.

Tariff Reformer Returned.

LONDON, July 17—Frederick Leverton Harris, a prominent tariff reformer, was returned unopposed yesterday for the East Worcester seat vacated by Austen Chamberlain on the latter succeeding his father for Birmingham.

Mr. Harris is 50 years of age, was a member of the tariff commission of 1894, and was M.P. for Tynemouth 1900-6, and for Stepney 1907-11.

DOCTOR'S BOYISH FACE REVEALS SKIN RENEWER

I heard the other day the story of the physician with so admirable a skin that all his women patients asked his secret. He told one, who generously told others, that, knowing the remarkable absorbent property of ordinary mercolized wax, he concluded this substance would make an excellent complexion renewer and preservor. Knowing the wax could do no injury, he began using it after shaving. He soon observed that the old, withered, colorless cuticle was being gradually absorbed and replaced by younger, healthier skin. This was the simple secret of the silver-haired doctor with the boyish face. The secret became public property. Now women everywhere use mercolized wax, applying it nights like cold cream, washing it off mornings—continuing until the complexion is entirely renovated. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggist's, will banish the worst complexion.

Another valuable rejuvenator used by this doctor was a wrinkle-remover and preventive in the form of a face bath, made by dissolving an ounce of powdered in a half pint witch hazel. This also has become famous.—Fashion Review.

Senora Huerta and Party Are on Board British Cruiser.

PUERTO MEXICO, July 17.—Senora Huerta and her two sons, Jorge and Victor, and their wives and her two unmarried daughters and Senora Blanquet, wife of the former War Minister, and other distinguished refugees, arrived here by special train from the Mexican capital yesterday morning. The women of the party boarded the British cruiser Bristol shortly before noon, and should there be the least indication of a disturbance — something which now appears remote—the men of the party will be quartered either on the Bristol or the German cruiser Dresden.

The railway yards were filled with soldiery, the pick of the army selected by Gen. Huerta months ago, when the train arrived. Preceding the special was a military train with troops, and a second military train guarded the special from the rear. Gen Camarena is in command of the forces, which number 400, and include a detachment of the crack 29th regiment.

TRUTH ABOUT MEXICO

LONDON TIMES CORRESPONDENT GIVES A VIVID PICTURE.

General on Trial Says He Could Not Fight Rebels In the Open Because of He Let His Soldiers Scatter They Would Desert—Officers Would Be Shot Down by Their Own Men.

A timely and gripping book, "The Real Mexico," has just been written by H. Hamilton Fyfe, the special correspondent for The London Times. A chapter devoted to the federalist army has a particular interest at this time. Among other things, Mr. Fyfe says:

"Torreon, the prosperous centre of the cotton-growing district, was taken by the revolutionaries in September. After denying for a week that it had fallen the War Office admitted the truth, but said that it would be retaken in a few days. For a month or so nothing happened. Then it was announced that a blow would be struck. Gen. Velasco would start at once, and the rebels would be driven out of Torreon. The Government had been urged to act vigorously, because in the cotton district a record crop was in need of being picked. They responded by putting a new tax upon cotton 'to meet the cost of the war-like operations' and by doing—nothing.

"For six weeks after I saw Gen. Velasco's brigade in its five trains Torreon remained in the hands of the rebels. The forces which were to retake it advanced and retreated, chased and set to partners, marched this way and marched that. Gen. Velasco was frequently reported to be not with his command, but in Saltillo. Not until the 10th of December was Torreon retaken and then only because the rebels had drawn off and left the garrison very weak.

"After the evacuation of Torreon by the Federals, Gen. Munguia was tried by a court of inquiry. The intention was to shoot him. This was his defence: 'How could I meet the rebels in the open?' he asked. 'They fight in loose formation. I was obliged to keep my troops together. If I did not they would melt away. Desertion is the idea uppermost in almost every soldier's mind. Again, how could I order my officers to lead their men to the attack? I knew their men would shoot them down as soon as they got the chance.'

"The best generals would find it hard to do anything with such an army as this until they had disciplined it and discovered a certain number of men whom they could trust. Mexican generals have unfortunately very little talent for war, and they make, as a rule, no attempt to 'lick their men into shape.' Officers in command are to our minds incredibly slack. At a small battle in the State of Morelos the Federals by use of machine guns forced the rebels to retire. The nature of the country made it easy for their retreat to be cut off. But the Federal colonel looked at his watch. 'It is time for dinner,' he said and told his bugler to sound the 'Cease fire.' The rebels leisurely went away.

"That kind of incident, which happens daily, helps to keep current the belief that Federal officers do not wish to bring the war to an end. They do not take soldiering seriously.

"The Mexican army has no army service corps, no medical department to speak of. It carries no camp equipment, no supplies. Watch a field force break camp at dawn. First there go pattering off a horde of women laden with pots and pans, blankets, sometimes babies. These are the soldaderas, the camp followers, the commissariat of the force. That they move as quickly as they do is a miracle. Whatever the day's march may be, they are always on the camping ground before the men arrive. They rig up shelters, they cook tortillas and frijoles (maize cakes and beans), they make coffee. You see them mending their husbands' coats, washing their shirts, roughly tending flesh wounds. Without these soldaderas the army could not move. While President Huerta was seizing hundreds of men by night in Mexico City and other cities in order to swell his forces to 100,000 he also had women 'pressed' to go with the new soldiers and take care of them. Criadas (maidservants) were positively afraid to be out after dark.

"The difficulty of an invasion would lie in suppressing guerrilla warfare among the mountains, in the jungles, wherever the country offered good cover for 'sniping' and sudden attacks upon small detachments. It would be necessary to put in force a measure like the crimes act in Land League Ireland, which would make it a serious and if necessary a capital offense to possess arms."

Mr. Fyfe attributes Mexico's troubles largely to the rise of a middle class where before there were only the upper and "peon" classes. This new group foments discontent in the breast of the "peon" against those to whom his fathers had been accustomed to bow meekly ever since the Spanish conquest.

As to the future, he sums up as follows:

"Madero was an accident. It is unlikely that the Mexican people will be deceived again in the same way. But the man who is to rule Mexico successfully must have something of Madero's good will and sympathy, as well as a great deal of Don Porfirio's ruthlessness and strength."

HOMES OF THE NAVAJOS.

The Navajos are the least gregarious of native American tribes, never congregating in towns and villages and never forming permanent communities. Their homes, called hogans, are mere hovels, built of stones or the trunks and limbs of trees, with rounded roofs thickly covered with earth. A smoke vent in the roof and a doorway in the side are the only means of ventilation. In cold weather these gavelike structures are kept tightly closed, so that no one but an Indian could live in them at all.

But when springtime comes the Navajo squaw constructs a summer cottage, sometimes consisting of be more than a windbreak of sagebrush around a circular clear space. Sometimes the summer hogan is a shady bower under a desert cedar tree, with leafy branches piled around as a measure of protection against winds and sandstorms. Sometimes it is a shelter formed by the utilization of old pieces of canvas, sheet iron and other cast away material picked up around the refuse dumps of the railroad towns. In any event, the dwellers in the summer hogans are practically in the open all the time. Fresh air is never for a moment excluded.—Christian Herald.

CRUDE MINING IN COLOMBIA.

Natives Gold To Pan the Streets of Quibdo For Platinum.

Under the primitive mining conditions of to-day the Choco district of Colombia stands second only to Russia as a producer of platinum. Most of the gold and platinum exported are obtained by native women, working two or three hours per day. They use the antiquated ground sluicing process as a preliminary to get rid of the coarser gravels and then with their "bateas" separate the metals from the sand and gravel.

The batea is a wooden pan, shaped like a very shallow inverted cone, eighteen inches in diameter and three inches deep at the centre, with two small handles or knobs on the rim. The women handle the bateas with great dexterity, throwing off the gravel and sand by a rotary motion and leaving the gold and platinum dust in the common centre.

Another method of mining that is extensively employed by these women is diving into three or four feet of water for the sand and gravel containing the metals and bringing it up in the bateas. This method is usually more remunerative than the sluicing process.

The gold workings have existed for centuries, but little has been done in the development of the district. The river gravels were being washed by the Indians long before the advent of the Spaniards, and this region furnished much of the gold that was carried back to Spain. In those days the value of platinum was unknown, and when the Indians brought the metal down to the Spanish headquarters in Quibdo the platinum was thrown away.

Large finds of this discarded metal have been made recently in Quibdo, and frequently the earth excavated for foundations has yielded sufficient quantities of platinum to pay for putting up the building. The natives were beginning to pan even the streets, thus uncovering large amounts of mud, which was injurious to health. A decree was therefore promulgated in 1913 prohibiting any further washing of earth in the streets of Quibdo.

Silent Auctions.

Japanese auctions are noiseless affairs. In many parts of Japan an odd little booth serves as such a room. The auctioneer holds aloft the object offered for sale in order that all may see it. To the stranger it appears that the object is not desired by anybody, although all seem to examine it closely. Not a word is said by any prospective customer, but a number of them march off to a little box in the corner, wherein they deposit certain little slips. If one's curiosity be aroused by this procedure a Japanese will explain the method of conducting the sale. The bits of paper represent the bids, and when all have been deposited the box is opened, and the highest amount offered buys the article. These noiseless auctions are much patronized by the Japanese.

The Bird and the Man.

A country stable keeper was driving a salesman from one town to another when, in passing through a wooded section, the salesman raised the lines and brought the horse to a halt.

"What is that noise?" he queried, listening to a peculiar sound coming from the woods.

"That? Oh, that's a partridge drumming," replied the driver.

"Well," mused the salesman, letting go the lines, "I hope he's had better luck than I have to-day."

NAILS IN STONE WALLS.

Easy Method of Placing Them So They Will Remain Firm.

Few women know how to drive a nail into a brick wall, and yet it is what they often need to do for themselves if there is no man about.

The following method is easy and has been found entirely satisfactory: Having decided upon the exact spot into which the nail is desired to be driven, which must be in the plaster between the bricks, provide yourself with a hammer and screwdriver. With these tools commence working out the hard plaster by tapping the handle of the screwdriver. As the plaster turns to dust it must be blown or dusted out so that the size of the hole may be seen.

When a space about one inch long and nearly one inch deep has been worked out get a small piece of wood about the same size and with the hammer wedge it tightly into the space. When it seems firm take the nail and drive it into the wood. It will go in nicely, without bending, and remain firm an indefinite length of time. This same method was used at one time when it was decided to hang a hammock between the fence and the wall, with the exception that the hole was dug out a little longer and deeper than for an ordinary nail.—Minneapolis Journal.

Pleasure and Happiness.

There are many pleasures found in the search for happiness, but there is little happiness for him who seeks pleasure. Pleasure is what you feel when your neighbors come to spend the evening. Happiness is what you feel when they go.

RAPACITY OF THE PIKE.

Other Sea Fish That Will Attack and Eat Their Own Species.

The pike has the reputation of being particularly cruel and voracious, hence one of its appellations the "water wolf," but the probability is that many of the sea fish are equally if not a good deal more rapacious and fond of attacking, causing pain to and making a meal off their own species.

Large dogfish (they of course are related to the shark tribe), congers, pollack, cod and bass are especially ferocious, while halibut will frequently seize and kill other large fish, as anglers can aver from personal experience. It is only a few weeks back that while a London angler was "playing" a large conger, a huge halibut swam up to and savagely bit at it, an operation which eventually cost it its own life, for on making for the wounded conger a second time, the boatmen contrived to gaff and haul it aboard.

There have been many instances of pike being found dead, choked by their own species, and these fish not infrequently attack another pike which has been hooked by an angler. The action of a pike at times closely resembles a cat when it plays with a mouse. The pike seizes the angler's bait and keeps dropping and allowing it to escape—one can picture its delight in the terror of its victim—but does not forget to leave the marks of its teeth behind when it eventually makes off.

Lately many fine cod hooked on the long lines off Deal and Dover have been found bitten in half, while only the heads of some have been left, thus showing that they have been preyed upon by some cruel and voracious fish, only too glad to have such a favorable chance of killing and eating them.—London Globe.

Man the Brute.

"They do say," remarked Brown as he pushed back his chair from the dinner table, "that a woman's work is never done."

"But what makes you think of it at this moment?"

"That shoulder of mutton!" replied Brown as he made a rapid exit

Dr. Chase Is No Stranger

There is no better safeguard against disease and suffering than a good cathartic medicine. In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are constantly kept at hand, because they quickly awaken the action of liver, kidneys and bowels, and cure the most common ills of life.

Mrs. Thos. Smith, Jamestown, Ont., writes:—"Dr. Chase is no stranger in our home, for we have two of his Receipt Books in the house. My father and my husband's father each had one, and I have been familiar with it ever since I can remember. It was only natural that we should use the Kidney-Liver Pills, and we found them so satisfactory in regulating the digestive system and curing the common ills of life that we always keep them on hand. Many a time these pills have saved me much suffering and prevented serious disease. We also keep the Ointment in the house all the time."

Sharp and Bright!

Two street urchins were arguing about the high cost of living or something at Sixth and Sansom streets, and soon logic was exhausted and they began to call names.

"You're a bonehead!" one grimy kid informed the other.

"G'wan. I'm so sharp me old man tried to lick me the other day and cut his hand. You're the lowbrow of the party."

"Is that so? Well, if you want to know anything, I'm so bright my mother calls me sun."

He Was Anxious.

A couple of zealous anglers were fishing for the first time in a sheet of water rented for the purpose when one of them through carelessness fell in. His friend, after great exertion, brought him to land, but it was a long time before he recovered consciousness. No sooner had he opened his eyes, however, than the other asked him, "Tell me, did you see a lot of fish?"—London Tit-Bits.

A FLIGHT FOR LIFE

THE FURY OF A CLOUDBURST.

To understand what follows you must know something of the country where the incident occurred. Lightning creek, a famous trout stream of northern Idaho, rises among the glaciers of the Cabinet mountains and comes tearing down through narrow canyons heavily forested with pine and cedar. At all times the stream is swift. In the spring, when the ice caps are melting, it is a torrent.

July 3, 1906, a fishing party of five were hauled from the nearest railroad station to the end of the wagon trail on Lightning creek, where we made camp. The next morning the professor and myself decided to ascend to the head of one of the creek's tributaries. Shouldering our creels, we made our way through the timber toward the glacier, gleaming in the sunlight. Five miles from camp we came to a fall, where we began to fish. There were plenty of trout, but they were small.

"Agreed," I replied, and we clambered up the steep rocky walls.

Our hopes were realized. We fished up the stream until past noon, when we sat down to lunch. By the time we had finished eating a tiny cloud had crept above the mountain top and hovered over the glacier. In a few minutes another cloud crept up and joined the first, then another and another until the mountain top was covered.

"It is time we were getting out of here," I said. "I believe we are in for a wetting."

As if to emphasize my words a flash of lightning quivered through the black mass, and in a few seconds the thunder rolled down the canyon with a roar like a battery of siege guns.

As we hurried down the creek the lightning became continuous and terrifying in its brilliancy; the roll of thunder was incessant. We made all the speed we could and had nearly reached the falls when the rain came in a downpour.

"Suppose we get under this spruce and wait until the storm is over?" my companion suggested.

"Suppose we get into more open country as soon as possible!" I rejoined and kept on.

Suddenly the lightning ceased, the thunder died away, and there was no sound save the dashing of rain. The sudden calm was startling, and I paused and looked toward the mountains. I saw a great column of fire shoot downward out of the clouds. The glacier quivered as though struck by some titanic force, split apart and crashed down into the canyon. There was a roar of thunder, and I saw the water pour from the sky as if all the windows of heaven had been opened.

"A cloudburst!" I cried. "Run for your life!"

Fear lent wings to our feet. We sped down the canyon, leaping fallen logs, tearing through dense underbrush, clambering over rocks, fleeing from the pursuing flood that roared down the canyon, uprooting trees and hurling great bowlders before it as it came. A few rods below a stanch bastile cliff, with some stunted fir trees growing on it, stood in an open space. To outrun the water was impossible; the cliff was our only haven.

I dashed up, with my companion at my heels. Behind us we saw a solid column of water that bore a tangled mass of drift and advanced with the speed of the wind. We had only time to seize upon a tree before the flood was upon us. It struck with a grinding roar; the rock trembled to its very base; the water surged over us; we were battered by the rushing logs, scratched by the drift, suffocated by the water, but we clung on desperately. In a minute, at the furthest, the flood swept on, leaving ruin in its wake.

About the cliff the trees lay piled in a tangled, broken heap. We crept down, drenched, bruised and bleeding, and made our way to camp. But the spot where the camp had stood was swept clean. We sank upon the water soaked ground to consider what we should do. In a short time we heard the voices of our friends. They had been fishing the main stream above where the branch entered and thus had escaped.

There was nothing left for it but to make our way back to the railroad station, where we arrived after dark. For months fishermen discovered articles of our camp equipage scattered along the stream.—Youth's Companion.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Mattie: I cannot praise any one kind of soap; there are many good ones.

Adela: You are quite right in being "finicky" about your hair; it is for just such particular people that I always recommend Canthrox. Its use will cure dandruff and make your "straight, oily" locks full of vitality and fluffiness—much more attractive than artificial curling. Make this shampoo at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It is the most peerless and effective shampoo I have ever tried.

Cinderella: This is the best neck bleach I know of: Dissolve 4 ounces of spermaxx in half a pint of hot water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, let stand until cold, then cork tightly. Then apply to the neck, face, hands and arms, rubbing lightly until dry. You will find a great change in the length of time this preparation stays on and it seems a part of the skin. It is a splendid liquid powder, easily prepared at home. This will not only give you a firm, healthy skin, but it is extremely beautifying, and entirely harmless.

Anne M.: Your rebellion against the "fat-and-forty" idea meets with my hearty approval. I have often advised against the ear-cleanses which allows so many women to lose the figure while yet young and it is so unnecessary. Just get 4 ounces of parmotis, dissolve it in 1 1-2 pints or hot water, strain it, and take a tablespoonful three times daily. It reduces weight slowly enough to permit a gradual tightening of the skin so there is no danger of sagging muscles and loose tissues. Exercise mildly and bathe often, but the treatment requires no vigorous diet.

Alice M.: The eye-trouble you describe, like most eye troubles, is caused by neglect. Get an ounce of crystos at any drug store and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put two or three drops daily in each eye. You will be amazed to note how the tonic will brighten and beautify your eyes and add youthful clearness. It will not smart or burn, and will doubtless save you all further weakness.

Hattie L.: You are rather young to worry about losing your good looks, but you are wise, however, in taking every precaution against the loss of your complexion and the coming of premature wrinkles. Keep the skin firm and the complexion clear with nightly application, using this simple, inexpensive preparation. Mix together an ounce of alcozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and 1-2 pint cold water. Stir and let stand for a few hours. This will give a healthy resistance to oily conditions of skin. Try this faithfully for awhile, and note how it encourages the natural contour without undue flesh. Many have found in it a return to skin-health.

T.Y.L.: Indeed, dandruff is an unsightly thing, besides preventing the growth and beauty of the hair. Most of the "dope" on the market is, as you say, helpless to cure the trouble. I am certain you can do wonders to beautify your hair and get relief from that itching scalp by the use of this tonic which you, yourself, can prepare. In 1-2 pint alcohol dissolve one ounce quinsoin, also get some canthrox for shampooing.

Mrs. McD.: Your "dragged out" feeling is probably only due to lack of strength and all you need is a good tonic to brace you up. Here is an old-fashioned remedy which will not only make you feel better, but make you look better: Dissolve half a cup of sugar and one ounce hardsaw in half a pint of alcohol, adding sufficient pure water to make a full quart of the mixture. Take a teaspoonful before each meal. This will ensure proper digestion, an active liver, free elimination and by cleaning out the blood will clear your skin and brighten your eyes.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule ornamented most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uncomfortable fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

THEY PLAYED MARBLES.

One Street Game in Which Lincoln Took a Hand.

"I was about ten years of age and given violently to the game of marbles. One cold March day my companions and I were playing on the sidewalk before my father's shop when I slipped on a piece of ice and fell, cutting my chin. The other boys seized as many of my marbles as they could and made off. Wild with anger, I started after them, calling them names and threatening to annihilate them, and so on. Suddenly a hand on my collar stopped me, and a deep voice said:

"'We've got enough ill feeling going on in this country these days without you boys catching it.'

"A big man swung me around and wiped my wounded chin and then went on:

"'I saw what they did, son. Have you any agates left? Good! I'll put up three chiny alleys, and we'll see who'll win.'

"He drew from his pocket three marbles.

"'I got them from my boy Ted,' he explained, and then I knew who he was.

"There on the street I played marbles with the president for five minutes and he let me win. Here are the marbles—a precious possession!"—Exchange.

Fed the Brute.

Sir Charles Tupper in his book, "Recollections of Sixty Years," recalls an experience of his daughter in Canada during the Riel rebellion in the northwest. She was in the region of trouble, and on a day when she happened to be alone in her home "in walked a strapping Indian, all war paint and feathers. She thought the best thing she could do was to feed him. She cooked everything in the house—potatoes, meat and bread. When all was consumed—and these Indians will eat at a meal enough to last for three weeks—he had grown to a very large size. As he could not speak a word of English or French, he evinced his gratitude by patting his protuberant stomach, with a guttural "Ha, ha, ha," and left.

Plague of the Black Death.

That terrible plague the black death, originating somewhere in the east, passed by way of Armenia into Asia and thence to Egypt and north Africa. Reaching Sicily in 1346, it spread over Italy, France and nearly all of the countries of Europe, including the British Isles. The mortality was appalling, some 25,000,000 of people dying from the dread epidemic. The nature of the great pestilence has been a matter of much controversy, but it is generally conceded that it was closely related to what is known today as the "bubonic plague."—New York American.

Had Nervous Dyspepsia

With Frequent Sick Headaches and Much Pain After Eating — Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Cured.

This letter is from a lady who gained 14 pounds by using the great food cure. It did wonders for her in improving her general health. She is enthusiastic in its praise, and refers to her neighbours as witnesses of the splendid results obtained.

Mrs. Susan oDbson, Spring Hill Mines, N. S., writes:—"It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was troubled with dyspepsia, and could not eat without suffering much pain; also had sick headaches frequently, and my nerves were in bad condition. About ten years ago I took a thorough treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, using altogether 21 boxes, and since then can eat anything, have been freed from headaches, and my health has been greatly improved in every way. I gained 14 pounds in weight, and feel sure I owe everything to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You may use this letter, and my neighbours can tell you of my condition before using this treatment."

REED'S WITTY THRUST.

There are many stories of the caustic wit of Thomas B. Reed, the famous speaker of the house of representatives. One of his most scathing thrusts was delivered at William S. Holman, a member of congress from Indiana. It was perhaps the keenest witticism ever uttered in debate on the floor of the house.

Holman was a constant objector to the expenditure of money by congress and had honestly earned the title of "Watchdog of the Treasury." One day, when the committee was perfunctorily putting through a number of bills for the erection of government buildings in various cities, Holman was constantly on his feet, objecting to their consideration. But when Indiana was reached and the committee began to propose appropriations for buildings in the towns of that state Holman's objections came with much less spirit and finally ceased altogether. When at length a bill was offered that carried a generous appropriation for a building in Holman's own town, he rose and expressed hearty approval. Hardly had he taken his seat when Mr. Reed was on his feet. "Mr. Speaker!" he shouted; and then, in gently sentimental tones, he recited Byron's familiar lines:

"'Tis sweet to hear the watchdog's honest bark
May deep mouthed welcome as we draw near home!

And the "great objector" forget to object any more that day!—Youth's Companion.

Homemade Barometer.

Those who love experimentation may try the following method of making a cheap barometer practiced in France: Take eight grams of pulverised camphor, four grams of pulverised nitrate of potassium, two grams of pulverised nitrate of ammonia and dissolve in sixty grams of alcohol. Put the whole in a long, slender bottle closed at the top with a piece of bladder containing a pinhole to admit the air. When rain is coming the solid particles will tend gradually to mount, little star crystals forming in the liquid, which otherwise remains clear. If high winds are approaching the liquid will become thick, as if fermenting, while a film of solid particles forms on the surface. During fair weather the liquid will remain clear and the solid particles will rest at the bottom.

Reading Music.

The literary man, writes a correspondent, may very well, when he is lying on his back, console himself with literature. But what is the scientific man, with no particular interest in literature, to do? A certain professor of my acquaintance once got through a month of painful convalescence by the aid of another kind of reading. He read through the scores of his favorite composers. He had no ear for the rhythms of literature, but a fine ear for the rhythms of music, and he assured me that he heard the music as he read the scores. He said that during that month he really came to understand Beethoven and that no performance of his work ever satisfied him afterward.—London Spectator.

A Bit of Blarney.

An Irishman who was begging in the street was asked by a lady how it was that such a fine, strong man as he should be asking for alms. With native blarney he replied:

"Lady, begging is the only profession I know in which a gentleman can address a beautiful woman without having an introduction."

The remark was quite profitable.—London Answers.

Moss Bread.

Along the shores of the Columbia river a kind of bread is made by the Indians from a moss that grows on the spruce fir tree. This moss is prepared by placing it in heaps, sprinkling it with water and permitting it to ferment. Then it is rolled into balls as big as a man's head, and these are baked in pits.

His Standard.

Young Bride (to waiter)—Waiter, my husband has been here very frequently lately. I hope he's all right, eh? Waiter—Oh, yes; he never has more than three glasses of beer. If he were not happy he'd surely drink six.—Fliegende Blatter.

Friendship is a strong and habitual inclination of two persons to promote the good and happiness of each other.—Meredith.

Worse Than He Thought.

"Now, don't tell me any story about misfortune and wanting to be a hard worker and all that," said a woman severely to a beggar. "I can see through you."

"Gracious," exclaimed the mendicant, "I know I ain't 'ad nuffin' to eat for three days, but I didn't know it had thinned me like that!"—London Mail.

The Maid's Excuse.

Pearl—I am shocked at you! The idea of flirting with a perfect stranger!

Ruby—But, dear, he isn't a perfect stranger. If he were perfect he wouldn't flirt.

Making It Easy.

Chimmie—I told the boss I'd quit this elevator boy job unless he made it easier.

Jimmie—What do you want him to do?

Chimmie—Just put on an arrangement so that the elevator will stay still and the floors will run up and down in front of it.

"Now, Arthur," said his father, "you've been going to school long enough to write decently. Don't you know how to make a figure 3?"

"Sure!" said the boy. "You put your pencil on the paper and then you shiver."

An Astonishing Invention.

Perhaps one of the most astonishing inventions on record was the device of a Frenchman who suggested the laying down of huge suction tubes from the coast out to various points in the open sea. When war broke out and hostile fleets approached the coast, machinery on shore would be set to work, the enemy's vessels would be caught by the irresistible suction, drawn to the ends of the tubes and there held firmly as prisoners. The one essential part of this idea which seemed to be missing was the machinery which was going to draw a 25,000 ton warship backward with its engines going at "full steam ahead."

For the Common Good.

Town planning, let it be understood, is not a movement to make towns beautiful in a superficial sense. Its purposes are fundamental. It aims consciously to provide those facilities that are for the common good, that concern everybody; it seeks to save waste, the almost incalculable waste due to unskillful and planless procedure, for by doing of things at the right time and in the right way comprehensive city planning saves far more than its cost. It endeavors also to establish the individuality of a city—to catch its peculiar spirit, to preserve its distinctive flavor, to accent its particular physical situation.—John Nolan.

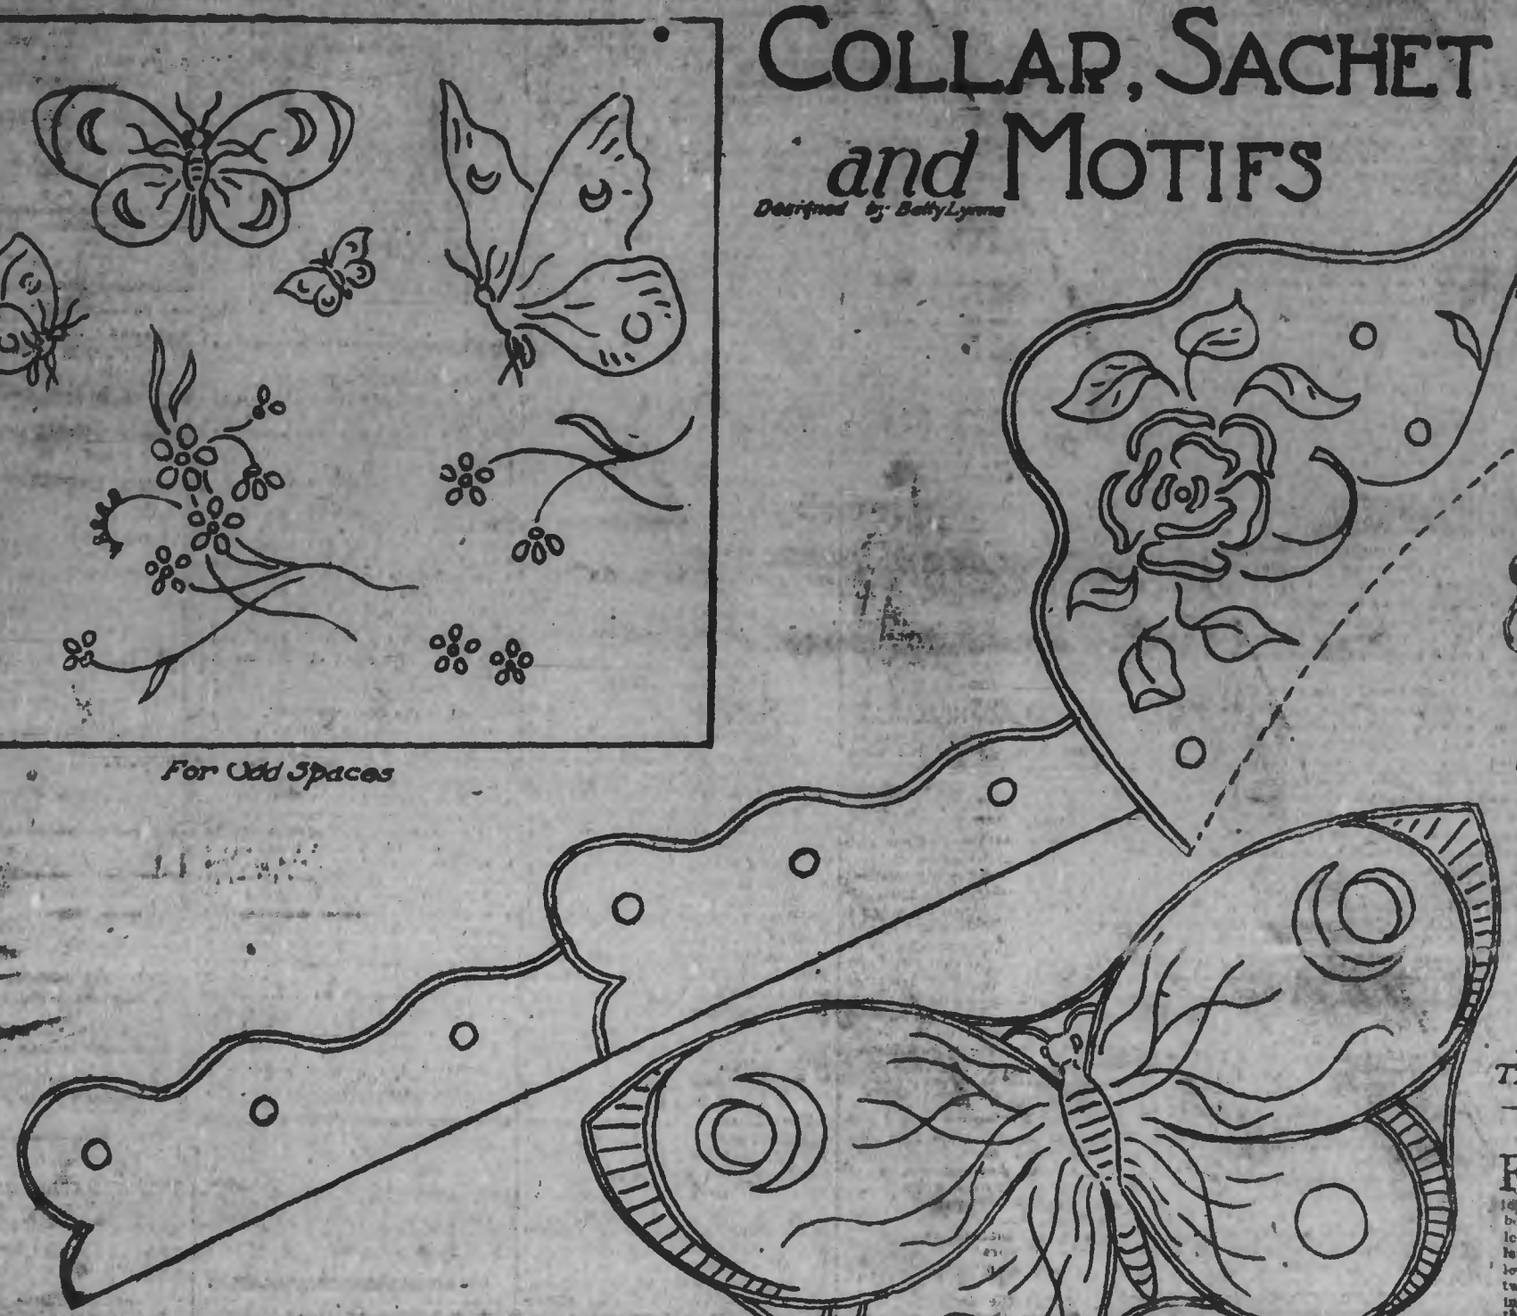
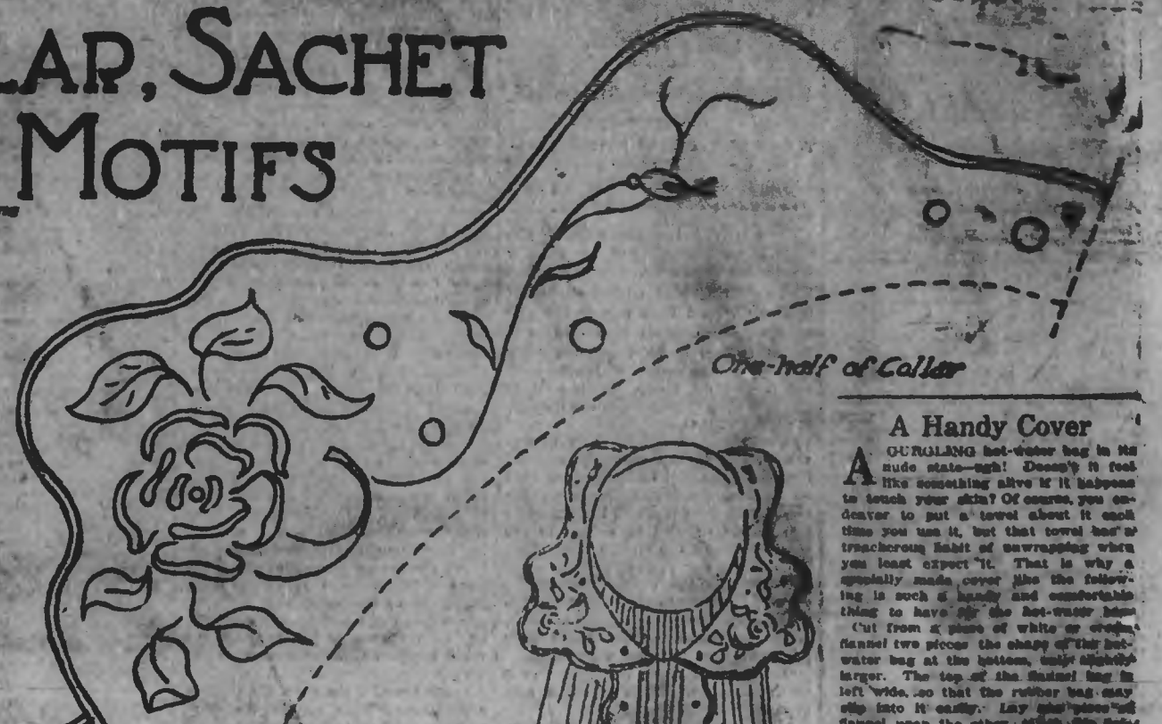
COLLAR, SACHET and MOTIFS

Designed by Betty Lyons

For Odd Spaces



Top of Sachet



One-half of Collar

The Finished Collar

We come now to that interesting part of the calendar that suggests the gift-giving season, I have chosen these designs to give your busy fingers something to do that I am sure will bring pleasing results.

There is a simple little collar with a double vest effect, as shown in the little sketch. This can be made doubly beautiful by adding a frill of fine net, which is an extension of the upper shirred chemisette that flits in the tops in a new way. One half of the collar is shown, and when tracing the design, fold the material on its length and match the line of the middle back of the collar with the fold of the pencil. After tracing the design according to directions on the page, select a soft mercerised thread and pad the petals of the flowers with a few strands. Work them in the opposite direction, across the narrow crescents in solid stitch. The leaves should be worked in solid stitch after eight padding or done in the French way, which is a combination of solid and seed stitches. This is done by making a middle vein of outline stitches and working from this out toward the edge in parallel lines. The other side of the leaf is outlined and filled in with small stitches in parallel rows, the ordinary backstitch being used.

Make outlining suggest the stems and work the slender leaves in solid stitch. The circular dots can be done in solid work or the eyelet stitch that will give contrast to the solid design on the rest of the collar. The edge should be padded and then buttonholed, and a charming finish can be given to it by adding a frill of net that will match the rest of the lacy addition.

To the curved edge of the collar sew a narrow straight band so that the collar can be attached to a blouse without fear of its slipping. Let me insist that you add the net or lace to this design; it gives a smartness that is characteristic of the underwear this season and will make your collar doubly distinctive.

Have you ever reveled in sachet bags that give an indefinite scent to your clothes? These little things can be hidden away in the shirtwaist box or bureau drawers and somewhere else. Many women are tucking them inside their blouses and are taking their favorite perfume out with them. The butterfly sachet is to be embroidered on the upper side and made of a fine linen so that the scent of the powder can escape.

Two pieces of the linen should be cut in butterfly form, and one reserved for the last touch. On the marked one you will embroider the design in quick stitches. The crescent shapes should be worked in solid stitch. You can use a delicate color for this little gift. At the edges of the wings there are inner curves, which should be buttonholed. From this edge make the radiating lines in single stitches. Outline the curved lines that bring them to the body, and work the body in solid sections or in outline stitches across. Place the two butterflies together and buttonhole around the edges, leaving a small piece open, so that the cotton and sachet can be inserted. Make a china silk case for these, and when they are in their place, tie the top of the holder with narrow baby ribbon, ending in a full rosette. A pretty variation is the cutting out of the circles over the wings and, after working them in eyelet stitch, making the spokes of a wheel with crossed threads that can be caught together in the center. This will give a glimpse of a colored case underneath. This gift, with your good wishes, will cost a song, and I am sure that the recipient will think of you many times with sweet recollections.

In the square there are suggestions for decorating little spaces on underwear, baby garments and little gifts that need the touch of handwork to give them value that every one appreciates. The small butterflies form an effective decoration on underwear, and when grouped in a careless fashion, with a few sprays to connect them, they make the decorated piece look as if it had come from France.

Little powder bags can be made of circular pieces of silk scalloped on the edges and drawn up on a drawstring. A simple decoration of a butterfly or a spray of flowers in color will make you glad that you are a needlewoman, with the opportunity to put your cleverness to the test.

I know a little woman who last year made every one of the gifts for her friends. They were little things, but each had a touch of the maker on it, and handwork gave all an individuality that made the gifts priceless. Surely, I have taken old Father Time by the forelock for you, and it only remains for you to hold him.

A Handy Cover

A GURGLING hot-water bag in the nude state—ugh! Doesn't it feel like something alive if it happens to touch your skin? Of course, you endeavor to put a towel about it each time you use it, but that towel has a treacherous habit of unwrapping when you least expect it. That is why a specially made cover like the following is such a handy and comfortable thing to have for the hot-water bag.

Cut from a piece of white or cream flannel two pieces the shape of the hot-water bag at the bottom, quite slightly larger. The top of the flannel bag is left wide, so that the rubber bag may slip into it easily. Lay one piece of flannel upon the other, joining the bottom and sides up by machining with a third the seam thus formed with a white silk or linen thread.

The top of the bag should have a narrow casing stitched about it, and about two inches from the edge through which a drawing string of the same is run to draw the bag down to the neck of the bottle. The casing may be hemmed or scalloped or ornamented with fine embroidery. The bag is now ready to receive the hot-water bag. It is, of course, understood that such a bag will be of more harm than convenience if not kept strictly clean. Being of white flannel, it is easily laundered.

How to Transfer

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a soft lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and retrace the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is easy.

Dainty Garters

FROM a strip of colored silk elastic or elastic of plain white cotton cut two pieces of the proper length to make a garter each. The elastic should be about an inch wide. Now from a length of inch-wide ribbon cut four lengths, each two and a half times as long as the elastic in each garter. Place two of these strips together, wrong sides in, and instead of stitching them, fasten them together with a row of French knots about an eighth of an inch from each edge. After the elastic is run through the ribbon, overcast it together and whip a tiny seam. Over the joining put a many-looped bow combining a knot in each loop.

A Dahlia Runner

NOW is the time—if you haven't been doing it for some weeks past—to begin making Christmas gifts with the needle. How about a dahlia runner for one of your in-laws? It is just the thing for a library table. Before beginning work on the runner, however, it is well to ascertain whether or not the rich dahlia red will be in harmony with the color scheme of the room for which it is intended. Red dahlias on an ecru or leaf brown ground are very effective, and they also show up well on green. A heavy linen in any of these shades will be suitable for the runner. In-laws are forever having birthdays and anniversaries, making it most convenient for you to add new and then a pillow top, tabouret cover, cushion tops or the like to make a complete set for the living room, or library in which the runner is to "reside."

Boas

BOAS are again being worn in Paris. Ostrich boas tend. They are very short, and to be chic must be worn close to the neck. Never are they allowed to slip back upon the shoulders. They fasten at one side, with two short ends of the boa falling one below the other.

Embroidered Vests

THE fashion of vests for women has come to stay for the fall and winter at least. At first it was thought to be a passing fad, but it is now being adopted by well-dressed women of conservative tastes. Many of the vests are beautifully embroidered, while others need no further ornamentation than that furnished by the pattern of the handsome brocades from which they are fashioned.

But to come back to the embroidered ones—they can be of silk, satin, velvet or any other rich material, embroidered in tones that will harmonize with the suit with which the gown is to be worn. Very practical and chic are the washable vests of white pique embroidered in white or colors. They may be ornate or simple, according to the amount of time one has to devote to the making. A flower design is better for vests than a strictly conventional design. The edges of the vest may be plain or scalloped, and either crocheted or embroidered, or pearl buttons are suitable.

Chantilly Lace

NOW is the time to bring forth from the chest the chantilly lace so treasured by our grandmothers. It is in the height of fashion and the possessor of chantilly heirlooms are fortunate indeed.

SHOWER GIFTS FOR THE BRIDE

THERE are kitchen showers, linen showers and several other kinds of specific showers for the bride, but the "hope chest shower" gives more scope for imagination and variety—it is so inclusive.

Particularly easy to make are some of the small dainty trifles to fill the hope chest's corners. There is the small sewing bag, whose pasteboard bottom is not more than five inches square, just the size bag to use on the porch for a bit o' mending. The bag can, of course, be made in any color you wish, but we will assume that you have decided upon pale blue pompadour silk. You will need three-quarters of a yard of pompadour ribbon, about seven inches wide, for the upper part of the bag, and about eleven inches for covering the pasteboard bottom, making a yard and two inches. From a piece of cardboard cut two squares five inches in diameter. Place between them a layer or two of thick flannel (the flannel is to keep the pins from rusting) and bind together temporarily with white thread, crossed in the middle and tied, unless the cardboard will allow the needle to go through easily. In this event bind the cardboards and flannel together. Take the eleven inches of ribbon reserved for the purpose and cut from it two squares of silk 5½ inches in diameter. Turn them in a quarter of an inch around the edges and cover the cardboard with them, one on the top and one on the bottom, turned-in edges against the cardboard. Lap overcast the two silk squares together on all four sides. Now take the remaining twenty-four inches of ribbon and run a narrow casing for the drawstring about the top. This casing can be made by piecing together strips cut from the top part of the ribbon which remained after the two 5½-inch squares were cut.

After the casing has been stitched on about an inch from the top (the selvage edges sewed with the need of a hem) join the two ends of the ribbon in a seam. Next run a row of shirring about the bottom as close to the selvage as it is possible to get without running off the edge. Use a double thread, so that it will not break when you are adjusting the bag to its cardboard bottom. Leave a long knotted end to the shirring thread, so that the gathers may be scattered evenly. Turn the bag inside out and whip the extreme edge firmly to the edges of the silk-covered bottom. Turn the bag on the right side, run a pale blue silk cord through the casing, and the bag is outwardly complete. Inside, there are to be a needle-book, thimble (of silver or aluminum), spools of black and white cotton, small scissors and an emery bag. Five inches of the ribbon cut in half will make the needlebook, with its leaves of flannel. Stick black and white pins about the sides of the bottom.

The lace cushion is far less troublesome. Buy two of these little squares in net and make a small pillowcase of them by placing one upon the other and stitching them together on three sides, leaving an opening at one end. This row of stitching joining the squares should be about 1½ inches in from the edge, so that the outer edge will form a straight ruffle. Slip into the little pillowcase thus made one of those fat satin pincushions sold in any art needlework store, and your cushion for the end of the case. Make rosettes of ribbon to match the cushion and fasten them at the four corners.

The lingerie ribbon spool is a useful trifle and is not difficult to make. If the ribbon on the spool is to be white, either pink, blue or white may be used for the little holder. The sheets on the ends are made of disks of cardboard covered with silk or ribbon fastened to the center. The lingerie ribbon may be bought on a large spool or bought in a paper roll and rewrapped on a large wooden spool.

The silk-covered disks are kept close to the spool by tiny ribbon and chiffon flowers, wreathing the spindle upon which the spool revolves as the ribbon is unwound. Narrow ribbon to match the silk disks is tied to each end of the spindle at the bottom and tied in a bow at the top, making a hanger about six inches in length. A small ribbon runs through the loops of the bow. Tied to the end of the lingerie ribbon is an ivory or a pearl bobbin. The small knobs on the ends can be obtained from an old desk, couch or an old wicker chair with tiny wooden knobs. Better still, if there is a man or boy about the house who can whittle—and what masculine creature doesn't love it?—have him whittle a small stick to go through the spool, with a knob at one end. Then get him to whittle a separate knob with a tiny cavity in it for the other end. Complete the ribbonholder all but the small knob and then glue the knob to its end of the spindle. The knobs and spindle should be gilded before being put through the spool.

The dainty apron, with its reproduction of the romantic forget-me-not, will become in any girl's chest. Any one with a "straight eye" can mark out the little scalloped pattern with a pencil and ruler, but a professional stamper must be called upon to stamp the forget-me-nots and hearts, unless one has a talent for drawing. Work the flowers in blue mercerized thread and yellow cotton, and the foliage in green. The hearts are in white punched work. The whole apron may be done in white if white is preferred. A narrow valenciennes edge surrounds the scallops, and insertion to match forms the band. Bobbon bows, with streamers to make the strings, are fastened to each end of the band. The ribbon is also run through the insertion band.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A NEW MATRIMONIAL SOCIETY

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Between the mountains of India and Persia there is a tribe among whom the women choose their husbands. When a single woman wishes to marry a man she sends a servant to his house to pin a handkerchief to his hat as an intimation of her desire. Unless he can show that he is too poor to purchase her at the price her father requires he is obliged to marry her.

Until the organization of the Arlington club for men there was no superfluity of spinsters over bachelors in a certain American town, but from then on marriages began to fall off. One of the most popular married women called the maidens together and organized an association for the advancement of matrimony based on the Indian-Persian plan. The first young lady to secure a husband by the method was invited to state before the association how it had worked in her case. She arose and said:

"Mrs. President, I had long admired Mr. George Luddington, who had paid me some attention, and had it not been for the organization of the Arlington club I believe he would have asked me to be his wife. But that pestiferous institution reduced him from an inclpient lover to a vacillating hanger on. Soon after the adoption of the plan which we are associated to carry out I worked Mr. Luddington's initials on a fine cambric handkerchief and, calling a messenger, told him to take it to the club at the hour I knew Mr. Luddington dined there, obtain access to the coat room and pin it to his hat.

"The messenger had no difficulty in executing his commission. I did not know for some time that Mr. Luddington knew from whom the token came. I have since learned that he knew very well, and the action he took in the matter was intended to frighten me off. A few evenings after receiving the handkerchief he called on me, and I saw at a glance that he was or pretended to be very irate.

"'What do you suppose has happened to me?' he asked brusquely.

"'I can't imagine,' I replied meekly.

"'An association has been formed in this town—so I understand—to drive us bachelors into matrimony. If a girl wishes to marry a man she sends some one to pin a handkerchief to his hat. Did you ever hear of such immodest impudence?'

"'Never in my life.'

"'You must excuse me, ladies, for my weakness, but he frightened me out of my wits.

"'Who do you suppose this person is?' he growled.

"'I can't imagine,' I replied.

"'Don't you think her very unmaidenly?' he asked in a less threatening tone, for my agreeing with him rendered him less severe to me.

"'I certainly do. I wonder how she could have had the face to do it?'

"I shrank into a corner of a sofa, as far away from him as I could get. He sat down on the other end and looked at me kind of puzzled. He knew I had sent him the handkerchief and couldn't understand how I could condemn myself for doing it. He looked very terrible, but not quite so terrible as when he first came. Then he began a system of torture to find out what it all meant.

"'The handkerchief,' he said, 'was very dainty, though the initials were badly worked. They looked as if they had been executed by some one with fingers so big that they were only fitted to work with a skewer.'

"At this I said nothing. I dared not speak for fear of betraying a tremole in my voice.

"'If a girl,' he went on, 'had sent me a gift without an immodest intention I should have been deeply impressed with it. Quite likely I would have been affected to the point of making love to her and proposing marriage.'"

This statement was received with cries of "No!" "Don't you believe it!" "They all talk that way, but they don't suppose!" When the commotion subsided the speaker went on with her recital:

"'But for a girl deliberately to tell a man she wants him to marry her, thus usurping his privilege, there's nothing she could do to so effectually turn him'—

"He got no further. I was full to the top of my throat. I made several convulsive gulps and burst into a torrent of tears.

"I don't know what he was doing for a few moments, for I held my handkerchief to my face. I heard nothing, but presently felt his arm around my waist. Then he drew my head down on his breast.

"'If the foul killer comes this way,' he said, with his lips pressed against my cheek, 'he'll yank me out, certain sure. Don't cry, little girl. Dear little girl, forgive me! I've loved you ever since'"—

Again there were cries of unbelief. "Oh, bosh!" "What a whopper!" and such like expressions of disapproval, whereupon the speaker indignantly turned her back on the assembly and with her nose in the air marched out of the room.

"Ladies," said the president severely, "I'm astonished at you. This society was organized to promote marriage, not to destroy romance. To doubt the word of a lover who says he has always loved the girl to whom he proposes would be to destroy nine-tenths of the delight attending such occasions."

Regularity
of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. Salts and other harsh mineral purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills—entirely vegetable—regulate the bowels effectively without weakening, sickening or griping. Use

Outreasoning Reason.

Little Raymond's mother had told him that she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her command in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother proceeded to fulfill her duty sobs of anguish filled the room.

"But, Raymond," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know."

Between muffled sobs Raymond managed to say, "You needn't break your word, mamma, but couldn't you change your mind?"

Forces a Discharge.

"The Japanese servant has many curious traits," said the man who keeps one, "besides his constant habit of eating raw fish, but he is inordinately polite, as a rule. For instance, he never will give you notice that he wishes to leave you. Instead his work will grow steadily worse and worse till you can't stand it any longer, and so you fire him. It's always done purposely to avoid the necessity of telling you outright that he is tired of you and wants to quit."

Friend—Indeed, I do.

Amateur (with vainglorious mien) —May I so far infringe on modesty as to ask his name?

Friend — Certainly. His name is Shakespeare, and I heartily congratulate him on his unavoidable absence Potential Incentive.

Annie Louise Cary

And Her Favourite "Robin Adair"

The indisputable queen of song in her day was Annie Louise Cary. She was one of the world's famous contraltos when she retired from the operatic stage at the very height of her career in opera. She retained the sweet, wholesome characteristics of the American girl all during her musical triumphs. She made her debut in Copenhagen, although she studied in Milan. For three years she delighted European audiences before making her appearance in America. For over twelve years, with the exception of a brief European tour, she delighted American audiences with the charms of her voice and personality. But to hear her sing "Robin Adair," that simple old song, and that masterpiece of Arthur Sullivan's "The Lost Chord," and Longfellow's "The Day is Done," with the rich tones of the happy, good-natured personality that always charmed, she always left the audience breathless and spellbound.

"Robin Adair," "The Lost Chord," and many other favourites of Cary, are to be found in "Heart Songs," now being distributed to the readers of this paper. See Coupon elsewhere in this issue for terms.

There was such a demand for the Heart Songs that we had to discontinue inserting the coupon. We have now on hand a further supply, and the coupon will run for two weeks. If you desire a copy, save the coupons and together with 98c. you will get a $3.00 book.

LONDON, July 17—After a lecture at the Occult Club Wednesday night on "Psychic Experience," a woman speaker referred to a reported strange behavior of the ship's cat of the liner Empress of Ireland.

When the vessel was about to leave Quebec for the last time, she said the cat came hurrying down the gangway, bearing two of her kittens in her mouth. Efforts were made to get her to return, but nothing would persuade her to go back.

WHAT THIN FOLKS SHOULD DO TO GAIN WEIGHT

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rubber creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. Leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

AMENDMENTS IMPOSSIBLE.

Government Must Restore Amending Bill Says O'Connor.

LONDON, July 17.—Dealing with the amendments to the amending bill by the House of Lords in Reynolds' Newspaper this week, T. P. O'Connor says that there remains only one course for the Government to follow. The amending bill is to be put back to its original shape so far as the area of Ulster is concerned. Each county is to have its full right by its majority either to exclude itself or to the Irish Parliament are to be restored those inalienable rights of every self-governing country of the appointment of its judiciary and the control of its policy.

"But I would close no doors if the Orange leaders will substitute for these impossible demands other claims which are reasonable and fair to both sides," he says: "Then they will be considered, for there is an passionate and honest desire among Irish Nationalists to settle this question peacefully as there is in any body of politicians to-day."

William Redmond stated at Tottenham last night that the demand for the total exclusion of Ulster had never been seriously made. The demand for Ulster's total exclusion was made because the Lords knew that it could not be accepted and because they were out, not for peace, but for war. The original Home Rule bill, which will become law in a few weeks, provides ample safeguarding for the people of every part of Ireland.

BELFAST BOYCOTTED.

Ulster Merchants Get First Taste of Nationalist Displeasure.

LONDON, July 17. — A manifesto signed by two magistrates, county councillors, and the principal Nationalist traders of Carrick-on-Shannon, has been issued, in which it is stated that the merchants and traders of this important commercial centre have unanimously decided to sever all connections with Belfast merchants if Ulster persists in her attitude of opposition to the Home Rule bill.

The decision has caused much discussion among trading circles in the west, as a big trade is transacted with Belfast, both in banking and commercially.

Carrick-on-Shannon is the capital of Leitrim, in which country every parish has its company of volunteers.

This ultimatum to Ulster is being taken up in nearly every town in Leitrim and Roscommon, and commercial travelers from the north are already finding it difficult at present to secure orders.

C. N. R. Will Have To Take Care of Its Temporary Loans.

OTTAWA, July 17. — In a statement issued by the Minister of Finance yesterday, the Canadian Northern trust deed executed Wednesday is briefly explained. By the mortgage the company is empowered to float bonds, guaranteed by the Government to the extent of forty-five million dollars. In return for this the Government receives thirty-three millions of the common stock of the company, which is deposited in the treasury in trust for the people, and which, added to the seven millions given last year, makes forty millions of common stock.

The statement declares that Mackenzie & Mann shall be responsible for the temporary loans of the company, amounting to some twenty millions. It is also provided that the company shall not increase its capital stock without the consent of the governor-in-council. In addition the time and price at which the bonds shall be offered are to be approved by the Minister of Finance.

AVIATORS DESTROY FORT.

Moroccan Stronghold Had Been Considered Inaccessible.

PARIS, July 17.—How two military aeroplanes destroyed with bombs the inaccessible mountain stronghold of the Rita tribesmen in the Taza region of Morocco is described in despatches which have just been received here. The attacking parties carried four bombs each. They speedily discovered the hiding place and dropped the bombs with such precision that the camp was destroyed, many tribesmen being killed. The aviators then made maps showing the position of the fastness, which enabled Gen. Gouraud to round up the natives who had escaped death by the bombs.

Fashion.

There exists a strict relation between class of power and the exclusive and polished circles. The last are always filled or filling from the first. Fashion, though in a strange way, represents all manly virtue. It is virtue gone to seed, a kind of posthumous honor, a hall of the past. Great men are not commonly in its halls. They are absent in the fields; they are working, not triumphing. Fashion is made up of their children. —Emerson.

One Point Gained.

"Has that girl next door to you still got her parlor melodeon?"

"No; she exchanged it for a cornet, I'm glad to say."

"But, gracious, if she plays the cornet, that's worse, isn't it?"

"Not at all. It's only half as bad. She can't sing while she's playing the cornet."

Happiness.

A happiness that is quite undisturbed becomes tiresome; we must have ups and downs.—Moliere.

NOTHING LIKE IT FOR COLDS

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N.B., writes: Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of severe colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for colds and throat trouble, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take, my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted."

Peculiarity of Snow.

The water which will allay our burning thirst augments it when congealed into snow, so that it is stated by explorers of the Arctic regions that the natives "prefer enduring the greatest extremity of thirst rather than allay it by eating snow." Yet if the snow be melted it becomes drinkable water. Nevertheless, although if melted before entering the mouth it assuages thirst like other water, when melted in the mouth it has the opposite effect. To render this paradox more striking we have only to remember that ice, which melts more slowly in the mouth, is very efficient in allaying thirst.

The Diving Bell.

The celebrated philosopher Aristotle speaks of a diving bell which was put over the head of the diver, but there is no proof of the use of the bell in ancient times. John Jeoner, who lived in the early part of the sixteenth century, makes the earliest mention of the practical use of the diving bell in Europe. In all probability the first real practical use of the diving bell was in the attempt at rescuing the treasures of the Spanish armada off the English coast, 1588 and on.

SOME CHOICE RECIPES.

Jellied Meat Salad.

Make a scant pint of unsweetened lemon gelatine jelly. In making it, steep a sprig or two of fresh bruised mint in boiling water for a few minutes before pouring the water over the gelatine. When the jelly is cold enough to begin to thicken, add a pint or more of cold boiled or roast mutton, free from fat, and cut in dice. Decorate a wet mould with tiny new boiled carrots and pickles or olives, cut and shaped according to fancy, turn in the meat mixture and set in the ice chest to harden. Serve as a salad with a good mayonnaise and fresh lettuce or cress.

FRUIT BLANCMANGE.

Stew fresh cherries or raspberries, strain off the juice and sweeten to taste. Place it over the fire in a double boiler until steaming hot, then add some cornstarch wet in cold water, allowing two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch to every pint of juice. Continue to stir until it is thick and clear like jelly, then pour into moulds wet with cold water, and set on ice to chill. Serve with cream and sugar. This makes a refreshing breakfast dish and serves as both fruit and cereal.

DOUBLE DROWNING IN THE OTONABEE RIVER

Chas. Bergoine and Austin O'Toole Met Death Near T.A.S. Park When Canoe Capsized — Companion Reached Shore in Safety.

BOTH BODIES RECOVERED

Before the eyes of a crowd of people which lined the banks near the scene of the accident and in the presence of a small fleet of launches and small boats, two local young men, Charles Bergoine and Austin O'Toole lost their lives by drowning yesterday afternoon. The double fatality occurred just a little over a hundred yards from the wharf at T. A. S. Park, about half-past three o'clock. The companion of the two young men who lost their lives when their canoe upset, Elmer Fowler, escaped death by swimming to shore.

Fowler, who was in the canoe with the deceased young men, told the Examiner the story of the accident as he remembered it. He said that about 1 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, the three young men left the boathouse at the end of Dalhousie Street for the Merchants' Picnic. About half-past three they reached the turn just above the picnic grounds, with Bergoine steering, Fowler in the front and O'Toole in the centre. The three of them were all seated pretty well back in the canoe and were not very careful to keep the dangerous little craft balanced. The result was that the waves from a passing launch overturned the canoe and precipitated the three occupants into the water.

When the canoe capsized it was slightly nearer the east bank of the river, which Fowler made for when he came to the surface. Looking back he saw that Bergoine had caught hold of the canoe and that O'Toole was trying to keep himself afloat by holding to Bergoine. Fowler swam to the shore and when he reached it he turned around and could see nothing of his companions. Boats at once made for the place where the two young men had gone down, but they did not come to the surface and all efforts to rescue them were in vain. According to Fowler neither of the two young men were good swimmers and it is thought that the weight of their clothes pulled them under water.

In their struggle for life Bergoine and O'Toole had brought the canoe over much nearer the east bank of the river, and when the bodies were recovered, an hour later, by searchers they were within ten or fifteen feet of the shore. Eye witnesses of the terrible occurrence say that as soon as the two youths went under water the small boats nearby rushed to their assistance, but they didn't come to the surface of the water and could not be saved.

A party of swimmers and other searchers tried to locate the young men, but were unable to do so until an hour after the accident, when within twenty minutes of each other, the two bodies were found in about fifteen feet of water, not far from the east bank of the river and near where they were last seen. Mr. Vinette recovered the body of Austin O'Toole, about an hour after the accident, and shortly afterwards Bergoine's body was found. They were taken to Comstock's Undertaking Rooms, where they remained last night. The canoe that the young men were in was the property of O'Toole's brother, Michael O'Toole.

Austin O'Toole was sixteen years of age and the son of Mr. Wm. O'Toole, 97 Hunter Street. Charles Bergoine was the son of Mr. Charles Bergoine, 514 Water Street.

The funeral of the late Austin O'Toole will take place Sunday afternoon from the family residence, 97 Hunter street to St. Peter's cemetery. Deceased is survived by seven brothers, Michael, Patrick, Vincent, Joseph, Edward, of this city; William, of Pittsburg, and Stephen, of Echo Bay, and one sister, Mary, of Peterborough. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Toole, also survive him.

The funeral of the late Chas. Bergoine will be held to-morrow afternoon from the family residence, 514 Water street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

MANY ARE INJURED

Special to The Examiner:

"COUNT DISCOUNT"

Is Surely in Reduced Circumstances at Grafton's Now.

The "Count" is a creature of quality. He comes from fine stock, but he is in reduced circumstances now. It would be hard to find another discount sale where the reductions mean as much quality for as little money as "Count Discount" typifies here. Grafton & Co. claim that their clothes were worth in real value more than the original prices earlier in the season. During this sale when they give you a 25 per cent. reduction, you are certainly sure of the greatest values in high class merchandise. Read over the reduced prices quoted in the advertisement on the sporting page of this issue and take into consideration that the goodness in quality, make and style of the items, make them 25 per cent. better than present prices. They were abundant values before reduction, they're overflow bargains now.

WILL TOUR BUSINESS COLLEGES

The Walkerton Business College having closed on Friday last for a six weeks' vacation, the principal, Mr. P. J. Moloney, left on Tuesday for Wingham, prior to taking a position for the holidays as travelling representative for the Spotton chain of Business Colleges. He will also make a tour of inspection of the colleges at Saginaw, Mich.; Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and other American points for the purpose of studying the improved methods of the most up-to-date colleges on the continent. Mr. Moloney will again report for duty here on August 15th.—Walkerton-Bruce Herald and Times.

NOT UNLIKE HIS LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE

Henry Ford, whose automobile of eighteen years ago was jeeringly called "Ford's Folly," has risen from the position of a farmer's boy to the head of an institution employing 15,250 workers, and is said to pay the third largest income tax of any man in the world. He was born on a farm in Michigan, near Detroit, early deserted school, and for several years did farm work of all kinds. He had a fondness for machinery, however, and going to Detroit, he was employed as assistant engineer at the Edison Illuminating Company's plant. There he built the first gasoline engine, of which he had long dreamed. Finally he began the manufacture of automobiles, and his factory now turns out 1,000 finished machines daily. He is a man of modest desires, is an extreme lover of nature.

Douro Resident Dropped Dead

Mr. Edward Kemp Died Suddenly From Heart Failure While At Work Yesterday.

Edward Kemp, 56 years of age, a well-known and highly respected resident of Douro, dropped dead while working on his farm in that township yesterday afternoon. Two weeks ago while in this city Mr. Kemp suffered a severe sunstroke, which it is thought weakened his heart, and was responsible in a great measure for his sudden death by heart failure yesterday. Although warned not to do any strenuous work he was so anxious to get the crop of hay in, that yesterday he helped load it in the fields not far from the house. It was while on top of the load of hay that he was taken with the fatal attack yesterday.

He is survived by an aged mother, his wife, four brothers, John and William, of Peterborough, Lance and Tom, of Douro, and two sisters.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Cool Weather For To-Morrow

The Hot Wave Has Caused Intense Suffering Throughout The Province.

SLEEP IN THE PARKS

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, July 17.—The terrific heat wave and heavy humidity is causing intense suffering in the crowded districts of Toronto and other big Ontario cities. In some sections here it is said that from fifteen to thirty people were living in houses built to accommodate four or five. Last night all moved out into the street and pavement. The parks and sidewalks were covered with human beings in all degrees of negligees to get relief from the frightful heat. From fretful sleep many little children are in a serious condition and the mortality rate is high. Cooler weather in most parts of Ontario is promised for to-morrow.

ONCE FAMOUS BEAUTY DIED IN OBSCURE GARRET

Fifteen Years Ago This American Girl Was Considered Most Beautiful in Paris.

PARIS, July 17.—Alice Norton, an American who, fifteen years ago was one of the best known figures in the restaurant and boulevard life of Paris, and was equally well known in New York, died last week in a Montmartre garret from starvation.

A few months ago she disappeared from her old haunts, and nobody knew of her straits until, a few days before she died, she sent word to Mme. Miskinoff (Mrs. Jackson Gouraud), who visited her and was with her when she died and buried her.

Miss Norton was once reported to be engaged to Newton Eustis, the son of the then American Minister in Paris. She was considered the most beautiful woman here. She possessed two magnificent boar hounds that followed her in her daily promenades in the boulevards and sat with with her at a famous cafe near the Madeleine, where she always lunched.

She retained her beauty to the end. Her tall, slender figure and grey hair were familiar in American restaurants, where in later years she usually called only for the purpose of discovering some acquaintance of her more prosperous era from whom she might obtain a loan.

Six months ago an arrangement was made through the American Church to send her to friends in America, and a steamship ticket was furnished, which she refused, saying that she would not let her home folk know the poverty which into she had fallen.

She later attempted to found a bureau for American shoppers, for the purpose of giving advice concerning dress and purchases in the Rue de la Paix, but failed to find backing for the undertaking.

WATER AND RAIL TRIP.

If you would like to enjoy an all-day-on-the-lakes trip, take in the excursion to Lindsay on Monday, July 20th, via steamer "Stoney Lake." The sail is over the scenic waters of Kawartha Lakes, to Lindsay, and home by G. T. R. "Eye" scenic evening. Round trip tickets only $1.00. Meals on board.

THE PEOPLE'S PICNIC WAS SPLENDID SUCCESS

Annual Outing of The Retail Merchants Association to T.A.S. Park Yesterday Was Largely Attended

LIST OF PRIZEWINNERS

Very nearly three thousand people attended the People's Picnic held yesterday under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association at T. A. S. Park. The merchants proved ideal hosts and proved conclusively that their attitude of courtesy and friendliness to their many customers is not merely assumed in their stores for trade purposes, but is the result of their genial and social dispositions. From early in the afternoon till well on into the evening the steamers Stoney Lake and Rainbow plied between the picnic grounds and the City, carrying boatload after boatload of excursionists eager to partake of some of the fun that had been promised for the day, and it is safe to say, that not one of them was disappointed.

The steamer service was excellent and speaks well for the owners and crews of the boats and for the judgment of the Merchants' Retail Association. Although, in the busiest part of the afternoon the crowds flocking to the Park could not be taken aboard and transhipped as rapidly as they wished, that considering the numbers, would have been an impossible task without a fleet of steamers, or other craft. A large number of those who spent the day or part of it at the picnic, paddled, rowed, or went in their launches to the Park. Others motored, or drove by land, and the Association under whose auspices the greatest picnic of the season has been held, are to be congratulated on the very large number present. Only one accident, and that, unfortunately, a very regrettable one, occurred to mar the pleasure of the afternoon. That was the double drowning in which Chas. O'Toole and Austin Bergoine met their deaths. The news of the accident did not spread very fast and it was not until well on in the day that it became generally known that a double drowning had taken place within a few yards of the grounds. For that reason the accident did not cast a dampering gloom over the very large number of people who had marked yesterday for a holiday.

Shortly after noon the T. A. S. Park took the semblance of an animated beauty spot and before six o'clock upwards of two thousand picnickers occupied the Park. The white frocks of the hundreds of the fair sex present, the beautiful foliage of the trees and the green grass all blended beautifully, to make the scene a brilliant one. The crowds lined the banks of the river, and the launches, canoes, skiffs, etc., that patrolled the shore all added to the brightness and liveliness of the picture. While owing to the extreme heat and the counter attraction of the ball game, the crowd was very slightly less than last year. It must be said that the number of small craft present, which add so much to the life of the aquatic sports, was larger than ever before. The races, too, were all so keenly contested as possible, and provided an unusual amount of excitement for the competitors and the spectators. The events, whether on land or on shore, were properly conducted and judged, and hardly a contestant was dissatisfied with any of the numerous close decisions of those in charge.

Owing to the fact that the members of the Committee in charge of

Funeral Of Mrs. Watson

The funeral of Cornelia Watson, wife of the late John Watson, took place from the family residence, McGill Street, on Wednesday, to the C. P.R. station, thence to the Norwood cemetery. The service was conducted at the house by Rev. J. B. Webb, pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church, and at the grave by the Rev. Mr. Waddell of Norwood.

Mrs. Watson, who was sixty-three years of age, had been ill about six weeks. Relatives were present from Ottawa, Detroit, Cobourg, Cox Hill and Beaverton. Mrs. Watson's late husband predeceased her one year and five months ago.

Should Not The Pulmotor Follow The Accident Risks

When the citizens attend an event in numbers as large as those which gathered at yesterdays' picnic, the accident risk is greatly increased. Instead of the safety of a front verandah or lawn for both adults and children, there is more or less danger on the water, the degree of course depending upon circumstances. And the greater the crowd on the river, or at a river picnic grounds, the greater the probability of an accident occurring.

It might be advisable, therefore, on occasions such as yesterday, to have some provision whereby the Citys' pulmotor would be in easy reach of a large picnic crowd. Potentially it is capable of rendering valuable service in resuscitation, but it must be readily accessible.

There would perhaps be some difficulty in deciding when the pulmotor should be removed from the fire hall or rather when the accident risk at any gathering was sufficiently high to impose the moving of the instrument. However, ordinary judgment should be sufficient to guide those who would assume the authority over the passage of the pulmotor. It is not forgotten that many picnics have been held on the river without a fatality. One also realizes that when thousands at a picnic may not furnish an accident in which the pulmotor would be necessary, some simple mishap might occur in the Citys' limits. In that case the absence of the instrument might occasion criticism, in spite of the fact that the pulmotor followed the greater risk.

However, there is the simple idea, and while it is presented to the authorities, it might be added that the citizens have not been impressed with the fact that in the event of an accident in which the pulmotor could be used, it should be called immediately.

ELECTION RETURNS.

There is some evidence indicating the necessity of better means of ascertaining the results in the voting in, especially closely contested provincial elections. In our superior wisdom we, some of us, say that Ireland should not have Home Rule, because the Irish are not fit—not intelligent enough — to govern themselves. Yet, in this great and glorious and highly civilized and enlightened Ontario we don't even know how to vote. We do not mean that we don't know for which party to vote, though there are many that might be taught better, in this regard, but we don't know how to mark or count our ballots. When the vote in the recent provincial elections in East Lambton was counted by the Government officials, the result was announced as a majority of four for the Conservative candidate. A recount by a judge resulted in a change of 20 votes, making the Liberal candidate elected by a majority of 25. Either the officials are incompetent or dishonest in making the count. At any rate it is apparent that a count of votes by a competent person is necessary when the majority given out is narrow. Would it not be a good thing to provide, by statute, for a recount in every case where the announced majority is under a certain low figure? Why not authorise the County Judge, in such cases, to incude a recount as a part of his duties? In that event the man really entitled to the seat would get it and the electors would have the services of the man they voted for. It is possible that many a member of parliament or the legislature occupies his seat for a full term without having an actual majority, under proper count; without being, as a matter of fact, the duly elected representative of the riding. We are often badly enough represented by a properly-elected member, without being represented by a man for whom the majority of us have not voted, except by a stupid or prejudiced count of votes.

THE FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS.

With the thermometer broiling between the ninety and one hundred points, and with unexampled dryness and rainlessness, we think that we have enough to do to keep cool, to keep from being completely cooked to make us busy. But we must not, among other important things, forget the silent enemy of health, the pestilence that walketh in darkness, the destruction that wasteth at noon day and does its deadly work silently and surely whether the weather is cold or hot—tuberculosis.

The Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, at its recent meeting, in Halifax, emphasized a demand for aid from the Dominion Government in the fight against this decimating disease. The Liberal Government of Ontario was the first to come to the help of the public in connection with the warfare against tuberculosis. The legislation enacted provided for an appropriation for the construction of municipal sanatoria, and provision was also made for a daily allowance per patient. This law is still in force and should be more widely taken advantage of.

Though the public health is within the provincial jurisdiction the Dominion Government, in aiding highways, has set a precedent for invading the provincial domain of responsibility, and in a matter like tuberculosis the justification is much greater. The Government can find millions for drill halls and for facilities for destroying life; and it could well, and with better warrant, be similarly liberal in aiding the warfare against tuberculosis. A Dominion Minister of Health would be a much more important member of the Cabinet, a more useful one, than a Minister of Militia.

Science has demonstrated that tuberculosis is subject to control, and, in theory and principle, of ultimate eradication — if preventive measures were pushed to the limit.

To illustrate how preventive and prudential measures can be effective, Dr. Koch, who discovered and identified the tubercle bacillus, has shown that the breath of consumptives does not contain the germ, nor can germs get into the air in any way except through the drying and pulverization of his or her sputum, or by coughing without covering the mouth. These conditions emphasize the evil of promiscuous spitting by consumptives.

We still need education in the fight against tuberculosis, and thus is emphasized the importance of provincial and local societies, like our local Health Association, for the study of the means of prevention, including the care and cure of nascent and advanced cases in properly equipped local sanatoria.

Our Dominion Government should join the Provincial and local authorities in directing and helping the fight. Germany is giving state aid with true Teutonic energy and thoroughness, and our own Government should not allow any consideration of red tape to interfere with its activity and cooperation.

We don't appreciate the importance of the crusade against tuberculosis; do not, perhaps, fully appreciate the deadly ravages it makes and is capable of making. Tuberculosis in Canada causes one-seventh of the death roll from all other diseases; one in every three deaths between the ages of 15 and 45 are due to tuberculosis, the yearly total being 12,000 deaths. In the civil war in the United States in four years the deaths were 620,000. In the last four years the deaths from tuberculosis were 650,000.

When one remembers that consumption is a largely preventable disease, and, taken in time, is curable, we see how it becomes our duty as individuals, as communities, and as governments, to be more aggressive and active, more consistent and constant in the fight that can, properly directed, reduce to an insignificant minimum the deaths and suffering from tuberculosis.

A FEW QUESTIONS.

Are you making any more money under Borden than you did under Laurier? How much richer are you to-day than you were three years ago? Are you more loyal, more prosperous, more happy, more contented than you were when the Liberals administered the affairs of the Dominion? These are questions each man may answer for himself.—London Advertiser.

PARCEL POST NO BOON.

It is now conceded, even in Conservative papers, that the Parcel Post is not showing any phenomenal growth, and that the expectations regarding its use by the public are not being fulfilled. The trouble is that this public service is one more in name than in spirit—a reluctant concession to a public demand rather than an eager effort to further national progress. — Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

CHIEF TOBIAS.

Chief Tobias, head man of one of the Indian tribes, resident in South Kent, stood upon his feet during the Orange celebration at St. Thomas, and rebuked his assembled white brothers. His language was not the native oratory of his ancestors, who, in their day had also risen to rebuke the white man, and at other times to commend him, but there was something of that old-time dignity in his demeanor, and something brave in his independence in all that crowd of over-indulged "long knives." He knew how unpleasant what he had to say would be to them, yet he did not hesitate.

He told the Orangemen that, if he had had a vote at the last provincial election, he would have cast it in favour of the Rowell policy of "Abolish-the-Bar." It was a principle worth voting for, and a great many Christians, and a great many Orangemen were found wanting when they were weighed in the balance.

A woman interrupted the chief at this juncture, and then the chairman, Rev. R. W. Knowles, of St. Thomas, plucked the chief's coat tails and told him to sit down. The chairman, no doubt, felt that on such an occasion there was no place for anyone who was not ready to extoll the assembled company. It was a day of frolic and celebration, and not for the speaking of sound belief —unless such views were true to the spirit of the occasion. So the chief of an Indian tribe was caused to subside and to sit down, and to keep his voice in the silence of his breast, and his thoughts in his own head. Chief Tobias had often heard of Christian tolerance and breadth of mind, and this was a gathering of religious crusaders of which he had been persuaded to become a member. But, in the future, he—an original Canadian—must not presume to enter the councils of the white men. Possibly he had come to his feet, filled with a vision of the ravages of the whisky poison, given by the ancestors of these same white men to his ancestors. His was a perished race, his people now as the dried brook that was once a mighty river. Let him take his fine philosophy of life away. He is a savage among the cultured of the earth. Let him be silent.—London Advertiser.

MIDDLE NAMES.

They Used to Be Illegal According to Old English Law.

Middle names, hard as it is to credit in this generation, were once illegal. The old English law was very definite as to the naming of children and, according to Coke, "a man cannot have two names of baptism." "It is requisite," this law goes on, "that the purchaser be named by the name of his baptism and his surname, and that special heed be taken to the name of baptism."

Royal personages have always been allowed to have more than one given name, but as late as 1660, it is said, there were only four persons in all England who had two given names. In 1620 the Mayflower sailed for America, and there was not a man or woman upon it who had a middle name.

Even a century and a half ago double names were very uncommon. The English used to dodge the law at times by ingeniously compounding names. Thus on old parish registers in England there is occasionally seen such combinations as Fannasabilia, which is Fanny and Sibyl joined together, and Annamariar, made up of Anne and Maria. Maria is one of the earliest middle names of record for boys. It was given in honor of the Virgin Mary. As much as they dared, beginning along in the eighteenth century, parents evaded the "one name law."

But even as late as one hundred years ago custom was against the middle name. If the names of the signers of the Declaration of Independence be looked over it will be found that only three of them had middle names. The first five President of the United States had only one name each—George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe. Before Grant, eighteenth of the line, there were only three double named executives—John Quincy Adams, William Henry Harrison and James Knox Polk.

When middle names got going and became the fashion, the law having dropped into disuse, parents went to work combining names for their offspring enthusiastically. One custom was done away with in England in consequence of this, the plan of naming the eldest son for the estate, particularly when he succeeds to that estate through his mother. This old idea is still followed to some extent in this country by the mother's maiden name being given to the eldest son. It identifies the boy when he grows to manhood and so has a positive value.

Paper Money in Mexico.

In Mexico and other Latin American countries there is no law against the reproduction of the paper money of the country for use as advertising, but in the United States this is a felony, and any one so doing would be prosecuted under the laws of the land for counterfeiting the national currency. In Mexico imitation bills can be seen at all times used for advertising purposes, and, strange to say, they deceive no one, and the users of them do not intend any deceit, though it would seem to be an easy matter to pass them to unlettered persons. Can it be that Mexicans are more intelligent or simply that few of the illiterate ever gain possession of paper money?

A little four-year-old boy living in a country town dug under a sitting hen belonging to a neighbor. The neighbor complained to the boy's mother, who later called her boy to her and began to reprove him when he broke in with the question, "Who told you?"

The mother said: "A little bird told me. Now, tell me, how many eggs did you take?"

The little boy, stammering, said: "Well, well! Why didn't the bird tell you the whole of it?"—Stray Stories.

Mrs. Dix—Why not bring him around here?

ROAD PAVING IN RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS

Kingston Whig—The Board of Works is to meet this afternoon to once again take up the question of road paving in the residential districts. At the last meeting of the City Council, the board recommended that the tender of Foley and Gleeson to lay sheet asphalt, with concrete base, be accepted. The opinion of the majority of council seemed to be that cheaper kind of pavement should be chosen, as they felt that $125,000 for 50,000 square yards was a little too "steep" for the residential area.

Members of the Board of Works do not know what they will do in regard to the matter. Alds. Couper and O'Connor want a cheaper pavement than sheet asphalt, and a couple others of the board may fall in line with them. Tarvia or rocmac on macadam base are talked of. The cost would be about one-half of that of sheet asphalt.

Oiling the Roadways.

While they are glad that the awful dust with which they are afflicted, is to be got rid of by oiling the roadway with tarvia, some residents of King street west are not rejoicing over the cost that they will have to foot. The oiling will cost twenty cents a lineal foot frontage this year, and perhaps half of that next year. A person with a property frontage of thirty feet will pay $6 for relief from dust for the rest of this season. The roadway has first to be swept cleanly before it can be oiled.

King street westers were in agony on Sunday night with the terrible dust that automobiles sent flying about. They cannot understand why the civic authorities do not catch a few of these law violators. One resident told the Whig that an automobile dashed along past the breakwater at a rate of sixty miles an hour. He and others tried in vain to catch the car number, but it was going too fast to get it.

If a policeman were detailed for duty on King street west on Sunday afternoon and evening, five or six hundred dollars in fines would come into the city coffers next day.

ARE DEPORTING THE HINDUS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, July 17.—The weary work of deporting four hundred odd of Hindus, who have been sweltering on the Komagata Maru in Vancouver Harbour for the past three weeks, is still going on, according to advices received here. The task is a tedious one, as deportation papers have to be made out for each individual Hindu separately, and these papers have to be served upon the individual as well as upon the captain of the ship.

the aquatic sports ent all assistance possible to find the bodies of the unfortunate young men who were drowned, and encouraged all others to do likewise. these events did not commence till rather late in the day. But once they had started the interest was keen and the entry list large.

During the afternoon the Maple Leaf and the 57th Regimental Bands rendered a large number of pleasing musical numbers. Both turned out in uniform and in full force and, under their respective conductors, delighted the crowd. An orchestra provided good music at the pavilion in the afternoon and evening, and before and after supper a large number took advantage of their presence and enjoyed one or more dances. The floor of the pavilion was in splendid shape and, being several feet above the ground, was far cooler than any other place on the grounds.

The refreshment booths and lunch counters, all conducted under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association, were very largely and continuously patronized. The ticket sellers for these did nothing short of a land-office business during the afternoon and evening, and several of them were bought out before "lights out" was sounded. The "Ocean Wave" and "hit the nigger in the eye" attractions drew well and served to provide a few moments' diversion for a large number of the picnickers.

The meals served at the booths were wholesome and the soft drinks handed out over the counters of other booths were decidedly tasteful and cooling. The whole affair had been planned to meet the urgent demand of a large crowd, and much praise is due those in charge that they provided for every exigency in so capable a manner.

The sports that were run off on land consisted of numerous events, and were all hotly contested. There was a marked prevalence of good feeling among the competitors, however, that made the races very successful. The prizes for the different events were donated by various local merchants and made the races well worth winning. The prize list was an alluring one and satisfied every winner. The winners of the "land events" were as follows:

ENGLAND'S GREATEST EMPIRE BUILDER IS DEAD

Joseph Chamberlain is now dead,
By Telegraph it has been said;
Such men as Joseph Chamberlain,
Have always been our Empire's gain.

To work up preferential trade;
Our Empire is in a bad state,
No preference can we relate,

Our Empire needs to form a chain,
From England to England again;
All separate by tariff wall,
No preferential trade at all.

How can we live and prosper so,
Our intellect seems very low;
No wonder Chamberlain would sigh,
And big tear drops stand in his eye;
At working men losing their pie,
By England's foolish free trade cry.

The British Navy aims for peace
That war on earth through man decrease,
All Nations should sign a long lease,
That war on earth may ever cease.

Canada send the Dreadnoughts on
And make the British Navy strong,
In the past we have got along,
With one big Navy, only one.

One Admiralty good and strong,
To guide the Navy all in one;
Too many cooks wil spoil the broth,
Too many patches spoils the cloth,
One Admiralty, one Empire.

Peace on earth all men desire,
If Grits at Ottawa would now
Send the Dreadnoughts without a row,
Canada would bloom like the spring,
From hand to hand money would ring.

(Toronto World, Conservative.)

Several cabinet meetings of the Ontario Government have been held lately, and it is stated that another is to be held to-day. Nothing has transpired of the occurrences at these important conclaves, but there has been a considerable amount of putting two and two together, not always with the normal result. We believe the whole province is deeply interested in the outcome of the decisions pending as to the future course of the government, and we believe further that the judgment of Sir James Whitney is relied upon by the people to disentangle any knots and overcome any difficulties that may be encountered. There is a doubt in some quarters whether Sir James Whitney will have his way. It may seem absurd to suggest such an idea, but, except for this, we cannot see any serious difficulty in sight for the Ontario Government.

There is nothing, for instance, in the defeat of Hon. Dr. Reaume to disturb the party equanimity. His position in the cabinet was representative of the French-Canadian vote and influence. That vote and influence having intimated to Sir James Whitney that there was no gratitude to be expressed through Dr. Reaume, Sir James may feel at liberty to act as he pleases. It is not probable that Dr. Reaume will remain. The precedent set in Mr. Monteith's case will govern the present case. Dr. Reaume is in comfortable circumstances, and can afford to be dignified in his withdrawal. Personally, he is one of the most estimable of men and has hosts of friends.

The health of Hon. J. J. Foy is somewhat precarious, and it would not be surprising if he wished to retire, as, indeed, he has desired to do, it has been stated, for some time past. This leaves the attorney-generalship open. With all due respect to Hon. James Foy, it is generally felt that, however estimable personally the present minister of agriculture is, the department should be strengthened by a head who would be an unvuestionable and aggressive authority on all the important issues under him. There must be a regeneration of farming in Ontario.

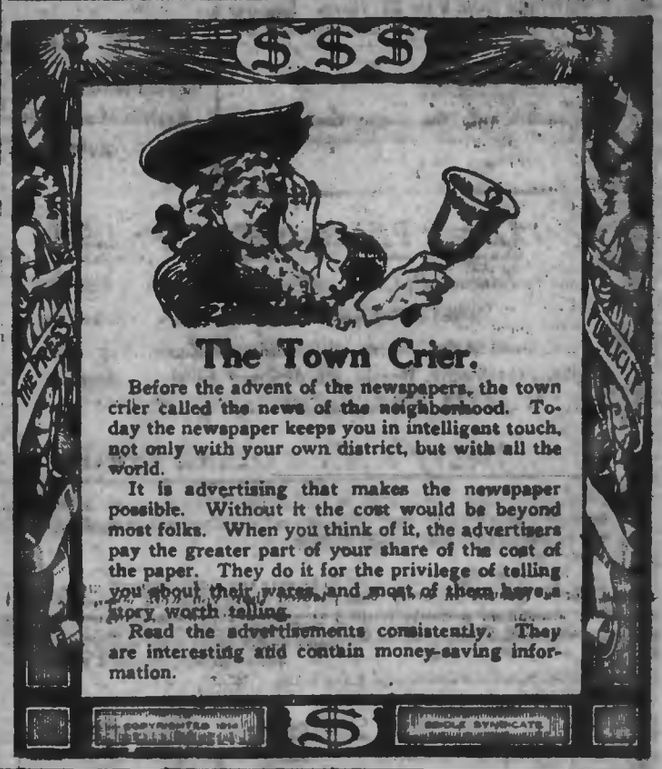
If Mr. Foy should vacate his seat, the section of opinion he represents must be consulted in furnishing his successor in the cabinet whether as attorney-general or with another portfolio. Rumour has mentioned Mr. George Lynch-Staunton and Mr. McGarry. The man to follow Mr. Foy, failing any other, may be Mr. Claude Macdonell. He is in sympathy with the Ontario policies. He is popular in Toronto. He is a friend of the people. Whether he should go to the attorney-general's chair or to the department of public works is almost immaterial. He would be excellent in either office.

Should he go to the works office, it is probable that Mr. Hanna would become attorney-general. In that case Mr. Lucas would naturally become provincial secretary. Whether a successor can be found for take treasureship is the problem. Until a very big man, one of the head-and-shoulders fellows in the world of finance can be got, Mr. Lucas had better stay where he is.

But there are minor considerations beside the main question which everyone is asking: Who will succeed Sir James? Until recently Mr. Hanna was regarded as a certainty in most quarters, with many regarding Sir Adam Beck as equally sure. But the latest news is of quite another and perhaps more disturbing character. It is known that Hon. Frank Cochrane has been having a good deal to say in Ontario politics since his return from Europe. There is quite general feeling that for a Dominion cabinet minister he has been too active here. There is fear that he wants to run Ontario as well as Ottawa. When it is asserted that Hon. Mr. Hearst, minister of lands, forests and mines is Mr. Cochrane's choice as successor to Sir James, the fear seems well founded. Mr. Hearst's career should not be handicapped by any such unwise nomination. Whatever he may be in other ways of merit and ability, he would be nothing as long as he remained in the Ottawa government.

This is the head and centre of the whole situation, so far as any situation exists. It is only a possibility, but it is quite within the possibility. Sir James Whitney would never place this province in such a position, but others must also contemplate the possibility of making Ontario an appendage of the Ottawa government. Nothing could be as a burden for the affairs of any political party. Ontario has her own troubles and depths of them, but no one with the interests of the province at heart can look on calmly while it should be attempted to foisten calmly while it is suggested that the Province of Ontario should be used to pull out somebody else's chestnuts.

There have been two notable announcements made in the last three weeks. They were made in the bilingual farce. In connection with Whitney leaving the responsibility of mistakes where they were made, Sir Redmond Roblin from Manitoba a voice that was neither still nor small, but pregnant with meaning. There will be no swerving in Ontario, whatever the other provinces do, but it is just as well to remind all and sundry that the duties of the directorates is not one that will work well in connection with the government of Ontario. In the meantime Sir James can take his time and listen to the voice of the province.



The Town Crier.

Before the advent of the newspapers, the town crier called the news of the neighborhood. To-day the newspaper keeps you in intelligent touch, not only with your own district, but with all the world.

It is advertising that makes the newspaper possible. Without it the cost would be beyond most folks. When you think of it, the advertisers pay the greater part of your share of the cost of the paper. They do it for the privilege of telling you about their wares, and most of them have a story worth telling.

Read the advertisements consistently. They are interesting and contain money-saving information.

BOTH ARMS WERE BROKEN

Miss Edna Elliott Sustained Painful Injuries in Runaway Accident

Miss Edna Elliott, daughter of Mr. R. A. Elliott, who until a few weeks ago resided on Engleburn Avenue, East City, and who now, with his family, is residing in Stirling, had both arms broken in an accident yesterday afternoon while at a picnic in the above place. Miss Elliott, with a couple of young friends, was taking a little drive, when the horse suddenly became frightened and bolted. In order to save herself Miss Elliott jumped out of the buggy, alighting on her hands. As a result, she sustained fractures to both arms.

Miss Elliott was popular among a host of young friends here, who will be sorry to hear of her misfortune.

POLICE COURT

A man from Lindsay by the name of Henry Thornton made his initial trip to Peterborough and overduly imbibed the cup that cheers, yesterday, but Magistrate Dumble advised him to return at once to Scugogville before he got into any more trouble.

Alex. Rass, who has not made a trip to the police court for a long time, was let go for being drunk.

Charged with vagrancy, Robert Ryan pleadednot guilty. He was discharged as he has a job at Ackerman's. Ernest Lowes, his companion, also pleaded not guilty to the same charge, and as he has been working steadily, was allowed to go.

Joseph Reynolds, who was remanded last Monday for being drunk, was discharged this morning.

The case of Chas. Healy, who says he found liquor in a stall behind the Snowden House, and then became drunk while on the blaklist, was heard this morning, as the case had been remanded from last Monday. When the defendant gave his evidence as to how he obtained the whiskey, Magistrate Dumble said it looked like manna from heaven. Healy said he did not remember being served with notice that he was on the prohibited list, but is said to have put one over on the police when he was arrested on the 4th of July for being drunk and only paid a $2 fine. He was fined $10, which was paid to the Chief of Police.

"FAIR PLAY" ON FOX INDUSTRY

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—In Tuesday's Examiner a notice appeared stating that the Board of Health was looking after a nuisance kept by W. Tedford, Stewart Street. For the benefit of the public I wish to state a few facts.

In the first place the letter signed by a number of residents, as the Examiner stated, was signed by one man.

Now, Mr. Tedford is an honourable, upright, industrious, kindly man, always ready to speak in the defence of right and has won the respect of a number of people. But (alas for human nature) some of those qualities of his also made him enemies; it could not be otherwise in that neighbourhood.

Oh, no; it is not the odours that are bothering those people; if it were they would take a shovel and hoe and go into their own back yards. There are other things besides odours that are playing a part in this little drama. It is envy, jealousy and the desire of a few, mean nature to hit every time he sees a chance. The wonder is the Board of Health would pay any attention to such people.

If the chairman of the Board, when he drove around there to investigate, had used his eyes, as well as his nose, he would see ample evidence of the very friendly intentions of Mr. Tedford's neighbours towards him. A twenty foot board fence built up within a few feet of his windows, was one of their kindly acts.

Mr. Tedford's friends also resent very much that very autocratic statement in the Examiner, and would like to know who is the czar that is responsible for it.

In regard to the fox business, it belongs to the Messrs. Tedford & Godfrey. They conceived the idea a couple of years ago, got hold of a pair of foxes (one which they now value at $900). Mr. Tedford, owning a large lot in a sparsely settled district, on the edge of the city, they decided to try their luck and strike out for a black fox farm in the future. When their little venture has grown large enough they intend to move to the country, and go in on a large scale. In fact they are now looking around for a place. The fox pens and surroundings are kept scrupulously clean, as Mr. Spence can testify. There are at times an odour, especially in damp weather, but it is an animal odour, as from dogs, horses, or any animal, and is harmless. A lady wearing certain kinds of fur has an odour to contend with in damp weather, but she never thinks it is injurious to her health.

Mr. Tedford has never as yet had any complaints from his rightly disposed neighbours, although he has inquired from those on Bethune Street, whose houses are nearest to the dens.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I am,

Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

EXPECTED RAIN DIVIDED AT CITY

This morning rain clouds approaching the city seemed to divide, going north and south with a mere sprinkle over the dusty streets on the outskirts of the municipality. Up around Chemong it became so dark that lamps were temporarily used indoors. Thick, dark clouds moved to the south, and the city's hopes were unfulfilled. Everyone has been "pulling" for rain, and the need of it has been generally felt and expressed in the vicinity of the city.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

July 19, 1914.

(Copyright, 1914, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

Golden Text—Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstoppd. Then shall th lame man leap as a hart, and the tongue of the dumb shall sing. Isa. xxxv:5-6.

1. Verse 46—It is a crime to-day to beg in most civilized countries; does that or not imply, and why, that the State is under obligation to furnish every person with a living who is not able to support himself?

2. Is there any good reason why a man in health in this country should be in a condition of want?

3. What are the chief causes of poverty?

4. Verse 47—What is our limit, if any, in asking God to supply our needs?

5. What is the use, for example, in asking God to prevent the natural results from taking place, either of our sin or our folly?

6. Would it be Christian wisdom for a totally blind man to-day to pray that God would give him his sight? Why?

7. Verse 48—What is the ground for assurance that God answers in some gracious way every persistent prayer?

8. Why does Jesus encourage persistent prayer, seeing God hears us the first time we ask?

9. If Bartimaeus had stopped praying with his first petition, it it likely or not, and why, that Jesus would have called him?

10. Why will those who pray with the earnestness of Bartimaeus be as certain of an answer?

11. Verse 49—What lesson may we learn from those who tried to stop the boisterous petition of this blind man, and when his prayer was answered congratulated him?

12. Of what service are merely formal or half hearted prayers?

13. Verse 50—When our prayers are for a life and death matter, like the salvation of our souls, what should we be willing to "cast away" in order to accept the invitation of Jesus to come to him?

14. If he had begged Jesus to come to him, instead of going to Jesus as bidden, what would have been the probable result?

15. Verse 51—Why did Jesus ask Bartimaeus what he wanted, when he must have known in advance?

16. The Lord knows all we need and all our hearts crave, but why does he generally require us to express our specific wants to him, in words, before they are supplied?

17. Verse 52 — If Bartimaeus had prayed without faith, would he have been healed? Give your reasons.

18. When our prayers are answered what effect does that have upon our attachment to Jesus?

SUCCESSFUL DANCE OF CHEMONG REGATTA CLUB

Over thirty couples enjoyed the regular weekly dance of the Chemong Regatta Club at the pavilion in Chemong Park last night. The evening was a delightful one, with a cool, refreshing breeze blowing off the lake, and the dancing couples did not seem to mind the heat. The very latest pieces were played by Mr. Asa Huycke, who added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Former Resident Has Passed Away

Mr. Frank L. Somerville Dead in Toronto.

A former resident of Peterborough, Mr. Frank L. Somerville, C. E., died in Toronto, yesterday. He was the son of the Rev. Mr. Somerville of Winslow, Eng., and came to Peterborough about the year 1886, and entered the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway as one of the resident engineering staff, in which capacity he had charge of building the bridge at Campbellford and other important works. He afterwards entered the Trent Valley Canal staff, here, and later moved to Toronto, where he was one of the resident G. T. R. engineers there. He has since been a consulting engineer in Toronto. He married in 1888, Miss Emma Jenkins of Peterborough. He leaves a family of three daughters and one son, who is a Hydro-Electric employee. Mrs. Caldwell of Kidderminster, Eng., wife of Rev. S. Caldwell, and two unmarried daughters, at home.

The funeral will take place to-morrow from the residence of Miss Jenkins, 286 Brock Street, at 3.30.

Mr. Somerville was a member of the Masonic Order.

YOUNG ENGLISHMAN DIED IN HIS SLEEP

TWEED, July 15.— A young Englishman named Duvalt, working at the Roman Catholic church here, died suddenly during the night. He and a few others who were working with him, were at Stoco a few miles from here, and it is stated that he had been drinking. On returning home he laid down near his boarding place, and his chum, not hearing him come to his room, went out to look for him and found him dead. Deceased has a wife in England.

C.P.R. DECREES THAT CHANCE-TAKER MUST GO

Inorder to lessen as much as possible the accidents on the railways caused by carelessness on the part of the persons concerned, the C. P. R. has issued a bulletin in aid of the "safety first" campaign, and has distributed it among its employees.

The bulletin gives accounts of numerous recent accidents, and expresses satisfaction in the large decrease. In conclusion it says, "The above list of fatalities represent suffering and anguish beyond anything which words can describe. The fearful work goes on, although all the cases mentioned might have been avoided with the exercise of ordinary care.

"This is to be regarded as a personal appeal to every employee to do all in his power to protect the lives of his fellow men. The 'chance taker' must go.

MORE WATER THAN LIQUORS.

Despite the formidable statistics that temperance reformers are continually presenting, there is more money paid for water in a single day than is paid for liquors in a week, says a recent investigator. "Few people are aware of the water they pay for.

"A ten-pound turkey, for instance, is but three pounds solids and seven pounds water, and there is six pounds of water in ten pounds of pork, while the percentage of water in beef or mutton is about the same.

"Salmon and mackerel are half water, though other fish contain a greater proportion of fluids.

"Sixty-five present. of an egg is water, and there are about two ounces of water to one pound of butter.

"Vegetables run from forty to eighty per cent. of water, and even dried peas contain a small percentage of liquid matter.

DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED

Three girls of Marmora were convicted of vagrancy in that village last week and sentenced to five months in the Mercer Reformatory. One of the three was recently a resident of Haverlock, and claimed to be under sixteen years of age. As a result of their conviction, warrants have been issued for a number of men, some of whom are married, and they will appear before the magistrates this week.—Haverlock Standard.

THE TARIFF IN THEORY AND PRACTICE AND THE WORKINGMAN

The Theory.

Toronto News (Conservative)

July 14.

The moderate, incidental protection to Canadian industries and Canadian labour has been largely responsible for the enormous development of the Dominion in the last twenty years. In order to escape Canadian duties, and cater to the home market from an advantageous position, American manufacturers, in a few years, invested upwards of $500,000,000 in the establishment of domestic factories on this side of the border.

By exposing scores of young industries thus created to unbridled competition from the capitalistic combines, with which even President Wilson and Congress can scarcely grapple, the Liberal party would strike a deadly blow at hundreds of manufacturing businesses in eastern and western Canada, at the industrial population to which they give employment, at the hundreds of towns in the progress of which their establishment has been the main factor, and at those extensive sections of the agricultural population which find profitable markets in conveniently-located centres of population. The present check to business is partly a natural, temporary reaction, from over-expansion. It is also due in part to conditions in the world's money markets. The only salvation of Canadian industries to-day is the tariff which protects their home market to some extent against wholesale dumpings of goods from United States factories—themselves hurt, for the time being, at any rate, by the Underwood-Wilson change in the American tariff. To abandon the Canadian National Policy at such a time as the present would banish all hopes of a busines recovery within the next year or two, and assure a continuance of hard times for ten years, or until a chastened country reverted to a well-proved fiscal policy.

How It Operates.

Toronto Mail and Empire,

July 15.

Although at the present time there is a great deal of construction work being carried on in the city, the number of labourers without employment is startling. That serious trouble has not been caused by this condition is due almost entirely to the fact that this is the summer season, and that the people so afflicted are thefore able to live in the parks, on the waterfront, in vacant lots, in fact, in any open or secluded spot.

It is estimated by reliable people that no less than 2,000 foreigners, composed chiefly of Bulgarians, Macedonians and Serbians, are without work in Toronto alone. In the Italian quarter the situation is not so bad, owing to the fact that, on the whole, the Italian is an industrious and fairly intelligent labourer. The British-born labourers also at the present time have plenty of work, but this is due to racial feeling on the part of the contractors, who are looking forward with fear and anxety towards the coming winter.

In the middle easter sections of the city the police of No. 4 Wilton avenue station) division, in which the district lies, state that at least 400 Bulgarians are without work. The men are warding off starvation by daily fishing expeditions. But they are without proper clothing, and already several serious assaults have ocurred in this district, in each case the motive being robbery. In the extreme western section of the city the situation is similar, but not as severe. The police in the division where the foreigners are housed are enforcing the law with the greatest strictness now, for in their opinion the privations which will be endured by these men during the coming winter are going to rault in srious troubl.

AN INTERESTING NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY.

The Desbarats Newspaper Directory for 1914 will prove of very great value to advertisers who are interested in Canadian publications.

The Directory contains sketches of the different provinces and towns, a list of the important manufacturers in each town, and an unusually complete report of the different daily and other newspapers and periodicals published in Canada. Any person contemplating an advertising campaign should have a copy of the Desbarats Directory which contains the latest available information regarding the newspaper world.

The Directory contains some 1200 pages, is well printed and attractively bound in red and gold. Although the price of the Directory is $5.00, we understand the publishers will forward a copy to anyone interested in advertising who will make application to the Head Office of the Desbarats Advertising Agency, Limited, Montreal—enclosing 35 cts., to prepay charges.

AN EXPLANATION FROM LOCAL MAN

(Lindsay Warder.)

Peterborough, July 11th, 1914.

To the Editor of The Warder:

Dear Sir,—In reading over The Examiner of the 10th inst., I read a misleading statemen: concerning a strange man who was seen in the northeastern portion of your town recently, and who so greatly frightened some of the so-called ladies of that section. Now, as I think I am the same man, I would like to correct some of the statements made in your paper.

The facts of the case are: I went down to Lindsay to look around for a cheap house and lot. I called at a Lindsay real estate office, and found that there was a house and one acre of land for sale on St. Patrick street. The agent gave me the desired directions in order to locate it. As there was no sign "for sale" on the house, I passed it the first time without knowing it. I returned to the agent and got a better description of the place, and also the tenant's name, Mr. Healy.

I returned but there was no one around, so I stepped to the back of the house to examine the land as to size, etc. I did not go into the house as reported, but while I was examining the lot a lady from the neighbouring house came along and asked me if I was looking for someone. I told her I was looking at the lot, as I understood it was advertised for sale.

She told me it was not for sale, and talked to me in an insulting manner, although I did not pay much attention to her, and walked away from the place.

In regard to speaking to children on the street, that is another wrong statement in your report, and for which I demand retraction in your paper.

I am no tramp or hobo, but paid my way to Lindsay and return and also my expenses. You may also find my name on the register in the Simpson House. I am very sorry that my personal appearance alarmed the people in that section of the town so very much.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM DALTON.

VACATION TIME.

All the world is set to rhyme
Now it is vacation time.
And a swelling flood of joy
Brims the heart of every boy,
No more rote and no more rule,
No more staying after school
Nothing but to play and play
Through an endless holiday.

Morn or afternoon, may all
Swing the bat and catch the ball;
Nimble-footed, race and run
Through the meadows in the sun,
Chasing winged scraps of light,
Butterflies in darting flight;
Or where willows lean and look
Down at others in the brook,
Frolic loud the stream within,
Every arm a splashing fin.

Where the thorny thickets bar,
There the sweetest berries are;
Where the shady banks make dim
Pebbly pools, shy trout swim;
Where the boughs are mossiest,
Builds the humming bird a nest;—
There are haunts the rover seeks,
Touch a tan upon his cheeks,
And within his heart the joy
Known to no one but a boy.

She has been a pupil of St. Joseph's Academy during the past term.

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The writer was one of a party who took the trip round Stoney Lake one day this week on the steamer Empress. To put it mild it is a treat to take a trip on this fast little steamer and to see the courtesy that is extended to the public by Captain Robinson and the purser, Fred Holland, and to watch the team work of those two is a treat in itself. Personally I would like to thank them for the many questions I heard them answer, and the many little acts of kindness I saw extended to ladies withe hildren, and in fact, to every one. Hoping you will find space in your paper for these few lines.

Yours truly,

E. F. M.

Making Them Sign For Winter.

KINGSTON, July 17.—Geo. Hunter, J.P., who acts as immigration agent, does not intend to have any of the men he has placed in positions from the old land, living on charity. He says that all who refuse to work this winter will be deported. He declares that churches and charitable institutions have carried this class of men too long.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Latest reports indicate rallying tendencies on the Mexican news and an oversold condition of the active issues. Entirely new evidence may be had by an examination of the properties that have been are now and expect to be "investigated." In a majority of cases the financial district has known for a long time that weakness existed and that uneconomical conditions were prevalent. In other words that a policy along the line of business principles was not being pursued.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(Friday's Letter, Chas. Baring.) — The stock market showed again several spots on new low price, while a few stocks were strong, particularly M.N.P., W.X. and U.P. I do not think that the moderate upward move this afternoon was anything more than an ordinary rally. B.O. got down to 84 7-8 to-day if short above 91 would stay short and if not short would sell a little if it rallies to 87 1-2. U.S. got down to 59 1-8. I trust you are still short above 62 as advised. I consider it a sale if it should rally to 61. U.P. rallied to 156 5-8 and looks very strong, if it opens lower to-morrow and does not get more than a very small fraction above to-day's high, the present strength is probably fictitious. As I said a few days ago, it will keep looking strong till it sells ex-rights Monday.

Can. remains a sale on any little rally and I expect to see it sell below 20 and probably below 15.

A.C.P. remains a sale above 99 and I would sell more if it should go to about 71 1-2. R.K. may be sold around 86 and B.R.C. near 23.

Would also sell 64. Paul near 100. L.V. around 137 and more if it rallies to 139; R.G. around 164; and more if it goes to 165; C.A. 187; C.O. above 47; M.O.P. above 12; Atch. 99; P.A. 111 1-2, etc., etc.—Chas. Baring.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.— U.P. ex-rights next Monday. Stock exchange committee on securities has ordered Union Pac. Co. stock to be quoted ex the extra dividend Monday July 20th.—D. J. Co.

NO INQUEST

The Examiner was informed this afternoon that there would be no inquest into the death of the two local young men, Bengoine and O'Toole, who were drowned yesterday.

BASEBALL CHATTER

Pitcher Hirsch for Norfolk held Grand Island to one hit in the game of June 28. Only 21 men faced him up to the eighth inning, none reaching first base.

Louis Drucke is adrift again. Minneapolis sent him to Fargo in the Northern League, where he started twice, had to be jerked out of both games and finally was released outright.

In the game of June 28 between Rome and Selma in the Georgia-Alabama League, a Selma batsman was hit by pitched balls four consecutive times, which is, so far as known, a record.

James Woody, third baseman of the Bay City team of the Southern Michigan League, died on June 27 of typhoid fever. He was ill but a week. He had played ball in the Kitty League, the Central and the Michigan State.

Jesse Garrett has resigned as manager of the Helena team of the Union Association and Bill Quigley succeeds him. Garrett could not get the team out of the cellar and the fans refused to patronize the games. He has resigned to pitch for Butte.

The Eagles of Helena, Mont., recently had a riddle, with a automobile as the prize. It was won by Al Dean, an outfielder on the Helena ball team. He took $1,000 in cash in place of the auto, saying that he needed the money but not the machine.

The Canadian League hasn't been raided by the Federals, but is made uneasy through the efforts of an independent league in the silver mining district of Cobalt to wean away some of its players by offering them more money than the Canadian can pay.

Noah Henline, a well known minor league player, and who also has seen brief service in the majors, has become an automobile agent in his home town in Bloomington, Ill., and writes that he is making more money selling cars than he ever made in base ball.

The Detroit Tigers have been carrying a black cat as a mscot, while the Phillies have a red fox on tour to bring luck to them. Unless hotels soon draw the line ball teams will be carting menageries around the country to win games for them, instead of copping them by good work on the field.

Walter Manning, who coached the Pennsylvania State College team, says that Hasselbacher, the college pitcher, is one of the best ever turned out and both the Philadelphia Athletics and the Pittsburg Pirates have made him offers. Hasselbacher is but 18 years of age, but he stands 5 feet 2 inches and weighs 175 pounds.

Poor attendance in the Southern Michigan League has led to the league taking over the Lansing Club, with the idea of making it a road club, while the Flint franchise is also to be transferred. Kalmzoo, too, is on the rocks. And this is a league where the club owners have admitted flagrant violations of the salary limit.

Pitcher Smithson, recently sold by the Clinton Central Association Club to Detroit for $2,500, started the season with St. Joseph of the Western League. That club sought to place him and offered him to York of the Nebraska League for $150, but York could not see him at the price. He was then sold by Jack Holland to Slinton.

In a game at London on June 26 First Baseman Bierbauer of London had but one chance—a putout. This leads some one to inquire if a first baseman ever went through nine innings without a chance. There is no known record of it, though several cases have been recorded where but one chance was offered a first baseman.

OTTAWA PAYS $1000 FOR NEW SHOW STOP

Ottawa Journal—Last night Manager Shaughnessy was able to announce that the slumping champions would be strengthened before Saturday, possibly three new players being the extent of the reinforcements.

The Senators accepted terms for Shortstop Mitchell, of the Adrian Michigan League club, paying $1,000 for the Adrian youngster. Mitchell was ordered by his club to report at once and his transportation forwarded him. When the Senators played in Adrian this spring Mitchell, on his showing for that game, shaped up as easily superior to any Canadian League player holding down the job, Whitcraft, of London, would probably make him hustle to hold a job, but Mitchell is a shade better than Whitcraft.

Hank Perry, a former Detroit outfielder, also accepted terms and was instructed to report at once, and President Navin of the Tigers, wired that he had instructed Pitcher Killian to take the next train north to Ottawa. "This slump is no surprise to me," Shag informed The Journal. "I have seen it coming. We got by on our hitting and pitching, but when the hitters fell off a little and the pitchers needed the support, the infield blew. We will surely be strengthened by Saturday, and there is a long way to go yet. I think we can catch London when we get things going again."

FOOTBALL

The fast Deoro team will play the local team on the Oval to-morrow (Saturday) evening, at 6.30 o'clock. The Deloro team has won from all the teams in the East and are coming to Peterborough to put one over the local boys, so a great game is looked for.

The following players are asked to be at the Oval at 6.15 sharp. Ridley Shephardson, Perry, Gribb, Mason, Edwards, Bellis, Wilson, McKinley, Hartshorne and Haydon.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Ottawa Journal:

The offerings of Mr. Schettler were just a trifle too mysterious for the batsters to solve and another reverse befell our arms yesterday afternoon, the Petes carving nine notches on their gun handle, while the best the champs could do was to nick one lonely notch. And this took eight of the nine innings to accomplish.

Errors, as usual, assisted largely in the disaster, and an odd specimen of the ivory-top stuff put in an appearance; but the real reason for the disaster was the gentleman doing the hurling for the Petes. The Senators might have held down the score to respectable dimensions; no ball team in the Canadian League could have walloped Schettler the way he was twirling yesterday. At least, not with the same brand of mound work uncorked by the Ottawa heavers.

Schettler struck out eleven men in the nine frames; did not allow a single pass, although he hit and walked Powers, and for seven innings only 28 batters faced him. By that time he could afford to be careless, for the visitors were six runs to the good. Added to this, the Petes played errorless ball, while the champs, booted the ball around the lot in such a care-free manner that anyone would think the pennant had already been grabbed, parcelled up with the usual amount of moth balls and stowed away in the attic until next summer.

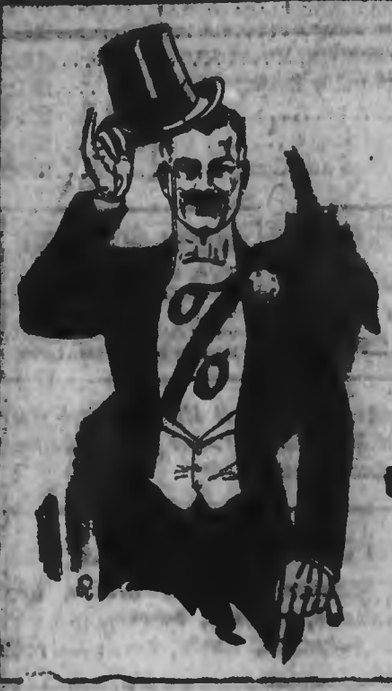
"Count Discount" Is Surely In Reduced Circumstances Here Now



"The Count" is a creature of quality.

He comes from fine stock though in reduced circumstances now

We told you that the "Count" was a "creature of quality." We told you that he comes of "fine stock" and we told you he was in reduced circumstances now. It's all true. You won't find a better stock of clothing merchandise in the country than is here right now. You won't find another Discount Sale where the reductions mean as much quality for as little money as "Count Discount" typifies here. Our claim is that our clothes were worth in real value more than our original prices earlier in the season. Therefore, when we offer them to you at 25 per cent. reduction we know that we are giving you greater values on high class merchandise than you will find elsewhere at the same discount rate.

Read over the reduced prices quoted below and take into consideration that the goodness in quality, make and style of these items make them more than 25 per cent. better than present prices. They were abundant values before reduction; they're overflow bargains now. Do yourself the justice of comparing them with your previous experience in clothing values and what is offered elsewhere.

AN IVORY-TOPPED PLAY COST PETES FIRST GAME OF SERIES

Brants Beat Homesters 2 to 1 Yesterday, all the Scoring Being Done in the First Innings of the Battle.

A PITCHING DUEL

Any old time you toss a southpaw out there on the mound you have the Petes stopped. Kubat, Bobby Hesk, Dorbeck, and Chase have all beaten the homesters, the latter on three occasions. Yesterday was one of them, and the Brants won a hard fought game by 2 to 1.

At that, in spite of left handed pitching, the homesters should have landed the bacon. A play of the genius bone or Merkle pulled off by Catcher oKlly, however, handed the game over to Rube Deneau's athletes and vindicated the portsider jinx. The incident happened right in the first innings and gave the visitors two runs. Long and Nelson, the first two men up, hit safely. Deneau grounded out, advancing the runners. Ivers hit one to Belting who shot the ball into the plate yards ahead of Long. Kelly, however, thinking the bases were loaded and the play was a force, touched the plate and then went to throw to first, letting Long slide in untouched with the first run. Roth's sacrifice fly, which should have been the third out, sent in Run No. 2.

That was enough, for the Petes could not nick one off Chase's delivery, neither team scoring after the first innings. The Petes opened on Chase in the second as if the southpaw was in for a beating, King doubling to left and Fox beatin out a bunt, but Kelly fouled out and King was doubled at the plate on Belting's fly to Ivers. After that the homesters never had a chance to score until the ninth, when Blount made a big effort to tie up the game. He singled to short to start with, moved to second on Welsh's sacrifice and scooted over to third on Dolan's fly to Wilson. With two gone, Blount sent Miller in to bat for Rooney. With a left-hander pitching and a left-handed batter coming up, the move was good baseball, but Miller failed to come through in the pinch, striking out ingloriously and the game was out.

Chase and Belting both pitched grand ball, standing the batters on their heads throughout after the first innings. The Brants got one more hit off Belting than Chase allowed, but two of the Petes 'swats were for extra bases, and Chase slipped in a wild pitch that gave the Petes their run. Each handed out only one pass. With luck, the Swede should have earned a 1 to 0 decision, but Kelly's play crabbed the win. Both teams fielded splendidly. Fried, the Brants' short-stop, made some fine stops and throws, and Dolan pulled down a drive with one hand in sensational style.

Umpire McPartlin made his first local appearance of the season. He gave two close decisions at first base against Welsh that the crowd did not like, but otherwise got by without much trouble.

FIRST INNINGS.

Brantford — Long singled over second. Nelson singled between short and third. Deneau rolled out to Byrne. Ivers hit to Belting, who had Long at the plate, but Kelly pulled a bone by forgetting to tag the runner and Long scored. Roth scored Nelson with a sacrifice fly to Blount. Friend singled through short. Wilson forced Fried at second. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Peterborough— Blount doubled to left. Welsh walked. Dolan hoisted to Roth. The runners moved up when Fried singled through short. Wilson off second go to centre. Blount scored on a wild pitch. Rooney hit to Chase and Welsh was out at the plate. Byrne fanned. One run, one hit, one error.

SECOND INNINGS.

Brantford— Lamond singled over third. Chase bunted to Belting and Lamond was out at second. Long fanned. Nelson forced Chase, Fox to King. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough—King doubled along the left field line. Fox beat out a bunt. Kelly fouled out to Deneau. Fox stole second. Belting flied to Ivers who easily doubled King at the plate. No runs, hits or errors.

THIRD INNINGS.

Brantford — Deneau grounded to Dolan. Ivers died on a bounder to Fox. Roth flied to Blount. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough— Blount was declared out on strikes. Welsh was called out on abounder to Fried, which he apparently had beaten out. Dolan grounded to Chase. No runs, hits or errors.

FOURTH INNINGS.

Brantford— Fried flied to Dolan. Wilson popped to King. Lamond walked. Chase fouled to Byrne. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough— Rooney died on a [illegible] said to increase the crops in quality and by fifty per cent in quantity. To-day dynamite is used to fight wars and is prepared for a [illegible] part of the progress of the world.

SIXTH INNINGS.

Brantford— Roth fanned. Fried singled over second. Wilson bunted to Byrne and Fried was out at second. Lamond flied to Welsh. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough— Blount struck out. Welsh was robbed of a hit on a line drive which Nelson deflected to Fried. McPartlin called the runner out at first, another close decision. Dolan hoisted one to Lamond. No runs, hits or errors.

SEVENTH INNINGS.

Brantford — Chase fouled out to Byrne. Long cracked a liner to Fox. Nelson flied to Blount. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Rooney grounded to Fried. Byrne died on a smash right at Nelson. Long made a beautiful catch of King's long fly to left. No runs, hits or errors.

EIGHTH INNINGS.

Brantford— Deneau fanned. Ivers died on a hard one to Belting. Roth flied to Welsh. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough— Fox fouled to Lamond. Kelly fanned. Belting also missed three. No runs, hits or errors.

NINTH INNINGS.

Peterborough— Blount singled to short. Welsh sacrificed, Chase to Roth. Dolan flied to Wilson and Blount went to third on the play. Miller batted for Rooney and fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

BRITISH FANS NOT SATISFIED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., July 17.—From the British standpoint the white heavyweight championship of the world will never be settled till there is another bout between Carpentier and Gunboat Smith. There is a general feeling this morning that Smith should not have been ruled out last night for his "accidental" striking of Carpentier when he was down. Negotiations are already under way and it is likely that they will meet again in August.

CARPENTIER AWARDED FIGHT ON A FOUL IN THE SIXTH ROUND

LONDON, July 16.—Georges Carpentier, the young French champion and the only pugilist of premier rank France has ever contributed to the game, was awarded the decision tonight over Gunboat Smith, the American fighter, on a foul in the sixth round of the fastest heavyweight fight Londoners have seen in many years.

The match between the two heavy weights was fought at Olympia and was scheduled to go twenty rounds. To Smith and his supporters the finish was a tragedy, because the blow for which the American was disqualified was neither studied nor intentional. It was launched in the heat of the whirlwind fighting, when the Frenchman had slipped to his knees and the spectators saw the gaunt sailor recoil and attempt to draw back almost as his arms flew out.

Nevertheless, the ending of tonight's fight adds another to the unfortunate chapters of international sport, because it has kindled bad feeling and is likely to be followed by long drawn out arguments.

Great Confusion Reigned.

When the French contingent carried Carpentier to his corner in the sixth round the utmost confusion reigned. The ring was crowded with excited officials and seconds, and thousands of spectators were on their feet shouting and groaning. In this round Carpentier, after playing for an opening, while keenly watching the American's right, had feinted cleverly with his left and then brought a powerful right across Smith's jaw.

The punch did not land squarely but glanced off and, carried by the force of his blow, Carpentier swung round and slipped to his knees.

Quickly Smith's right shot forth. He drew back, and plainly would have withheld the blow on second thought. Then he stepped back and waited for the Frenchman to rise.

Just what happened to Gunboat's right is likely to be an everlasting cause of controversy. The men nearest to the ring disagree widely. Some say that it jolted Carpentier's spine hard at the back of the neck, some say it just grazed the neck, and others say it missed entirely.

The Frenchman's manager, Descamps, climbed through the ropes with seconds following, and picked up the fighter, who was holding his head in a dramatic manner with both hands. Descamps carried Carpentier to the corner, where he made a great business of rubbing and restoring him, and then, turning to the American fighter, poured forth a stream of excited French invective.

French and American camp followers poured into the ring and surrounded the referee, Eugene Corri. Shouts of "Foul, foul!" were raised. Everybody talked to the referee at once, and the referee pointed to Carpentier, indicating that the Frenchman was the winner.

Few were able to grasp his decision until the master of ceremonies, by bellowing and pointing to Carpentier, managed to make the result known. Gunboat Smith stood in his corner in a green robe, reluctant to leave the ring, while hundreds hooted him. Finally he climbed out.

Carpentier was Cheered.

Carpentier was brought to the ropes, and thousands raised a great cheer for the Frenchman.

The enthusiasm of the house, from the white-shirted aristocrats on the floor to the Whitechapel costers in the highest galleries, was with the Frenchman from the moment he stepped into the ring. His youth, his cheerful smile, his perfect body combined to make him the very picture of an athlete. Moreover, the English crowd was not anxious to see the man who had knocked out the English hope, Bombardier Wells, in seventy seconds, beaten by an outsider.

Gunboat Smith, tall, awkward and grim, towered over the French youth, and appeared relatively bigger than he is because of Carpentier's style of fighting.

In the last round it seemed as if the American's superior strength would tell, but through the next three the Frenchman let himself out and showed power behind his blows apparently equal to the American's and with greater swiftness. He landed a number of telling blows on the face and body with both hands, and sent Smith down in a heap with a right to the kidneys in the fourth. The big American was willing to gain time getting to his feet only after six seconds, just as the bell ended the round.

Between 12,000 and 13,000 persons witnessed the fight, among them 500 women. Probably another such assembly representing all classes in the English life, many French enthusiasts and American travellers, has never gathered at a prize ring.

Olympia Was Packed.

Two hours before to-night's fight between "Gunboat" Smith, the American heavyweight, and Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, was timed to begin it was evident that Olympia, the arena of horse shows, military tournaments, and spectacular shows would be filled to capacity. Seats had been provided for 11,000 spectators and many thousands of people who lacked the price of an admission ticket crowded the nearby streets and round the entrances so that ticket-holders had to fight their way through with the help of a large body of police.

Hundreds of French sportsmen, many of them accompanied by their wives, had crossed the English channel to encourage the only fighter of international class that France has ever produced. They were among the earliest to arrive on the scene.

DYNAMITE WAS FIRST USED IN ENGLAND 46 YEARS AGO

History of Discovery of Explosive And its Importance to Present-Day Methods.

ALF. NOBEL INVENTOR

Forty-six years ago the first official test of dynaimte in England was made. The hills around Merstham shook beneath the mighty vibrations of a new explosive born to civilization. It had been discovered by Alfred Nobel of Sweden and its experimental tests made in the preceding yar. Nobel created it to take the place of the untamed nitro-glycerin, which had appaled the world for several years with its grim tragedies. The inventor had lost his father and a brother when his nitro-glycerin factory had blown up a few years before his discovery.

Its death toll was such that England, Belgium and Sweden forbade its manufacture. The world was aroused when as a climax to its record a ship loaded with nitro-glycerin blew up in mid-ocean while on its way from Europe to Chili, and the governments were on the point of prohibiting its use. It was then that Nobel began his experiments toward taming nitro-glycerin—and created dynamite, or "giant powder" as it was first called in the United States.

In his world-wide propaganda to convince governments that dynamite was a safe explosive, the inventor came to America. It was while he was registered at a small hotel in New York that he casualy exclaimed to the clerk that his satchel contained dynamite. The Clerk finally ordered Nobel to seek other quarters, and was relieved when he went out of the door.

As It Is To-day.

To-day dynamite is being manufactured in the United States at the rate of 250,000,000 pounds a year. Filling 5,000 freight cars, it is constantly being transported over the railroads of the country. Though it is the third most powerful explosive in general use, it has been tamed so that railroad companies receive it for transportation almost as readily as they do coal. Nitro-glycerin, however, is still under the transportation ban in both the United States and Europe.

Dynamite is to-day one of the most important factors in the progress of civilization. Without it the mighty engineering achievements — the Panama Canal, the mountain and river tunnels—could not be accomplished. It takes an important part in building the modern skyscrapers; it is used to mine the necessary huge quantities of iron and other metals that enter into structures. It blasts out the millions of tons of coal that supply heat, light and power, and give life to the locomotives that bring food and clothing to the population of cities. It is hoping to grow the food we eat—the modern scientific farmer uses it to plow his land, its explosions shattering the sub-soil which no plow ever reaches. It is said to increase the crops greatly in quality and by fifty per cent. in quantity. To-day dynamite is used to fight wars and to prepare for a large part of the progress of the world.

Trades And Labour Notes

By the Official Scribe

There was a remarkably good attendance at the Trades and Labour Council this week, the soaring tendencies of the thermometer apparantly not causing the delegates to shirk duty. The newly-formed local of Hod-carriers and General Labourers was well represented, and the delegates are not novices when it comes to a display of union sentiment.

The City Clerk Writes.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong sent two letters in answer to a request from the Council. One was to the effect that in future more than one firm will have the privilege of tendering for municipal work; the other, that a nine-hour day clause has been inserted in the paving contracts.

"John Bull" Publishes the Facts

Representative Wm. Duggan called attention to the fact that the widely-read journal "John Bull" had published facts concerning the present condition of Canada's labour market, acknowledging the same from Secretary Wm. Stevens.

Labour Day Parade.

A strong committee was nominated by President Hartley to look after the necessary arrangements for a fitting celebration of Labour Day. New blood is anxiously sought as the old-timers feel that their range of vision could possibly be widened by the benefit of all concerned by the infusion of fresh ideas.

The Independent Labour Party.

This subject was brought up again and the foundation work was proceeded with as the entire membership of the Council seemed embued with th one idea, viz., that Peterborough working men should try and place a representative with Alan Studholme in the Provincial House; also with Alphonse Verville, in the Dominion House, to say nothing of members on the City Council purely elected by the Labour vote. Plans for the awakening of the working populace was discussed, and men who have toiled along these lines told of rebuffs which nevertheless must not deter them from striving for the desired goal.

Next meeting will be held August 5th.

"LOVE YOUR ENEMIES."

A girl said recently to another girl: "I'll get even with her all right."

"How?" asked a friend.

"By paying her back in her own coin," rejoined the girl.

Curious how we are prone to say this, and do it, and go on and hurt ourselves. For we cannot hurt another without hurting ourselves, the same as we cannot help another without helping ourselves. Every thought we think and every action we carry out comes back freighted with exactly its kind. We always get what we give. This is an immutable law. We think it is sentimental when we are asked to "return love for hatred." On the contrary it is absolutely practical commonsense. Meeting hatred with hatred degrades us. Meeting hatred with love ennobles us and lifts others to our plane. Isn't that practical? You can't do it, you say? The old Persian seer was so very wise when he said: "A gentle hand can lead even an elephant by a hair."

TO DISCARD FRECKLES, TAN, PIMPLES, WRINKLES

The use of creams on the face sometimes causes hair to grow. You can avoid the risk of acquiring superfluous hair by avoiding cosmetics and using mercolized wax instead. There is nothing better for any condition of the skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle. The latter is naturally replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy complexion, full of life and expression. It's the sensible way to discard a freckled, tanned, over-red blotchy or pimpled skin. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, erasing in the morning with cold water. It takes a week or so to complete the transformation.

The ideal wrinkle eradicator is made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings almost instantaneous results.

A LITTLE SKETCH OF A PETERBORO' POETESS

The Public Health Journal is running a series of articles upon "Canadian Poets," and in the last number has an article on Miss Alma Frances McCollum, with a picture of her attractive and delicate face. The article reads:

Alma Frances McCollum was born in a rural village, near the town of Chatham, Ontario, on the 7th of December, 1879. She was the youngest of a family of six, and the most talented. While she was still a child, her father, a well known local merchant, died, and the family shortly after moved to Peterborough, Ont. In this city the mother and three daughters continued to reside until the autumnof 1905, when they sold their Peterborough home and purchased one on Delaware Ave., Toronto.

Miss Alma had been frail in health for years before her short residence in Toronto. In the spring of 1900 she spent several weeks in a sanatorium at Clifton Springs, where she was very near death, and it was while her life was almost despaired of there, that she experienced the strange visitation expressed in that beautiful sonnet, "The Angel of the Sombre Cowl."

It was during her convalescence at Clifton Springs, that she met the young Canadian physician, now resident in London, England, to whom she afterwards became engaged, and who inspired the exquisite love-lyrics, "My Life-Harp" and "The Kissing Gate."

Probably the chief object in moving to Toronto was to enable Miss Alma to take lectures in English Literature at University College; but after a few weeks' attendance, her health so failed that she had to discontinue her studies.

Her physician believed she had incipient appendicitis and persuaded her to undergo an operation. This proved fatal, because of the effect, apparently, of the anesthetic on a naturally weak heart, and this gifted, lovely girl passed away on the 21st of March, 1906.

Miss McCollum inherited her poetical talents from her father, who, like the elder Lampman, wrote good verse. She began to make rhymes in early life, and while still in her teens had written most of the poems which appeared in "Flower Legends and Other Poems" (William Briggs) in 1902. The pretty cover design was sketched by herself. Besides these accomplishments she sang sweetly, accompanying herself on a guitar, and had a rare gift of mimicry and recitation. To see and hear her recite her own poems was a pleasure never to be forgotten; her lovely, expressive face, her graceful movements, her patrician voice and manners, made up an indescribable charm of personality.

To judge of her literary work fairly, the critic must remember her tender years and inexperience of life. What she has given to Canadian Literature, however, could ill be spared.

Miss McCollum's parents were both born and brought up in Ireland; and she was a niece of the late Rev. J. H McCollum of Toronto. Her mother and two sisters are now residing on the Pacific Coast, in the State of Washington, and another sister, Mrs. Charles Duesenberry, is a resident of New York State.

South American Millionaires Are Arriving With Money To Burn

AMERICANS GROWING WISE

PARIS, July 17.—The present season will mark one of the greatest changes in Paris life since the reconstruction days after the civil war, when Americans first began to visit by the thousand the city, which about the same time began to cast abroad its lure as a place of continued gayety anad light.

In all these years the American millionaire has been the city's uncrowned King, and the title has been so popular that wily Parisians unselfishly conferred it upon all Americans, whether brokers or clerks, society leaders or school teachers.

This year marks the willing abdication of the title by the North American and the equally willing adoption of it by visitors from South America, chiefly Brazil, Chile, and Argentina.

In other words, the visitor from the United States, which was formerly classified to mean "all America," has ceased to throw his money about by the bucketful in the shops and the Montmartre cafes. He has also learned to count his change, much to thed isgust of the waiters and porters: also when bad money is carefully concealed on the tray, the United States man has learned by hard experience calmly to refuse to touch it and to regard the servitor with a stony stare and impassive mien until good silver takes its place.

As a result when a United States man now mentions the fact that he is an American the first question asked is whether he comes from North or South America. If the former, the French seller is still quite pleased, for the United States man still retains his passion for purchasing whatever he wants, but if the answer is South American, the Frenchman becomes wildly enthusiastic.

As a result, wherever one sees signs, "English spoken here," in the shop windows immediately above are the words, "Se Habla Espagnol." Spanish is now heard quite as much on the boulevards as English, and some Montmartre cafes are positively dominated by young Argentine millionaires, who buy wine for dazzling demi-mondaines at Broadway lobster palace prices, while the American is quite content to stand at the bar and purchase beer.

Aside from the great commercial development, the sudden fortunes, and the rising political standing of the South American republics, which is the natural reason of bringing many of their sons to Paris, for young Argentines especially, the tango has been a great influence in their favour. All of them know the dance perfectly, and naturally there is a great demand for their services as instructors and exponents.

THE WEATHER

The hot wave has apparently left us as cooler conditions now prevail. The late hot spell was a lengthy one, beginning on the 5th with 85 degrees, and continuing with high figures until the 17th. On the 11th we had it 92 degrees in the shade, and on Thursday afternoon 91 degrees. The highest this summer was 93 on June 8th.

The hottest day last summer was August 16th, 97 degrees. From Aug. 13th to 19th was the most sultry period of the year.

Rain is greatly needed at the present time. Only .18 of an inch has fallen this month. The total for June was 1.18 while May had about half of that small amount, viz., .62. April had 1.65, and March 2.21 inches. Less than one-half the average amount has fallen during these months.—W.P.

Keeping Water Cool.—During the hot summer days when the men are working hard in the fields, it is difficult to keep the drinking water cool. A simple but very effective method that has been tried out is to keep the water in a stone jug having several thicknesses of woollen material around it. Fill this jug with cool, clear water, cork it tightly, then immerse the jug in cold water until the woollen material is thoroughly saturated. When taken to the field it is placed in a shady spot and will keep cool for a much longer time than it would otherwise do if not protected in this manner.

ANNIE LOUISE CARY

And Her Favourite "Robin Adair"

The indisputable queen of song in her day was Annie Louise Cary. She was one of the world's famous contraltos when, she retired from the operatic stage at the very height of her career in opera. She retained the sweet, wholesome characteristics of the American girl all during her musical triumphs. She made her debut in Copenhagen, although she studied in Milan. For three years she delighted European audiences before making her appearance in America. For over twelve years, with the exception of a brief European tour, she delighted American audiences with the charms of her voice and personality. But to hear her sing "Robin Adair," that simple old song, and that masterpiece of Arthur Sullivan's "The Last Chord," and Longfellow's "The Day is Done," with the rich tones of the happy, good-natured personality that always charmed, she always left the audience breathless and spellbound.

"Robin Adair," "The Last Chord," and many other favourites of Cary, are to be found in "Heart Songs," now being distributed to the readers of this paper. See Coupon elsewhere in this issue for terms.

There was such a demand for the Heart Songs that we had to discontinue inserting the coupon. We have now on hand a further supply, and the coupon will run for two weeks. If you desire a copy, save the coupons and together with 10c. you will get a $2.00 book.

"PEBLO"

The Glass of Quality

We have not any doubt but that most people value their eyesight sufficiently to want to take the best care of it. That is why we went to the expense of sending for our Optical Trade the Highest Grades of Lenses them can be made and which we handle exclusively under the trade mark "PEBLO." We believed our patrons would appreciate having their eyeglasses fitted with this superior quality lens, and after two years exclusive use of "PEBLO" Lenses, we are well satisfied with the result, judging by the hundreds of satisfied customers whom we have fitted with these beautiful lenses. It is interesting to know that in spite of the expense of procuring "PEBLO" Lenses the prices to our patrons are no more than when we used other makes of lenses, this being due to the large quantity we buy at a time. About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost."

CANNIBAL ETIQUETTE

PROCONSUL FROM PAPUA TELLS OF CUSTOMS THERE.

J. H. P. Murray, Lieutenant-Governor of New Guinea Describes Habits of the Man-Eating Natives—You Cannot Eat Your Own Quarry, According to the Best Table Manners—The Re-Marriage Question.

Monotony is not generally looked for as a characteristic of existence in a country where death is regarded as a mere incident, and cannibalistic feasts are of everyday occurrence. And Papua, or British New Guinea, is no exception, as we made clear by Mr. J. H. P. Murray, the lieutenant-governor—recently in London on a short holiday—in an interview with a newspaper man.

"The settled part," said his honor, "is safer than London; and even the districts outside Government influence are safe enough, if you travel with an armed escort.

"Papua is a country without railways, and, positively, the only means of traveling and transport is on foot. Of an Australian it is said that he will walk two miles to find a horse to carry him one; but in Papua the country is impossible for riding—even to an Australian. Where it is not densely wooded and entangled with undergrowth, it is steep and stony; or it is swampy. All over the island gold is found; but, except in the creeks, the outcrops are hidden by dense masses of decayed leaves and other vegetable matter.

"The country is brimful of interest, and the natives, at once utterly savage and curiously intelligent, are among the most picturesque and wonderful peoples of the world.

"In the district beyond Government influence, and, one would suppose, in the unexplored parts, cannibalism is rife; although, in traveling through the country, you don't often come across evidences of the practice. The cannibals themselves take good care of that.

"But, not so long ago, on one of my official excursions, I came upon the roasted body of a man, partially eaten, hanging from a house, within easy reach. As a matter of fact, the finding of such remains is quite a casual matter. It is as though I went down to my pantry; I might find a leg of mutton there, and I might not.

"As Government influence extends, however, the natives are easily persuaded to give up even secret cannibalism.

"Possibly, the eating of human flesh is frequently connected with some religious rites. With some of the tribes, before a man-hunting expedition is entered upon, a sorcerer stands by the canoe, calling loudly, 'Shall we go? Shall we go!' Should the boat rock, it is looked upon as a propitious omen. The canoe is quickly manned, one native taking up a position in the bow, spear in hand, and away they go.

"As to cooking, some tribes prefer to roast their victims, and others to boil them. One curious point of etiquette, in many parts, is that you must not eat the man you have yourself killed, although you may exchange with another successful fellow-tribesman.

"Unfortunately, some of the most intensely interesting statements regarding the curious characteristics and customs of tribes of the interior can only be given as hearsay, though some of these accounts must be taken with a grain of salt.

"Frequently, for instance, I have heard of a race of pigmies with tails. If a few of these imaginary being could actually be found, they would be of extreme interest to men of science, or would make a fortune for the first showman to exploit them.

"The Papuan is fairly truthful; but I have known of a native who boasted that he had not only seen these tailed pigmies, but had practiced a practical joke on them. These little fellows are said to live in houses set on wooden piles, and having holes in the floor, through which the inhabitants allow their tails to dangle. Our practical joker could not resist the temptation, and, according to his own account, he tied a knot in each tail, roused the little men, and fled to the hills. The predicament of his victims can better be imagined than described.

"Some of the Papuan tribes live in huts in small villages; but others build huge houses, each consisting of a tall, narrow, structure, perhaps a hundred yards long and seventy feet high, with a roof reminding one of an upturned canoe. One house will accommodate over one hundred natives, and sometimes many more.

"Most Papuans are remarkable linguists, nearly every tribe having a distinct language; and I have come across individual natives speaking seven or eight tongues.

"In one part of the country, husband and wife speak, to some extent, separate languages, though, of course, each understands the other's tongue. But each must use only his or her own. By the way, I may mention that this trait is by no means uncommon in the South Sea Islands.

"And besides these two languages, this tribe employs a third—especially for fishing expeditions. These fishing excursions to a neighboring island are taken periodically, and the natives have a superstition that anyone neglecting to use the third language on these occasions will find all sorts of dreadful things happening to him. These are not really distinct languages, but each contains many words peculiar to itself.

"One magistrate had an amusing deputation from an inland village, the chief of which, having heard of the white man's rule, was desirous of consulting him on an important social question. Was it legal, he wanted to know, for a widow to marry again? When he was assured there was no objection whatever to her doing so, he and his followers seemed mightily pleased. He had heard, he explained, that we objected to cannibalism, and had thought it was just possible we might equally object to widows remarrying."

Quite a Mistake.

A lady visitor at Blackpool was bathing and was on the point of drowning when a boatman, who is a local wag, went to her assistance. Later in the day he called where she was staying and saw a gentleman who, seeing the lady in difficulties, had offered £20 to any one who would rescue the lady. This conversation took place:

Boatman—I am the man who saved the lady, sir, and I thought I'd call and see about the £20.

The Gentleman—Yes, I know, but when I made the offer I thought it was my wife who was in danger, and it turned out it was my wife's mother.

Boatman—Just my luck! Well, sir, how much do I owe you?—London Tit-Bits.

TWO QUEER ANIMALS.

But the Hook Tail Bear Put One Over on the Sidehill Creeper.

Paul Smith, the famous Adirondack guide and story teller, once met his match. There was an Englishman, supposedly with the proverbial English sense of humor, who went to Smith's for some deer shooting. The morning after his arrival he started out with a gun alone. As he left the camp Paul told him to beware of the "side hill creepers."

"Well," said Paul, "it's an animal that lives on the side of a hill, and as its right legs are long and its left legs short it can only run on sloping ground. They are very ferocious, and if one starts after you you must run up or down hill, as on account of its deformity it cannot catch you when you do that."

The Englishman shouldered his gun and went out. About night time he returned. The guide said to him, "Well, I see you dodged the creepers, all right."

"No, I met one," said the Englishman.

"Yes?" said Paul. "How did you get away from him?"

"I ran uphill," said the Englishman.

"You shouldn't have done that. You could make better time running downhill."

"I know it," said the Englishman, "but you see I met a hooked tail bear, and I just naturally had to run uphill."

"How's that?" asked Paul.

"Well, you know when a hooked tail bear gets started running the only way he can stop is to wrap his hooked tail around a tree. If I had run downhill he could have stopped, but when I ran uphill why every time he hooked his tail around a tree he just tumbled over backward, and so I got away."

Paul owned himself beaten and when the Englishman left refused to accept any money for his board.—New York Herald.

PAIN CONSTANTLY TORTURED HIM

Student Became So Ill, He Was Forced To Leave Berthier College. Suffered For Two Years Until Cured By Wonderful "Fruit-a-tives" Tablets.

MAGLOIRE PAQUIN, ESQ.

St. Boniface de Shawinigan, Feb. 3rd. 1914.

"It is a pleasure to me to inform you that after having suffered from Chronic Constipation for 2½ years, I have been cured by the use of "Fruit-a-tives". While I was a student at Berthier College, I became so ill that I was forced to leave College. Severe pains across the intestines continually tortured me and it came to a point when I could not stoop down at all. At times, I used to be for three or four days without a single motion of the bowels, and I became so sick that my digestion became paralyzed. Some one advised me to take "Fruit-a-tives" and at once noticed a great improvement. After I had taken four or five boxes, I realized that I was completely cured".

MAGLOIRE PAQUIN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

We are all of us mutually dependent one upon the other. A woman with overwrought nerves is hardly a sane creature, and the reflex of her sufferings and irritability is felt in a degree by all her household. It does more harm than she can ever make amends for by overwork. The hasty word, the unjust innuendo, reach far and are not soon forgotten. There are few things in all the world more cruel and far-reaching in its effects than injustice to a little child, who can comprehend no excuse for it; yet how often are little children thrust off rudely by overworked mothers, whose pride has compelled them to put many unnecessary tuckings and puffs in their dainty little gowns, but who have forgotten all the child's needs of tenderness and spiritual care.

* *

There are many illustrations that might be adduced of the art of making life happy. The management of the temper is an art full of beneficent results. By kindness, cheerfulness, and forbearance we can be happy almost at will, and at the same time spread happiness about every side. We can encourage high thoughts in ourselves and others. We can be sober in habits. What can a wife and her children think of an intemperate husband and father? We can be sober in language, and shun cursing and swearing—the most useless, unmeaning, and brutal of vulgarities. Nothing can be so silly and unmeaning—not to say shocking, repulsive, and sinful, as the oaths so common upon the street corners. They are profanation without purpose, impiety without provocation, blasphemy without excuse.

* *

A pleasant woman in the home is like a gleam of heaven's brightest sunshine. Her presence soothes, comforts, and cheers the heart of man. Don't forget this, girls, when you get married. The only way to be pleasant is to make a study of the study it as such. A woman who makes the man she loves believe she knows not the meaning of worry, and who always has for him a pleasant smile and a word of welcome, will find that tender thoughts of her are creeping down further into his heart than those of the beauty whom she envies. Girls, you don't know what an effect continued pleasantness has upon a man. We would suggest to you to make a study of the art of being pleasant.

* *

Man is the creature of interest and ambition. His nature leads him forth into the struggle and bustle of the world. Love is but the embellishment of his early life, or a song piped in the intervals of the acts. He seeks for fame and fortune, for space in the world's thought and dominion over his fellowmen. But a woman's whole life is a history of her affections. The heart is her world; it is there that her ambition strives for empire; it is there her avarice seeks for hidden treasures. She sends forth her sympathies on adventure; she embarks her whole soul in the traffic of affections; and if shipwrecked, her case is hopeless, for it is the bankruptcy of the heart.

Man was made to love, protect and cherish, not to undervalue, neglect, or abuse women. Treated, educated, and esteemed as she merits, she rises in dignity and becomes the refiner and imparts a milder, softer tone to man. No community has ever exhibited refinements of civilisation and social order, where women were held in contempt and their rights not properly respected and preserved. De grade women and you degrade man more. She is the fluid of the thermometer of society, placed there by the hand of the Creator. Many may injure the instrument, but can neither destroy or provide a substitute for the mercury.

* *

It is not a wise policy to put an old head on young shoulders. Childhood is the time for childish pranks and plays. The girl will grow into womanhood soon enough. Let them be children as long as they can. Give them plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and let them run and romp as much as they please. By all means, give us hearty, healthy, romping girls rather than pale-faced little ladies, condemned from their very cradles to nervousness, headache and similar ailments.

* *

The fig tree was blasted, not for bearing bad fruit, but for not bearing fruit. If we would give to the world the benefit of the good that is in us, we must make that good manifest in our lives.

* *

The patient bearing and overcoming of little trials, day by day, is more heroic and causes more growth of character than some great deed that the world admires.

* *

Do not live for self alone; study the happinessof your friends and help the needy and deserving.

Hearts occupied with good thoughts are more apt to see good in others.

WHEN YOU UNPACK

Vacation days are here, or else they are coming for most of us. And the shops are so full of alluring tidings for the would-be traveller that the woman who goes about with her loosened purse strings goes home with an empty purse. Many of the things she buys perhaps she can get along without. But every one who is looking forward to a season of unpacking and of disposing a wardrobe in the cramped quarters of most hotels and boarding houses, would do well to invest in a few wrinkle-saving devices.

Hangers, of course, come first. The sort that collapse are the easiest to carry. They are sold in sets of three or six in small leather cases not more than ten inches long. But they can be bought much cheaper without the case, so if economy is your watchword buy them uncovered.

It is a good plan to take with you some of the big iron hooks or brass ones that are screwed into the under side of closet shelves, on which hangers can be suspended. You could probably get permission in any hotel or boarding house to screw these hooks into the under side of the closet shelf which, in many cases, boasts only a few of these space-saving hooks.

It is a good plan to buy cheesecloth or cretonne with which to make covering bags for our frocks, to protect them from dust. Measure two strips of the fabric, a little longer than your frocks, selvedge seams. Hem one end of the cover and draw the other up with a shir string. The shir string end is for the neck end of the frocks, and it should be drawn on after they are on hangers, and the shir string adjusted to the proper size.

Covers of a similar sort can be made for hats, although huge paper bags or sacks are perhaps the most satisfactory sort, because they are so light that they do not crush the hats. But big bags of cretonne can be made to hold hats, and they keep them free from dust. If there is plenty of through the fabric of one side, and hanging space, pin the hat in the bag, hang by stout strings.

Some of the attractive specialty shops and department stores sell delightful hat stands—little standards made of two pieces of wood, papered with pretty wall paper or enamelled white or grey, and painted with gay flowers. These are not very expensive and they are very convenient. They are also made covered with cretonne or with silk and gold net.

CHOICE RECIPES

Cherry Salad.

Lettuce, cherries, mayonnaise dressing, cherry juice and peanuts. Arrange crisp lettuce leaves on a flat salad dish. oPur over a mayonnaise dressing, first adding one tablespoonful of cherry juice instead of vinegar. Then arrange a few cherries over the top. The cherries should be stoned and a peanut placed inside to keep the shape.

Steak Florentine.

Select a good cut of sirloin, wipe and trim as usual. In a frying pan slowly try out four or five slices of fat salt pork until the pork is crisp and brown. Skim out the pieces and put aside. Add to the hot fat six onions quartered and sliced and cook very slowly for half an hour, by which time they should be quite tender and a deep yellow, but not really brown. Add one cupful and a half of thin strained tomato, season well with red pepper, also salt to taste, cover and simmer 30 minutes longer. Broil the steak as usual. Spread a thin layer of onions on a hot platter, on this arrange the steak. Sprinkle with the remainder of the onions, cover closely for three minutes, then send to the table.

Cream of Chestnuts.

Stew until tender one pint of blanched chestnuts, pound to a paste, adding one-half teaspoon of salt; stir this into two and a half pints of boiling milk; season with a pinch each of white pepper, nutmeg and grated lemon peel or one half teaspoon of lemon extract, and if necessary a little more salt. One cup of cream whipped or plain may be added at the last.

Minced Beef With Tomato Sauce.

One pint of minced roast beef, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one pint of strained tomato, one teaspoonful of salt, acyenne pepper, one tablespoonful of butter. Chop the roast beef very fine. Put the strained tomato in a saucepan and add the butter. When hot turn in the meat. Cook slowly 20 minutes then add salt, onion juice and a little cayenne pepper. Serve on squares of toast.

Pineapple Sponge.

Add half a cup of cold water to a pint of grated pineapple and place over the fire; simmer about fifteen minutes, and then strain through cheesecloth, pressing out all the juice possible. Place over the fire again, and when steaming hot, stir into it a fourth of a box of gelatine, softened in one-fourth of a cup of cold water. Add a scant cup of sugar, or sweeten to taste. When gelatine and sugar dissolve, remove from the fire and pour into a chilled basin and set in a pan of ice water. Add the juice of half a lemon and let the mixture get quite cold, but not stiff. Fold in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff and dry, and continue to whip until, when piled up, the mixture will hold shape. Pour into a mould or heap in glass dishes and serve very cold with an ice cold or frozen boiled custard.

BAD LIGHTING IN THE HOME

Any kind of artificial lighting that produces glare is wrong in principle, and its effect upon the eyes will be felt as inevitably as thought the sun were hung in the room just at the line of vision. A fixture over a polished table or in front of a mirror is as hard on the eyes as sunlight on white sand; indeed, it has much the same effect. The lights in a central chandelier of the direct type, hung low, burn the eyes and heat the brain; yet people will wonder what gives them headaches in a dazzlingly lighted room. It is a strain to distinguish people or objects in a room lighted in this way, yet you will see people shading their eyes with their hands while trying to read or work, and attributing the eye strain they feel to everything else than their "artistic fixtures." More often than not, such fixtures, though perhaps having shades for the light sources, will have the lamps or gas mantle protruding above or below the edge of the shade, where the eye cannot possibly escape them. In a mistaken effort to have a room brightly lighted, shades and globes of clear glass are often used, again subjecting the eyes and nerves to torture, and wasting lighting power. The lesson must be learned in than the eye can see less with a brilliant, unshaded light source than it can with less light well protected.

VIRGINIA FRIED TOMATOES.

Select medium-sized ripe tomatoes—not too ripe. With a sharp knife remove the thin skin outside slice, top and bottom, then cut each tomato into two thick slices. Place on a paper and cover each slice with crumbs, a little sugar, salt and cayenne pepper, then dot over with bits of butter; next place in a frying-pan which contains hot drippings. Fry on top of the oven until set, then put inside for ten minutes. Serve hot.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Before and After.

Jinks: "Why don't you use your wondrous hair restorer yourself, if it is so good?"

Barber: "Ah, sare! You not understand! Look at my assistant; I represent 'before use,' and he is 'after use.'"

Everything Strained.

Mrs. Boye: "She is simply mad on the subject of germs, and sterilizes or filters everything in the house."

Visitor: "How does she get along with her family?"

Mrs. Boye: "Oh, even her relations are strained."

Better Still.

Literary Aspirant: "You see, sir, I followed your rules, and wrote on one side of the paper only."

Editor: "You can do better still."

Aspirant (eagerly): "How?"

Editor: "Don't write on either side."

For His Eyes Alone.

"I gave Walter a beautiful necktie of my own make for a New Year present," said Mabel.

"Was he pleased?"

"Oh, yes; he said its beauty shall be for no other eyes than his own. Wasn't that lovely of him?"

The Wishing How.

He: "I have your permission to call this evening?"

She: "I shall be very pleased; but don't forget that father switches off the light at 10 o'clock."

He: "That's kind of him. I'll be there promptly at 10."

Precautions.

First Jeweler: "Aren't you afraid to leave those diamonds in a front window at night?"

Second Jeweler: "Not with my scheme. Just before I go home I put in a little sign on them reading: 'Anything in this window twenty cents.'"

Bringe it Home.

The well-known comedian, Mr. R. G. Knowles, tells this story in regard to a visit he paid his doctor: In the waiting room he found the head of a big firm of undertakers.

"Hullos!" Mr. Knowles exclaimed. "Are you in partnership with the doctor?"

"No, not exactly in partnership," was the reply. "I carry his work home."

There were two Browns in the village, both fishermen. One lost his wife and the other his boat at about the same time. The vicar's wife called, as she supposed, on the widower, but really upon the Brown whose boat had gone down.

"I'm sorry to hear of your great loss," she said.

"Oh, it ain't much matter," was the philosophical reply; "she wasn't up to much."

"Indeed!" said the surprised lady.

"Yes," continued Brown, "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my mate, but he wouldn't have her. I've had my eye on another for some time."

And then the disgusted lady fled.

Not Quite.

Mrs. Enright: "Suppose I were to die, what would you do?"

Mr. Enright: "Why, I should simply go crazy."

Mrs. E.: "Marry again?"

Mr. E.: "Oh, not that crazy!"

Knowing the Route.

A woman who, both by bearing and dress, could be distinguished as "new rich," entered a tram, and with a very haughty air seated herself near an old Italian.

When the conductor came to take the fares she said to him in a loud voice: "Put me down at my husband's bank."

The conductor, evidently knowing her, assured her that he would, and passed on to the Italian.

"Put me down at my chestnut barrow," called out the old fellow as he paid his fare.

No Contributions.

"Sir," said the trembling young man to the girl's father, "I love your daughter and she loves me, and I have come to ask you for her. I am sober and industrious, but poor. Will you give assent?"

"Not a durn cent!" growled the old man.

Equal to the Emergency.

Marcella: "Rosemary is the most resourceful girl I know."

Waverley: "Indeed?"

"Yes, she was in the country last Christmas when her sweetheart called to see her and there wasn't a bit of mistletoe about the place. So she fixed some pearl studs to a sprig of apple leaves, and when her beau came and saw them on the chandelier he never knew the difference."

At the Play.

A young lady went to see a play one evening. She was separated from her companion, another young lady, by two rows, and, thinking that the man next her was alone, she decided to ask him to change seats with her friend so that they would not be separated.

"With a sweet, demure, smile, therefore, she laid her little hand lightly on the man's arm and said:

"I beg your pardon, but you are alone, are you not?"

The man, a stout, red-faced chap, put his hand up to his moustache and whispered, out of the corner of his mouth:

A retired naval officer became the rector of a country parish. His parishioners, wishing to give him a surprise, subscribed amongst themselves and bought a flag for the church tower. Directly the old gentleman saw it he flew into a violent rage, and ordered it to be taken down at once. One of his parishioners asked him why he did not like it.

"Allow that flag to fly on my church tower!" he raved. "Never! It's an insult. Do you know what that particular flag signifies, sir? It means 'in distress; want a pilot.'"

Squire's Daughter: "Have you brought your music?"
William: "Music! I don't sing by music, I sing by hearsay."

An Error of Phonetics.

Mr. Arnold Bennett once told an amusing story about the Cockney accent that prevails in parts of London.

"The Cockney accent," said Mr. Bennett, "turns 'make haste' into 'mike iste'; and 'th' it turns into 'v' or 'f.' Thus, in Cockney, 'father' is pronounced 'fayver,' and 'thistle,' 'fistle.'

"A little boy, who always spoke the broadest Cockney, was sent by his mother to buy some fish.

"'Gimme a haddie,' he said to the fishmonger.

"'Finnan?' the dealer asked.

"At this the boy laughed knowingly, with the air of one determined not to be cheated.

"'Fin'un?' he said. 'No, not likely. Fick'un!'"

The vicar of Leeds, Dr. Bickersteth, tells of a clergyman who rang him up on the telephone to ask if he would consent to his taking a marriage service in which the word "obey" was left out. He replied that he was not the bishop, but was tolerably certain that the bishop would not allow him to omit the word.

"But who is the lady going to marry?" he inquired.

The answer was, "She is going to marry a doctor."

He then asked, "Would she mind if you put in the word 'consult' instead?"

Quite True.

"Yes, my friends," exclaimed a lecturer, "there are many excuses for the glass. The sick man says he must have his glass to make him well. The shivering taxi-man must have his glass to make him warm. The sweating mechanic must have his glass to make him cool.

"But they lie, friends. Don't believe the workman who says he can't work without his glass. I defy anybody to mention to me a workman who cannot work as well and better without his glass as with it."

A voice in the back of the hall made itself audible:—

"I'll tell yer one!"

"I defy you to do so," said the lecturer; "I defy you, sir!" he roared.

Then the voice observed:—

"The glazier can't do without his glass."

The lecturer continued his oration at a decided disadvantage.

Obeyed Instructions.

The wit of a [illegible] often makes the hearer feel [illegible] impertinence. Such a rebuke was that which Sir W. S. Gilbert administered to an over-bearing woman at a dinner party.

After the dinner Gilbert was standing in the hall waiting for a friend to join him, when a pompous and somewhat near-sighted gentleman, mistaking him for one of the servants, exclaimed:—

"Call me a cab!"

Gilbert looked the stranger up and down; then he observed, quietly:—

"You're [illegible] footman, sir."

"What do you mean, sir?" spluttered the other. "How dare you, sir?"

"Well," Gilbert retorted, "you asked me [illegible] you a cab, and I couldn't [illegible] chanson."

Jimmy's Hobby.

The following happened in a Manchester school the other day. The teacher had been speaking of unique and valuable collections of objects of art and interest, and spoke of the fabulous wealth that had been expended by some of the collectors on their peculiar hobby.

Thinking to obtain some idea of the characters of the members of his class in this direction, he asked them what they thought they would like to collect if they had plenty of money.

Up went the hand of a boy who was noted for particular brilliance—in fact, answers from him were very scarce on any subject; so this opportunity was seized by the teacher.

"Well, Tommy and what would you collect?"

"Rents, sir," was the prompt reply.

The lesson changed, and the teacher is recovering from the shock.

Doctor (modestly): "I assure you, my dear madam, I make no distinction whatever between the sexes."

"There is nothing more uncertain than a bowerance," exclaimed the man with a tendency to talk loud.

And the melancholy friend responded:—

"You never worked in a meteorological office, did you?"

The fare at a certain boarding-house was very poor. A boarder who had been there for some time, because he could not get away, was standing in the hall when the landlord rang the dinner bell. Whereupon an old dog that was lying outside on a rug commenced to howl mournfully.

The boarder watched him a little while, and then said:—

"What on earth are you howling for? You don't have to eat it!"

On New Year's Eve in a Yorkshire town two men were carried in to the hospital—victims of an explosion. One had the misfortune to have his nasal organ blown off; the other had lost one of his ears. The two were placed in adjacent beds, and in the morning the one minus his nose shouted to his neighbor:—

"Happy New Year to thee, mate!"

"Happy new nose to thee, and mind thi own business," growled the other.

"Where will Mrs. Dobs go now that both her daughters are married? To her son-in-law's house in Birmingham, or to that of her son-in-law in Leeds?"

"One wants her in Birmingham and the other wishes she would go to Leeds."

"What dutiful sons-in-law!"

"I beg you pardon. The one in Birmingham wants her in Leeds; the one in Leeds wants her in Birmingham."

A very distinguished British man of science had the foible, says Professor Brander Matthews, of inventing thrilling episodes and pretending that they were of his own experience.

On one occasion, after he had spun a marvelous yarn, with himself in the centre of the coil, a sceptical friend looked him in the eye and asked sternly:—

"Clifford, do you mean to say that this really occurred to you?"

Whereupon the imaginative man of science replied, with a twinkle:—

"Yes, it just occurred to me."

"This is one of my ancestors," she said, pausing before a portrait. "He fell at Waterloo. Have you any ancestors?"

He suddenly remembered an uncle who had sole charge of the front of a cinema show, and murmured, "Er—yes, one."

"Did he fall anywhere?"

"Not exactly; but I remember being told how, clothed in full uniform, but unarmed save for a light cane, he stood before an eastern palace and kept a howling, surging mob at bay single-handed."

"Really! How splendid!"

"Oh, he thought nothing of it. Did it every night for years."

Significant.

Miss Elsie de Wolfe, commenting at a tea in New York on the engagement to her mother's French maid of a young man belonging to a rich, old Knickerbocker family, said:

"Marriages of that type are seldom happy. They turn out like the bootmaker's."

Miss De Wolfe, smiling, resumed: "A retired bootmaker, who had married his servant as his second spouse, was once asked by a friend how he was getting on. His significant reply was:

"'Soles make stiff uppers.'"

Skeptical.

In some respects," said a New York lawyer, "Harry Thaw is as naive as a child. Altho his money commands the country's finest legal talent, he always insists that it is he who directs his cases. He is skeptical, too, of all who approach him."

The lawyer laughed.

"Thaw," he continued, "is as skeptical as Jamie. Jamie, a village celebrity somewhat lacking in intellect, sat on the racecourse fence the day of the local races, munching away at a leg of mutton which he had somehow procured and of which he was very proud.

"A wealthy steel magnate, whose country house was near the village, rode by in his fifty-horse power racing car and, seeing Jamie on the fence, said:

"'Ah, Jamie, are you here already?'

"'Oh,' retorted Jamie, with a dignified and important air, looking significantly at the mutton bone, 'oh, yes; ye all know a body when he's got anything.'"

An Epitaph for a Trust.

"Miss the trusts!" said Senator La Follette at a luncheon in Washington. "Yes, oh, yes, when the trusts go we'll miss them—we'll miss them like the widow.

"A widow, at her late husband's funeral, happened, during the burial service, to drop her handkerchief into the open grave.

"But the widow shook her head.

"'No,' she said, 'leave it there. I have dried many tears now.'"

First Critic: "I understand you saw Scribbler's new comedy last night. Who played the hero?"

Second Critic: "I did. I sat thru the whole thing."

A little girl had sent back her plate for chicken two or three times, and had been helped bountifully to all the other rich things that go to make a good dinner. Finally she was observed looking rather disconsolately at her unfinished plate of pudding.

"What's the matter, Dora?" asked Uncle John. "You look mournful."

"That's just the matter," said Dora. "I am more'n full."

Then she wondered why everybody laughed.

In the Name of Charity.

"We are going to give a series of bridge parties for the poor. I love to do things for the poor."

"So do I. I love to play bridge for them."

A Sure Thing.

According to a nurse in one of the big hospitals, a visiting surgeon recently caused a robust patient almost to collapse by joking with him after an operation.

"What are my chances for recovery?" asked the patient.

"Splendid," said the surgeon.

"What do you mean by splendid?"

"Why, you have one chance in twenty for recovery."

"That is not very encouraging. I can't see how my chances are as splendid as you say."

"Well, I'll explain," said the surgeon. "In this particular operation it is generally conceded that there is one chance in twenty for the patient to recover. The last nineteen patients I have operated upon for your complaint died, so you are the one out of the twenty who ought to recover."

"And has this famous doctor cured your friend of the manufacturing test she was sick?"

"Oh, completely. She's really sick now."

Circular Evolution.

"Jim"—errand boy.
"James"—office boy.
"Brown"—clerk.
"Mr. Brown"—head clerk.
"Brown"—junior member of the firm.
"James"—son-in-law of head of firm.
"Jim"—head of the firm and power on the street.

Her Partner: If you are tired of dancing, Mrs. Newrocks, we'll sit down and have a little tete-a-tete, shall we?

Mrs. Newrocks: Oh, dear me, no, thanks. After such a big supper I really couldn't eat another thing.

James' Economy.

"Papa," asked James, "wouldn't you be glad if I saved a dollar for you?"

"Certainly, my son," said Papa, delighted at this evidence of budding business ability that he handed the youth a dime.

"Well, I saved it all right," said James, disappearing. "You said if I brought a good report from my teacher you would give me a dollar, but I didn't."

Source of All Trouble.

Most of the trouble in this world is due to the fact that about one-half the people in it are men and the other half women.—Chicago News.

I'm puzzled about this custom of eating to music.

How's that?

I can't understand whether the food is intended to keep your mind off the music or the music is intended to keep your mind off the food.

No Mercenary Lover.

"Sir," said the young man with much respect, "I know that you are a millionaire, and that I am poor. It seems presumptuous in me to aspire to the hand of your daughter. But I have thought the matter out, and with some diffidence I have resolved to make my request. Love, sir, is not bound by sordid considerations or by mere social convenience. I have very real attachment for your daughter, and I pray that you will put no obstacle in the way of our early marriage."

The old man seemed interested in the young fellow, and inclined to listen.

"Quite so, quite so," he said. "As you know, I am not in the habit of sticking at trifles, providing the main purpose is straight. But which of my girls do you want?"

The young man breathed a sigh of relief, and courteously replied: "Oh, I'll leave that to you, sir."

The Ins and Outs of It.

Mrs. Burke Roche, at a recent luncheon in Newport, summed up an automobile accident neatly:

"We went out for a ride," she said, "but miles from anywhere, the car broke down, and we found we were in for a walk."

Fame.

"Why did the great pianist refuse to play?"

"Temperament. He got mad because his name was printed in smaller type on the programme than the name of the piano on which he was to perform."

Office Seeker: "Is there anything else in the job you speak of besides the salary?"

Office Seeker: "Ah! I knew there was some string to it!"

The Source.

Mr. Hoyle was a most indulgent father, but of late he had commenced to think that his son Arthur was taking advantage of his generosity.

"Why, when I was your age, young man," he said one morning, after a particularly urgent demand for more funds, "I didn't have as much money to spend in a month as you spend in a day."

"Well, dad, don't spoil me about it," said the youth. "Why don't you go for grandfather?"

Hopeless.

A gentleman who had been spending a holiday at a Scottish seaside village noted for its golf links asked one of the caddies if he was ever carrying in the winter time.

"Nae, sir, nae," replied the caddie. "There's nae carrying in the winter time. Ye see, it's this way. If it's no ane' it's frost; if it's no frost, it's ane'; if it's neither ane' nor frost, it's rain; if it's no rain, it's wind; an' if it's a fine day, it's the Sawbath!"

Habit or Preference?

A young woman of Baltimore was asked by a friend as to the likableness of a young chap who for some time had been paying devoted attention to the young woman in question.

"Oh," replied the fair one, carelessly, "William is a nice fellow, but he talks shop too much."

"How's that?" was the next question. "I thought he was a street-car conductor."

"So he is," retorted the other, "and he's continually saying, 'Step up closer!'"

Getting to Genuine.

"After all," said Kwiter, "it's a true saying that he laughs best who laughs last."

"Not at all," replied Wise. "The really true saying is: 'He laughs best whose laugh lasts.'"

A gang of laborers was employed digging a mysterious ditch across the street. It was a sewer or a place to put a gas pipe or something. One man in particular was working as if he were a chorus man in a play, just going thru the motions and pretending to dig a ditch. The foreman came along and spoke to him. "Don't be afraid," he said, with rich sarcasm. "Lean on th' shovel now an' thin. If it breaks I'll pay for it!"

Probably.

Miss Wheat, the new teacher, was hearing the history lesson. Turning to one of the new scholars, she asked:

"James, what was Washington's farewell address?"

"Heaven, ma'am," he said.

Jones: "If Mr. Oldboy makes any such assertion I will denounce him as a liar.

President: "Mr. Jones, I call you to order. Our bylaws do not allow you to go that far."

Jones: "Then I call Mr. Oldboy a liar as far as it is permitted by the bylaws of this association."

"Is she good to the children?"

"Very. She lets them do everything their father doesn't want them to do."

A Reporter.

"You surely don't give your husband a necktie every Christmas?"

"Oh, yes, I do! And the poor dear never seems to know that it is the same one!"

The Effect of Rubber Tires.

"How did you feel after the sixth car had gone over you?"

"I was almost completely erased."

"AWA' WI YE!"

William (who has been persuaded to contribute to our annual concert): "Can 'ee tinkle "Varmer's Boy,' miss?"

The Latest.

"At last," cried the musician, "I have fame within my grasp."

"How so?" asked his wife, who had heard the same thing before.

"You know Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March,' and the marvelous repute it brought him?" said the musician.

"Yes; but what of it?"

"Well, I'm going to write a 'Divorce March.'"

In After Years.

Wife: "You used to say I was beautiful. Have I changed?"

Husband: "No, but I have since I joined a church."

Why Willie Was Left.

Willie, at a Christmas party given by his sister, was allowed to participate in the snapdragon game, and sat amid a band of beautiful girls of 19 or so.

The lights went out, the usual grabbing for favors began, and then, when the lights were up again, Willie was to be seen crying bitterly.

"What's the matter, Willie? Didn't you get anything?" a lady asked.

"No," sobbed Willie spitefully, "As soon as it got dark, that man with the brown whiskers—boo, hoo!—he grabbed my hands and didn't stop—boo, hoo, hoo!—he didn't stop kissing them till the lights were up again!"

The Double Event.

Ella: "You say she has driven two men insane?"

Bella: "Yes. She jilted one."

Ella: "What about the other?"

Bella: "She married him!"

A commercial man was rash enough to make a telephone call when exceedingly short of time, and found when he spoke he had been put on to the wrong number.

The number he wanted was the simplest possible—one.

To shortness of time he thereupon added shortness of temper, and somewhat angrily complained to the operator of her mistake.

"What I want," he finished by declaring with savage distinctness, "is 'one' on the trunk."

And the operator retorted quietly: "Yes, you do, and I'd like to give it to you."

"You are a regular miser!" exclaimed Mrs. Snooper, when her husband refused to give her twenty-five shillings she asked for.

An Italian who kept a fruit stand was much annoyed by possible customers who made a practice of handling the fruit and pinching it, thereby leaving it softened and often spoiled. Exasperated beyond endurance, he finally put up a sign which read:

"If you must pincha da fruit, pincha da cocoanut."

An eminent Scotch astronomer tells this excellent story against himself. He once explained in a lecture that a certain star looked no bigger than a threepenny-bit a hundred miles away. After the discourse one of the audience said to him:

"I know you for a Scotsman, for no one but a Scotsman would trouble about a threepenny-bit a hundred miles off."

Mr. Charles Frohman, the well-known theatrical manager, was once talking about his plans for the winter.

"I had hoped that Sir George Alexander would go to the States," he said.

"Alexander isn't his right name, is it?" his friend asked.

"No," said Mr. Frohman, "his right name is Samson. It was a pity to change the name of Samson for that of Alexander."

"But Alexander conquered the world, you know," said the other.

"Samson, however, is the more appropriate theatrical name," Mr. Frohman insisted. "Have you forgotten that Samson was the first man who brought down the house?"

"Where's my umbrella?" demanded the wife of a member of parliament.

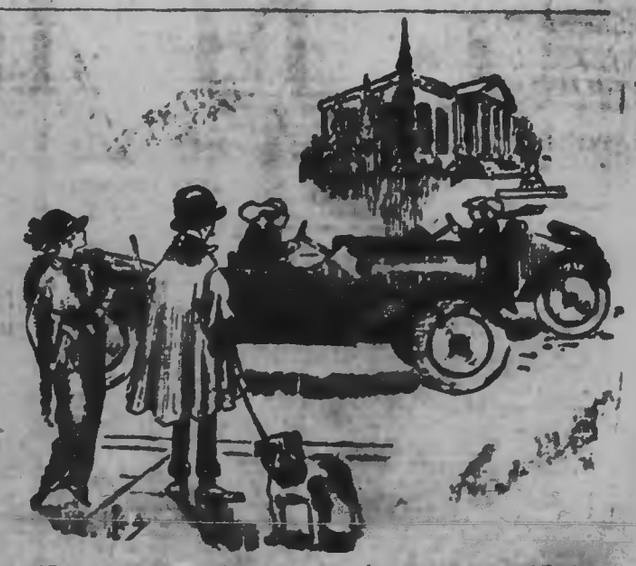
"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, my dear," meekly answered her husband. "It must be in the train."

"In the train!" snorted the lady. "And to think that the affairs of the nation are entrusted to a man who doesn't know enough to take care of a woman's umbrella."

A certain millionaire did not approve of foreign missions. One Sunday at church, when the collection was being taken up for these missions, the collector approached the millionaire and held out the collection bag. The millionaire shook his head.

"I never give to missions," he whispered.

"Then take something out of the bag, sir," whispered the collector. "The money is for the heathen."



"Do you suppose she's doing it the cause of all these automobile things we see?"

"Indeed no! In mine comes out of the fo'c's'le [illegible]."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AT THE OCTAGON HOUSE

It Wasn't a Burglar That the Pretty Intruder Encountered.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

Rosamond Lee walked slowly down the rose bordered path to the tall stone wall that inclosed the deserted house next door. The owners were abroad, and there was no prospect of their immediate return to inhabit the Octagon House, as it was called.

Rosamond had made many excursions about the neglected grounds and dreamed many dreams beneath the noble trees that rose from the unkept turf. She had taken toll of the blooming flowers and shrubs in their seasons, and now she fed the gray squirrels that raced up and down the green branches.

Her family laughed at her fondness for the Octagon House and predicted a speedy abandonment when Mrs. Phillips came home again, for Mrs. Phillips was old and irascible and much feared by Rosamond since she was a little child.

But on this glorious September day, when the late monthly roses were bordering the path with delicate sweetness, Rosamond, a fair, sweet rose herself, thought little of Mrs. Phillips in distant Berlin. The day was made for her—for her alone—and the Octagon House!

She followed the stone wall to an intersecting fence which served as a stepping stone. In a trice she had jumped lightly to the soft turf of the other side and aped swiftly across the dappled green toward the house.

The crooked piazza, which followed the outline of the old house, was covered with Virginia creeper, even now turning to brilliant scarlet and gold. In one corner where the vines hung low and formed a curtain were a long wicker chair and a pile of Rosamond's favorite books.

She had tired of reading and was sitting half drowsy with sleep when a step on the piazza roused her. Never before had any one trespassed on her chosen retreat.

She parted the vines and peeped through to discover a man's tall form bent to peer into the half drawn shades of the long windows. He straightened up again, and she saw that his clothes were gray and dusty and that white dust powdered his dark hair. He was mopping his forehead vigorously with a handkerchief, and she noticed that his hands were bronzed by exposure to the sun.

That the man was a burglar Rosamond had not a doubt. Her heart almost stopped beating when he glanced carelessly toward her vine covered retreat before he sat down on the top step to light a pipe.

"He's wondering how to get in," murmured Rosamond to herself. "If only I were brave enough I would go out and frighten him away, but I am fearfully afraid of burglars, and yet if he should break in and steal some of Mrs. Phillips' pictures I would feel dreadful, because I have enjoyed her hospitality unasked." She smiled thoughtfully and then sat very quietly.

Presently she dropped a book on the floor and rustled out of her retreat with a haughty expression on her sweet face. The stranger jumped to his feet and pulled off his gray cap.

"I beg your pardon," he stammered. "I didn't know any one was around."

Rosamond fixed him with a cold stare while she mentally decided that he was too good looking to be engaged in such a nefarious pastime as burglarizing unoccupied country houses.

She lifted her pretty brown inquiringly. "You wished to see some one?"

"Why—er—no. I didn't expect to see any one here. I thought the place was vacant," he stammered, knocking his pipe against the railing and stuffing it into his pocket.

"It is not vacant. I am here," said Rosamond bravely.

"So I—er—see," with an air of chagrin.

"The house is well protected."

"I am glad of that," he said heartily.

Rosamond imagined his tone was sarcastic. "Perhaps you wished to see my husband," she said in a wavering voice.

The man started violently, and his eyes forsook her face and dropped to the ground. "Of course it would be a pleasure," he said. "Is he around?"

Rosamond edged closer to the steps and ran lightly down to the path below. "I will call him. He is not far away," she cried breathlessly. Then she turned and sped swiftly toward the wall that divided the place from her home. Once there, her father would telephone to the village for assistance, and thus the burglary would be prevented.

She thought she heard swift steps behind her, and she renewed her speed toward the wall. Her heart was beating almost to suffocation as she stepped on a loose stone. She uttered a terrified cry as the stone slipped and she fell to the ground.

Now she heard swift steps in reality as the stranger crossed the turf and bent anxiously above her.

"I hope you have not hurt yourself," he said gravely.

"I have sprained my ankle," admitted the girl with white lips.

"What were you trying to do—not to scale the wall?"

"Yes."

"Why? Was your husband over there?"

A red flush crept to her brows. "Yes," she said.

"Shall I call him," asked the suspected burglar frankly, "or shall I carry you back to the piazza and get you some cold water? Where are the servants? Have you occupied the house long? My aunt wrote me that the place was vacant." He hammered out the questions with remorseless haste.

Rosamond stared with growing horror. "Who are you? Who is your aunt?" she gasped in return.

"I am Mrs. Phillips' nephew. My name's David Phillips. I have bought the place, and I came down to look it over. I was to have met the real estate man at the station. He came, but he forgot the keys, so I walked on. As he said nothing about the place being occupied, I was surprised to find a tenant."

Rosamond closed her eyes wearily, while her brain sought some escape from her appalling position. She was angry at having placed herself in such a situation. She might have known this good looking young man was not a burglar. She opened her eyes with suddenness and looked straight at him.

"I wish you would go away," she said petulantly.

"Of course, if you wish it. But you are suffering. May I not call some one to help you? I will look for your husband, if you will tell me his name." He stopped awkwardly.

"I haven't any husband," she said recklessly. "You see, I've been in the habit of running over here and sitting on the porch and reading, and today I saw you looking in the window, and I thought you were a burglar, and so I tried to frighten you away by pretending I had a husband. I live next door, and my name is Rosamond Lee—so there! You may laugh if you want to."

"But I don't want to laugh," he said softly. "I think it was awfully brave of you, you know, when you believed me to be a desperado. Now, Miss Lee, you must let me help you home again, for that ankle needs attention at once. Permit me as a neighbor and perhaps later on a friend!" He stooped and lifted her in his strong arms and carried her through quiet bypaths to a small gate in the wall and thus up the rose bordered path into her father's care.

Many times after that David Phillips strode up the rose bordered path to see Rosamond Lee, and the following June, when the roses were rioting the garden, he claimed her as his own, and together they passed under the portal of the rejuvenated Octagon House, of which Rosamond became in fact the mistress.

MRS. BEIDEL TELLS WOMEN

Shippensburg, Pa.—"It was several years ago that I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I then suffered terribly every month. My husband bought me a bottle of it and it helped me right away. Then after my second child was born I had a female trouble very badly and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in a short time was cured and have been in excellent health since. I always praise the Compound whenever I have an opportunity as I know it helped me and will help others. Lately I have given the Compound to my daughter and I wish all suffering women would take it and be convinced of its worth."—Mrs. JAMES A. BEIDEL, 113 N. Penn Street, Shippensburg, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

The Incorrigible Kid.

"Israel W. Durham, the Philadelphia politician," said a Pennsylvania legislator, "owed part of his success to the fine way he kept his followers obedient and obedient without hurting their pride."

"Mr. Durham could call you to order without offending you. Once, for example, he called me to order. He said I was incorrigible. He said, with a laugh, that I was as hard to manage as a little boy in a downtown school.

"This youth's teacher told him he must add without counting on his fingers. Then she gave him several mental sums. He solved them, but from the way he kept looking down at his hands she knew he wasn't minding her. So she made him put his hands behind his back, and then she gave him another sum. He answered it, too, correctly.

"'Good!' she said. 'You didn't count on your fingers that time, did you?'

"'No'm. On my toes,' said he."

Knew It by Heart.

Klerk—So your wife read you a lecture when you got home last night. Klubman—Read it? No, it was quite impromptu.—Boston Transcript.

He Could Say "No."

"A very dignified young man took a seat in a smoking car," said the hostess, who joined in the after dinner story telling. "Near him were three traveling salesmen, well dressed, jolly fellows, one of whom suggested a game of cards, and the others agreed. They appealed to the young man to take part and make up a four handed game.

"'Thank you; I never play cards,' came the response to the invitation.

"'I am sorry for that. Will you have a cigar with us?' added the spokesman, producing his case.

"'I am obliged to you, but I never smoke,' replied the dignified young man.

"They thought they would jolly the young fellow out of dignity, so the leader produced a 'traveling companion' and asked:

"'As you do not play cards nor smoke you will not refuse to join us in a drink?'

"'I thank you, gentlemen, but I never drink.'

"With this a venerable man with ministerial aspect sitting in the seat behind the young man reached forward and tapped him on the shoulder.

"'I have heard what you have said to these men,' said the sedate old fellow, 'and I admire you for the stability of character which has enabled you to shun bad habits. I have a daughter in the parlor car, whom I should like to have you meet.'

"'I thank you, sir,' replied the young man, turning about and facing the gentleman, 'but, the fact is, I never intend to marry.'"

LAWLESS ALBANIA.

Blood Feud Is a Recognized Usage in Balkan State.

The pluck of Prince William of Wied, who has been chosen by the Powers as the first sovereign of Albania, and who is now endeavoring to settle down at Durazzo, the capital, has aroused the admiration of Europe. No man was ever faced with a more stupendous task, for the Albanians have never known a King, and they certainly know no law. For the most part the prince will find his subjects half-civilized mountaineers, frank to a friend, vindictive to an enemy, and every man a law unto himself.

The Albanians live in a perpetual state of anarchy. Even the peasant in the fields bristles with weapons, for he loves warfare and brigandage far better than cattle-rearing or agriculture—hence the poor cultivation of the soil!

He is always on guard against his enemies, and constantly seeking the blood of those who have done him an injury.

In all parts of Albania the vendetta or blood feud is an established usage, and a man would be disgraced in the eyes of his friends and relatives if he did not kill an enemy who had injured him or any of those belonging to him. Delay in vengeance is held dishonorable. The man who will let years pass without killing his enemy becomes himself an outcast. Furthermore, till he has taken vengeance he cannot marry, or if he is married he may give neither his sons nor his daughters in marriage.

The first task that confronts Prince William is to stamp out these blood feuds and endeavor to carry some semblance of law into the mountains. It is, however, an almost impossible task, for the duty of revenge is a sacred tradition handed down to successive generations in the family, village, and the tribe. The consequence is that neighbors, villages, and even the several quarters of the same town are constantly at war with one another.

A single case of homicide often leads to a series of similar crimes or to protracted warfare between neighboring families and communities. A murderer, as a rule, takes refuge in the mountains from the avenger of blood, or remain for years shut up in his house. The latter is, in many cases, like a fortress, the only windows of which are loopholes for rifles; and in these houses families sometimes of a hundred people lead self-centred lives. Many men have not left their houses for years, and food has to be brought into them by their friends. Others again have taken to flight after killing an enemy, and unable to sleep in their homes or to till their fields, exist by brigandage, the latter being regarded as quite a legitimate form of livelihood.

Sometimes a truce, either temporary or permanent, is arranged by the intervention of the clergy, and occasionally a general truce is proclaimed. Between conflicting parties the restoration of peace is celebrated with elaborate ceremonies.

In some districts, however, there is a fixed price for blood, and a feud may be avoided if the homicide pays, by way of compensation to the relatives of his victim, sums ranging from $50 to $100, according to the district. Once a debt has been thus acquitted amicable relations are restored.

Curiously enough, although the Albanians are so lawless, they do not make war on women. In fact a woman may traverse a hostile district without fear or injury, and is often employed as an intermediary in the settlement of a feud.

Formation of Worlds.

There are two hypotheses in reference to the condition of the matter of the universe at the moment when science begins its discussion of the formation of the worlds. Both these agree that the matter was in a nebulous condition. As Professor Young says: "This does not assume that matter was created in a nebulous condition. As the egg may be taken as the starting point for the life history of the animal, so the nebula may be taken as the starting point for the life history of the planetary system." On one theory the nebula was in the form of a heated gas; on the other, it was a cloud of cold meteoric dust. This latter many astronomers think is more likely to be true.—Scientific American.

Clever Feat.

The girl was talking to the ex-college man.

"And what are you going to do now that you have completed your education?" she asked.

"Oh, I think I'll live on my income," he answered airily.

"I am disappointed in you. Live on your income, indeed! Why don't you do some great deed to show the world how clever you are?"

"My dear young woman, if I succeed in living on my income it will be the cleverest deed any man ever accomplished."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Got on Deck.

A sailor who had landed after a long voyage, and having been paid off, called a cab, threw his luggage inside and jumped on top himself.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the astonished cabman, "but you should get inside and put your boxes on top."

"Steer the craft ahead, jarvey. Passengers always go on deck and luggage in the hold," was the reply from the top.—London Tit-Bits.

The Bright Guide.

It was a party of visitors seeing the sights in Pittsburgh that finally entered the conservatory presented to the city by Mr. Phipps. The curator while showing them around was called away on business and left the visitors in charge of one of the clerks. They came to a beautiful statue which was admired immensely. It was of translucent marble. He pointed out the excellences of the statue, told the name of the sculptor and showed it from every viewpoint. One asked, "Alabaster, isn't it?" "No," he said, "Venus."—Argonaut.

Spanish Women's Hands.

The hands of a Spanish woman have a classic beauty, and their movements are incomparable. Such hands cannot be described; they can only be admired. When they manipulate a fan or roll a cigarette, when they raise a skirt or arrange a mantilla, it is always done with infinite grace. A Spanish woman alone knows how to use her hands as they truly should be used.—New York Sun.

Buried Alive.

In the early history of Japan it was decidedly a dubious honor to be closely related to any person of note, for one of the laws at that time decreed that when a person of rank or importance died all the immediate relatives must be buried alive in a perpendicular position around the personage's grave. Their heads were left above the earth, and thus they remained until welcome death came to free them.

Bluffed and Won.

"What is the meaning of this?" "My dear," he murmured, "I got to thinking about women being denied the right of suffrage, and I took a few drinks."

And he got away with it that time.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

BURNING WOMEN ALIVE.

A Punishment That Was Abolished in England in 1789.

The horrible punishment of burning women alive seems to have existed in Saxon England, but perhaps only in the case of slaves. Under the Norman rulers any woman, bond or free, who killed her husband was burned alive, and the same punishment for this crime and also for high treason and even for coining and other minor offenses continued or arose from time to time through the second and third periods until it was abolished by act of parliament in 1790, the last actual execution of this kind having, however, taken place six years earlier.

The whipping of women for various offenses continued even later. Public whipping was not abandoned until 1817, and cases of private whipping occurred as late as 1820.

There can be no doubt, we think, that the savage human instinct of cruelty had something to do with the barbarous punishments above mentioned. As the old Roman public longed for the carnage of the circus, as the Spanish populace crowded to the auto-da-fe in the flourishing days of the Inquisition, so the lower (perhaps not only the lower) strata of English nationality took delight in witnessing tortures which in all probability were devised and kept up partly for their entertainment. Judge Jeffreys in sentencing a woman to be whipped is reported to have said:

"Thagman, I charge you to pay particular attention to this lady. Scourge her till her blood runs down. It is Christmas time, a cold time for madam to strip. See that you burn her shoulders thoroughly."—Cornhill Magazine.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1914

FOLEY AND GLEESON TO CONSTRUCT ALL OF THE NEW PAVEMENT

Report of Board of Works Adopted And By-Law is Passed Authorizing Execution of Agreement.

PAVING AYLMER STREET

As a result of the City Council adopting the report of the Board of Works Committee last night, Messrs. Foley and Gleeson get the contract for paving the streets mentioned in the report, their tender being finally accepted. At last night's meeting ten by-laws were passed authorizing the execution of the contract with Messrs. Foley and Gleeson, and authorizing the construction of permanent pavement on the streets mentioned.

There were three objections to the by-law passing in its entirety. Alderman McImyre asked if the Warren Bituminous Company wouldn't accept half of the work. The Mayor explained that Messrs. Foley and Gleeson would not be satisfied with the other half in such a case. It was either one company do all of it, or the other do it all. As Foley and Gleeson's tender was the lowest, and their work had been satisfactory, their tender had been accepted.

Alderman Johnston raised the question of whether or not it was advisable to build the permanent pavement on Aylmer street north of Hunter. A report was given by the City Engineer saying that only half of the area mentioned there had a partial foundation of tan bark, and that a pavement laid on that portion of the road where tan bark does form part of the road would be found to be satisfactory. He recommended, however, that an extra inch or two of cement foundation be used on this part. The tan bark, he said, was so compressed as to be almost as solid as the earth. On the understanding that the extra expense caused by the addition of a couple of inches of concrete to the foundation be borne by the ratepayers in general, this part of the by-law was passed.

Alderman Langford asked why the Board of Works had not asked for tenders for cement pavement. For such streets as Chambers street at least it was a good permanent roadway. Alderman Duffus agreed to that extent that as concrete was about half the price of the other pavements, it would be better suited for streets that did not have heavy traffic. For George street and other central streets, however, he thought that if anything better could be obtained it should be used. Alderman Langford asked if the concrete pavement on Chambers street was showing any signs of wear.

City Engineer Parsons explained that the concrete pavements in other cities were not satisfactory. Where they have been put down lately in a manner that it is hoped will result in their giving satisfaction, the cost is almost as great as for other pavements.

After which explanation the following report was adopted:

1. Your Committee advertised for tenders for iron castings required by the city and received the following tenders:

			Gratings.
			Ingot.
			Steps.
Wm. Hamilton Co., per lb.	$2.40	$2.60	$2.25
Peter Hamilton Co.	2.40	2.60	2.25
E. Walter Green Co.	2.30	2.30	2.35

We recommend that the tender of G. Walter Green Co. be accepted.

2. Your Committee advertised for tenders for paving the following streets:

Aylmer Street, from Charlotte Street to Rubidge Street.

and received the following tenders:—

	Foley & Gleeson	Warren Bituminous Paving Co.	Wm. Lydle
Class of Work
Bitulithic, sq. yd.		$2.34
Asphaltic concrete, sq. yd.	$ 2.19
Brick pavement, sq. yd.	3.00	3.10	$2.95
Concrete gutter, sq. ft.	.30	.30	.32
Concrete gutter, lin. ft.	.25	.25	.14
Concrete sidewalk, sq. ft.	.16	.15½	.15
Bitulithic surface, sq. yd.		1.62
Asp cono. surface, sq. yd.	1.46
Five inch concrete, sq. yd.	.73		.84
Six inch concrete, sq. yd.	.85		.99

Canada Creosoting Co. suggested wood blocks, on 4 inch concrete bed, $2.20 per sq. yd.; on 5 inch concrete bed, $2.90 per sq. yd.; concrete curb, straight, 40c. lin. ft., circle 45c., and alley curbs 35c.; concrete sidewalk 15c. sq. ft.

We referred these tenders to the City Engineer to have the prices and estimated quantities extended and received from him a statement of the extensions, a copy of which is attached to this report. The City Engineer in his report advised against giving the contract for the concrete base to one contractor, and for the wearing surface to another and recommended that the tender of Messrs. Foley and Gleeson be accepted.

TO APPOINT FENCE VIEWERS

Council Will Pass a Bye-Law at its Next Meeting to Provide For These Officials.

WHAT THE DUTIES ARE

Among the by-laws introduced at the meeting of the City Council last night was one fathered by the Legal Committee to appoint fence viewers for the city, under the provisions of the Ontario statutes.

In connection with this matter Mr. D. O'Connel waited upon the Council, and spoke briefly concerning the proposed by-law. He explained that the Provincial law provided that whenever a man wished to build a fence on the line dividing his own and his neighbour's property the neighbour would have to pay half of the expense. If the neighbour would not agree to do this then the fence viewers are appealed to, to decide what kind of fence should be erected, and what proportion of the cost each should pay. If, after their decision, the second party still balked at the financial outlay, then the amount was added to his taxes. This law was now in force but there was not the necessary machinery for its execution in Peterborough to allow the citizens to take advantage of it. One of his clients wished to use the law and he was therefore present asking that some action be taken. He urged too, that such action would be of benefit to the citizens in general.

The by-law brought in provided for the appointment of fence viewers as suggested by Mr. O'Connel, and as provided for in the Provincial Act. The Aldermen were unanimously in favour of the move, but owing to the details being altogether new to them, and the fact that they wanted some time to think over the question as to who would be the three most suitable men for the positions, the by-law was held over until the next meeting. The names suggested in the by-law were City Engineer Parsons, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, Harry Evans and C. A. G. Spence.

Two other by-laws were passed. One for authorizing the borrowing by debentures of the sum of $16,967 to pay for the construction of sidewalks already completed, and the other to authorize the borrowing by the same means of $9,866 for the construction of sewers. Both by-laws were accepted through the three readings last night.

REPORT OF THE LEGAL COMMITTEE

Recommendations of Ald. Stratton and Colleagues Adopted By Council Last Night.

The following report of the Legal Committee was adopted in full by the City Council last night:

To the Council of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Legal Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We received a letter from Messrs. Robinette, Godfrey & Phelan, claiming $99.20 for the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives for the maintenance of Bessie Montgomery in that hospital up to June 30th. 2. We recommend that the City Solicitor be authorized to settle the claim of Mrs. H. 3. We recommend that no action be taken on the letter from Mr. E. W. Stacey, Vancouver, B.C., regarding the entertainment of visiting Australian youths.

4. We referred the request of Messrs. O'Connell and Corbery that a by-law be passed to appoint fence viewers and making regulations regarding fences to the City Solicitor for advice.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THE MIGHT OF GREAT BRITAIN IS REVIEWED

Four Hundred War Craft Of The British Navy in Annual Inspection To-day.

THE KING NOT THERE

Special Cable to The Examiner:

SPITHEAD, Eng., July 18.—Four hundred war craft of the British Navy in the air, on the sea, and below it, being the strangest fighting armageddon ever brought together, passed in review and manoeuvres before Mr. Winston Churchill and the Lords of the Admiralty to-day in annual review.

This Review is great annual fete of the British Navy, and hundreds of thousands of spectators on excursion boats were on hand to see it.

The occasion lost some of its attractiveness because of the absence of King George for the first time since he became the Sailor King of Great Britain. His Majesty decided that owing to exigencies of political situation and his desire to be on hand in London at any moment for consultation with the leaders of the Government and Unionist forces required his remaining at Buckingham for the day.

WAS A MEMBER OF ST. PAUL'S BIBLE CLASS

Charles Bergoine, one of the victims of Thursday's double drowning accident, was formerly a member of the St. Paul's Young Men's Bible class, of which Mr. H. B. Cowan is leader. While in Pittsburg he became connected with a large Bible class there and a day or two before his death he called upon Mr. Cowan to tell him about the Pittsburg organization. He had promised to speak to the members of St. Paul's class on Sunday if he were in the city. At the funeral to-day, the pall-bearers were six members of St. Paul's Bible Class.

Drowning Was Narrowly Averted

Little Boy Fell Into The River At The Street Railway Wharf.

A very small boy with a large fishing pole was thoroughly enjoying himself at the Street Railway Wharf yesterday, but became so engrossed in his endeavours to land a fish that he fell into the water. He would have undoubtedly drowned but for a lady across the river who saw the catastrophe and used her lungs to such good advantage that a gentleman came along and pulled the little fellow out. After some difficulty he got all the water out of the boy. The boy wended his way home very much distressed.

FORMER LOCAL MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH BETWEEN SECTIONS OF TRAIN IN HAVELOCK YARDS

Mr. John Belleghem Fatally Injured While on His Way to Work About Six O'clock This Morning.

INQUEST BEING HELD

Mr. John Belleghem, formerly of this city, and nephew of Mr. D. Belleghem, of Peterborough, met death early this morning in an accident which occurred in the C.P.R. yards at Havelock. It seems that Mr. Belleghem, who is an engineer, was on the way to his work about six o'clock this morning, and attempted to pass between two sections of a freight train standing in the yards. There was barely room enough for him to get between the cars, and just as he went to pass between the engine shunted the first part of the train backwards. Caught between the cars, unseen by the engineer, Mr. Belleghem was almost cut in two at the waist. He was carried into the baggage room of the station and made as comfortable as possible, while Dr. Holdcroft was summoned. Medical aid, however, was in vain, and although he remained conscious to the last, he succumbed about three-quarters of an hour later.

The late Mr. Belleghem was born in Peterborough and resided here until about eight years ago. He will be remembered by a great many local people who will learn of his tragic death with sorrow. He was the son of Mr. John Belleghem, of Toronto, and was 35 years of age.

He is survived by his father and mother in Toronto, one sister, Mrs. Roseborough, and two brothers, Ernest and Charles. He leaves also a wife and three young children.

An inquest into his death was opened this morning when a jury was empanelled and the body viewed. The inquest was adjourned until next Friday afternoon at one o'clock.

MORE SANITARY DRINKING CUPS

To Be Placed By City—Operation Of Incinerator to be Looked Into and Hydrants to be Installed.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

At a meeting of the City Council last night Ald. Langford announced that in submitting and passing the estimates for the operation of the incinerator, they had allowed only for the salary of one man. It had been found that during part of the winter at least, he needed an assistant, and now the man in charge claimed to need an assistant also. The other Aldermen suggested that the chairman of the Property Committee, and Sanitary Inspector Spence, look into the matter, and if necessary, get rid of the man at present in charge if they did not think he was operating the plant right. The Councillors expressed the opinion that the incinerator wasn't being operated in the right manner.

Sanitary Drinking Cups.

At the suggestion of Ald. Duffus, two more sanitary drinking cups will be placed in the centre of the city. One will be placed at the fountain near the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, in such a position that children will be able to drink out of it, and the other will be placed in Central Park. Ald. Langford was authorized to place any more he thought were needed.

New Hydrants.

Ald. Green brought up the matter of obliging the Utilities Commission and certain residents of the city, by putting a hydrant at the corner of King street and the Monaghan road. He did not, as a general thing, favour putting the hydrants so near the boundary, but the conditions governing this matter made it exception. There was no other hydrant within 800 feet of that point. At the suggestion of Ald. Duncan he incorporated in his motion the installing of a hydrant at the corner of Dublin and Gilchrist streets. The motion was carried and the hydrant will be placed. While the discussion was about hydrants, Ald. Saunders asked why some of the hydrants ordered by the Council had not been placed by the Utility Commissioners. The City Engineer was instructed to bring the attention of the Commission to this matter.

FREE TRADE FOR THE BIG FELLOWS TAXATION FOR OTHERS

To a reporter who asked him why meat prices in Canada were so high, Mr. R. C. Fox, General Manager of the William Davies Co., said: "It is our business to serve the places where the market is high. Prices are best in the United States at present, and we have free trade so far as we are concerned. The rise in Canadian prices is partly due to that and partly to the fact that the hot season always causes a flutter upward in the meats which are easy to cook. The demand for cured meats and steaks that do not require the housewife to stand over the hot stove for any length of time is increased."

When meat prices in the States are high the Canadian packers naturally, as Mr. Fox says, "serve the places where the price is high." They would be fools if they did not, and whatever other grievances we may have against them nobody thinks the packers are foolish enough to sell meat in Canada cheaply if they can get a high price in the States.

Now look at the other side of the case for a moment. When meat is cheaper in the United States than in Canada there is no chance of the Canadian consumer getting the benefit. Canadian meat goes into the United States duty free, but American meat is taxed when it enters Canada at rates that are practically prohibitive. The more important items of the meat duties are: Fresh meats from the United States, 3 cents per pound; canned meats, 27 1-2 per cent. ad valoram; bacon, 2 cents per pound; mince meats, 3 1-4 cents per pound. These duties practically bar the importation of meat in any considerable quantity into the Toronto market. The big fellow sell Canadian meat to the States on a free-trade basis, but when the Canadian consumer tries to buy from the States he is confronted with an insurmountable duty kept up for the benefit of the Canadian packers by the Borden Government.

What do the workingmen of Tory Toronto think of our jug-handled tariff? When Laurier comes back he will smash that arrangement for making the rich richer and the poor

SUGGESTED RED LIGHTS FOR THE FIRE-ALARM BOXES

As is generally known, the fire boxes have been somewhat differently placed on account of the additions to the fire alarm system. The question often arises, "How do people know where to go at night to ring in alarm, in case of fire?" and other such questions conveying a similar query. When the situation has been sized up it can readily be seen and known, that a large percentage of the population would be ignorant of where the alarm boxes are placed.

The suggestion has been offered, and it is a sensible one, that as an indication of the location of a fire alarm box, a red light be displayed. This would act as a lightship does to a disabled vessel, and do away with much confusion, which always attends such cases. The suggestion is in no way a reflection on the local department or its system, which it is known, is one, the devices and management of which is all that could be desired. The suggestion has merely been made, and if the proper authorities thought well to take the matter up, it appears that the City would be benefitted.

There is of course, another side to the question. That is, that there is no doubt that citizens should acquaint themselves with the location of the fire alarm box nearest their residences, so that in case of necessity, no time would be lost in communicating an outbreak to the Department at the earliest possible moment, thus facilitating the work of the City's Fire Brigade to a great extent.

A CLEAN CITY.

A visitor to the City, in conversation with the Examiner, said that he was much struck with the beauty of the city, from every standpoint, and more especially its clean appearance.

THE EVIL OF DELAY.

In all departments of human activity delay in taking effective action is seen. We have had the problem of improvement of highways presented for solution for years. Yet in all the years that have passed nothing much beyond talk has been done. We have had for years a Conservation Commission, but beyond the circulation of literature and educative propogandism, very little of definite, actual work has been done.

We have adpoted in Peterborough —three years and a half ago—the principle of public ownership of light and power, through the Hydro-Electric Commission; two and a half years ago we voted the money to finance the undertaking, and to-day we are practically where we began. We don't, as a coporation, own a watt of electrical energy, nor an inch of transmission line. Mayor Buller, in a moment of party enthusiasm, told us that the Hydro-Electric was gold in the pockets of the people of Peterborough; but we don't feel much of the jingle of this gold in our pockets yet, after nearly four years of waiting. As far as anything definite has been done, the pot of gold is still at the end of the rainbow.

The same spirit of delay and inaction extends to other things. The Board of Trade was given a shaking up early in this year; it was rejuvenated and made and gave great promise of doing something. The only spasm of activity it has shown has been in connection with the banquet in the interests of city beautification.

This is another example of much talk and little or no work, of great cry and little wool. We had a most enthusiastic gathering, representing every city interest; the city beautiful was to be put upon the map at once; but so far nothig that is visible has been done. We have, it is true, the memory of the eloquent and enthusiastic speeches made in the interests of city beautification; but eloquent speeches won't improve driveways, clean streets and plant trees, shrubs, and flowers; eloquent speeches won't even prepare definite plans, or lay the foundation of definite action, looking to definite results.

With such a spirit, equivalent in practice to a policy of delay and inaction, we can hardly expect the progress, the accomplishment that is feasible and desirable of national civic or individual undertakings. We must do something to exorcise this evil spirit. It is easy, of course, to point out such undesirable conditions, but not so easy to bring about a remedy. The only remedy that can be suggested is a very simple one, and, if applied, a very effective one; and that is, do something. Talk advocate, educate, and philosophize as we may, nothing can be accomplished without taking action — doing something.

"JUG-HANNDLED FREE TRADE"

We have often heard sarcastic reference to "jug-handled free trade," but not one of the advocates of trade restriction, by means of tariffs, is ready to make any outcry at "jug-handled protection," which protects those that need no protection—the financially strong—and bears hardly upon the man that really needs protection—the high-paying and long-suffering consumer.

In 1911 we were told that reciprocity would result in ruin to Canada —involving annexation, loss of our national existence and all sorts of evils. It was pointed out that if admission of Canadian products into the United States free of duty would, as claimed, promote annexation, the United States, if it desired to promote annexation, had the matter in its own hands. It had only to remove the duty from Canadian agricultural products entering the United States, to bring about national absorption of this country. This has been done; that is, the United States duty has been removed from a large class of natural products, and there has been no annexation nor talk of it. The result has been, however, to strike the Canadian consumer harder and help the well-to-do, the monopolist with large means, to make profits at the expense of the Canadian consumer; to permit him to take advantage of higher prices in the United States for certain Canadian products, which have free admission to the United States. The manager of the William Davies Company declares it is the business of that Company "to serve the places where the prices are the highest." That is, if the meats the Company sells are dearer in the United States, they are sold there, with the result that the shortage thus created in Canada by lessened supply for the home market advances the prices. In other words the large dealers sell Canadian meats in the United States markets on a free trade basis, while a high tariff against United States meats seeking to enter Canada when they are lower in price than Canadian, prohibits the Canadian consumer from getting the benefit of importing cheaper meats when they are cheaper in the United States. He is forced to see the big dealers get free entry into the United States when meat prices are higher there, and, in the process, increase prices to the Canadian consumer in proportion to the depletion of home supply. The consumer here has no remedy. If we had fair reciprocity, free exchange of such goods importation from the United States, when prices are lower there, would relieve the Canadian consumer. This might somewhat retard the progress of big dealers to the millionaire class, but it would be a benefit to the masses, who have to pay the high prices for foods that the organized, not say combined, dealers have it in their power to create and maintain. This condition is "jug-handled free trade," with a vengeance, with all the advantages on the side of the rich, and all the disadvantages on the side of the poor—consumer.

MR. MONK KNEW.

A letter written by the late F. D. Monk, on the occasion of his retirement from the Borden Government, ostensibly on the naval issue, shows that the letter was not the only cause of Mr. Monk's distaste for public life in Canada. In his letter Mr. Monk says that "public life in Canada is rotten and over-run with gang rule," and he goes on to say:

"We are living in an age in which personal interest and egoism are the paramount considerations. In this young country of ours it is high time that we should conduct ourselves in political life as we conduct ourselves in the relations of private life—that is to say, with honesty and straightforwardness. A reaction is required."

If Mr. Monk included the Liberal party in his black picture of the low state of Canadian pubic life, it is evident that this inclusion was only inferential and academic. He did not naturally know much of the inner life of the Liberal party, but he was in the inner councils of the Conservative party and must have made his sweeping condemnation of political methods from the knowledge of experience. He got his impressions from his close association with the inner councils of the Conservative party. Especially under the leadership of Mr. Borden, the Conservative party has assumed the "holier-than-thou" attitude and claimed to be the party of purity. The conclusions arrived at by Mr. Monk are not the only evidences of a failure of correspondence between profession and possession, between preaching and practice.

GERMAN PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

A correspondent of the Vancouver World says that as municipal ownership in Germany extends even to grounds and forests round the cities, the taxes are not only low, but in some cases they pay dividends to the citizens. "The whole system of city planning and maintenance is carried out on a scale inconceivable to those who are unacquainted with Germany's thorough and magnificent methods. It means not only spotless cleanliness in every quarter of the town, but every street and building is architecturally considered." — Toronto Star.

THE TIGER'S JUNGLE.

A story is told of the late Professor Goldwin Smith that, being informed one day of some law reform ad simplification in prospect, he said: "Did I hear that the lawyers are going to simplify the law? I shall hear next that the tigers are going to abolish the jungle."

In the late Ontario campaign one would have thought, to hear some of the Conservative-Whiskey party talk, that they were the only Simon-pure temperance reformers on the map. But, however it may be with tigers, or lawyers, we need not expect the whiskey party ever to abolish the bar. Their organs wet and dry, have indeed told us that temperance progress must, according to human nature, be very slow, to be reckoned, doubtless, in geological periods. The whiskey tiger's jungle and lair is the bar. When the bar falls, falls the tiger.—London Advertiser.

ENGLAND'S PREMIERSHIP.

A Coveted Office That Brings Misery to its Incumbents.

The lot of the British premier is like that of the policeman in the Gilbertian ballad—not a happy one. After Lord Derby had been prime minister he said that he had had only two happy days in office, one being the day he entered it and the other the day he retired from it.

Peel wrote: "It is impossible for me not to feel that the duties are above all human strength; at least, above mine." Peel also once made the curious statement that if his nose had not bled every night during his premiership he could not have borne the load of his position.

Lord Palmerston was so much affected by his work that he had a special high desk built, which necessitated a standing position. He explained that if he fell asleep while trying to keep up with his work the fall would awaken him.

Disraeli frequently stated that no man could have any notion of the ardeous life, and when Gladstone was released from the duties of prime minister he leaped head over heels down a grass bank at Lord Evans' through sheer delight.

Lord Rosebery once wrote the following concerning the duties of prime minister: "He has to deal with the sovereign, with the cabinet, with parliament and with public opinion in its various kinds and degrees. Some of his colleagues he must convince, some he may have to humor, some even to cajole. It is a harassing, laborious and ungracious task."—New York Times.

The Marechal Niel Rose.

When Niel, the French general, was returning home from the scene of his victories in the war between France and Austria he received from a peasant who wished to honor the hero a basket of beautiful pale yellow roses. One of the stems the general took to a florist in Paris, in whose care it remained until it became a thriving bush covered with blossoms. Niel then took the plant as a gift to the Empress Eugenie. She expressed great admiration for the exquisite flowers and on learning that the rose was nameless said:

"Then I'll name it. It shall be 'the Marechal Niel'."

At the same time she bestowed upon the astonished general the jeweled baton that betokened his promotion to the high and much coveted rank of marshal of France.

THE ART OF POTTING

Though it may seem a simple matter enough on the surface, there is some art in potting plants properly. The pots should be well drained, using for this purpose pieces of broken pots or crockery, and placing one large piece over the hole in the bottom of your pot. A little Sphagnum or rough material of some kind should next be placed over the crocks to keep the soil from being washed down and blocking the drainage. Then put on an inch or so of soil before placing the plant in position, and fill in with the compost, pressing this down firmly with the fingers until the pot is nearly but not quite full.

Some people seem to throw the plants into the pots almost anyhow, and still they grow and do well. Most plants, however, especially those of the "hard-wooded" or shrubby type, require to be potted very firmly—that is, to have the soil made almost hard in the pots, but in the case of soft-wooded plants generally, pot rather loosely for rapid growth and more firmly for early bloom. In all potting operations, see that the roots of the plants are spread out in the soil, that is to say, they should not have the soil thrown on them, but among them. The soil should always be slightly lower at the rim of the pot than at the neck of the plant.

ROBBING WOMEN OF THEIR HEALTH

Anaemia Unless Checked Passes Into Hopeless Decline

Anaemia is like a spectre that steals on you unawares and drives all happiness out of existence. It is a thief that robs you of your life and energy. Thousands of women in this country are the victims of anaemia (that is, bloodlessness), which spares neither rich nor poor, young or old. It robs woman her charm. The chief symptom of everything that gives a woman her charm. The chief symptoms of this trouble include a distaste for food, prostrating headaches, extreme langour, loss of weight, nervousness, pale cheeks, lips and gums, heart palpitations, dizziness and a constant feeling of wretchedness.

The only way to effect a cure is to increase the blood supply—to make it pure, rich and red. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls and women from the early fate that threatened them through anaemia's ravages, for these pills enrich the blood, stimulate the circulation, nourish the nerves, and restore the energy and perfect health that make women attractive. If you are not a victim of bloodlessness in any way, do not let it run into a hopless decline, but begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to-day. The following bit of evidence proves the worth of this medicine. Mrs. Maurice Sims, Liverpool, N.S., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. About two years ago I was so badly run down that I had to give up all work and go to bed. My husband and parents were much worried about me as they thought I was going into consumption. The doctor who was attending me changed his medicine several times, but it did me no good and I began to feel very much discouraged myself. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to do so. In a few weeks I felt much better and I continued taking the pills for a couple of months until I was again in perfect health. I believe that if I had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would not have surived, and I shall always be very grateful for what they have done for me."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

White Gloves

Ruis Ixar did not know a single soul in the pretty little New England town when he arrived at the only hotel there. He soon became a regular visitor to the church and the minister became interested in him and introduced him to the most prominent members of the congregation.

Among these were a Colonel Doremus and his pretty daughter, Elaine.

The colonel's house was situated close to the church which was almost opposite the hotel.

Ruis Ixar was exceedingly dark complexioned; his eyes were dark and melancholy and his teeth very white. He always wore white suits and white shoes and gloves, and this together with his name proved to everyone that he was a foreigner.

It was easily seen that he made a very strong impression on Elaine, who could sit on the piazza listening to him for hours. When she saw him coming she always flushed, but he was always the same calm and dignified person she had first met, though it was evident that he was determined to win her.

He had told Elaine that he was born in Santiago de Cuba. His parents were Spanish, but he had been educated in England.

"He never got that complexion in England," the colonel thought. "His face looks as if it had first been frozen at the North Pole and then scorched in the tropics."

"How long since you were in Santiago?" he asked him.

"Four weeks," he replied. "I arrived there some months ago from England, and in an incredibly short time I turned almost dark as a negro. Then I had an attack of fever and came up here to recuperate."

Ruis Ixar was repeatedly asked to dinner in the colonel's home, but invariably refused and the colonel, who knew that many Spaniards never invite foreigners to their home supposed that it was perhaps also their custom to refuse invitations from foreigners. This was the only explanation he could find for Ruis' constant refusal.

"It will be different when he becomes my son-in-law," he thought. "Anyone can see that he is in love with Elaine, and of her feelings there is still less doubt. I wonder if I ought to try to get some information about him. But really, why should I when I am convinced that he is all right."

One day when they were sitting alone on the piazza Ruis asked Elaine to give him her portrait.

"I will when you will give me yours," she said with a smile.

"But I have none," he replied. "I always hated to have my photograph taken."

"But you must get over that," she said. "I know an excellent photographer in Boston. Suppose we run up there in the car. You know how to drive, so we need not take the chauffeur along."

They drove to Boston and a few days later two proofs were sent to him, which he put into an envelope and went to the colonel's house to show them to Elaine.

When he found that the colonel had a dinner party he handed the envelope to the maid and asked her to give them to the young girl.

The next afternoon he went over there again. Elaine was delighted to see him.

"I think the photos are both splendid," she said. "I sent one to my brother, Herbert. I thought you would not mind, and I was just writing a letter to him."

"I did not know you had a brother."

"Well, he is really only my half brother, but we are very fond of each other. He is a doctor now, but he used to live in Honolulu."

"What is his name beside Herbert?" Ruis asked apparently very nervous.

"Duncan. But what is the matter, dear, are you sick?" she exclaimed as she noticed his face change.

"Oh, it is only a reminiscence of the fever. I think I had better go back to the hotel and take a rest. Good-bye, Miss Elaine."

She never forgot the expression that came into his eyes as he said these words. But while she sat ponde ringover this an automobile came rushing up before the door.

"Why, Herbert!" she exclaimed "this is indeed a surprise."

"Where is that man Baxter or Ixar as he calls himself?" he brother burst out. "I recognized his portrait immediately."

"He is at the hotel. But why do you ask, dear?"

"I have come to ask that scoundrel how he dared come here. He is a leper."

Elaine turned deathly pale.

"So that is why he always wore white gloves," she said.

"He ran away from Honolulu as soon as it was discovered, to avoid being sent to the leper colony. He has dared to try to win your love! But I must catch him."

He did not find the man with the white gloves at the hotel. Ruis Ixar had fled.

Relief at Once Cure Certain

Conclusive Evidence That Dr. Chase's Ointment Cures Itching Piles.

Mr. John G. McDonald, Pictou, N.S., writes:—"I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles, and found that the first application gave relief. After using a few boxes of the ointment I was completely cured, and can recommend it highly to all sufferers from this disease. You have my permission to use this letter for the benefit of others."

Mr. James M. Douglas, Superior Junction, Ont., writes:—"For about six years I suffered from piles, and often could not work for two or three days at a time, so great was the suffering from pain and itching. Doctors treated me in vain, and I tried many treatments before I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me, and for several months I have had no return of this annoying ailment."

There can be no doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment obtainable for every form of piles. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A PAIR OF SLIPPERS.

Story of an Eccentric Man and a Curious Monument.

There stands in a church in Amsterdam an ancient and curious monument of white marble which always attracts the attention of visitors, and their curiosity is usually heightened by its inscription. On the monument are engraved two slippers of a singular shape, with the inscription "Eilen Nyt," which in English would be "even nothing," or, more colloquially put, "nothing else." The story that is told of this strange device is as follows:

A certain rich man who was very extravagant in his tastes became possessed of the idea that he had just so many years to live and no more, and he calculated that if he spent a stated portion of his principal every year his life and his property would expire together.

He was lavishly generous to others as well as indulgent of his own whims, and it so happened that he died the very year he had prophesied would be his last. He had furthermore brought his fortune to such a low ebb that after his few debts were paid nothing remained of all his possessions aside from the clothes in which he was to be buried but a pair of curious old slippers.

Human Strides.

Many correspondents have been testing the length of their stride, even those small boys who pace out the length of a cricket pitch in assurance that twenty-two long steps make twenty-two yards. But a walker from the city avers he comes as near as most men to the yard to the step on a long walk. He stands five feet eight and one-half inches, has a swing from the hips and has always between milestones stepped from 1,690 to 1,710 paces to the mile. That, of course, is a solitary walk. In a regiment the pace must be set by the average of the longest and shortest steps.

Every Meal Brought Agony

But Since Taking "Little Digesters" He Can Eat Heartily

From Osgoode Station, Ont., comes a story of five years of suffering from Indigestion and Dyspepsia—five years of doctoring in vain—then "Little Digesters" and a complete cure. Mr. R. H. Ralph tells the story—his own story—thus:

"I have been a sufferer from Indigestion and Stomach Trouble for five years. I had treatment from several doctors. I did not find a cure until I began using "Little Digesters".

I can hardly describe how much I suffered at times. Every meal brought with it more or less agony and I seemed to have a complete distaste for food. I had almost begun to think my case incurable when I came across an advertisement in the papers about "Little Digesters". I decided to give them a trial. I am very thankful that I did so for I had not been taking them long when I found them helping me. I can now eat heartily and no longer feel pain and discomfort after eating."

Does Indigestion or Dyspepsia make your life miserable? Take "Little Digesters"—they will cure you or your money will be refunded.

POULTRY JOTTINGS

Poultry should never be eaten the day it is killed. The tenderest fresh killed chicken will be tough as soon as the animal heat has left the body. In about 12 hours, however, the muscles wil relax, and it then becomes acceptable for food.

It is estimated that it requires the feathers from about 10 ducks to make a pound; the sale of which just about pays the cost of dressing the fowls for market.

Some years ago, A. J. Hallock, of Long Island, one of the most extensive duck growers in the United States, kept records of the growth in weight of ducklings from shell to market. He found the following averages: Half out the shell, 2¼ ounces; all out the shell, 2¼ ounces; one week old, three ounces; two weeks old, 5½ ounces; three weeks old, 7½ ounces; four weeks old, one pound three ounces; five weeks old, two pounds, six ounces; six weeks old, three pounds, 12 ounces; seven weeks old, four pounds, 12 ounces; eight weeks old, six pounds, two ounces; nine weeks old, seven pounds four ounces; 10 weeks old, eight pounds; 11 weeks old, nine pounds, three ounces.

It requires about four geese to make a pound of feathers. Picking live geese for their feathers is a practice that has been discontinued in this country.

According to the New York Agricultural Experiment Station, the cost of food, per chick, to weigh one pound, on ground grain, is three cents; on whole grain, three and seven-tenths cents. After repeated experiments in feeding, this station says the ground grain ration proves considerably more profitable than the whole grain ration with the growing chicks; and the same was true of capons of equal weight from these chicks, and from others of equal weight and age, fed alike before caponizing. No difference was noted in health or vigor of chicks or capons fed either ration.

The following recipe for carbolated kerosene emulsion, gives not only a vermin killer, but also an odor to the hen house that is effective in the cure of cases of bad cold and discharges of mucuous substance from the nostrils: Half pound ordinary laundry soap, one gallon of water, one quart kerosene oil, four ounces crude carbolic acid. Cut the soap in small pieces, and drop into the water and boil. When it comes to a boil remove from the fire and add the kerosene. Shake or stir the mixture until nearly cool. Put away in a well covered vessel until wanted, at which time add about 12 to 14 quarts of hot water and the carbolic acid, and mix well. Use as a spray once a week.

SYSTEM IN THE HOME

Mrs. J. McIntyre, Welland Co., Ont.

Farmers' wives are always considered busy women and I am no exception; I find time, however, to read quite a number of magazines for women, and frequently run across articles to the effect that we women should do our work more systematically, and in some cases we are even told just how we should go about it. While I strongly advocate systematic house keeping, I don't think it possible for editors to dictate to us the way in which we should keep house, as they do not understand our individual conditions.

It seems to me that the plan of housekeeping depends altogether on the needs of the family, their standard of living, and their income. House keeping is really a profession, although it is not usually considered as such. The woman who can keep her husband and family healthy and happy and the house neat and clean and that on limited means, should surely be considered as one, if not the most important, link in the family chain.

One of the first steps towards keeping house systematically is to reason out what is to be done, and how, and why and how much time is required to do it in. If this plan is followed the housewife can accomplish much, and still find time for rest and recreation. For I believe that if there is no time for rest there is surely something wrong with the system. The term "systematic housekeeper" does not apply to the woman who is bent on having her home in the best of order and the table always groaning with good things, no matter what the cost to herself. To me the ideal systematic housekeeper is the one who is housekeeper, cook, seamstress, laundress and nurse, but who finds time to take part in social and church work in the neighborhood, to keep herself well informed on the topics of the day and to be a companion to her husband and children.

29 Millions On Improvements

And 30 Millions For Rolling Stock Spent By The C.P.R.

Last year's Canadian Pacific accounts showed that additional improvements to the system had cost $29,000,000, while rolling stock and machinery stood for $30,000,000. Construction of acquired branch lines amounted to $9,113,000. The Ogden shops at Calgary, $2,446,036; the dividends paid up to June 30, came to., in round figures, $15,000,000.

These are odd figures taken at random to show the bulk of the features which stand out prominently in the annual reports of the company. This year the expenditures upon rolling stock will, for the company, be comparatively slight, while ground has not been broken for any new work. This does not mean that there is any pause in the forward policy of the company. The great works which were begun two years ago, go on. The president said at the time that this work would be enough for the executive for some two or three years to come. This included the great irrigation works, the branch lines in the West,, the laying down of big terminals and trackage thereon, and, chiefly, the double tracking, which is going steadily forward. For the last ten years the company has been spending in the Northwest between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000 per anum, justifying the remark made by Mr. H. S. Holt, one of the directors, that the executive had spent in the Northwest, in all, as much as the entire capitalization of the system. It dovetailed in with the conditions that the company was not pledged to any large new work this year, though, as stated, no necessary feature has been in the least degree curtailed, notwithstanding the falling figures show curtailment of nearly $6,000,000 during the fiscal year which ended on the 30th of June. Every necessary work went on; every necessary man, high or low, remained at his post; there was no curtailment of services when the traffic was light; the elaboration which marks the dining car service, which marks the great hotels in their accommodation and cuisine was in no degree altered throughout the period of decreases; on the contrary, everything went forward with the conviction that both the country and the system were too well equipped to suffer any serious eclipse.

A LUMBERMAN'S OPINION

"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and dizziness," writes Mr. Wm. FOLEY & GLEASON TO CONSTRUCT ALL PAVEMENT

Mr. Rattle said to your Board that in view of the complications likely to arise because he would not lay the wearing surface, he was willing to withdraw his tender to which your Board consented.

We recommend that under the circumstances and in order to be in a position to compare the two classes of pavement, the tender of the Warren Bituminous Paving Co. be accepted for those parts of the work tendered for that lie east of George street, and that the tender of Messrs. Foley and Gleeson be accepted for the work tendered for that lies west of George street, and that if the Warren Co. refuses to accept this division of the work that Foley and Gleeson's tender be accepted.

3. We recommend that Barries, Limited, be permitted to put in glass 4 feet wide in the sidewalk in front of their new building, the glass not to extend more than 4 feet from the line of the building, provided the company does not put an elevator on the street and the agreement with the company includes this glass.

4. The City Engineer received a letter from the Superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway enclosing a plan of the way the railway proposed to fix the road on Romaine street on the corner of Monaghan Road. The Engineer reported that he saw no great objection to the proposal provided the railway planked a long crossing and put in a crib on the south side of Romaine street from a point 80 feet each on the Monaghan Road 100 feet easterly. We instructed the City Engineer to write to the railway authorities and make the suggestions to them which he had made in his report to this Board.

5. With respect to Mr. E. C. Patterson's letter in re a petition asking that Hunter street be paved, we instructed the clerk to reply that there is a great deal of work to be done on parts of Hunter street before the street can be paved, including surface water drainage, etc., and that it would be considered with the next list of streets considered for paving.

6. Mr. W. H. Munro, Manager Peterborough Radial Railway Co. informed your Board that on the C.G.E. line of the railway they wish to move the turnout from Park street at Rink street to Reid street north of Wolfe street in order to equalize the time on that branch. We recommend that the moving of the turnout to the point mentioned be approved, the turnout to be reconstructed and maintained and all the work to be done in accordance with the agreement between the Railway Company and the city.

7. A deputation waited upon your Board and asked that the sidewalk to be constructed on the east side of Lock street from Gladstone avenue to Lansdowne street be moved out 1 foot from where it had been located. We left the matter in the hands of the City Engineer.

8. Your Board was requested by Mr. E. Bradford not to construct the cement sidewalk on the east side of George street between Perry and Lake street, but we gave instructions that the sidewalk be constructed in accordance with the notice given.

9. We recommend that notice be given of the intention of the Council to construct a sewer on Hunter street from Stewart to Rubidge street on the recommendation of the Local Board of Health.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. H. DUNCAN.
Chairman.

Scout News

The meetings of both the Bear Cubs and the Scouts were fairly well attended this week. The Scouts were divided into the patrols in which they will go to Toronto. They, also reviewed their drill for Toronto.

When this was finished a business meeting was held. It was decided to hold a lawn social on the last Tuesday of August. A committee was appointed to prepare for this social.

Orders for the week:

Social Committee — Tuesday, 7.30, at Mrs. Milby's house.

Every Scout is expected to get as much provisions as he can for the lawn social.

The Story.
(By Scribe)

Note. — That the readers of this column may know, I will make it known, that hereafter all the stories in this column will be written about the different lines of Scout work and, to start this series, I wrote, some time ago the first two of these, viz., "How the Troop Helped"; "How the Ambulance Class Helped"; "His good turn."—Scribe.

How the Signallers Assisted.

It was a cold, bleak winter day. The sun shone brightly from a clear blue sky, and was one of those days which make an ideal day for sleighriding and winter sports.

The boys of Elm School, as was the custom, had made a rink, and also a hill. On both these centres of amusement the boys and girls of the school and district were heartily enjoying themselves.

At the same time, in Stanton Village, the Signalling Class of Troop X. were going through their last exercise, under the instruction of Dr. Maxwell. The boys were rather impatient to join their play-fellows, who could be heard shouting and laughing on the rink and hill. After the last of the exercises had been completed Mr. Maxwell said: "Boys, you have done your exercises very well and I shall be delighted if you all get your badges before the time limit." After a brief chat the boys were dismissed and they at once made for the hill.

At the same time Dr. Maxwell who was an astronomer, as well as a physician, went home da nup to his his telescope in his observatory which he had fitted up on the roof of his home, and while he was working there he happened to look out of one of its glass sides and to his surprise, he saw Scout John Morris doing his utmost to attract his attention by the call-up sign. He then got out his note-book quicky and took down the following message: "One—of—the — boys — has — been —hurt; head—cut—open. Mr. Maxwell immediately went to his surgery and brought the necessary bandages, etc. and set out for the rink.

When he arrived there he found seven of the Scouts doing their best to make the boy comfortable, and at the same time had done their best to ease his suffering. The reason that the boys could not render first aid was because their troop had been started very recently and no ambulance class had been formed. The Doctor immediately set to work on the boy and soon had the necessary first-aid bandages on him, and with the aid of the boys, had him conveyed to his surgery. Here the boy was put under the under the influence of chloroform and six stitches were put in.

After the boy had regained consciousness and was able to be taken home the boys immediately notified his mother, who came quickly to the surgery, where she found her son's head all dressed.

Some weeks later, as the boys of the Signalling Class were at their exercises another boy joined and learned the signalling alphabet which had been instrumental in bringing the Doctor's assistance in the hour of need.

VALUABLE HORSE IS MISSED BY LOCAL DOCTOR

Dr. Young this morning reported the loss of a valuable bay mare, to the police. It apears that last evening the doctor attended to the locking of the stable in the usual manner, and on going to the stable this morning, found the horse missing. A bag of feed was deposited underneath some loose hay. A fact which substantiated the advanced theory that the animal was stolen, is, that no hoof marks are visible on the lawn, as would almost undoubtedly have been the case had the horse broken loose from its stable. No suspicious characters were seen in the vicinity last evening, and how the horse disappeared is still a mystery. The police are working on the case, and it is expected that the horse will be found, and restored to its owner shortly.

SIGNALS TO STREET CAR

Passengers for Street Cars are requested to distinctly signal the car as it approaches the stop at which they are waiting, by raising the hand, cane, or umbrella to a horizontal position or higher.

In many cases it is impossible for the motormen to know whether or not persons who merely step out towards the the centre of a street, when a car is approaching, want the car to stop or not, and much uncertainty and consequent delay to passengers may therefore be avoided by our patrons making a distinct signal, as above, when they wish a car to stop for them.

CHECKS, TARTANS AND NOVELTY PLAIDS

Will Hold A Foremost Place Amongst the Coming Season's Most Wanted Fabrics

That is the Decree that Dame Fashion has sent forth, and, of course, you will find them at Cressmans'. They arrived yesterday, direct from England and France, and although the stock is not complete, yet they form a most interesting display, enabling you to take a "peep behind the scene" of Fall, 1914. The Checks are wonderfully well designed and come in two-tone and monotone effects; black and white will also be very popular. Then the Novelty Plaids are shown in a host of very pleasing combinations, mostly in subdued colourings, dark or neutral colours being used to balance the stronger colours. Also awaiting your inspection is a wide range of New Tweeds, Serges, Cheviots, Worsteds, etc. It will be a pleasure to show you these new goods the first time you are in the store. Ask to see them.

NO TRACE OF GIRL

Search For Body Of Miss Blanche Yorke Is Given Up.

KIDNAPPING IS SUGGESTED

TAMWORTH, Ont., July 18.—With the failure of the search parties to reveal anything that would lead to the locating of Miss Blanche Yorke, whose mysterious disappearance has caused so great a sensation here, and because of the general trend of circumstantial evidence sifted from the wild rumors that have prevailed, the theory that the missing young woman is alive and held against her will has gained considerable headway yesterday. Indications point strongly to the girl having been kidnapped during the late evening of Wednesday last week, and taken to some near centre of population.

The story of the auto running up the main street late on the evening of the disappearance, and heading in the direction of the road leading to the girl's home, is being followed up as a clue.

The family is more strongly of the opinion than ever to-day that she is alive, and the friends are optimistic in the hope that she will within a very few days be located. So many rumors are being circulated that it will be something untold of before if in the end one of them does not lead to a clue.

Searching for the body stopped yesterday, partly because the territory has been covered, and partly because the people believe that Miss Yorke is alive. It is understood that a search has also been made in Kingston, and surrounding towns have been asked to keep a lookout.

The first real action in the Yorke mystery took place last night, when County Chief Vankoughnet and a posse left for Brighton in an auto on the receipt of a telegram from that village to the effect that a man named Doherty in that town could give information about the missing girl. The result of the expedition is not yet known.

LIGHTNING PLAYED SOME QUEER PRANKS

Struck a Stoney Lake Cottage, Doing Damage in Every Part Of It, But Eight Occupants Were Unhurt

SOME NARROW ESCAPES

Mr. B. Sheahy, who returned from the Lakes, last evening, tells a remarkable story of the freaks of lightning during the storm of a few days ago.

The house of Mr. McQuillan, a Toronto traveller, he says, was struck by lightning, apparently every corner being effected at once. Every side of the house was cracked and one especially being spintered from top to bottom; yet, although eight people were in the residence no one was injured. Mr. McQuillan's eldest son was lucky in his escape, for the irons of his camp bed were twisted, but he felt no shock. But the most remarkable was the escape of the baby. Immediately after the storm, Mrs. McQuillan visited the cot and found that splinters from the wall had penetrated the pillow, two inches from the child's head. Expecting to find her child dead the frightened mother picked it up and found that it was sleeping peacefully and was quite unharmed. One of the boys was stunned but quickly recovered.

FRESH FRUIT IS MORE PLENTIFUL

Market Was Fairly Brisk This Morning But Dry Spell Is Not Yet Over—String Beans Cheaper

The inside market was brisk this morning, a larger amount of fresh fruit being offered. Black and red raspberries found a ready sale at 15c a basket or two for a quarter, while black currants went quickly for 15c a basket. Red currants could be obtained for 10c a basket. Eggs were 21 and 22c a dozen, and butter 25 to 27c a pound. New chickens ranged from 60c to $1.21 a pir, and ordinary chicken 65 to 75c each.

On the outside market the most noticeable change was in string beans up to the present sold for 10c a quart, were sold to-day for 5c. Cherries were selling at three small boxes for 25c. Cabbage, carrots, beets, onions, lettuce and such vegetables, were all 5c. Potatoes were 60c a peck.

The farmers say that contrary to the impression of many that rain must have fallen in the district during the week, the fields are as dry as ever and the outlook no brighter at present.

COMPLAINT AGAINST TRANSIENT TRADERS' LAW

At the Council meeting, last night, Mr. McRoberts registered a complaint against the Transient Traders by-law. He said that he had rented his grocery store to a tenant, and the latter, after learning that he would have to pay a $100 tax, decided that he could not go into business and called off the agreement though he had paid a portion of the rent in advance.

The Council were of the opinion that it was a hardship for men going into business in a small way, and referred it to the Finance Committee to see what could be done.

Mr. Kennedy, the tenant, not being on the assessment roll at present, must pay a tax of $100, which will be refunded to him in taxes until the full amount is given back. But, as the taxes he would pay are comparatively light the thing amounts to him paying the taxes on his store ten, fifteen, or even twenty years in advance. There was some talk at the meeting last night of amending the by-law.

Huerta Sails From Mexico

Former Dictator May Come to Canada to Reside.

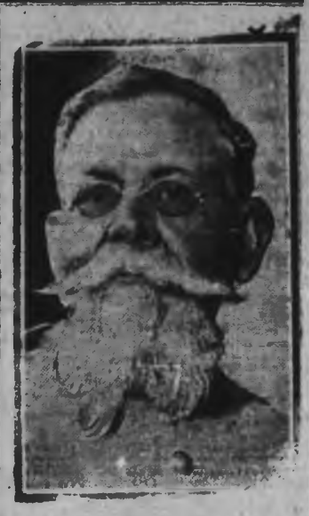
Special to The Examiner:

PUERTO, Mexico, July 18.—Amid a volley of salutes from Mexican batteries ashore, the deposed dictator and former President of Mexico, Victoriano Huerta, with his family and General Blanquet, his right-hand man, sailed at noon to-day from this port on his Brittanic Majesty's ship Bristol for Jamaica, where he will spend a few weeks deciding on his future home. It is only a few years ago since Huerta was escorted to this port to send out of the country the exiled President Diaz. Thus is history re-enacted. Huerta appeared careworn and worried, as he ascended the gangway of the Bristol with British naval officers in full dress uniform. It is said he may finally land in either Paris or Canada.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 18.—With the treasury completely stripped of funds it was found to-day that the Carbajal administration will not be able to even pay the salaries of the government employees due Monday.

There is hope that local banks may come to the assistance of the government.

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 18.—It is understood that the Constitutionalists, who will shortly enter Mexico City in triumph, will take no chances of Huerta's army rising against them, but will disarm and disband all old regiments. Court martial officers will either execute them for "murder" or expell them from Mexico for long terms. The bandit Zapata, who has a very strong force, has declared he will not submit to Carbajal or Carranza.



GENERAL CARRANZA

PRACTICAL HINTS ON CANNING

Some one has said that "fresh fruit, cleanliness, and a little 'know-how' are the requisites to successful canning and preserving." The canning season is again with us, and we must prepare to fill the rows and rows of empty sealers that have been accumulating during the past several months. For the benefit of the young housekeeper who is not very familiar with the canning art, and for the housekeeper who has canned fruit for years, but has not always had the best of success, we make the following suggestions which have been gathered from various authorities.

The success of canning depends largely upon absolute sterilization. This may be done by setting sealers in hot sunshine for a few days or by boiling. If the proper care is exercised there need be no failure, except in rare cases, when a spore has developed in the can. The best and easiest ways of canning are by cooking the fruit in jars in the oven, cooking fruit in jars in boiling water, or stewing the fruit before it is put in the jars. The use of fresh rubber rings each year should be strongly emphasized, as it is believed that many jars of fruit are spoiled each year on account of faulty rubber rings.

As canning is such hot, tiresome work, we should plan to have as many convenient utensils as possible. Large granite stewpans, paring knives, a wide-mouthed funnel, wooden spoons, a few large pans for sterilizing, skimmer, strainer, colander, clean cloths, etc., should be on hand. A wire basket for dipping fruit, such as pears or peaches, in boiling water before paring is a great convenience. When preparing berries also the wire basket can be used to advantage by placing the berries in the basket, dipping them up and down in water and setting aside to drain.

All fruits for canning should be fresh and not too ripe. If from any cause fruit becomes over-ripe, it should be used for jellies, butters, or marmalades instead of canning, as it seldom keeps in good condition.

After the fruit is canned and cooled, it should be stored in a dry, well ventilated cellar. Dampness is fatal to successful keeping of canned fruits as it causes a mould to form, which destroys the flavor.

CITY COUNCIL SHOULD USE ITS INFLUENCE

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In view of the present depression in trade, with its consequent scarcity of employment in the city and the number of men out of work, would it be too much to ask the City Council to use its influence with the contractors for the street paving, to, as far as possible employ citizens (?) men who have their homes here, instead of bringing in a lot of outside workmen who will leave the city as soon as the work is completed, taking the taxpayers' money with them and spending very little while here, while our own workmen stand on the sidewalks looking on, I think this would surely be better business. There are many men here at present who would be only too glad to do the work. I remain,

Yours truly,
GEO. LEADER.

Duke Leaves St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 18. — The Duke of Connaught sailed at midnight Thursday for Quebec, after a triumphant tour through the city, when great crowds, which had gathered all along the route, gave him a hearty farewell. An immense gathering also bade him farewell at King's wharf. There were bonfires on the hilltops and there was a big display of fireworks. Yesterday morning the duke sent a wireless message to the governor, expressing grateful thanks for his reception.

Four Rendered Unconscious.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 18.—In the worst electric storm that has been experienced here yesterday four men were rendered unconscious by lightning at the steel and radiation foundry, but last night recovered.

Many buildings were struck by lightning, including the residence of E. A. Lancaster, M.P. Considerable damage was done to trees in the district, and power transmission lines, and street cars were tied up.

Cremated Under Car.

CHATHAM, N.B., July 18.—W. L. T. Weldon, a tailor of this town, met a fearful death late Thursday night. With three others in an auto with him, it overturned on a hill and pinned him to the ground. Flames broke out and Weldon was cremated. Two of the others escaped uninjured, but the third, Nathan Deakin, of Montreal, had his feet and head injured.

WHEAT ACREAGE GREATER

Small Advance on 1913 Recorded In Official Report.

OTTAWA, July 18.—In a bulletin issued by the census and statistics office revised estimates are given of the areas shown and of the crops this year and of their condition on June 30th.

The area under wheat is now placed at 11,622,000 acres, or 7,000 acres more than in 1913. Spring wheat occupies 10,042,700 acres, as compared with 10,045,000 acres in 1913, and the area to be harvested in fall wheat is placed at 973,000 acres as compared with 970,000 acres last year. The area under oats is placed at 10,814,500 acres, which is 280,500 acres more than in 1913, when the area sown was 408,000 acres more than in 1912. Barley is estimated to occupy 1,597,600 acres as compared with 1,613,000 acres last year; rye 111,280 acres as compared with 119,300 acres; peas 205,950 acres as compared with 218,980 acres; mixed grains 463,300 acres, as compared with 473,800 acres; hay and clover 7,997,000 acres, as compared with 8,169,600 acres, and alfalfa 90,385 acres, as compared with 92,560 acres.

For the three northwest provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the revised estimate of the wheat acreage is 10,063,500 acres, as compared with 10,031,000 acres last year, an increase being shown in Saskatchewan and Alberta, but a decrease in Manitoba. Oats in the three provinces occupy 6,106,000 acres, as compared with 5,792,000 acres in 1913, and barley 1,038,900 acres as compared with 1,025,900 acres. The largest increase of area in the three provinces is for oats, 314,000 acres, which apparently shows that increased attention is being given to mixed farming.

LIGHTNING HITS COW.

Animal Is Killed While Lad Is Milking Her.

WINDSOR, July 18.—Norman Collins, a 12-year-old Windsor boy, spent part of his vacation on a farm near Cottam this week, but he is back home to-day, and declares he is through with pastoral affairs for ever.

The lad was milking a cow during an electrical storm, when a lightning bolt struck the animal, killing it instantly. Collins was leaning back on the milking-stool, when there was a blinding flash, and the cow dropped, having been struck on the forehead. The boy was rendered unconscious, and it was some time before he recovered. Two other cattle in the barn were knocked down by the shock.

Sixty Deaths From Heat.

MONTREAL, July 18. — Acting Mayor Blumenthal yesterday sent to the park superintendents a request that they would be lenient in enforcing the bylaw forbidding persons to sleep in the parks during the severe warm spell the city is now experiencing.

The acting mayor is himself transacting civic business in his shirt sleeves. There have been over sixty deaths of children directly traceable to heat in the city since the heat wave began.

Farm Hand Dies From Heat.

KINGSTON, July 18.—Wm. Fraser, 23, dropped dead while gathering hay on the farm of Wm. McNeely, Latimer. The heat was responsible for his death. He came here from Ottawa a short time ago. The heat has been so great in the past two days that farm work has been given up by many farmers. Haying has been held up owing to heat.

Train Struck Horse.

BROCKVILLE, July 18. — The Grand Trunk International Limited struck a horse and buggy at Lansdowne crossing, killing the animal instantly. The driver, Charles Palmer, did not observe the approach of the train until it was almost upon him. He escaped by throwing himself backwards out of the vehicle.

Mrs. J. Martin Sunshar, Rogerty Corner, N.B., writes: "I can very strongly recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for Dysentery and Summer Complaints. My little girl, at the age of two years, had the dysentery very bad. We had two doctors, but with no results. My mother brought me a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and when half the bottle was used the little girl was running around playing with her dolls with great delight and joy to the family, for we did not think she would ever get better."

Imitators have even gone so far as to imitate our wrapper in color and style, and have adopted similar names, such as Strawberry Compound, Extract of Strawberry, Wild Strawberry Compound, etc., which preparations they have been trying to sell on the reputation, and a larger profit to themselves, but unfortunately not to the consumers, who sometimes have had to employ medical aid afterwards.

Do not be led into taking a substitute for "Dr. Fowler's," and thus endanger your life.

Unionists Insist That County Which Is Mostly Catholic Should Be Left as Part of Ulster and Liberals Refuse to Let Its Fate Be Decided by Vote of the Protestant Sections.

LONDON, July 18.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—The most interesting moment in the Home Rule struggle was reached yesterday evening when the Government and Opposition leaders, with whom communications have been renewed, approached very nearly to a settlement of the question at issue, including the possibility of a settlement on the basis of "no clean-cut for Ulster and no time limit for a decision," but with the vetoing of certain specific Ulster counties on exclusion from Home Rule.

The counties under discussion in connection with this proposal are: Antrim, Armagh, Down, Londonderry, Fermanagh and Tyrone.

As to the position of the County of Tyrone there is a deadlock between the parties as to whether or not Tyrone, in which the Roman Catholic population is predominant, should be included in the Ulster counties, which might take a vote on exclusion from Home Rule, and at the moment there are no prospects in sight of a compromise, for neither the Nationalists nor the Liberals can concede its inclusion with the other counties.

The Daily News says that the Government intends to keep the amending bill in being as long as there is a possibility of any settlement being arrived at on the lines indicated. Any statements that the bill is dead or is abandoned should be discredited. They do not represent the situation, the fact being that the period during which the omens have been very unfavorable has been succeeded by negotiations which have for the first time brought the parties within measurable distance of peace.

Directly after the rising of the House yesterday a second meeting of the Cabinet was held at which some Irish leaders were present. Later the Prime Minister had audience of the King at Buckingham Palace. Rumor was busy that Sir Edward Carson also had been in personal consultation with the Prime Minister during the day. Sir Edward denies this and says that he has not "personally" discussed anything with Premier Asquith "since my return from Ulster."

Mr. Lloyd George, speaking at the Lord Mayor's dinner last night to the bankers and merchants of London, in referring to the present unrest in the labor world, concluded his speech with these words:

"I should not be doing my duty if I did not utter this one word of solemn warning. These industrial disputes are complicated by the situation in Ireland and should there be civil strife in that land, which heaven forbid, in the course of the next few weeks, the situation will be the gravest with which any Government in this country has had to deal for centuries. That is the reason why the responsible men of all parties should strive and work for a reasonable compromise. Everyone who has the honor and welfare of his country at heart must earnestly hope and pray that every effort will be made to attain that object, and that it will be ultimately crowned with success."

Prospects Are Bright.

LONDON, July 18.—The Government is making strong efforts to reach a settlement in the Ulster problem. Two Cabinet Councils were held yesterday, and Premier Asquith had an audience with the King and was in communication with Andrew Bonar Law, the Unionist leader, and Sir Edward Carson, in fact, the whole day was occupied in conference between the various party leaders, but without definite result. The negotiations will be continued Monday, and it is understood that the prospects for an agreement have improved.

RHEUMA WILL STOP URIC ACID DEPOSIT

Rheumatic Complications Checked and the "Human Sewers" Restored

The Kidneys, Bowels and Skin are the "human sewers" which carry off the impurities in the blood. When these are clogged Uric Acid sediment lodges in the muscles and joints and Rheumatism follows. RHEUMA, the great remedy for all forms of the terrible disease, checks the deposit of Uric Acid.

"For many years I suffered with Rheumatism. I am 71 years old, but am proud to say that after using one bottle of RHEUMA the Rheumatic pains are entirely gone. I daily recommend RHEUMA to my friends."—Willis Goff, Bridgeburg, Ont.

SHE HID IN CHURCH.

And Rumor Got About That Place Was Haunted.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 18.—For several years weird tales at various times have been told of the deserted Presbyterian Church at Churchtown, and for some weeks the villagers have been sure "spooks" were there again. A citizens' committee watched at night but discovered nothing.

It remained for John Jacobs, caretaker, to solve the mystery. While working in the graveyard he noticed an open window, and upon investigation found on the dusty pulpit sofa a woman. Assistance was summoned and she was removed to a nearby house, where a physician found she was nearly famished. Partially demented, she was clad in tattered garments that had once been fashionable clothing. Later in the day her identity was established, and her mother, Mrs. Jas. L. Cummings, of Flatbush, New York, the wealthy widow of Dr. Jas. L. Cummings, was communicated with.

It is believed that Miss Cummings, who is 50 years old, walked all the way to Churchtown, near which place she spent her childhood. It is supposed that past recollections influenced the demented woman's strange choice of a hiding place, where she had been since June 9. In all these weeks she says she had not had a particle of food, having subsisted entirely on water from a pump nearby, to which she repaired at midnight. Friends are caring for her until her relatives arrive. In her youth Miss Cummings was a noted society beauty.

GLORIOUS HAIR

Always Attracts—Use Parisian Sage. Thin or Faded Hair Becomes Abundant and Radiant With Life.

Girls and women of all ages want to be charming, beautiful and attractive—it's their birthright—but unsightly, thin and characterless hair destroys half the beauty of a pretty face.

If your hair is not attractive, is falling out, streaky, full of dandruff, too dry, or if the scalp itches and burns, don't delay—use Parisian Sage. Apply with a sponge or cloth, taking a small strand of hair at a time. Rub it well into the scalp. It will go right to the hair roots, nourish them and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of dirt, dust and excessive oil. It will cool and invigorate the scalp and make the hair doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage is a scientifically made preparation that gives the hair just what is needed to make it soft, fluffy, thick and gloriously radiant. It is delicately perfumed—not sticky or greasy. Sold in fifty cent bottles only at all drug and toilet counters. Look for the trade mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair." Accept no substitute.

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best hair tonic. Get a bottle from the Warne Drug Co. today. This firm will return the money if you are not satisfied.

AMNESTY IS URGED

U. S. Advises Carranza to Be Generous to Losers.

HUERTA SAFE AT COAST

Ex-Dictator, Accompanied by Blanquet and Others, Reaches Puerto Mexico, But Shows No Signs of Leaving Country So Far—Carranza's Men Favor Punishment of Chief Officers.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The American Government is firmly urging Gen. Venustiano Carranza, as first chief of the Constitutionalists, to meet the overtures of President Carbajal, the successor of Gen. Huerta, for a peaceful solution of the Mexican problem. President Carbajal is ready to transfer control of the Government in Mexico City to the Constitutionalists as soon as the latter guarantee the protection of lives and property of all elements in Mexico, and grant a general amnesty to those whom the Constitutionalists have been fighting.

The American Government has urged Gen. Carranza to be merciful, to grant a general amnesty and to give assurances that all property will be protected, particularly the property of the Catholic Church in Mexico. Gen. Carranza has been informed that the American Government would not regard it as magnanimous on the part of the victors to stand Federal officers against the wall before a firing squad, or to take their lives in any other fashion.

Constitutionalists here assert that they are willing to grant amnesty to the rank and file of the Federal army in Mexico, but that these higher officers who can be shown to have been active in supporting the cause of Huerta should be tried and punished. They do not think amnesty will be granted to them. It may also be difficult to persuade Gen. Carranza that they should be allowed to go free on trial.

Huerta at Puerto Mexico.

PUERTO MEXICO, July 18.—Gen. Huerta, who recently resigned as President of Mexico, arrived here shortly after nine o'clock last night. He was accompanied by Gen. Blanquet, his Minister of War. His intentions are a mystery to all but himself and his aides.

All arrangements were made early in the day for the reception of Huerta and Blanquet, and the stage was no sooner that they could enter the city and board the Bristol or Dresden and put out to sea as quickly and quietly as to rob their flight of all dramatic movement. Trouble was laid on that the special train should be pulled along the wharf close to the water, and the ex-President and ex-Minister of War would thus be enabled to reach the launch in less than a dozen steps.

None of the messages sent to Huerta's wife or to Gen. Camerena, commanding the cruiser guard here, indicated Huerta's plans. Not even the captains of the British and German vessels had definite instructions. They were to leave the direction to Huerta himself. It is generally believed, however, that Huerta and Blanquet will go aboard the Dresden, and the other refugees, including Senora Huerta and Senora Blanquet, aboard the Bristol, and that both cruisers will proceed for Jamaica or Havana.

It was a day of sharp anxiety for the older members of the party, especially wives of the two men who were passing through a country where a considerable number of revolutionists are known to be operating. They could not rid themselves of the fear that the revolutionists would in some way seek revenge on their husbands. Both were downcast and unresponsive to the efforts of the children and others to arouse their spirits.

Huerta's Retirement Celebrated.

NUEVO LAREDO, Mex., July 18.—The resignation of Provisional President V. Huerta was celebrated here Thursday night. Capt. Mendoza, commanding the Constitutional garrison, in an address said the American people and Government had proved their true friends. He urged Mexicans to show their appreciation and friendship for Americans in every possible way.

San Luis Potosi Taken.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., July 18.—San Luis Potosi has been surrendered to the Constitutionalists, according to unofficial dispatches received in Matamoros, opposite Brownsville yesterday. The messages, which were sent from Monterey, gave no details.

BAD NEWS FOR MP'S.

Asquith Says British Commons Will Sit This Fall.

LONDON, July 18.—Prime Minister Asquith announced in the Commons yesterday that it had decided to hold an autumn session and fixed the date provisionally for the last week in November or beginning in December.

For the third time within a week the Cabinet had another meeting yesterday to consider the Irish situation and allocation of business for the remainder of the session. The Prime Minister, much to the chagrin of the Opposition, refrained from any reference to the lines along which he would aim at a settlement of the Ulster problem when the Lords' amendments come before the House at the beginning of the week.

The Irish in general are indulging in a great game of guessing as to the probable outcome of next week's debate, but even the Liberal back benchers confess they are ignorant of the plan of the Prime Minister's plan.

GOVERNMENT STEPS IN.

Drastic Steps Will Be Taken Against Army Worm.

TORONTO, July 18.—The havoc which the army worm has been playing with the crops in various districts in taxing to the utmost the resourcefulness of those who are attempting to stem its progress. The Agricultural Department have a representative in Brant county in the person of Mr. Roy Sahuyler, and he is specially in charge of the situation. It is believed that the assistance of the Agricultural College is being invoked in order that the most scientific and thorough methods of fighting the pest will be employed.

The origin of the present plague of this type is particularly interesting. One theory is that the climatic conditions have been so peculiar, in that the natural foes of this particular pest seem to be absent. Endeavors are being made to localize the particular area, and with the use of kerosene there is talk, if the circumstances warrant, of the trenching of a ring round the affected area.

According to information obtained from an authoritative source, by thorough spraying, or perhaps better, by dusting the strip of the crop with Paris green or some arsenicate and liberally distributing poison bran mash large numbers of the pest may be destroyed. Where they are massed in furrows they can be destroyed by spraying them with pure kerosene or crude petroleum. As in fighting chinch bugs, the army worms must be given immediate and conclusive combat if the loss of crops is to be prevented, for they move rapidly and destroy all in their path.

Fighting Army Worm.

GALT, July 18.—While Brant and Oxford counties are fighting the army worm to stop its ravages, Waterloo County is free of the pest. J. H. Knapp, district representative, has just returned from a tour of the county and reports no trace of the worm, and that the crops in general are very good.

BRANTFORD WON A BATTING FEST BEAT PETERBORO 9 TO 7 YESTERDAY

Hammered Tracey For Seven Hits And Six Runs in One Innings and Petes Could Not Pull Down The Lead.

PLENTY OF HITTING

That Brantford team seems to be a jinx for the Petes. Rube Deneau's aggregation put another crimp in the home talent yesterday when they outscored them 9 to 7 in a free hitting contest in which Pitchers Tracey and Nickell were badly mauled. The Brants gave Tracey the worst combing he has had this year, cracking seven solid smashes in the sixth innings and sending six counters over the plate. The worse of it was that five of the hits and as many runs came with two out in that disastrous session. It looked like as if that third man was never going to get out, and for a few moments it rained base hits. The climax came when, with the bases loaded, three and two on the batter and the runners all in motion, Deneau cracked a long single to left, which cleared the bases. The six grab in that innings left the score 9 to 2, but the Petes did some timely hitting in the sixth and ninth, getting back five runs, but the margin was too big. Nickell seemed wild and was not much of a mystery, but he managed to stay ahead.

First Innings.

Brantford—Long, first up, tripled to left sliding into third ahead of the relay throw. Nelson singled through short scoring Long. Deneau sacrificed. Ivers fled to Rooney. Nelson going to third. Roth grounded to Fox. One run, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough — Blount flied to Long. Welsh doubled to left and went to third on a wild pitch. Dolan walked and started to steal with Nickell holding the ball. The big pitcher threw to centre trying to head him off and Welsh scored. Rooney grounded to Roth, Dolan was out trying to steal home. One run, one hit, one error.

Second Innings.

Brantford—Fried drove a liner into King's hands. Wilson fanned. Lacroix grounded to Byrne. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Byrne scratched a hit on a bounder which took a bad bound to Fried and went to second on a passed ball. King walked. Fox fouled out to Lacroix in trying to sacrifice. Miller fanned. With three and two on him, Tracey popped to Roth. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Brantford—Nickell got a life when Miller missed his fly in front of the plate. Long sacrificed, Tracey to Dolan. Nelson doubled to left scoring Nickell. Deneau fanned. Ivers singled to left, scoring Nelson, but was out trying to stretch it into a double. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Peterborough—Blount hoisted to Fried. Welsh doubled over third. Dolan popped to Roth. Welsh went to third on a balk. Rooney singled on a line to centre, scoring Welsh, and was out stealing, Lacroix to Roth. One run, two hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Brantford—Roth singled through third. Fried sacrificed, Dolan to King. Wilson died on a fly to Fox. Lacroix was passed purposely. The dope was good for Fox made a fine catch of Nickell's foul fly. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough—Byrne walked, and was out stealing, Lacroix to Fried. King grounded to Roth. Fox died the same way. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Brantford — Long was safe on King's fumble. Nelson sacrificed, Tracey to Dolan. Deneau died on a high foul to Byrne. Ivers fanned. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough—Miller cracked a fly to Long. Tracey fanned. Blount popped to Fried. No runs, hits or errors.

Sixth Innings.

Brantford—Roth singled through short. Fried sacrificed. Wilson singled to centre. Lacroix worked the squeeze with a bunt to Byrne, scoring Roth. Nickell singled to right centre, scoring Wilson. Long dropped one in the same place. Nelson singled to centre. Deneau singled to left, clearing the bases and taking second on the throw to the plate. Ivers singled to right scoring. Deneau. Roth flied to Fox. Six runs, seven hits, no errors.

Peterborough—Welsh died on a bounder to Roth. Dolan died the same way. Rooney singled to centre. Byrne singled over second. King doubled over third, scoring Rooney and Byrne. Fox singled to centre, scoring King. Miller grounded to Fried. Three runs, four hits, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

GEORGES CARPENTIER

The (best) picture ever taken of the French champion heavyweight who won from "Gunboat" Smith in London on July 10th. It will be noticed that he fights very low, in a crouching position, and this is thought to be partly the reason why Smith did not know that he was down before hitting him. This foul resulted in Smith's forfeiting the fight, but neither pugilist is satisfied and the bout will likely be fought over again for the world's white heavyweight championship.

SENATORS WILL BE HERE MONDAY

Frank Shaughnessay's Ottawa champions will be visitors in Peterborough for the first three days of next week. Shag's team has apparently recovered from its slump, taking two in succession from St. Thomas, and the Petes will not find them as easy picking as they grew a few days ago. Two or three new faces will be seen on Monday with the Shamrocks and the series should be the best of the season. The games will be called at 3.45 o'cock each day, with Tuesday as Ladies' Day.

BASEBALL

Scouts Belting and Fox signed up a new outfielder for the Petes, yesterday, in the person of a local boy, who was in uniform yesterday, and who did valuable service in carrying water. The recruit showed class in the preliminary practice and pepper on the bench, but was let go after the game. He threatens to appeal to Secretary Farrell, claiming his contract has been violated.

Lake Captain Dies on Vessel.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., July 17.—Captain W. G. Cox, 45, master of the Northern Navigation Co.'s Majestic, died on board his steamer while passing Killarney to Parry Sound. Standing on the deck at Killarney he was seized with apoplexy, falling unconscious at the feet of the friends with whom he was conversing.

In a Bad Way.

"You seem much upset, my good man," remarked the c'ate, who happened to call when Murkie was laying down the law somewhat emphatically to his family circle.

BUNK FOR THE CHICKS

A. Pardee, Simcoe Co., Ont.

If all of the causes that lead to losses among young chicks could be assembled and compared, I sincerely believe we would find more dead chicks due to impure water than to anything else. Chickens will drink water from old stagnant pools in the barnyard, from mud puddles in the lane, just so as it is water. The only way to avoid the troubles that ensue is to keep them well supplied with cool, fresh water all the time.

I find that cool, fresh water can be supplied in the ordinary drinking pan. A water fountain is necessary. Suitable fountains can be had from poultry supply houses or better still they can be made at home. My fountains are made as follows:

Take empty tomato cans of the larger size and punch holes around the open end about half an inch from the rim. Then take a saucer (a dish of any kind more than half an inch deep), fill the can with water and hold the saucer over the open end, and quickly invert.

The water will run out and fill the saucer until the holes punched in the can are submerged. Then the pressure of the air on the water outside the can will prevent water from coming into the saucer and there will be half an inch of clear water there for the chickens, which is constantly supplied, as water is lost either by the chickens drinking or by evaporation. It is well to have the drinking space around quite narrow, say half an inch, so that the chickens cannot get into the water and dirty it.

COMPENSATION

"A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth."—Luke xii., 15.

Often the thought comes that God has not been fair, that some have many more causes for happiness in their lives than others. But if we think seriously and observe closely, we will see that always His great law of compensation is at work.

Happiness has very little to do with what a man has, but much to do with what a man is. The greater the wealth, the position, the power, the greater the care and the responsibility. Plato centuries ago wrote that happiness consists in the mean, in moderate circumstances.

Going into the city yesterday, in the car seat in front of me sat a young couple, very plainly but neatly dressed, and every sign showing they were both hard workers. She held a few-months-old baby in her arms, in which they were utterly absorbed. The glow of pride and happiness on their faces leaves a grow of warmth and pleasure in the heart every time I think of it. On the way to the station I passed a stately home, with broad verandahs, on one of which sat a sad-faced, lonely woman, childless, and worse than husbandless.

A French writer has expressed the thought that the rich have so much in their lives that they have very little for which to hope, while those in poorer circumstances have much to which to look forward. The rich have so many pleasures that trials are thorns among their flowers. With the poor, on the contrary, a pleasure among all their evils is like a flower in the midst of thorns, and they appreciate more keenly the enjoyment of it.

WEDDING BELLS

QUINLAN—THEOBALD.

At the Church of the Sacred Heart this morning, at 8 o'clock, Miss Mary (Mamie) E. Theobald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Theobald, 517 Albert street, was united in matrimony to Mr. J. Harry Quinlan, of Prince Albert, Sask., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Quinlan, 596 Charlotte street. Rev. V. J. McAuley was the officiating priest. The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of ivory charmeuse trimmed with baby Irish lace, and the customary bridal veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Aileen Sullivan, who assisted the bride, was in yellow satin trimmed with brocade and nilson, and wore a beautiful Leghorn hat.

Mr. Albin J. Quinlan, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan left on the 11.00 a.m. G.T.R. for Toronto, and will travel by easy stages to Prince Albert, visiting in Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The bride received very many beautiful presents, among them being a silver casserole from the staff of the Sun Life office; cut glass, from the choir of the Sacred Heart, and a lovely picture and address, the latter margined with painted forget-me-nots from the League of the Sacred Heart, of which Mrs. Quinlan has been secretary for several years.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a necklace of amethysts and pearls, and a diamond stick pin to the best man.

The young couple have many friends in Peterborough. Mr. Quinlan was formerly with the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa, and is now in the Prince Albert branch. He took an active interest in local sporting and musical circles. Before leaving to come east for his marriage Mr. Quinlan was the guest at a dinner in his honour at the home of Mr. J. E. Aspin. About forty were present. On behalf of the gathering Hon. T. H. McGuire presented Mr. Quinlan with a gold locket inset with diamonds. He has has been home since the first week in July renewing old acquaintances.

DISCHARGED WITH NON-SUPPORT

Christopher Bell is Charged in Police Court To-Day.

"Our old friend William ... again," greeted William Kelly at Police Court to-day. He was on a spree yesterday. "If you let me off," said Kelly, "I will only drink cold water." However he was fined $8 to be paid in 10 days.

Christopher Bell was charged with the non-support of his wife, Edith L. Bell, and not providing the necessary wherewithal to live.

Mrs. Bell was called to the witness box.

Mr. Gordon—When were you married?

Mrs. Bell—Three years in October, and we have 2 children and the younger not 2 months old.

What have you had to eat?

Dry bread, no butter, but had tea to drink.

Magistrate Dumble—How much money have you had in the last two weeks.

Seven dollars, but my husband got $3 back for a grocery bill, 50c for a pair of shoes and 50c for meat which he brought back spoiled and took the last 10c for drink.

Does your husband work?

Yes, but he breaks out on these sprees and he said he would not work for $1.75 a day.

Magistrate Dumble—Is this man a goldsmith?

How is the rent?

Mrs. B.—The rent money he took and got drunk, and the rent is two months behind.

Have you had sufficient nourishment for your health.

Nothing last week but bread, and don't get enough to eat when he is on these sprees.

What about train.

Mrs. B.—He said he was going to jump a train and get away from me

Bell went into the box in his own defence, and said he had a job the day he was arrested.

Mr. Gordon—Three months in jail ought to be given this man as it would show other men what to expect.

The case was enlarged for a week to let the man get out and earn something.

Magistrate Dumble said that it was a failing of some of the British-born to spend all their money on cheese and beer.

Mr. Gordon appeared on behalf of the Crown.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

E. B. Fairbanks, aged 50, Campbellton, N.B., manager of the Bank of Commerce, died suddenly while on a fishing trip on the Restigouche river.

Reports received yesterday state that fighting is in progress between union and non-union miners at the plant of the Mammoth Vein Coal Co., at Prairie Creek.

Richard Mills, 14, lost his life while bathing in the old canal at Cardinal, Ont. He was seized with a cramp in deep water and went down before help arrived.

Several catches of extremely large muskinonge have been made on the river at Brockville since the opening of the season. R. McNabb has two beauties of over 30 pounds each to his credit.

Because he was half an inch short in his height measurement, a penitentiary guard was dismissed. The officials are standing strictly by the regulations since they were stirred up by the recent penitentiary commission.

Russell Johnson, aged 13, of Kingston, was terribly burned when he put gasoline in a stove to hurry up the fire. The flames set fire to the house, but though his arms were painfully injured he managed to put out the fire.

While making excavations for a sewer on Stanley avenue, Chatham, yesterday a number of corporation workmen unearthed six or seven coffins containing the dried bones of people who had been buried there many years ago.

Return Admitted to Boston.

KINGSTON, July 18.—The American immigration officer at Cape Vincent, N.Y., did not know Dillon, the released dynamiter, who was taken across the border after being released from the penitentiary. When it was found that Dillon was not being deported he was given his release, and chose to stay in the city quietly.

TRAINS COLLIDE

Electric Car Runs Into Freight and Four Are Killed.

NORFOLK, Va., July 18. — Four people were killed and scores injured in a collision between an electric train on the Virginian Passenger & Power Co. and a coal train on the Virginian Railway, early yesterday at Fairmount Crossing, about three miles from Norfolk. Only one of the dead were identified. They were Samuel K. Cuthriell and Miss Annie Meehan of Norfolk.

The electric train, loaded with men and women, left Ocean View at midnight and would have arrived in Norfolk at 12.45 o'clock. At the Virginian Railway crossing trainmen say the safety gates were down and a coal train of seventy cars was passing on route to Roanoke. The electric train crashed through the gates and into the freight train.

The electric train, made up of two wooden coaches, crumpled up after the collision and passengers were imprisoned in the wreck. Many of them had broken legs and arms, and their faces were bleeding.

FORCING UP PRICES.

Publication of Produce Quotations Prohibited By Court.

CHICAGO, July 18. — An injunction restraining the Chicago Butter and Egg Board from publishing prices on butter, eggs and other products was issued yesterday by Federal Judge Landis.

In a suit filed some months ago the Government charged that by publishing prices on the commodities in which it dealt the Butter and Egg Board artificially created prices higher than the market warranted, and violated the federal law prohibiting all acts in restraint of trade. The suit is similar to the recent action against the Elgin Board of Trade, which resulted in the entering of a decree directing that actual sales should alone be quoted and no attempt to fix prices should be made by what was known as the price committee.

THE VANCOUVER POLICE ARE DRIVEN OFF

Force Meets Defeat in Attack on Hindus—Twelve Persons Are Wounded in a Furious Bombardment

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 20. — A large body of Vancouver police and a contingent of special immigration constables, numbering nearly 200 men, descended early yesterday morning in the tug Sea Lion upon the Komagata Maru, and after grappling her and playing a hose on the infuriated Hindus, were beaten back by showers of coal and other missiles. Many of the attacked were injured, some seriously.

Such was the result of an unsuccessful attempt in the midnight hours to rid the harbor of the Japanese steamer and her unwelcome passengers, whose application for entry into British Columbia has been refused by the Court of Appeals.

A day or two ago the Canadian Government decided, as an act of mercy, to provision the Komagata Maru for her voyage back to the Orient at a cost of $6,000. Plans were carefully matured by Malcolm Reid, superintendent of the Immigration Department here; H. H. Stevens, M.P., and W. H. R. Ladner, with the result that at 1.15 in the morning everything was in readiness.

A large quantity of provisions were on the tug, together with 125 city policemen, under Chief McLennan, and upwards of 50 special constables under Captain Warden. The scene as the Sea Lion pulled away from the Canadian Pacific Railway Pier "A" was full of confidence and even hilarity. The policemen had revolvers, and the special men rifles. The Sea Lion slowly steamed out to the Japanese steamer, which lies only a quarter of a mile off shore, opposite the immigration headquarters. Upon arriving within hailing distance of the vessel it was seen that every inch of space along the rail and on the deck and bridge was occupied by a Hindu, armed with a club or other weapon, while in the bow of the steamer a solid mass were congregated.

Back and forth and along the Hindus a hose was played, with, at first, astonishing results. Beaten back by the seething water they retreated in every direction and for the moment it seemed as though the civic forces had commenced a victorious action.

Only for a moment, however; the next moment a most startling change occurred. Rallying, a number of Hindus faced the stream and dashed in a shower of missiles upon the attacking party. This was followed by a tremendous storm of lumps of coal, which in a couple of minutes had completely upset the order which had reigned aboard the Sea Lion. The crowded mass of men upon the deck of the tug were absolutely at the mercy of the Hindus, and the latter were now the attacking party. For a few minutes the air seemed full of coal, pieces of wood, fire bricks and pieces of iron from what is believed the wreckage of the engine room.

Quite a number of men fell, stretched out by blows on the head and in the crowding to that side of the tug farthest away from the Japanese steamer detective, McArthur, was forced overboard.

Chief of Police McLennan was badly bruised. Inspector Scott was knocked unconscious from a blow from a brick. Police Constable McCall had two ribs broken and Captain Robertson of the Sea Lion was cut over the eye by flying glass.

Eventually the grappling iron attached to the Maru's rails having been unloosened by some police constable, the Sea Lion, with her injured and angry crowd, slowly moved away from the vessel's side and made her way back to dock.

Sunday afternoon passed peacefully, although many Hindus in a party near the dock were beaten by white men before help arrived. Chief of Police McLennan is watching the situation closely for fear of riots on shore. H. H. Stevens, M.P., said in the afternoon that measures had been taken to effectively bring the Hindus into subjection.

SIRROCCO CAPTURED?

Denver Police Think They Have W. C. Martin's Slayer.

NEW YORK, July 20. — Information reached the police Saturday night that Michael Sirrocco, who has been sought by the authorities since last August in connection with the murder of William Grieve Martin, a Toronto milliner, had been arrested in Denver, Col. Martin was strangled to death in a rooming house on the west side and money and jewelry were taken from him.

The police have held that Martin's assailants did not mean to kill him, but choked him to death with a towel made into a gag. Harry Schaeffer, who was arrested soon after the murder, accused of being one of the robbers, was convicted in March of murder in the second degree.

Denies His Guilt.

DENVER, Colo., July 20.—Accused of complicity in the murder of William G. Martin, beaten to death by two men in a New York lodging house on the night of Aug. 18, 1913, William Sullivan, 23, is a prisoner in the city jail. His real name is said to be Michael Sirrocco.

He denied any knowledge of the crime, but the detectives declare they are positive of his identity.

Sullivan, as he insists on calling himself, came to Denver seven months ago. A pretty, young woman with whom he was associated disappeared after he was put in jail.

PEST IS SPREADING.

Army Worm Makes Its Appearance In Oxford and Waterloo.

WOODSTOCK, July 20.—The local agricultural bureau received word yesterday that army worms have broken out on the farms near Thamesford as well as on two farms in East Zorra Township. On one farm in Blenheim Township fires are being kindled in an effort to ward off the pests. Thousands of dollars' damage has been done already to farms throughout the district. One farmer has been spraying his crops with a mixture of oil and water and reports the treatment effective.

Appears at O. A. C.

GUELPH, Ont., July 20. — The army worm made its appearance in this vicinity Saturday and, strange to say, the only place it has so far been noticed is in a field of corn at the Ontario Agricultural College.

Also Found at Galt.

GALT, July 20.—It was discovered that the army worm which has been doing so much damage in Oxford and Brant Counties had invaded Waterloo County, both in the south and north section Saturday. It is supposed that the pest migrated here from Oxford County.

MONTREAL, July 20.—A solemn memorial mass for the late Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife was celebrated by Archbishop Bruchesi in St. James Cathedral yesterday morning.

A large catafalque, representing the bier of the royal dead, and draped with gold and black, was erected before the altar. On the bier, surrounded by lighted candles, lay the Austrian colors.

Next to the bier, in military uniform, knelt the offical representatives of Austria, the consul, Mr. Hermann von Hann, accompanied by Prince Hohenlie, who is connected with the embassy.

Kneeling next to Austria's representatives were Hon. Louis Coderre, Secretary of State, and Hon. J. C. Doherty, Minister of Justice, who came specially from Ottawa to represent the Canadian Government at the service. They afterwards exchanged greetings with the consul.

S. P. S. Student Tries to Swim Out to Upset Canoe—Two Unknown Young Men Are Drowned at Port Stanley

OAKVILLE, July 20—Two drowning accidents occurred here yesterday. The first occurred at 12 o'clock noon, when Charles Grisham went bathing in the harbor between the piers. He never came up after taking his first plunge. The body was recovered in a few moments, and physicians worked for more than an hour in their endeavor at resuscitation, but failed. Deceased was an Englishman, an employe in the shipping department of the Mariatt & Armstrong Co.'s tannery, married about a year, and highly respected as an exemplary young man. He was 26 years of age.

The second casualty occurred opposite Lakeside Park, the victim being W. N. Allen, a member of the Toronto to Hamilton good road surveying staff, whose relatives reside at Nelson, B.C. J. L. Armour was out on the lake about 200 yards in a canoe, accompanied by his little son and daughter. A gust of wind struck the small sail in the bow of the canoe and tipped it over. Mr. Armour got hold of the two little ones with one hand and the canoe with the other and kept afloat. Allen, seeing their predicament, threw off his coat and vest and started to swim out to their assistance. Two boats hurried to them also, and Allen, seeing the boats were making good headway, turned to come back. Suddenly, when about 60 feet from shore, he called for assistance, and eyewitnesses saw him go down for the third time.

Two Lost In Lake Erie.

PORT STANLEY, July 20. — Yesterday afternoon two young men hired a canoe at Samuel James' boathouse. They proceeded to the lake, which was rather rough for canoeing. When they reached the end of the east breakwater the canoe was seen to upset and both young men disappeared. Other boats proceeded to the scene and picked up the canoe, but the young men had found a watery grave. Grappling was started, but up to a late hour last night neither body had been found. They appeared to have been strangers here, and so far their names and addresses cannot be ascertained. They sank in about thirty feet of water.

Two Boys Go Down.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 20. —David Hicks, aged 15, and Antonio Barto, an Italian, aged, 14, were drowned in the Niagara river at Queenston yesterday afternoon. The boys were in bathing when Barto got beyond his depth. Hicks swam to his rescue, but sank before he reached his companion. Both bodies were recovered. This is the fourth accident at the same spot, McLeod's Pond, near to quarries. Hicks came here from England.

Arthur Charbonneau Drowned.

OTTAWA, July 20.—Arthur Charbonneau, aged 40, a blacksmith of this city, was drowned Saturday night in the Ottawa river. A plank jutting from a wharf on which he was fishing broke, precipitating him into the river. His companions were unable to rescue him.

Drowned In Shallow Water.

BRANTFORD, July 20. — Alonzo E. Jones, foreman of the woodworking department at the Massey-Harris plant here, met his death by drowning Saturday afternoon at the upper pond, Oakland, having fallen off a log into three feet of water while fishing there.

It is thought that he had a stroke or an attack of heart failure, as he was a good swimmer, and needed only to have stood up to be safe from drowning.

Drowning at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 20. — David Reid, a young Scotchman, in Canada only a short time, was drowned in the Lachine Canal Friday while bathing, with companions.

Deceased, who was employed as a clerk in the C.P.R. general offices, was 21 years old.

LEADERS TO CONFER

King Calls For Discussion of Ulster Difficulties.

LONDON, July 20.—The King has called a conference of the leaders of all the parties to seek a solution of the Irish problem.

This is the announcement which Premier Asquith is expected to make to-day when the bill amending the Home Rule bill comes up again for consideration in the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister's speech on this occasion, indicating how the Government proposes to deal with the Lords' amendments to the amending bill, is awaited with the deepest anxiety, and it is probable that the House will immediately adjourn the debate on the amending bill indefinitely to allow the negotiations for a settlement to proceed outside of Parliament.

Premier Asquith has been with the King at Portsmouth during the week end, and the King's anxiety to get the difficulty settled resulted in the calling of the conference. It is said that the various leaders invited have accepted the invitation and that the conference will meet at an early date probably on to-morrow in London. The King will receive the delegates, but will not himself preside over the conference, which, it is confidently thought, under such exalted auspices, will prove successful.

At the same time, the Ministers are placing great reliance in the persuasive powers of Chancellor Lloyd George, who has been temporarily abusted from his financial duties to assist the Prime Minister in finding a solution for the Irish difficulty.

Chancellor Lloyd George's practical business is to smooth the path between Nationalists and Liberals. It is understood that the Government is willing to go a considerable way in the direction of meeting the Carsonite demands, but is hampered by the unyielding attitude of the Nationalists.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has had several conferences with John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, in an endeavor to find points of common agreement. Mr. Redmond has called a conference of his party for the purpose of hearing from Joseph Devlin, member of Parliament for Belfast, who has returned from an important mission in the north of Ireland, and this conference may have an important bearing on the negotiations.

For the moment, Tyrone is the crux of the situation on which neither the Nationalists nor the Carsonites are willing to yield.

All the morning papers make much of the delayed departure of the King for Portsmouth on Saturday, but further than announcing that it was due to the Irish crisis not one of them gives a clue as to the actual matter connected with the situation which was of so urgent character as to delay His Majesty's visit.

All reports agree that despite the efforts of the past week in the direction of peace no settlement has been come to although there is some talk of a compromise being "in sight."

"Premier Asquith's present difficulty is that four members of the Cabinet, two of whom are particularly aggressive, have at the last moment funked the situation and are prepared to go in the teeth of the Nationalists," says Reynold's newspaper, which is usually well informed on the inner Ministerial condition.

"Happily," adds the paper, "a majority of the party support Mr. Asquith in his refusal to betray the Nationalist cause, and there is left some hope that the Ministerial party will not be shattered, despite the threatened revolt of a section of the Cabinet. It is possible that the debate to-day will be adjourned after Mr. Asquith's statement."

STORM ON EAST COAST.

Six Vessels Are Reported Ashore Off Maritime Provinces.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 20. — Two steamers and two schooners were wrecked during the past 24 hours as the result of the heavy storm that swept over the coast. Fortunately there was no loss of life, all the crews reaching shore in safety, but some of them had a trying experience, as thick fog had prevailed.

The vessels were the Norwegian steamer Ragna, 1,052 tons, from Chester, Pa., to St. Ann's, C.B., which ran ashore at Ballena, C.B., and the Cuban steamer Cienfuegos, 1,138 tons, which struck at Scattarie, C.B., bound for Mobile, Ala., with a cargo of pine for Montreal.

The schooner Harold C. Beecher (American) also struck on Scattarie. She sailed from New York for Sydney, N.S.

The four-masted American schooner Clarence Venner struck off Cape Sable, N.S. She was bound from New York for Halifax with 1,300 tons of hard coal.

All the vessels are in bad positions, and the prospects of floating them are slight.

The coast was swept by a gale of wind and heavy squalls. There was also thunder, lightning and rain.

King Malcolm on Beach.

YARMOUTH, N.S., July 20. — The Italian bark King Malcolm, Captain Mortola, bound from Portland, Me., to Richibucto, N.B., in ballast, is probably a total loss at Short Beach, about seven miles from Yarmouth. She left Portland about noon on Friday and struck at six o'clock on Saturday morning.

Jennie A. Pickles a Wreck.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 20. — The three-masted schooner Jennie A. Pickles, Captain Richards, owned by F. W. Pickles & Co., of Annapolis Royal, N.S., went ashore in a thick fog at Chance Harbor in the Bay of Fundy, and it is feared will be a total wreck. The crew is safe ashore. The schooner was on her way here from Bermuda with 350 puncheons of molasses.

Verdict Is Delayed.

FATHER POINT, July 20. — The verdict in the inquest into the loss of the Empress of Ireland was not given here Saturday by the coroner, Dr. Pinaud. It was expected that when the case was re-opened a formal verdict would be rendered, but it was postponed again.

The Lord Strathcona and the Marie Josephine are at the scene of the wreck to-day. The weather is fine and it is likely that they will return with several bodies to-night.

Government To Board Komagata by Means of H. M. C. S. Rainbow.

OTTAWA, July 20.—The Immigration Department yesterday made a statement regarding the mutiny of the Hindus on the steamer Komagata Maru at Vancouver, and their violent resistance to all attempts to deport them. After reciting the incidents of the affair the statement says:

"Some shots were fired by the Hindus, but the officers, although armed, did not return the fire, and at 2 a.m., realizing the difficulty in reaching the decks from a tug, retired and returned to the shore with their twenty injured, amongst whom was the captain of the tug, suffering from two broken ribs. Fortunately, none of the injuries received is likely to be fatal.

"The self-restraint of the police and immigration officers under great provocation is appreciated and highly commended by the acting Minister (Hon. C. J. Doherty).

"While desirous that no unnecessary violence shall be used, the Government is determined that the law shall without fail be effectively and rigidly enforced, and, with this end in view, have authorized the use of the Rainbow, to effect a landing, when, if necessary to secure and maintain control, the full number of Hindus will be handcuffed, a proceeding which, in view of their violent actions last night, is fully justifiable.

"The Government has instructed its agents to deport all rejected Hindus on the Empress of Japan next Thursday, if it appears that deportation by the Komagata Maru cannot be promptly and effectively accomplished, and is also taking legal proceedings against the master and charterers of the Komagata Maru."

Pleads Not Guilty.

MONTREAL, July 20.—John Rice, engineer and repairer of old furniture, accused of writing letters threatening to murder Sam Holman, general manager of the Dorval and King Edward Jockey Clubs, and of making an attempt to fire the Dorval race track, grand stand and houses on the property, was arraigned in court Saturday. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded until July 22.

"PEBLO"

The Glass of Quality

We haven't any doubt but that most people value their eyesight sufficiently to want to take the best care of it. THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

EDWARD EVERETT HALE

By Edward Everett Hale

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Mary Roberts Rinehart and Owen Johnson was "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale. His works are published by Little, Brown & Co.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

PART I.

PHILIP NOLAN was as fine a young officer as there was in the "Legion of the West," as the western division of our army was then called. When Aaron Burr made his first dashing expedition down to New Orleans in 1805 at Fort Massac or somewhere above on the river he met, as the devil would have it, this gay, dashing, bright young fellow at some dinner party, I think. Burr marked him, talked to him, walked with him, took him a day or two's voyage in his flatboat and, in short, fascinated him. For the next year barrack life was very tame to poor Nolan. He occasionally availed of the permission the great man had given him to write to him. The other boys in the garrison sneered at him because he sacrificed in this unrequited affection for a politician the time which they devoted to monongahela, sledge and high-low-jack. Bourbon, euchre and poker were still unknown. But one day Nolan had his revenge. This time Burr came down the river not as an attorney seeking a place for his office, but as a disguised conqueror. It was rumored that he had an army behind him and an empire before him. It was a great day—his arrival—to poor Nolan. Burr had not been at the fort an hour before he sent for him. That evening he asked Nolan to take him out in his skiff to show him a canebrake or a cottonwood tree, as he said—really to seduce him—and by the time the sail was over Nolan was enlisted body and soul. From that time, though he did not yet know it, he lived as "a man without a country."

What Burr meant to do I know no more than you, dear reader. It is none of our business just now. Only when the grand catastrophe came some of the lesser fry in that distant Mississippi valley to while away the monotony of the summer at Fort Adams got up for spectacles a string of court martials on the officers there. One and another of the colonels and majors were tried, and, to fill out the list, little Nolan, against whom, heaven knows, there was evidence enough—that he was sick of the service, had been willing to be false to it and would have obeyed any order to march anywhither with any one who would follow him had the order only been signed, "By command of His Exc. A. Burr." The courts dragged on. The big flies escaped—rightly for all I know. Nolan was proved guilty enough as I say, yet you and I would never have heard of him, reader, but that, when the president of the court asked him at the close whether he wished to say anything to show that he had always been faithful to the United States he cried out in a fit of frenzy:

"D— the United States! I wish I may never hear of the United States again!"

I suppose he did not know how the words shocked old Colonel Morgan, who was holding the court. Nolan had grown up in the west of those days in the midst of "Spanish plot," "Orleans plot" and all the rest. He had been educated on a plantation where the finest company was a Spanish officer or a French merchant from Orleans. His education, such as it was, had been perfected in commercial expeditions to Vera Cruz and I think he told me his father once hired an Englishman to be a private tutor for a winter on the plantation. He had spent half his youth with an older brother hunting horses in Texas, and, in a word, to him "United States" was scarcely a reality. Yet he had been fed by "United States" for all the years since he had been in the army. He had sworn on his faith as a Christian to be true to "United States." It was "United States" which gave him the uniform he wore and the sword by his side. I do not excuse Nolan. I only explain to the reader why he damned his country and wished he might never hear her name again.

He never did hear her name but once again. From that moment, Sept. 23, 1807, till the day he died, May 11, 1863, he never heard her name again. For that half century and more he was a man without a country.

Old Morgan, as I said, was terribly shocked. He called the court into his private room and returned in fifteen minutes with a face like a sheet, to say:

"Prisoner, hear the sentence of the court. The court decides, subject to the approval of the president, that you never hear the name of the United States again."

Nolan laughed. But nobody else laughed. Old Morgan was too solemn and the whole room was hushed dead as night for a minute. Even Nolan lost his swagger in a moment. Then Morgan added: "Mr. Marshal, take the prisoner to Orleans in an armed boat and deliver him to the naval commander there."

The marshal gave his orders, and the prisoner was taken out of court.

"Mr. Marshal," continued old Morgan, "see that no one mentions the United States to the prisoner. Mr. Marshal, make my respects to Lieutenant Mitchell at Orleans and request him to order that no one shall mention the United States to the prisoner while he is on board ship. You will receive your written orders from the officer on duty here this evening. The court is adjourned without day."

I have always supposed that Colonel Morgan himself took the proceedings of the court to Washington city and explained them to Mr. Jefferson. Certain it is that the president approved them—certain, that is, if I may believe the men who say they have seen his signature. Before the Nautilus got round from New Orleans to the northern Atlantic coast with the prisoner on board the sentence had been approved, and he was a man without a country.

When I was second officer of the Intrepid some thirty years after I saw the original paper of instructions:

Washington (with the date, which must have been late in 1807).

Sir—You will receive from Lt. Neale the person of Philip Nolan, late a lieutenant in the United States army.

This person on his trial by court martial expressed with an oath the wish that he might never hear of the United States again.

The court sentenced him to have his wish fulfilled.

For the present the execution of the order is intrusted by the president to this department.

You will take the prisoner on board your ship and keep him there with such precautions as shall prevent his escape.

You will provide him with such quarters, rations and clothing as would be proper for an officer of his late rank if he were a passenger on your vessel on the business of his government.

The gentlemen on board will make any arrangements agreeable to themselves regarding his society. He is to be exposed to no indignity of any kind, nor is he ever unnecessarily to be reminded that he is a prisoner.

But under no circumstances is he ever to hear of his country or to see any information regarding it, and you will especially caution all the officers under your command to take care that, in the various indulgences which may be granted, this rule, in which his punishment is involved, shall not be broken.

It is the intention of the government that he shall never again see the country which he has disowned. Before the end of your cruise you will receive orders which will give effect to this intention. Respy yours,

W. SOUTHARD,
For the Secretary of the Navy.

I suppose the commander of the Levant has it today as his authority for keeping this man in his mild custody.

The rule adopted on board the ships on which I have met "The Man Without a Country" was, I think, transmitted from the beginning. No mess liked to have him permanently, because his presence cut off all talk of home or of the prospect of return, of politics or letters, of peace or war—cut off more than half the talk men like to have at sea. But it was always thought too hard that he should never meet the rest of us, except to touch hats, and we finally sank into one system. He was not permitted to talk with the men unless an officer was by. With officers he had unrestrained intercourse, as far as they and he chose. But he grew shy, though he had favorites. I was one. Then the captain always asked him to dinner on Monday. Every mess in succession took up the invitation in its turn. According to the size of the ship, you had him at your mess more or less often at dinner. His breakfast he ate in his own stateroom—he always had a stateroom—which was where a sentinel or somebody on the watch could see the door. And whatever else he ate or drank he ate or drank alone. Sometimes, when the marines or sailors had any special jollification, they were permitted to invite "Plain Buttons," as they called him. They called him "Plain Buttons" because, while he always chose to wear a regulation army uniform, he was not permitted to wear the army button, for the reason that it bore either the initials or the insignia of the country he had disowned.

I remember soon after I joined the navy. Some one told the system which was adopted from the first about his books and other reading. As he was almost never permitted to go on shore, even though the vessel lay in port for months, his time at the best hung heavy, and everybody was permitted to lend him books if they were not published in America and made no allusion to it. He had almost all the foreign papers that came into the ship sooner or later, only somebody must go over them first and cut out any advertisement or stray paragraph that alluded to America. Phillips told me a story of something which happened at the Cape of Good Hope on Nolan's first voyage, and it is the only thing I ever knew of that voyage. Phillips had borrowed a lot of English books from an officer, which in those days, as indeed in these, was quite a windfall. Among them, as the devil would order, was the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," which they had all of them heard of, but which most of them had never seen. I think it could not have been published long. Well, nobody thought there could be any risk of anything national in that, so Nolan was permitted to join the circle one afternoon when a lot of them sat on deck smoking and reading aloud. Nolan took the book and read to the others, and he read very well, as I know. Nobody in the circle knew a line of the poem, only it was all magic and border chivalry and was 10,000 years ago. Poor Nolan read steadily through the fifth canto, stopped a minute and drank something and then began, without a thought of what was coming:

"Breathes there the man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
"This is my own, my native land!"

Then they all saw something was in the way, but he continued in set phrase, I suppose, for a little part, and plunged on:

"Whose heart hath no'er within him burned
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand?
If such there breathe, go, mark him well."

By this time the men were all beside themselves, wishing there was any way to make him turn over two pages, but he had not quite presence of mind for that. He gagged a little, colored crimson and staggered on:

"For him no minstrel raptures swell.
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim,
Despite those titles, power and pelf,
The wretch, concentrated all in self"—

And here the poor fellow choked, could not go on, but started up, swung the book into the sea, vanished into his stateroom, "and, by Jove," said Phillips, "we did not see him for two months again. And I had to make up some beggarly story to that English surgeon why I did not return his Walter Scott to him."

That story shows about the time when Nolan's braggadocio must have broken down. At first they said he took a very high tone, considered his imprisonment a mere farce, affected to enjoy the voyage, and all that, but Phillips said that after he came out of his stateroom he never was the same man again. He never read aloud again unless it was the Bible or Shakespeare or something else he was sure of. He was always shy afterward when I knew him—very seldom spoke unless he was spoken to, except to a very few friends. He lighted up occasionally, but generally he had the nervous, tired look of a heart wounded man.

Nolan's transfer at sea to the Warren was the first of some twenty such transfers, which brought him sooner or later into half our best vessels, but which kept him all his life at least some hundred miles from the country he had hoped he might never hear of again.

It may have been on that second cruise—it was once when he was up the Mediterranean—that Mrs. Graff, the celebrated southern beauty of those days, danced with him. They had been a long time in the bay of Naples, and the officers were very intimate in the English fleet, and there had been great festivities, and our men thought they must give a great ball on board the ship. They wanted to use Nolan's stateroom for something, and they hated to do it without asking him to the ball, so the captain said they might ask him if they would be responsible that he did not talk with the wrong people, "who would give him intelligence." For ladies they had the family of the American consul, one or two travelers who had ventured so far and a nice bevy of English girls and matrons, perhaps Lady Hamilton herself.

As the dancing went on, Nolan and our fellows all got at ease, as I said—so much so that it seemed quite natural for him to bow to that splendid Mrs. Graff and say:

"I hope you have not forgotten me, Miss Rutledge. Shall I have the honor of dancing?"

He did it so quickly that Shubrick, who was by him, could not hinder him. She laughed and said:

"I am not Miss Rutledge any longer, Mr. Nolan, but I will dance all the same," just nodded to Shubrick as if to say he must leave Mr. Nolan to her and led him off to the place where the dance was forming.

Nolan thought he had got his chance. He had known her at Philadelphia, and at other places had met her and this was a godsend. He said boldly—a little pale, she said, as she told me the story years after:

"And what do you hear from home, Mrs. Graff?"

And that splendid creature looked through him. Jove! how she must have looked through him! "Home!! Mr. Nolan!!! I thought you were the man who never wanted to hear of home again!" And she walked directly up the deck to her husband and left poor Nolan alone, as he always was. He did not dance again.

A happier story than either of these I have told is of the war. In one of the great frigate duels with the English, in which the navy was really baptised, it happened that a round shot from the enemy entered one of our ports square and took right down the officer of the gun himself and almost every man of the gun's crew. As the surgeon's people were carrying off the bodies there appeared Nolan in his shirt sleeves, with the rammer in his hand, and, just as if he had been the officer, told them off with authority who should go to the cockpit with the wounded men, who should stay with him, perfectly cheery and with that way which makes men feel sure all is right and is going to be right. And he finished loading the gun with his own hands, aimed it and made the men fire. And there he stayed, captain of that gun, keeping those fellows in spirits till the enemy struck. The captain walked forward by way of encouraging the men, and Nolan touched his hat and said:

"I am showing them how we do this in the artillery, sir."

And this is a part of the story where all the legends agree—that the commodore said:

"I see you do, and I thank you, sir, and I shall never forget this day, sir, and you never shall, sir."

And after the whole thing was over and he had the Englishman's sword in the midst of the state and ceremony of the quarterdeck he said:

"Where is Mr. Nolan? Ask Mr. Nolan to come here."

And when Nolan came the captain said:

"Mr. Nolan, we are all very grateful to you today. You are one of us today. You will be named in the dispatches."

And then the old man took off his own sword of ceremony and gave it to Nolan and made him put it on. The man told me this who saw it. Nolan cried like a baby, and well he might. He had not worn a sword since that infernal day at Fort Adams.

The captain did mention him in the dispatches. It was always said he asked that he might be pardoned. He wrote a special letter to the secretary of War. But nothing ever came of it. As I said, that was about the time when they began to ignore the whole transaction at Washington.

GOING MAD FROM THE TERRIFIC PAIN

Prominent Merchant Thinks His Life Was Saved By "Fruit-a-tives".

DRYSDALE, ONT., JUNE 15th. 1913.

"I am a general storekeeper at the above address, and on account of the great good I have experienced from using "Fruit-a-tives", I recommend them to my customers. They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a terrific pain at the base of my skull. The pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to Inflammation of the Brain, but I took "Fruit-a-tives" steadily until I was cured. I have gained fifteen pounds since taking "Fruit-a-tives", and I verily believe they saved me from a disastrous illness".

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pipes, bolts and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

Crippled With Rheumatism

And Skeptical After Trying Many Medicines — Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Cured Him.

When the kidneys fail to purify the blood the poisons left in the system cause pain and suffering, such as backache, lumbago and rheumatism. Read how this skeptic was cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. F. W. Brown, Kingsbury, Que., writes:—"I have been completely cured of backache and lame back by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I also recommended the pills to a man who was a cripple from rheumatism. He was skeptical, as he said that he had tried nearly everything on earth. Finally he consented to try them, and to his surprise was greatly benefited in the first week, and the pains left his legs until he was so supple he could walk without pain or difficulty. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have worked wonders in this place, and we think there is no medicine like them."

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

July 19. — The Photo-Drama of Creation not only opens the Sacred Scriptures to those who see it, but additionally sheds a light upon the esoteric teachings of the ancients. Thus it is highly educative in all its phases and an incentive to deep research along many lines. With very few exceptions those who have seen it declare that it has revealed to their astonished eyes the lengths, breadths, heights and depths of the Love of God, which passes human understanding, and thus has brought them a great blessing.

The discourse of Pastor Russell today was unique in every sense of the word. He took for his text St. Paul's words, "Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the Mystery of Christ."—Ephesians 3:4.

The Scriptures clearly teach that during this Gospel Age our God is preparing a great Temple class, began the Pastor. After this class shall have been glorified, the Divine Power will operate through this Temple. God will be in the Church—the Temple—and all nations will begin to draw near to their Creator. All classes—Jews, Gentiles, bond and free—will come to the Father through this Temple; for the glory of God will be in it.

The Priest in this new Temple of the future will be Jesus, the great High Priest, and the Church, the under-priests. This High Priest will also be King—"a Priest Upon His Throne," after the Order of Melchisedek. The under-priests are still in training for their office. The Royal Priesthood will consist of those alone who shall be declared worthy to sit with our Lord in His Throne. As it is written, "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the First Resurrection; on such the Second Death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years."

The Pastor then discussed the question, How may one become a member of this Order of Melchisedek—these Knight Templars on the Heavenly plane? The Church of Christ, he declared, is the most wonderful Secret Order ever known. The Mystery of God is not yet finished, the Revelator tells us; this Mystery which God has kept secret from the foundation of the world will not be finished until the sounding of the Seventh Trumpet. This Mystery, the Scriptures teach, is the Church. These members of the mystical Body of Christ are in the world, but the world knows them not, even as it knew Him not.

It was then shown that the great condition for membership in this Order is the absolute denial of self—the giving up to the Lord of all that the candidate possesses, himself included. This condition is the most stringent ever known. The first degree in this Order is the recognition of Jesus Christ as our Saviour and faith in His redeeming blood. Some merely take this initiatory step, and never go on to perfection; these seldom if ever attain the first degree and know practically very little about the Order, for, as the Apostle declares, "the natural man (the world) receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." Since the secrets of this Order must be spiritually discerned, whoever would know them must progress beyond the first degree.

The second degree, the Pastor explained, is consecration, which is immediately followed by spirit-begetting. Those who have progressed thus far have become New Creatures in Christ. To these, "old things have passed away and all things have become new." Thenceforth these should grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ; and as they do so they are privileged to advance to higher degrees. In due time they may become Knights Templars. This degree is very honorable; those who have attained it have become leaders in the Church of Christ, especial functionaries in any matter pertaining to the interests of the Temple. These know most about the things of the Temple.

As these members of the Order progress from one degree to another, they learn more and more about the Mystery of Christ. Those who have taken many degrees, therefore, know much more than do those who have taken but few degrees. The Apostle urges all in the spiritual Temple to grow—in grace, in knowledge, in character-likeness to our Lord, the Grand Commander of the Order, the High Priest of our Profession, the One who died for us—who not only redeemed us and gave us the opportunity of becoming members of this high fraternity, but who also set us an example how we ought to walk. Those who attain the highest degree shall be His associates and joint-heirs in His Messianic Kingdom. This highest degree, however, is limited in number to 144,000 members, the Scriptures point out.

The Pastor then showed that the members of the Free and Accepted Order of the Lord Jesus Christ's Commandery have for their standard, not the cross on the head of the sword, but the Cross of Christ, with which they must be marked day by day. One of the very highest of this Order was St. Paul, who boasted in one of his Epistles that he bore in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus. These marks were not such as the world could appreciate, but were marks such as our Saviour had, and such as all have who attain the highest degrees bestowed by this Order.

The Apostle elsewhere explains that as Jesus bore the marks of having been smitten, beaten, condemned and crucified, witnessing to His faithfulness to God and righteousness, so he was himself marked. Every order has its own marks, but only the Captain of our salvation knows the marks borne by the soldiers of the Cross. Whoever receives these marks in His service will be rewarded abundantly—more than he could ask or even think. These light afflictions, which are but for a moment, will work for these faithful soldiers a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory—beyond the veil, in the glorious Temple now in process of construction.

This Temple, the speaker declared, will be the greatest in existence. All other temples, all other societies, are but shadows, pictures, figures. No matter whence a candidate came, no matter who he was before he entered the Lodge of our Lord Jesus Christ, after he has joined this Order he has a right to the regalia and to all belonging to the Order. There is only one way by which any one may become a member. There is also only one way by which one once in may be put out, and that is according to the arrangements made by the Lord; for there is a secret writing even of the names in this Order. These names are written in Heaven. No human being knows who are the members.

The members of this Order, it was shown, are free from the domination of sin. Free from the fear of death. Free from that condition of alienation from God in which they were by nature, when they were "children of wrath even as others." They are not free to commit sin, however; in fact, they have no such inclination. Their very desire to come into relationship with God indicates that they do not love sin. The shackles of sin have fallen from them. "If the Son make you free, then are ye free indeed." (John 8:36.) Every one thus made free by the Lord Jesus Christ, through the merit of the Redeemer's sacrifice, and presenting his body a living sacrifice and being accepted of God, is received into this Fraternity, this Royal Priesthood.

Happy are all such; for the Spirit of glory and of God rests upon them. The more attentive each of these is to the rules of the Order, the more faithful each one is in laying down his life in the service of the brethren, the more progress will he make and the higher will be his station. He will rise from one degree to another until he shall have attained the highest rank, and shall have favor in the fullest sense with the Grand Master of the Order.

In the typical language of the Scriptures, the human nature of all New Creatures in Christ is pictured in the goat. The Bible calls these New Creatures that the "goat" which each one "rides" more or less daily is his own flesh. In the typical Day of Atonement two goats were brought to the door of the Tabernacle and there tied. These goats typified all who offer themselves in consecration to God. After the lots were cast, the high priest sacrificed the Lord's goat, thus typifying God's acceptance of the class represented. Thenceforth the goat represented merely the old nature, the flesh; and the New Creature was represented in the members of the high priest's body. "Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God," says the Apostle.

The Pastor also showed that God has so arranged that members of His great Secret Order may tell all they desire about it and the hearers cannot understand, unless they are also of the Order. God alone knows who are members of His Secret Society; for He alone knows whether at heart each is loyal and true. Others may wear the uniform, learn grips and passwords; but the Lord knows those who are His. In other words, there are many who have more or less outward appearance of being Christians, but who are not really such at heart.

Another point discussed was that all who become members of the Royal Priesthood—"living stones," from the Divine standpoint, to be chiseled and prepared for a place in the Royal Temple—must enter by a narrow, difficult way. This Jesus set forth, saying, "If any man will come after Me (become a living stone in the Temple, be a member of this high Order), let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow Me."

The origin of this Order, commonly known as the Church of Christ, was next shown. The Great Master Craftsman, the Lord Jesus Christ, laid the foundation and arranged all pertaining to it. He alone founded this great Secret Society. Members of the organization may, indeed, recognize assistants in the work, but there is only the one Grand Master, who has supervision of the whole. He Himself has said, "One is your Master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren."

The Pastor then set forth the facts relative to our Lord's life on earth nearly nineteen hundred years ago. The world did not recognize the Great Master. Jesus alone, the Founder of the Order which is His Church, had the secret plans for the great Temple which God desired to have constructed. When He was crucified, more or less of the Mystery connected with the Temple was lost. The Scriptures also intimate that certain features of that Mystery were not to be completed until His return. So the members of this Society have been waiting for the return of their Master, who gave His life in connection with the secret of the construction of the Temple, the Church.

Jesus preached in public, the Pastor declared, and while thousands heard Him, very few understood. So now, when the members of His Church tell the Glad Tidings of great joy, very few understand; for only those who are called to join this Order which Jesus founded have the power to comprehend—the hearing ear. To His disciples the Master once said, "Blessed are your eyes, for they see; and your ears, for they hear." Only those who have come into this Divine Order have this spiritual insight and spiritual guidance; and only these may know the things that are freely given unto the initiated. These things are freely given to one class, but are not intended for any one else.

The speaker then showed the reason for this discrimination. During this Age God is not dealing with the world. After He has built His great Temple, then He will deal with the world. But mankind will never be priests, members of the Temple class. Nevertheless, they will have a great blessing—Restitution to human perfection, lost in Eden, redeemed on Calvary. He declared that it would never do for the world to know all about the secrets known only to the members of God's great Secret Order; otherwise mankind would interfere with the Plan of God. He illustrated his point by referring to the Scriptural statements that if the Jews had understood His parables and dark sayings, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory. Then the Scriptures would not have been fulfilled; God's Plan would not have been carried out.

St. Peter called the attention of the Jews to this fact, saying, "Now, brethren, I wot that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers. But those things which God before had showed by the mouth of all His Prophets, that Christ should suffer, He hath so fulfilled." St. Paul corroborates this statement, declaring, "None of the princes of this world knew [illegible] would not have crucified the Lord of Glory." The Pastor praised the Wisdom of God, which withheld from the world a secret the knowledge of which would have increased their responsibility without benefitting them in the least.

Next were quoted various passages of Scriptures which show that whoever receives the Holy Spirit is a temple of the Holy Spirit. This class is not of the world; for the world by nature knows not God. The world is under condemnation—"children of wrath," according to Scripture. God has not yet begun to give humanity the blessing which He purposes to give them. He is now dispensing blessings only to the Church, to those who have been begotten of the Holy Spirit, who have been initiated into the mysteries of His Secret Order. These alone have come into the position where He can deal with them.

The Pastor explained that the Church class have not received the Holy Spirit in full. When the great antitypical Temple of God shall have been finished beyond the veil, then the Holy Spirit will be given in full; all those "living stones" which will constitute that Temple will be filled with the glory of God. But there is a sense in which each one has received the Holy Spirit who has given up his own will in order to do the will of God; and in that sense the body of each of these has become a temple. Wherever the Spirit of God dwells, there is a temple of God.

The discourse was concluded with an earnest exhortation to every one who is conscious of having received the Holy Spirit of God. All such should ever be on guard lest they grieve the Spirit—ignore it or live contrary to it. The Apostle says, "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption." From the very time when one is begotten of the Spirit of God, that individual is marked with the seal of the Holy Spirit. The Apostle also says, "We have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us." That is to say, the possession of the Holy Spirit of God constitutes one a temple.

The Apostle's thought, the speaker declared, is that all such should regard their bodies very sacredly. Since God has honored them by placing His Holy Spirit within them, they should see to it that this sanctifying power operates throughout their members—in their minds, their tongues, their hands and their feet. Whatsoever such shall do or say should all be done to the glory of God.

THE MAN IN THE MOON.

Every Country Has Some Legend About the Old Disk's Inhabitant.

You young fellows or fair maidens who know how it is to spoon on moonlight evenings ought to be interested in these tales about the old moon. In every country in the world people have some story or other to tell about the mysterious spots on the face of the moon. The Indians of America tell two legends concerning these spots. One declares that the man in the moon was a hunter with his dog, banished to the sky for some offence. The other story is that long ago a group of Indian boys met every evening to dance to the music of one of their number who was a sweet singer. One night, however, when their parents had refused their request for dainties to make a great feast, although they danced as usual, the singer sang more sweetly than ever before and as he sang they danced ever faster, till they finally rose into the air, still whirling around their leader. Though their parents called them, they rose higher and higher. One boy, looking back, fell to the earth and changed into a pine tree. The others rose toward the sky till they stepped into the moon, where they can be seen on any moonlight night. On certain nights of the year Indians still climb as high as possible into pine trees and, stretching their arms toward the heavens, chant prayers to the boys to bring blessings from the moon to the earth.

In New Zealand the Maoris say that a man went out one night and, stumbling, sprained his ankle. He cried so loudly that at last the moon came down and took hold of him. In his fright the man seized a bush, but the moon pulled that up by the roots and sailed back into the sky with both man and bush.

In China moon worship still exists. There they say that the man in the moon arranges marriages and ties together with a silken cord the youths and maidens whom he intends to unite. In all probability the man in the moon is the creator of the honeymoon. Samoan islanders believe that the moon came down one night and stole the woman Sina, working in the twilight. Never able to return to earth, you can see her now in the moon, with her mallet and the board on which she was beating out bark to make cloth. It is true that about nine days after the new moon a pretty, unmistakable feminine face appears on the western half of the disk.

Cured of Piles and Eczema

By Using Three Boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Abram Buhr, Herbert, Sask., writes:—"I want to say that I was troubled with eczema and piles and suffered greatly from the itching, burning sensations caused by these annoying ailments. I sent for a free sample of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this did me so much good that I bought three boxes more, and after using same was cured of both eczema and piles."

This is the kind of letters we receive daily from people who have been cured of these distressing skin diseases by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. No matter how skeptical you might be, you could not read these letters for many days without concluding that Dr. Chase's Ointment is undoubtedly the most prompt relief and certain cure for these ailments.

Horse Butchers In France.

French horse butchers are obliged to display a signboard showing the kind of meat they sell and are not allowed to trade in any other sort of meat except that of mules and donkeys. They sometimes try to pass off horseflesh as that of donkey's on unwary customers, because the latter is considered to be more delicate in flavor and therefore more choice. — Exchange.

Habit.

Habit is the deepest law of human nature. It is our supreme strength, if also, in certain circumstances, our miserablest weakness. Let me go once, scanning my way with any earnestness of outlook and successfully arriving, my footsteps are an invitation to me a second time to go by the same way; it is easier than any other way. Habit is our primal fundamental law — habit and imitation. There is nothing more perennial in us than these two. They are the source of all working and all apprenticeship, of all practice and all learning in the world.—Carlyle.

Grunt-Who-Will Tower.

Annie, the duchess in wooden shoes who brought Brittany in the pocket of her wedding gown to her husband, the King of France, kept the Government for herself, and when the Bishop of St. Malo protested against the stronghold which she built to cow the too independent Malooms she carved on her tower the irreverent inscription, which may still be read there, "Grunt who will, so shall it be; 'tis my pleasure," and the tower "Grunt Who Will" (Quiequon Grogne) it remains to this day.

The Judge's White Gloves.

In the olden days judges were forbidden to wear gloves on the bench for fear of bribes being dropped into them. If there were no cases to be tried, however, there was no opportunity for bribing, and the sheriffs might give the judge a pair of gloves; hence the custom of presenting a judge with a pair of white gloves when he has no cases to try at an assizes.

'IT'S ALWAYS FAIR WEATHER'

"SUMMER is here — I'll save money by cutting out my advertising." Thus a few merchants still delude themselves. They thereby confess themselves beaten by the weather.

But most merchants, in these times of keen business, would scorn to make such a move. The more obstacles—whether in the form of weather conditions or other handicaps—the most earnestly they strive for our patronage.

For a merchant to cease advertising as soon as the weather is a little warm, is to take his "bark of trade" out of the channel of good business and beach it on the sands of business dullness to await "fair weather."

But with the modern type of merchant it is "always fair weather. His is an "all-year-round" store—a store ever ready to serve you, and serve you well.

He is a believer in all-the-year-round advertising. He does not take his advertisement out of the newspaper the first day of warm weather. He knows you may be in the market for something he can sell you—in July as well as in January.

He invests his money in newspaper space—every week in the year—to let you know he can serve you—and it's safe to assume that he "has the goods" in the fullest sense of the phrase.

THE MODERN IDEA OF GRANDMOTHER'S QUILT

Figured Fabrics Used for Motifs

Stitch the Design in Place

There seems to be a natural tendency at present to revive the old-fashioned varieties of needlecraft. Not the least among the important examples of colonial thriftiness is the patchwork bedquilt. The piecing of these quilts continues to be an enjoyable pastime in the remote districts of the south and south, where civilization has, apparently, stood still since days of long ago.

This art was brought to New England by the Puritans, and the designs have been carefully preserved from generation to generation. The girl of today patches her coverlets from patterns lined and figured by her great-great-grandmother. Many of these designs are so intricate that it frequently requires a year of odd moments to finish the quilt. The designs come from all sources and interpret the creator's environment or habitat of ancestors, and each has its name, which sometimes savors of the poetic, as the following collection will demonstrate: Star of the East, Rose of the Wilderness, Star of Venus, Sunrise on the Walls of Troy, Flower of the Mountain, Flowers of Edinboro. This latter may have been a Scotch immigrant's gift for her native heath, while the Log Cabin design is reminiscent of the days when our ancestors endured the hardships of pioneer days. The Swastika is the good-luck sign of the Hindu race, and is used in many of the designs.

The four-posters, which all lovers of the antique are collecting for their homes, require a patchwork quilt to carry out the colonial atmosphere.

Patchwork quilts! How swiftly memory brings the vision of a child, sitting on a stool and being instructed in the mysteries of Nine Patch or the Old Bachelor's Puzzle.

The old-fashioned quilting bee was the favorite entertainment for the ladies of yester-years, and many a happy afternoon was spent sewing together the patches of gay Kinglish chintzes. They discussed the relative merits of the rising sun, queen's patch, cuckoo's nest, rose of Sharon or olive leaf, as they plied their needles and munched sugar cookies and molasses candy.

Some of these quilts are entirely void of beauty, and we often wonder if the old maid's trial piece from a conglomeration of colors would not prove troubled dreams to the one beneath its protecting folds.

The days are long since passed when women were forced to card, spin and dye the flax used to weave the fabrics from which the bedspreads were made. There are remnants of material in the patch bags which can be utilized for the patchwork quilt.

When you select the design for your quilt, the first step in the process of making is to cut the patches the desired shape. When this has been accomplished, sew the small patches together to form a block. It will require a given number of these blocks to fashion a quilt, and the number varies with the size of the blocks. Carefully press each block with a warm iron and join them together. Next select the material with which you intend to line the quilt. Between this and the top place a layer of cotton wadding and baste the edges together. The quilt is fastened in a quilting frame and quilted in diamonds, squares, triangles or circles, as the maker desires.

The quilts of appliqued work are really pieces of artistic craftsmanship, and can be duplicated with very little trouble by the woman who is at all familiar with this type of work.

In appliqued designs the flowers, birds or animals are cut from colored materials and sewed to a background of plain white muslin. Sometimes the unbleached muslin is preferred because of its warm cream tint. Usually these designs are applied by hand, but sometimes they are machine stitched in position. This latter form is so painful to modern, however, that almost the entire beauty of the bedspread is lost in the stitching is ignored.

On this page several designs for applique work are shown. They can be transferred to paper by means of a sheet of carbon paper, and will serve as guides when cutting out the motifs to be appliqued on the muslin.

Purchase sufficient muslin to cover the top of the bed and to hang down at the sides. Applique a border all four sides. Border this with applique work, cutting the figures from red, blue, yellow, violet or pink gingham. When these are cut, baste the material to secure it in one width.

When cutting out the pieces for the applique work use a sharp pair of scissors and keep the material stretched tense so that one cutting will provide three or four motifs.

The design of the four-petaled flowers forms one-half of a medallion, which can be used effectively to border a bedcover. Cut them from a pretty tone of pink, not too pale, and stitch neatly to the muslin.

If you admire the combination of bright yellow, green and white, choose the sunflower design. The yellow for the flower and dark green for the leaves and stem. Arrange these about the four sides and scatter single flowers heads through the center.

The quilt showing an effective combination of red and white would be very effective with our grandmothers, so the quiltmakers of the present will no doubt recognize its possibilities. The large five-petaled flower would be a wise choice for the red-and-white quilt. Cut the flowers from materials of a rich red color and applique them to the foundation.

Who does not love the decorative tulip? This motive makes a particularly attractive quilt, and will appeal to many who are interested in quilt-making. For the flower select red, yellow or violet material and for the leaves dark green. Have these springing from the border, as the tulips of early spring grow from their earthy beds.

Now and then we see quilts made with appliqued motifs cut from figured materials. While these are not so effective as those whose borders are cut from plain colors, they are unusual, and will therefore find some admirers.

After the top of the quilt has been completed it must be lined, padded and quilted in the same manner as the patchwork quilt.

Collectors of antique bedquilts have found any number of designs, about which one could write indefinitely. It is far more interesting than one would imagine to study the subject of quiltmaking and to spend odd moments fashioning these bedspreads which recall the days of the four-poster and the foot-warmer.

The Entertainer

Package Shower for the Bride

THE season for weddings will soon be with us, and the hostess who numbers several brides among her friends will have to entertain for them some time prior to the dates set for the weddings. You will find that a package shower can be made unusually interesting to any number of guests. This, of course, should be a surprise to the prospective bride and the arrangements carried out with the utmost secrecy.

Send out invitations asking the intimate friends of the bride to assemble at your home for a package shower. Designate the article you wish them to bring or allow a personal choice. If you fear that many articles will be duplicated, the former plan would be the better.

A pretty idea for the invitations suggests itself in the form of tiny Japanese parasols, to the handles of which are tied the invitation cards. The latter may be decorated with waterproof sketches appropriate to the occasion.

Each guest wraps her gift in an attractive manner, and it is then sent to the home of the hostess. The bride is invited "over for luncheon," and when she arrives, finds all her friends assembled.

They then enter the dining room for luncheon. The table decorations play such an important part in an affair of this type that the hostess should aim to have them original and attractive. From the chandelier suspend a shower of wedding bells or of spring flowers. The former can be made of wire and covered with ferns, with rims of white carnations or roses. Have the clappers formed of white rosebuds.

Another effective decoration consists of a large wreath made of vines and white rosebuds, suspended by white ribbons three feet from the table. From the center of this a shower of lilies-of-the-valley can be arranged by attaching single sprays of the blossoms to white ribbons of different lengths.

At each place have a card on which is written the name of the guest. Decorate these with watercolor sketches of [illegible] lily-of-the-valley or bells, and attach a tiny silver bell with a piece of narrow white ribbon. These bells can be purchased by the dozen at any large store. Use white candles and shade them with appropriate shades, which can be purchased at favor shops or made at home.

You will experience no difficulty in securing favors, for the shops are filled with an infinite variety of clever and inexpensive designs which will contribute much to the enjoyment of the luncheon.

Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Croquettes with French Peas
Endive Salad Served with Cheese Wafers and Cream Cheese Balls
Bread-and-Butter Sandwiches
Crackers Ice Cream Cake
Coffee
Salted Nuts Sherbet Fruit
Candied Orange Peel

When the luncheon is finished and the guests have returned to the living room, have a delivery boy ring the bell and leave a large basket filled with packages for Miss Blank (the bride-to-be), which she immediately proceeds to open in the presence of the other guests. It is most interesting and enjoyable to witness the delight of the bride when she sees the lovely gifts presented to her by thoughtful friends. If the donors write an appropriate quotation for their gifts, it will add much to the enjoyment of all.

HOW SHALL WE HANG OUR PICTURES?

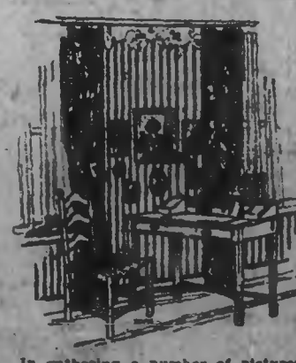
By Ethel Davis Seal

VERY few people know how to hang pictures. This may seem a sweeping statement, but one has only to note the different walls round about—perhaps in one's own home—and the sweeping be verified.

In some re[illegible] which I have been I could be almost sure the pictures had been hung by [illegible] participants in a donkey party, each picture being tacked at random [illegible] spotless one, and by no means [illegible] donkey!—here, there, everywhere, with no reference whatever to [illegible] color, design, ornamentation, quality, but rather a proposition [illegible] many pictures, so many bare [illegible] so many tacks and up they go, with the result looking very much so.

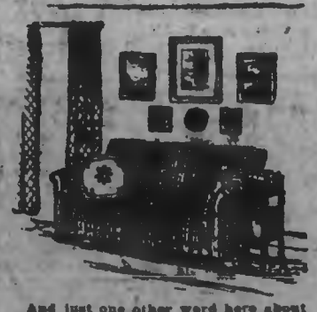
Now, while in most cases a plan could be made for more regularity, too much regularity (the wrong kind) is just as bad. I remember once noticing the peculiar effect produced by a large picture and a small one exactly beneath it, repeated seven or eight times in one room, with no hope of a change in sight to relieve the monotony. It was as trying on the nerves as a constant striking on one key on the piano. Besides, it cast reflection on the originality of the picture hanger.

Even worse is the overworked diagonal placing of pictures. While this is occasionally good, as I will show a little later, the occasion is only the exception which proves the rule, and I might almost say that you should never put one picture a little to one side beneath another picture. And this seems the favorite placing on the walls of most amateurs. If you "know that you don't know," do not be afraid to hang just one picture of fair size in whatever space you have under consideration and condense all the little pictures you feel you must have on one wall. Which brings me to one of the serious faults to be found sometimes with the pictures themselves: they are too small and insignificant. This can, in some cases, be overcome by condensing them. With this idea in mind, glance at the arrangement of the pictures over the drawing of a davenport, and also those above the desk. Immediately one receives a pleasant impression caused by the harmony of design. The six or more small pictures are grouped formally enough to form one unit, and one is not annoyed by a spotty hit-or-miss effect, which a more careless disposition of these same pictures would surely give. The space above the davenport might be correctly filled in other ways. The three lower pictures might be dispensed with, in which case the three larger ones should be lowered. Or one large picture could fill this whole space.



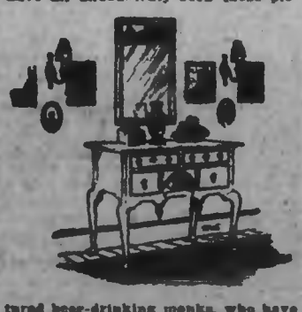
In gathering a number of pictures into a group, some attention should be given to the subjects, and ridiculous combinations avoided. They need not all be landscapes, and they need not all be figures, but in spirit they should not be incongruous. You will see exactly what I mean soon as I tell you that I once saw the picture of the little boy whom nobody loves and who is disconsolately considering going out in the garden to eat worms hanging directly under Hoffman's head of Christ.

One should never [illegible] to pictures to cover up fruity wallpaper (and I don't mean spots; I mean shabby or unsuitable wallpaper). If you are dissatisfied with your wall hangings and really cannot make a change just now, the only dignified solution is to treat the walls exactly the same as you would if they were very much to your liking. Never tacitly apologize for them by bedecking them with too many pictures. No sensible person will cover a shabby gown she may have to wear with trinkets and sewgaws to distract attention from the shabbiness, you know. And the same sense applies to walls, and to houses and to characters.



And just one other word here about shabbiness; you who have to live in shabby surroundings (like ourselves). A consistent shabbiness without modern innovations in the shape of too bright vases or pictures, and anything of inexpensive shine and glitter, bought with the idea of counteracting the shabby effect—a consistent shabbiness, I say, has a certain dignity, a certain becomingness, a certain antique charm of soft colors, soft textures and soft lights. So, until you can change it, take away the [illegible] and leave the shabbiness. Don't be ashamed of it, if there is nothing left undone which you could have done, such as undarned holes, unpolished brasses or furniture, unmended curtains, uncleaned picture frames. And be contented. But only, of course, so long as you are unable to make any radical changes. After that time the shabbiness would be neglect.

It is a mistake to buy pictures to fill up space. For in that way one gets a hodge-podge collection of bargains—questionable imitation etchings, bad prints, awful frames in the shape of dog kennels and continuations of the picture's subject. We have all undoubtedly seen those pictured beer-drinking monks, who have let a stein stray from the table out on to the picture frame, and the pink-coated hunters whose dogs are stuck fast in the wood.



Pictures are much like books. You should have only those pictures on your walls which you are able to interest—pictures which you know are good—pictures the stories of which you can tell. And, above all, pictures which appeal to you.

If you own a great many pictures, it is not, therefore, necessary to hang them all on your walls. After having cut the best of them, lay away or give away the rest. And in this way simplify your wall decorations.

Now, there is great value in repetition. Put a picture on one side of a mantel, and you will find its decorative value enhanced a thousand times by hanging a similar picture to exactly the same position on the other side of the mantel. This principle will be noted in the mantel drawing and in the drawing of the dressing case. I would also say that this diagonal arrangement seen in the mantel drawing is the exception to the rule before mentioned. And in this case its salvation is in its repetition. The companion of the little silhouette in the oval frame is out of sight on the other extended wall of the chimney piece.

Oval pictures are sometimes of great value in decorative schemes. These appearing in these various drawings will be noted. A good disposition of slightly larger ones would be to hang three quite closely, one above another, in a narrow wall space. Occasionally a round picture supplies a note of interest. One will be seen over the davenport.

All pictures should be hung flat against the wall. When possible, do not have the picture wire [illegible] Have your pictures on walls different from the wall where you have to use your [illegible] ture molding, have one piece of wire going straight up to it from each top corner of picture. For hanging bedroom pictures, have you seen the ribbon idea? Ribbon of the color of the wallpaper and about four or five inches wide is run through a screw eye at the extreme top and middle of the picture and carried up crushed and double into a rosette, which is attached to the picture molding.

There are many ways of treating an overmantel. Sometimes one large picture will be sufficient. And when this picture is a handsome oil, fastened right to the wall, the effect is very good indeed. Sometimes a large mirror will be the best solution; sometimes a tapestry. An especially pleasing design is shown over the mantel of today's drawing. The central space is occupied by a mirror, fastened on the woodwork by a narrow molding. This mirror does not reach entirely to the top of the space, but is supplemented by a narrow panel picture, which is also set on with the molding. The panels are of canvas, with the molding treatment, and are a little darker than the cream woodwork. A slightly different scheme would be to discard the side-panel idea, and have the mirror stretch from side to side. The picture panel at the top would then be longer, reaching the width of the mirror. This panel might be one of Abbey's or an Italian plaster [illegible].

In generally summing up the use of pictures, I can only repeat: Be sure of the pictures, keep the effect of your walls restful. Don't have pictures all over them. If the pictures are of the right kind, only a few will [illegible]. And, a good rule to remember, if [illegible] wrong, get them [illegible] with all other [illegible] ting rid of [illegible] a wall [illegible] nates [illegible] pictures [illegible] general [illegible] pictures. So, [illegible] whether [illegible] your disposition [illegible] inches of them. [illegible] to see by next [illegible] will tell you by means [illegible] pictures [illegible]

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

DEFECTIVE EYESIGHT

How It Helped the Lovers

By RYLAND BELL

"Old Grif" we called him, and on the surface the name fitted him admirably. He was Lieutenant Colonel Charles L. Griffin of the United States artillery and commanded the seacoast fort at which I was stationed. He didn't look like a griffin at all. He got the name from the fact that he was a strict disciplinarian and when on duty gave his orders in a sharp and rasping tone.

I was in love with his daughter, May, who really commanded, because, while her father ordered the rest of us about, his daughter had him completely under her thumb. His eyesight was defective, and this rendered him liable to make mistakes. Across the parade he couldn't tell a gun carriage from an ambulance, and he was constantly mistaking one person for another.

One morning Ned Perkins, a junior officer like myself, came to me looking as if he were getting ready for a funeral.

"What's the matter, old man?" I asked.

"Matter! Matter enough. Jennie Trowbridge is at Atlantic City for the week end. I wish to join her there, and Old Grif won't give me leave."

"Why not?"

"He says that all the leaves that can be granted just now have been given."

Ned didn't tell me just why he was so anxious to go to see Miss Trowbridge, but he had confided enough before to enable me to infer the cause correctly. He was on the ragged edge with the young lady, while she was on the ragged edge between him and another fellow, a civilian, being uncertain which to accept. Ned hoped that if he could get to Atlantic City while she was there he could clinch the matter. If not he believed that the other man would in time get the girl. A civilian does not necessarily have to ask permission to go where he likes, but a soldier is on or off duty under the orders of a superior. If Perkins could have told the colonel the circumstances doubtless he would have got his leave. But how could he take his commanding officer into his confidence as to a love affair?

"Ned," I said, "are you in for any special duty for the next two days?"

"Yes, gun instruction."

"I wonder if I couldn't pass muster as you. We don't look much alike, but we're about the same height and build."

"It would necessitate your shaving off your mustache. I couldn't raise one at once."

"I would do that for you."

"But your hair is a molasses candy color, while mine is black as ink."

"Thank you for the compliment. I could dye my hair or rub some black pomade on it, which would do as well."

"Your scheme is a good one, but, gee willikins, suppose the colonel recognizes you as personating me!"

"He won't."

"HOW DO YOU DO, MR. PERKINS!" SHE EXCLAIMED.

"No one will give me away. I'll risk that. But if Griffin should know that I have deliberately absented myself, not only without permission, but in spite of having been refused leave, he'll prefer charges, there'll be a court martial, and my army career will be blighted."

"Nothing risked, nothing gained. You are a soldier without fortune. Miss Trowbridge would make a good wife for an army officer, for she has means, and no soldier should marry a poor woman to bring up a family on the small pay we get. You go to Atlantic City, and if you get the girl you can stand being caught at absence without leave. Besides, the risk you are taking will be a trump card with the girl."

"I believe you're right," said Ned thoughtfully, "but if you are caught personating me what is to prevent trouble for you?"

"Oh, I'm safe enough. No court would convict me of a misdemeanor in helping a brother officer. Besides"—

"Besides what?"

I didn't enlighten him, but what I had in mind was that the colonel would not proceed against me without his daughter's permission, and I knew he would never get it.

That evening Perkins took a train for Atlantic City, and I shaved off my mustache, also making my hair a dull black. The next morning I was out on the parapet superintending the instruction of squads in handling the guns, when the colonel came along. He was showing the fort to some relatives who were staying at one of the hotels outside the walls. He came up to where I was standing near a gun and began to explain its workings to his friends. Presently he asked of me:

"Have these men been long under instruction, Mr."—

"Perkins. Yes, sir; they are becoming quite proficient."

The colonel stood not a dozen feet away from me. The look he gave me was, to say the least, searching. But I kept a stiff upper lip, and without noticing it walked away to another gun and began giving the sergeant in charge orders. The colonel passed on with his visitors, but I knew that he had noticed something about me that did not look like Perkins.

Before the time for gun instruction had passed I went to Perkins' quarters, thinking it possible that the colonel would send for him in order to get a closer inspection of him. I had scarcely arrived when there was a rap at the door, and there stood the colonel's orderly.

"The commander desires Lieutenant Perkins to report at the headquarters office," said the orderly, saluting.

"Very well," I replied, and the orderly withdrew.

I should have notified May of the game I had to play, so that if occasion required I might secure her assistance. I had called upon her, but she was dining out, and I did not see her. On my way to the colonel's office I passed his quarters and found her sitting on the porch. I joined her and told her of the critical position both of myself and of Perkins.

"Do you think your conscience would permit you to vouch for me?" I asked her.

"My conscience will permit a white lie if I can thereby benefit a friend," was the reply.

"Very well; I would suggest that you go to your father's office and be ready when I enter to make him believe I am Mr. Perkins."

She left me to put on a hat and when she came back took the walk leading to the office. I waited till I saw her enter, then followed her. When I reported to the colonel he had his pocketbook in his hand getting out some bills, which he gave to her. On seeing me she exclaimed:

"How do you do, Mr. Perkins? Where have you kept yourself for so long? You have not been to see me in an age."

It was plainly evident from the way the colonel blinked at me that he had sent for me to find out if I were the officer he had seen on the parapet. Evidently I did not look to him like Perkins, and I must have looked very like myself. But he could not trust his own eyesight and dared not take issue with his daughter as to my identity. Finally he looked an order to her to proceed on her way, but she declined to leave me unprotected and, resuming her seat, indicated that she would remain until her father had transacted his buiness with me. He had nothing of importance to communicate, and after giving me some improvised instructions as to points he omitted the men instructed in operating the guns he dismissed me.

I walked in the direction May would take on leaving the office and when she came out joined her, curious to know what if anything concerning me had passed between her and her father after my departure. She told me that he had seemed to be thinking of my resemblance to myself instead of to Perkins, but that to question her would be to confess that his eyesight was failing and he could not bring himself to do so.

Fearing that I might be required to pass a second examination I invited May to an excursion up the river that would keep me away for the rest of the day. I had no right thus to absent myself, but if the matter were raised, having been ministering to the pleasure of the commander's daughter, I felt assured that no notice would be taken of the breach of discipline.

May was good enough to remain away with me till the brightness of day had passed, and her father could not see in the dark. I thought that, since I was aiding my friend Perkins to propose for a wife, I might do something for myself in a like direction, and during the day I told May "my story." Since the matter had been pending between us for some time, I was not surprised at an acceptance.

Perkins waked me up before reveille the next morning to tell me that he had left Atlantic City and Miss Trowbridge long after midnight, having proposed and been accepted during the evening. He expressed deep gratitude for my efforts in his behalf, since the Trowbridge family, including Miss Jennie, were booked to sail in a few days on a six months' trip to Europe, and Ned's rival had engaged passage on the same steamer. Ned was confident that without my and May Griffin's valuable assistance he would have lost his sweetheart.

Soon after guard mount the colonel sent for Ned, who responded to the summons in propria persona. He told me that his commander looked at him with a puzzled expression, then, satisfied that he was himself, gave him an unimportant order.

The result of this single day's performance was a double wedding that occurred the next winter, in which May and I and Jennie and Ned figured as leading ladies and gentlemen.

Lattice Screens for Inns.

Many quaint old inns are to be seen in King's Lynn, England, and the sign of the Lattice Inn is one of the oldest in existence. In the olden times the windows of inns were kept open, and in order to hide the revellers within a lattice screen, painted red, was placed in the window.

There is an old saying: "As well known by my wit as an alehouse by a red lattice." The lattices continued up to the beginning of the eighteenth century and when they disappeared from the windows they were adopted as signs. The latter are getting very scarce and it is questionable whether half a dozen could be found in England.

ICE-BREAKER IS BACK.

Steamer Kit Couldn't Get Nearer Than 120 Miles From Wrangell.

NOME, Alaska, July 20.—The ice-breaking steamer Kit arrived here on Saturday from a cruise in the Arctic. The captan reported that he tried for fourteen days to break through the ice field to reach Wrangell Island and take off the men of the Stefansson exploring expedition who have been marooned there since the old whaler Karluk was crushed in the ice last winter. The Kit was unable to approach nearer than 120 miles to Wrangell Island, and finally abandoned the attempt.

All information received ere is that the ice in the Arctic this year is worse than ever known before, and for this reason the revenue cutter Bear, which is to take Capt. Robert Bartlett, master of the Karluk, to Wrangell Island to take off the refugees, has delayed sailing until more favorable conditions prevail.

Canada-West Indies Trade.

OTTAWA, July 20.—As a result of the Canada-West Indies trade agreement, the importation of Canadian foodstuffs into Trinidad increased from $750,000 in 1912 to $1,135,000 in 1913, while foodstuffs imported from the United States fell from $1,600,000 to $1,415,000.

The West Indies is now looking to importations of British Columbia lumber as soon as the Panama Canal is opened. They require annually about $2,250,000 worth of lumber.

MAN IN GREY WANTED IT.

(Chicago Tribune Holds Up Hoop Vice-District Street Battles.

CHICAGO, July 20. — Search for the "mysterious villain in Gray," accused of firing the first shot in the revolver battle in the Chicago vice district on Thursday night, in which one detective was killed and three others wounded, was promulgated by the police department Saturday. That the battle was started by a lot of levee hangers-on, in an effort to kill some of the detectives of the morals squad, who had been raiding resorts, is thought to be apparent from the evidence given in the inquest over Stanley J. Birns, the slain plainclothesman.

Political and police affiliations in the vice district problem, were in process of being scented Saturday in an endeavor to place the responsibility. That the fatal effect will rouse public opinion to force the effectual stamping out of the whole segregated district was the prediction made yesterday by many police officials.

Woman Fatally Hurt.

BOTHWELL, July 20.—Mrs. John Humphreys, 75 years old, was fatally injured Saturday when, while assisting a number of women members of the congregation in cleaning the local Baptist Church, she fell from a table on which she was standing to wash a window, across the back of a pew. Two ribs were broken, and she was badly injured internally, as well as being rendered unconscious.

Duel Was Stopped.

PARIS, July 17.—The seconds appointed by Paul De Cassagnac of The Autorite and Carl Lahm of The Leipsic Tageblatt yesterday decided there was no adequate reason for a duel, to which the Frenchman had challenged the German.

DESTROYERS TO RESCUE.

U. S. War Craft Rushes To Aid of Schooner Ashore In Fog.

NEWPORT, R.I., July 18. — The schooner T. W. Cooper, bound from New Haven, Conn., for St. John, N.B., went ashore in a fog near the west arm of Point Judith breakwater last night, according to a wireless message received here. Assistance was asked for and preparations were made at the naval station to have the torpedo boat Gwin go to her assistance.

The torpedo boat destroyer MacDougall went to her assistance. The revenue cutter Acushnet at New Bedford and the Itasca at New London were also notified and started to Port Judith. A latter radio message said that the schooner was in a bad position. Her crew were reported to have reached shore safely by means of the breakwater.

Prisoner Is Dying.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 18. — John Northmore, middle aged, who is in the county jail serving a term for vagrancy, is dying. Dr. Bogert, the jail physician, ordered him removed to the general hospital.

Prisoner Surrenders.

CHATHAM, Ont., July 18.—Frank Burke, a resident of Cedar Springs, who has been wanted by the police for several weeks on three charges of raising disturbances, was captured by High Constable Peters yesterday after a long chase over the county.

Peters called at Burke's home, and while he was at the front door Burke made his escape through the back and Peters followed. Finding himself unable to catch up Peters drew his revolver and fired several times. The bullets came so close to the fleeing prisoner that he stopped and gave himself up.

Four Great Sauces.

A Frenchman has declared that "man has created the culinary art. He does not eat like an animal—he breakfasts, dines and sups."

The French are particularly eloquent on the subject of sauces. Among their famous chefs are recognized four great sauces—Spanish, Veloute, Bechamel and German. The Spanish and Veloute were known as far back as the seventeenth century. In the eighteenth they were modified by the masters of cookery, particularly by Careme, who was called "the Raphael of the kitchen."

The Spanish sauce is composed of juices extracted from a mixture of ham, veal, chicken and pheasant. Veloute is similar, but is not colored. Bechamel is Veloute to which cream has been added, and the German sauce is Veloute plus the yolks of eggs.—Harper's.

What Hurt Him.

"Did you hear about the accident to Hinks?"

"Why, no. What happened?"

"Oh, the darned fool was seriously hurt this afternoon."

"In his automobile, I suppose?"

"No, that's the trouble."

"What do you mean? I know he's a reckless driver, and"—

"And you think he was hurt in the car. Well, he wasn't. He was hurt by a trip about ten feet ahead of the car. If he'd been able to stay in the car he'd never have been hurt."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Best Indian Theatres.

Many East Indian theatres keep their performances going until 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning. These dramatic orgies are not, says the Times of India, however, due to the length of the plays, as in Chinese theatres, but to the fact that the trancers do not begin running till 5 o'clock. As the spectators gather from distant villages and have strong objections to paying livery hire, they expect to be entertained until the trains start.

Pleasant Punishment.

Pastor—I hear that the lightning struck your house, Hobenhauer. That is a punishment for your wickedness. Peasant—Well, sir, it's a punishment I wouldn't mind having again, for I got 4,000 marks insurance from it.—Lustige Blatter.

Chauffeur Runs Amuck.

GUELPH, July 18—When Ambrey Heptky, chauffeur for J. W. Lyon, picked up a match that was lying on the garage floor and lit it so that no one would step on it and set the gasoline on fire, he did not bargain to be taken to hospital in a helpless condition. He lit the match and threw it away, but a spark caught on his clothes and there was soon a blaze. The clothes were saturated with oil and gasoline. He was severely burned.

Bowyer For the Senate.

OTTAWA, July 18. — The name of Phil Bowyer, M.P.P., is being prominently suggested as a successor to the late Senator Coffee in the Upper House. There are four vacancies in the Senate in Ontario. They will not probably be filled until the autumn.

Ignis Fatuus.

Scientists have never explained to their satisfaction the light known popularly as the "will-o'-the-wisp" and also known as ignis fatuus. The phenomenon has been attributed to the combustion of carbons and sulphurs ignited by sulphureted hydrogen. This theory has been shown to be a fallacy by persons who have passed their hands through the so-called fire and felt no heat. The strange fire flies fastest over cemeteries and over lowlands and swamps when no wind is blowing. Superstitious persons attribute the flickering fires to the souls of the dead. The most plausible theory is that the phenomenon is due to radio-active emanations rising from beneath the ground.—Harper's Weekly.

A Chinese Trick.

The Chinese are past masters in the art of trickery, and some of their tricks are very ingenious. One is a method by which they can make a postage stamp do service almost indefinitely. The sender of the letter passes over the stamp some paste which in appearance is not unlike the gum at the back of the stamp. When the stamp is obliterated it takes the impression, but it is not even "skin deep." The receiver of the letter must be a confederate, and he passes a damp sponge over the stamp. This removes the paste and with it the postal mark, so until the stamp is worn out it can be used over and over again.

The Month of August.

Few persons know why August has thirty-one days. July, which takes its name from Julius Caesar, has thirty-one days, and Augustus, who completed the calendar, declined to submit to the indignity of seeing his own month branded with the inferiority of one day less. The astronomers had accordingly to reshuffle the lunar cards and after some perplexity hit upon the expedient of shearing twenty-four hours from February's glory in order that August might face the world on a footing of perfect equality with July.

The Ptarmigan.

There are few birds whose plumage is so variable as the ptarmigan's. Three times in the year its plumage changes. It has separate coats for spring, autumn and winter. At the beginning of November it puts on the last costume of the season. Its spring brown and summer gray serve well to hide it among the scanty herbage of its haunts from the keen eyes of the soaring falcon.

OPEN OUT YOUR HAND.

Then Note the Effort It Requires to Keep It From Closing.

Many thousands of years have elapsed since the ancestors of man lived in trees. (It is never to be forgotten that though ape-like forms, they were not apes.) Yet, in spite of these eons of succession that have passed by, man has not yet forgotten the instinct of self preservation in the forest. As he was a helpless creature he was compelled to depend for his safety on the grasping power of his hands and feet. For many ages, however, he had gradually been going on the ground more and more and in the transition and long as that his feet became more adapted for walking and his hands exclusively for grasping, with the result that the grip and muscular strength of his hands became immense. This is still most powerfully evidenced in a young baby, whilst, without muscular development, can within a few days of birth hang by both hands to a stick for as much as five minutes at a time and by one hand only for two or three, a task beyond the power of any adult except an athlete and gymnast.

But a fact which is still more remarkable is that to the present day there is not one of us that can hold his hand open, without discomfort and absolutely no one whose hand will stay open at all unless the will is exerted to that end. Try it. Hold your hand open for three minutes by the watch and see how tired you will be! Lay your hand on the table, the palm on the wood, the fingers over the edge, and see how, in spite of yourself, they will curve round and grasp it. Look at the hand of a sleeping person and think if the fingers are ever shown to be out straight.

When the anatomy of the hand is taken up it will be found that on the palm and on the under side of the fingers are numbers of nerves sensitive to touch which respond as readily as the nerves of the eye do to color or the nerves of the ear drum to sound. These were the principal protection of our tree living ancestors, for an immediate clutch at a branch was necessary in rapid travel in the large branches of great forest trees. The sensitiveness is being lost, but it is being lost slowly. Not even today we can no more prevent responding to the stimulation of the nerves of touch in our hands than to the sensation of light in the eye or sound in the ear.

Disregarding the thumb, the human hand is really nothing more than an adjustable hook. It is at rest only when in the position of a hook. When any one loses a hand the best substitute is a steel metal hook.—New York American.

EGYPT'S GREEN SUN.

A Phenomenon That Was Commented Upon by the Ancients.

The appearance of a green light at sunset was noticed and commented upon by the ancient Egyptians and more particularly so because in the clear air of Egypt the tints of sunset are peculiarly distinct.

As the sun thens descends nearer and nearer to the horizon and is immensely enlarged and flaming it suddenly becomes for an instant a brilliantly green color, and immediately a series of green rays suffuses the sky in many directions, well night to the zenith. The same phenomenon appears at sunrise, but to a smaller extent. Sometimes, just as the last part of the sun's disk vanishes, its color changes from green to blue, and so also after it has disappeared the sky near the horizon often is green, while toward the zenith it is blue.

This was alluded to in Egyptian writings. Day was the emblem of life and night that of death, and the nocturnal sun, being identified with Osiris, thus rendered Osiris king of the dead. The setting sun was green; therefore Osiris, as the nocturnal deity of the dead, was painted green. The splendid outline of the high priests of Ammon frequently depict the green sun, and the funeral deities are all colored green.

There are innumerable instances in the Egyptian relics of representations relative to death, being colored green. The practice undoubtedly arose from the green tints of sunrise and sunset. The green sun disk is endorsed to 5,000 years ago in Egypt. This is the earliest known human record of an astronomical phenomenon.

A CONFERENCE ON HOME RULE QUESTION

King George Cuts Short His Review of the Fleet and Leaves For Buckingham Palace

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, July 20.—In view of the conference of all parties on Home Rule, which he has called for to-morrow, King George cut short his review of the fleet at Spithead to-day and went immediately to Buckingham Palace where the conference will be held. At Spithead the King led two hundred fighting ships out to sea on the royal yacht accompanied by prominent officials. It took the ships two hours to pass His Majesty in review.

The Round Table conference on Irish troubles is viewed with pleasure by all parties concerned to-day. It came as a surprise to the political circles, and was felt that both sides would accept settlement. His personal influence has brought hope of settlement of what looked like a hopeless tangle as late as Saturday. The conference to-morrow will be the first of a series.

In the House of Commons Premier Asquith made the formal announcement and Bonar Law declared the Opposition loyally accepted the King's command. John Redmond said he did not consider himself called upon to declare whether the conference would be useful. The invitation was Royal command and accepted.

The Conference announcement has thrown the newspapers into a row. The Northcliffe press was the only one to have the announcement, while the Ministers' own papers are kept in the dark. The King took every care to keep within the law in calling the conference.

HIS DEPARTURE IS REGRETTED

Rev. Canon Davidson at St. John's yesterday, referred in terms of deep regret, to the departure of Mr. G. C. Wainwright from the city and congregation. Mr. Wainwright had been a valued supporter of St. John's during his residence in Peterborough, and his ability and hard work had contributed materially to the success of the People's Chimes movement, of which he had been treasurer. He had also been a strong public spirited and generally valuable citizen of Peterborough, and his loss would be generally felt in the city which would be distinctly the poorer for his departure. He had won much appreciation during his career in Peterborough, and would be followed by the real good wishes for his future welfare.

Mr. Wainright was a member of the Canadian Club, and a former president of the Canadian Club. He was here for some days arranging his private business and left last night for Montreal, where he has been appointed manager of the Montreal branch of the Bank of Ottawa.

AT ALL SAINTS'.

Miss Anna McCann, soloist of Cowan Avenue Presbyterian Church (Toronto), sang in All Saints' Church yesterday, at both services. She has a soprano voice of excellent quality and great power. In the evening she combined with Mr. Geo. Chandler, (tenor), in a duet "Tarry With Me," which was sung with good expression and taste, and enjoyed by the large congregation present. The Rector preached at both services.

INTEREST IN MURDER TRIAL

Long Lines of People Wait Hours in the Hope of Getting Into Court Room For Caillaux Case

EUROPE IS STIRRED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

PARIS, July 20—All Europe was stirred to-day by the trial of Mme. Caillaux, wife of the former Premier, who was placed on trial in the Palace of Justice for the murder on March 16th of Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro. Long lines of people waited for hours in the hopes of getting into the small court room, and special police were called to keep them in order. Mrs. Caillaux was brought into court wearing black. She broke into tears when the charge was read.

Mme. Caillaux calmly told her life history to the court.

The school has eleven full courses, and has been doing excellent work.

DECREASE IN TRADE DISPUTES

The number of trade disputes reported to the Department of Labour during June was nine, one less than for the previous month, and two less than the corresponding month of the previous year. The total number of disputes in existence at the end of the month was twenty-two, as compared with fifteen during May. The largest disputes of the month were those of carpenters at Montreal, in which 1,000 employees were concerned, carpenters at London affecting some 300 man, and miners at Nordegg, Alta., to the number of 300 directly and 900 indirectly.

PRICE LEVEL UNCHANGED

The Department of Labour's index number of wholesale prices at 136.2 for June as compared with 136.2 in May and 136.4 in June, 1913. Advances in oats, barley, corn, flaxseed, cattle, beef, lamb products, sugar, glucose, wool, cotton, hides and tallow, lead, and anthracite coal, were offset by declines in wheat, hogs, iron, brass, tin, silver, spruce, miscellaneous building materials, furs and raw rubber.

In retail prices the features of the month were a general advance in potatoes and the continued decline in butter. Several declines in mutton, lard and fish occurred, but eggs were higher in many localities, and sugar began to advance.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MISS ALMA McGILL

Webb, in the absence of Rev. H. G. Peever, at 3 o'clock. The deceased young lady had been ill for the past two or three years. The floral tributes were numerous and the large attendance signified the universal regret at her demise. Interment took place at the Little Lake Cemetery.

ENJOYABLE DANCE AT STONEY LAKE

The one-step, the hesitation waltz, and the other up-to-date dances have taken a great hold on the Stoney Lake people, as everybody was dancing them at the Pavilion on Juniper Island on Saturday night, when the first big dance of the season was held under the auspices of the Cottagers' Association, and the people were delighted with the first appearance of Mr. Asa Hnycke's Orchestra, which furnished the music.

THE EVIL THAT MEN DO

Ottawa Citizen)

Kratchenko, a murderer, was hanged the other day at Winnipeg. His was the last life in the case which included the death of his victim, the death in penitentiary of one of the police officers, who conspired in his escape, the death from grief of the wife of another conspirator, the sentencing to jail for perjury of the prisoner's lawyer and the jailing of another conspirator for his part in the affair. Thus six lives were ended or spoiled by the act of one useless citizen, without taking into account the consequences that must still follow in several, if not all, of these cases. Truly the modern evil that men do lives after them in the wrecks of homes and families.

PRINCE OF WALES CHOSE THE FAIREST

LONDON, July 19.—The Prince of Wales, during his short stay in town, has shown considerable keenness as a dancing man. He attended Lady Salisbury's dance and receptions by Lord and Lady Titchfield, the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort; the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire and Katherine, Dowager Duchess of Westminster. The last was at Claridge's. There was no fixed programme. There were a few waltzes, but no tangoes. The presence of the Prince of Wales naturally had an influence on the programme, which was made up almost entirely of ragtime one steps and two-steps. From 12:30 until 3 o'clock in the morning he did not miss a dance. He is an indefatigable though not an expert dancer. He always picked out the youngest and prettiest girls in the room as partners.

ON A CHARGE OF ROBBERY

Two Prisoners Accused of Having Stolen Money From an Old Man

CAUGHT BY DETECTIVES

At a late hour on Saturday night an old man who had been hanging around the American Hotel was relieved of his money. It is said that two men, George Hesop and John White, enticed, or rushed, the old gentleman up into the hay loft in the barn at the back of the American Hotel, and, it is stated, had taken his roll of money, when Detectives Newhall and Meagher happened on the scene and caught the men red-handed.

A sharp but brief fight was put up by the robbers, one of whom used his teeth to good advantage by biting Detective Meagher on the finger and Detective Newhall on the leg.

The prisoners appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning, and were remanded till to-morrow.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

Brantford has begun the ideal method of oiling its streets.

There were 1,700 paid admissions to the Sacred Heart Church lawn social.

A farmer reported to the Market Clerk that some one stole a chicken from his wife during the market hours on Saturday.

We know a few chickens that might not object to being carried off. There are some hens, too. It would depend entirely upon the agent.

June 1st—1909—Peterborough used oil on its streets to-day for the first time. Although auto owners raised a howl, everyone else was delighted.

The Empire Theatre was thrown open to the public Saturday night. The seats are not in yet, but citizens enjoyed a film or two with no admission.

Let's have a look at the silver lining again. To suffragettes, war, slow times, drought, active creditors, poor debtors, cross babies, the cellar division, and to such has been added the army worm.

Every week end brings a lamentable toll of deaths at watering places.

The prolonged dry spell has stirred the farmers into another nervous condition.

Autoists will be well advised to travel as little as posible with the wind.

If you put your ear to the ground you will probably hear a general rumble around the City. Taxes are announced to be due.

This is where the "man trying to pay for a little home" gets a "rude shock."

Assuredly the bees and the pessimist must find these days to his liking.

David Fultz Has Declared General Strike of all the Players of Two Big Leagues

MAGNATES TO FIGHT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, July 20.—A sensation was sprung in the baseball world to-day when a general strike of all players in the American and National leagues was ordered by David Fultz, president of the players' fraternity. The baseball magnates said they would fight it to the last ditch. The action results from the ruling of the commission which said player Kraft belonged to Nashville when Fultz says he belongs to Newark.

Wilfred Elson, son of Mr. Harry Elson, of Fraserville, was the victim of a painful accident on Saturday. He had motored into Peterborough, and in cranking his car the engine "backfired" with the result that Mr. Elson had his arm broken. His injury was attended to by Dr. Morgan.

DANCERS REMAIN UNTIL THE DAM AND EGG HOUR

LONDON, July 18.—Gen. Howard Carroll and his wife and daughter arrived in London recently after a pleasant motoring trip round England. He, like other Americans who have not paid a visit here in recent years, was surprised at the changes which have come about in the superficial aspects of metropolitan life.

With Judge and Mrs. Gary, the Carrolls went to dinner to a certain restaurant, where they expected to find the art of dining as practised a few years ago still in favour. Instead, they found everything done with a rush and hustle entirely different from the old-fashioned ways that required dinner to be regarded with something of the reverence of a sacrificial rite.

Supping at another place, the party were astounded at the prevailing conditions. Where, they asked, were the quietness and reserve supposed to be associated with the English character? The band was playing vaudeville ragtime melodies, and couples were getting up from the tables to take a turn at dancing on the floor.

General Carroll does not criticise the changed conditions of London life. He merely remarks how extraordinary these changes are.

Two balls given in London last week furnished a striking contrast between the old and new styles of London life. One was a "small dance" given by Lady Salisbury. The Prince of Wales was present, and, of course, the list of guests read like selected pages from Burke and De Brett.

Everything was staid and solemn. Waltzes and quadrilles had the place of honour on the dance programmes, although the tendency of the age was shown by the fact that the Boston and the two-step were not eliminated even within the stately walls of Arlington House, though they certainly made a bashful appearance in the company of the old-time waltzes.

Perhaps the most conspicuous features of the affair were the floral decorations, which came from the famous Salisbury gardens at Hatfield.

By 2 o'clock the grave and reverend company departed, some of the young folk going on to another house, where a livelier time might be expected. The Prince of Wales probably would hav liked to join them, but his tutor, Mr. Hansell, who is still the Prince's shadow, took him home to Buckingham Palace.

The other dance was given by a wealthy woman who belongs to what may be termed the smart section of upper middle class society, and who resides in Hyde Park Gardens.

The gardens in front of the house had been flooded and a dancing room built above the water, on which gondolas floated. The whole scene was arranged to represent Venice, and Venetian costumes were de rigueur, even the servants being in mediaeval attire so as to preserve the illusion. There were the Bridge of Sighs and the Grand Canal, of course in miniature. This reconstruction must have cost several thousand pounds, and all the other arrangements were equally elaborate and expensive. From the latter point of view no comparison is possible between this dance and that at Arlington House. In respect of dancing, the quadrille did not figure on the programme, which was given up to Boston, one and two steps and the tango. Music was provided by two orchestras, one the regulation string band and the other a special organisation of ragtime players, who though garbed in Venetian cloaks, evolved the latest notes in dancing music.

Here it was not 2 but 4 before any of the guests thought of going home. Many, indeed, remained for a hot breakfast of coffee, bacon and eggs, which now is a distinguished feature of the very smartest dances.

FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL FOR HOUSE BREAKING

Wm. Maxwell Sentenced This Morning For Entering Wm. A. Bailey's and Other Homes—Must Take the Pledge

THE WAGGON FOR BROTHER

William and Arthur Maxwell came up before Judge Huycke this morning for sentence on the charge of theft, for stealing various articles, when they broke into the house of W. A. Bailey, a couple of weeks ago.

Mr. Gordon, who appeared on behalf of the prisoners made a strong plea for leniency for Arthur, who is the younger of the two, and is married with a wife and child, being only 21 years of age. He previously had never been in court except on a charge of illegal fishing.

William, the older of the two, is 25 years old, and has served short terms in jail in Toronto and Montreal for being drunk.

Adjutant McElhaney said he had looked into the case and found that Arthur Maxwell was a sober man and willing to work.

Judge Huycke first pronounced sentence on William Maxwell. He is to be confined to the common jail with hard labour for four months on charge of theft from Mr. Garside, four months for theft from Mr. L. Bell, and four months for theft from W. A. Bailey, sentences to run concurrently. When his time expires he is to take an oath from his parish priest that he will not touch liquor.

In the case of Arthur Maxwell the Judge said that on certain considerations for the sake of his wife and baby, and that he can get work at once, he gave him suspended sentence, but that before to-night he must take an oath with Father O'Brien of the Sacred Heart Church, that he will not drink and that he must report every two weeks to Chief Thompson.

STORY WAS NEW TO MAGISTRATE

Item in Morning Paper of His Intention to Resign Apparently Only a Rumour

WHAT PAPER STATED

The following item appeared in the morning contemporary:

"The Times learns from good authority that the office of Police Magistrate of Peterborough is to become vacant in the near future by the retirement of Mr. D. W. Dumble. It is understood that on account of advancing years and physical infirmities, Mr. Dumble has decided to ask to be relieved from the onerous duties of the important office which he has held so long and so acceptably to a large majority of the people.

"Who his successor will be has not yet been disclosed. Mr. R. J. Soden, who has the patronage of West Peterborough, will probably make his recommendation in the course of a few days."

Mr. Dumble stated to The Examiner that he was unaware of any proposed changes in the local Police Magistracy. He said he knew nothing whatever of the matter referred to in the item except that he had read it. Otherwise it was all new to him.

DOUBLE UMPIRE SYSTEM WILL BE USED HERE

Peterborough will get a taste of the double umpire system during the present series, as Jocko Halligan will share with McPartlin the duties of the position for the three games.

CORRI'S RECISION UPHELD.

Sporting Life Deals With the Disputed Points of Recent Big Fight.

LONDON, July 20.—Sporting Life publishes to-day a "considered view" of all the disputed points in the Smith-Carpentier fight in which Carpentier was awarded the decision on a foul. It says that, according to the official timekeeper, Smith was knocked out in the fourth round, but declares that in this does not justify Carpentier in claiming a knockout, because, on account of Smith's deafness, both men had agreed that Referee Corri should make the count and indicate to them when the time had expired, and Corri agrees that Smith was ready to rise after five seconds, and was only awaiting the signal.

With regard to the disqualification of Smith, Sporting Life warmly defends Corri's decision, and says:

"Corri hesitated to disqualify Smith, because he believed the foul to be neither vicious nor dangerous, and was prepared to order the fight to continue if the Frenchman had risen none the worse. But, seeing that he remained down in apparent distress, Corri immediately disqualified Smith."

The paper considers irrelevant the questions whether Carpentier went down as the result of a blow from Smith or from missing his own swing; whether Descamps, Carpentier's manager, contravened the rules by entering the ring, and whether Carpentier bluffed, in seeming distress, and adds: "We shall never believe that the foul blow was a very damaging one, but in any case Corri's decision is as unassailable as ever."

BIRTH.

VANCE—At 778 Aylmer street, Peterborough, on Saturday, July 18th, 1914, to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vance, a daughter.

MAYOCK.—On July 18th, at St. Joseph's Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. M. Mayock—a daughter.

WRECKING A NOVEL.

In a discussion of the popular literary taste Theodore Dreiser said at the Century Club in New York:

"Here is an illuminating episode: A preacher was talking to a critic. The preacher said:

"'I thought you didn't like the work of Potts, the novelist?'

"'Neither do I,' the critic answered.

"'Yet in your review the other day you declared that Potts' last novel was remarkable for its purity, that its high moral tone was a splendid change from the tainted fiction of the day, and that you advised the public to turn to the moral Potts from the debasing white slave fiction so much in vogue. Why, now, my friend, if you dislike Potts, did you talk like that about him?'

"'I did it,' the critic answered, "to spoil his sales.'"

To make dry beans cook quickly, wash them in warm water, taking the beans up between the hands and rubbing them briskly for two minutes. This causes the skins to loosen and they get an earlier start in cooking. Put them on to cook in warm (not hot) water with half a teaspoonful of soda.

FORMER DUNDAS MAN IS NOW ORGANIZER FOR CONSERVATIVES

WINDSOR, Ont., July 18—Mr. W. G. Clydesdale, of this city, has accepted the position of Conservative organizer for Western Ontario, acting in conjunction with A. H. Birmingham, of Toronto.

Mr. Clydesdale has resigned his position with the Dominion Immigration service, and will enter in his new duties on Aug. 1st.

Mr. Clydesdale was born at Dunmer, near Peterborough, in 1870, and removed with his parents when three years of age to Comber, Essex County. Fifteen years ago he removed to this city where he engaged in railroad work. Three years ago he was appointed as assistant inspector of immigration in charge of the port of Windsor.

He has been known for many years as a hard worker for the cause of Conservatism, and in the bye-election of 1910, when Oliver Wilcox captured North Essex, his organising ability was shown. He went into a fight regarded generally as hopeless and won.

Mr. Clydesdale is prominent in fraternal affairs, being a member of the Masons, Orangemen and Oddfellows and other orders.

PULP PROTECTION.

Trade protection is a good thing; that is, if the protection does not give advantages to the few at the expense of the many. The Liberal government of Ontario set an excellent precedent when it provided that no saw logs nor pulp logs should be exported from Ontario in an unmanufactured condition. This measure was one of conservation of our natural forest resources; and at the same time a stimulus to home industries, an encouragement to the home employment of labour, and a way to the numerous advantages that come from the domestic manufacture into the finished or nearly finished products of our raw resources.

The advantage of this policy which has been pretty faithfully adhered and extended to other provinces, are evident in the increased manufacture in Canada of pulp and paper. According to the annual bulletin on pulpwood consumption issued by the Forestry Branch at Ottawa, the consumption of pulpwood by Canadian pulp-mills has increased by 20.1 per cent in the past year. The manufacture of pulp has increased and the exports to the United States, Great Britain and China have decreased. While the imports have also increased, these form but a small part of the total consumption of pulp.

Canada still exports almost half of the pulpwood she produces in the raw state, although these exports are being checked by regulations enacted in the different provinces which forbid the export of raw, or unmanufactured, timber cut on Crown lands. The recent legislation in the Province of Quebec which also forbids the export of "raw" timber from lands granted to railway companies will tend to further decrease this economic waste.

Altogether, 40 firms operate 65 pulp-mills in Canada. Quebec has 24 of these mills; Ontario, 17; Nova Scotia, 4; New Brunswick, 4; and British Columbia, 2. In addition to these active mills, reports were received at the Forestry Branch from 10 firms whose mills were idle and 5 firms with mills under construction.

MR. BORDEN AND LABOUR.

Labour interests have not had in the past much encouragement to regard the governments of Conservatives as their practical friends. The Brockville Times uses the keynote of Conservative indifference to labour in chanting an ironic hot-weather song "poking fun" at Mr. Allan Studholme of East Hamilton as "the head, body and tail of organized labour," and it adds:

> It would seem that Canada has not yet reached that populous stage where labour organizations can depend upon any other means than the regular parties for legislation affecting their interests, which, by the way, are by no means neglected, as may be noted in the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Eight-Hour Day for underground miners, and other enactments of the Whitney Government.

The closing sentence is amusing. The Whitney Government is given credit for the Workmen's Compensation Act, which it held back seven years, and which it still holds back—it is not yet in force—and the eight-hour day for miners, which was literally forced upon the Government by the leader of the Opposition. To show how friendly the Whitney Government is to organized labour it put up a candidate against Mr. Studholme, in East Hamilton, in an attempt to rob organized labour of even one spokesman in Parliament.

The Borden Government also poses as the friend of Labour. It held back the completion of the bond guarantee of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the people's railway, on the plea of thus forcing adjustment of certain difficulties between the Grand Trunk Pacific and some of its employees. But when it came to considering the interests of a private railway company that had been a leech on the country's money bags for years, the keen interest in labour falls off a point or two. When the 45 million gift to Mackenzie & Mann was before Parliament the only labour representative in Parliament, Mr. Alphonse Verville, introduced a motion, seconded by a Liberal member, to provide that the guarantee should not be given to Mackenzie and Mann until the latter had agreed to the appointment of a Board of Conciliation to do justice to the employees in their coal mines in British Columbia. The motion, as all such motions have always had, had unanimous Liberal support, but Mr. Borden, on. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, and on. Mr. Crothers, Minister of Labour, led the Conservative forces of parliament in voting it down, angrily denouncing such obstructive tactics.

The Government professed great solicitude for labour in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific guarantee, but hands off Mackenzie and Mann, when the gift of 45 milions of the people's money is asked to be subject to decent treatment of miners in their employ. The result is that the labour troubles in the Vancouver Island mines of Mackenzie and Mann have been growing steadily worse until a general strike in British Columbia is threatened.

The Borden Government shows a tender interest in Labour where the Grand Trunk Pacific is concerned, but when Mackenzie and Mann want a big gift like 45 millions, the deal is rushed through without ny proviso as to the protection of Labour interests. Every favour to the multi-millionaires is the policy: What are the interests of Labour in comparison with those of Mackenzie and Mann? The Borden Government shows its gratitude for the substantial support given it in the elections of 1911. What would Hon. Mr. Monk, who resigned because his association with the Borden Government forced him to the conclusion that "public life in Canada is rotten and over-run with gang rule," think of the situation now? He would feel ampler justification for his resignation.

THE DETAILS OF THE DOWNFALL OF THE ROBLIN CABINET

The Roblin Government Defeated on the Popular Vote by a Majority of Nearly 10,000—Hanging on to Office by its Eyelashes—An Early Change of Government Inevitable

The smashing blow given the Roblin government and the Roblin machine by the electors of Manitoba is revealed by a compilation of the figures showing the vote cast in the different constituencies and in the province at large.

Final figures are not yet available owing to incomplete returns from a few constituencies, but the table herewith published is substantially correct. In one or two constituencies the party majority and not the actual vote is printed. When the final figures are published the totals will be larger than shown but the relative division of the popular vote will not be affected.

The vote in the forty-five consituncies in which elections were held July 10 was divided as follows:

Opposition candidates	66,882
Roblin candidates	64,271
Third candidates	7,146
	138,301

The total vote for Roblin candidates was 64,271; for the candidates standing in opposition to the wovernment was 74,030.

The Roblin government is therefore in a popular minority of 9,759.

The Roblin government has never commanded any striking percentage of the popular vote; but in previous contests it did manage to get a bare majority.

Thusi n 1910 the Roblin government polled 50.77 per cent. of the total vote; the Liberals, 47.56 per cent.; and the Socialists, 1.66 par cent.

The relative figures for 1914 are: Roblin government, 46.47 per cent.; Liberals, 46.36 per cent.; for the Independents, Socialists and Labour candidates, 5.17 per cent.

Leaving the third candidates out of the calculation entirely, the total Liberal vote exceeded the Roblin vote by no less than 2,611. This is a more emphatic popular victory than that achieved by the Roblin government in 1910, when it had a majority over the Liberals of 2,405.

The whole western section of the province lying south of Roblin, comprising eleven counties, went solidly Liberal. Of these six were Liberal gains. The City of Brandon is the only Roblin spot in the whole district.

In Arthur a Roblin majority of 175 was turned into a Liberal majority of 65; in Virden a Liberal minority of 175 was turned into a Liberal majority of 88; in Deloraine, a seat gerrymandered to make it safely Roblinite, Dr. Thornton had over 300 majority.

In Turtle Mountain the Roblin majority was cut in two; in Killarney Hon. George Lawrence had to be content with a bare 65; in Manitou a majority of over 500 dropped to 78; in Cypress, long a Roblin stronghold, there was a majority for the government of only 16.

Tom Johnson's majority of over a thousand is more by several hundred than the combined majorities of all the ministers.

With a precarious majority in the house, a big popular majority against them in the country, and serious dissensions in the party, a change of government within a short space of time is inevitable.—Manitoba Free Press.

ROAR OF THE ARCTIC.

Sullen Thunder of the Gales and the "Voices of the Ice."

Most of us cherish the idea that in the far reaches of the Arctic circle there prevails an everlasting death-like stillness. But those who have spent much time in the far north assure us that that region is far from being silent, although so little life is manifest for the greater part of the year.

On polar seas the ice, though thick and solid as granite, is hardly ever still. There are tides in the arctic, and these lift and lower the huge icefields, causing them to give out all manner of noises. Even as late as November the pack will wake up without warning and pile itself in huge heaps with indescribable crashings, groanings and roarings. Peary speaks of the "rabid roar" of the "tumbling chaos of ice blocks." His Eskimos were terrible, frightened and set up weird howlings. The dogs whined and barked, and altogether the noise was terrific. Every arctic explorer has given similar accounts.

The movements of the ice—the gradual crowding and pressing, bending and pushing, the breaking of the masses of snow lying at the "ice foot"—have given rise to the expression of explorers, "The voices of the ice." It may be that one will hear a low singing, splashing or grumbling, alternating with various other sounds, cracking and snapping. These sound irregularly from a great distance, like a confusion of human voices, the racket of a railway train or the skurrying of a sledging party. Then, again, the noises are such as to cause the explorer to fancy he hears the steps and voices of various species of animals.

Spring is the noisiest time in the polar seas. McClure of the Investigator compared the breaking up of the ice at that season to heavy thunder or the sound of great guns. Another writer likened the sound of the breaking ice floe to that produced by a volcanic eruption.

Moreover, the air in the arctic regions is seldom absolutely still. Gales are frequent. The winter winds, according to Peary, blow with almost unimaginable fury. On one occasion in the cabins of the Roosevelt the sound resembled that of some gigantic power plant, everything vibrating to the pulsation of the machinery. The whole atmosphere was filled with the deep, sullen roar of the wind, and so thick was the cloud of snow picked up and swept forward on the wings of the gale that powerful lamps were invisible ten feet away.

On high ground, such as that of inner Greenland, the wind is never still. Nansen tells of the constant hiss of the breeze laden with tiny bits of ice, which flowed along knee high like a shining white river glittering in the pale arctic sunlight.

Nor is there lack of sounds caused by animal life. In the arctic may often be heard the baying of wolves and the barking of seal, while in the summer the harsh cry of sea birds echoes along the faces of the cliffs.—Harper's Weekly.

The income tax returns are reported $23,000,000 shy. Must be because the owners are equally modest.

Many a woman has got her husband into a bad scrape by using his razor to sharpen a lead pencil.

In contemplating what we do for others too many of us entirely forget what others are doing for us.

The Eiffel tower is being painted, which suggests that the number of Parisian idlers who stand around waiting for a painter to tumble must be larger than on previous occasions—because Paris is larger.

EASY WIN FOR THE PETES IN THE FINAL GAME OF THE SERIES

Schettler's Good Twirling was Backed up by Timely Hitting and the Homesters Won Handily by 6 to 2

THREE ON THE FIRST

The Petes got busy in the first two innings of Saturday's fame, and nicking Gero's delivery for five runs, settled the issue then and there, as Louie Schettler easily held the Brants in check. The final score was 6 to 2. Schettler was in fine form, and held the Dupieus gang to five safeties. He had them breaking their backs at times, nine of them swinging in vain. The Petes did some timely hitting in he early stages, Blount showing the way with a triple and a double, and as the visitors kicked in with a few errors at critical times, the Petes had little trouble in scoring. The Brants scored their pair of runs on a fumble by Fox, followed by Wilson's terrific clout over Blount's head, the hitter scoring when Fox made a bad heave to the plate.

Gero pitched good ball after the first stages and helped out his box work by fielding his position in fine style, nipping two drives from King that looked good for base hits. The Petes stole four bases while Miller nipped the only Brant who tried to steal.

First Innings.

Brantford—Long singled to centre. Blount nearly making a shoe-string catch of the hard drive. Nelson was hit. Deneau hit into a double play, Fox to King to Dolan. Ivers fouled to Byrne. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough — Blount walked. Welsh sacrificed, Gero to Roth. Dolan singled to centre. Dolan and Blount pulled off a double steal, Blount scoring. Wilson dropped Rooney's easy fly, Rooney going to second and Dolan to third. Dolan scored on a squeeze play, Byrne bunting to Gero. King singled over second, scoring Rooney. King stole second and went to third on Lacroix's poor throw. Fox fanned. Three runs, two hits, two errors.

Second Innings.

Brantford—Roth was safe on Fox's high throw to first. Fried struck out, and Miller caught Roth at second when he tried to steal on the third one. Wilson fanned. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough — Miller walked. Schettler fanned. Blount tripled over Ivers' head scoring Miller. Welsh grounded to Fried, scoring Blount. Dolan hoisted to Roth. Two runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Brantford — Lacroix grounded to Schettler. Gero died the same way. Long flied to Blount. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Rooney fanned. Byrne grounded to Gero. King died on a smash at Gero. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Dolan died on a smash which Gero knocked down. Fried making the throw. Rooney singled to right. Byrne dropped a Texas Leaguer back of second. King was out on a hard smash at Gero. Fox fanned. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Brantford—Nelson died on a bounder to Schettler. Deneau grounded to Fox. Ivers fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Miller struck out. Schettler flied to Long. Blount grounded to Fried. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Brantford—Roth flied to Blount. Fried lifted to Welsh. Wilson fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough—King was safe on Roth's fumble. Fox sacrificed. Miller flied to Wilson, King going to third. Schettler grounded to Fried. No runs, no hits, one error.

OTTAWA TEAM IS HERE TO-DAY

Shamrocks Are Elated Over Their Record Score Yesterday

The Ottawa team will be the guests of the Petes to-day, and on Tuesday and Wednesday, with the games each day commencing at 3:45 o'clock. The Shamrocks arrived this morning, considerably elated at their performance yesterday, when after dropping two games on Saturday to St. Thomas, they turned on the Saints and beat them 19 to 3 a record. Bullock, the Champs third-baseman, was spiked on Saturday and will be out of the game for some time. His place has been taken by Nill, while Smykal has been switched to second, and the short field position is being looked after by Mitchell, the shortstop for whom Shaughnessy paid $1,000. It will likely be a battle of southpaws to-day, with Kubat opposing Cresswell.

Below Played The Local Footballers a Tie Game

The Deloro team played a local eleven on Saturday night at the Oval, and the result was a tie of one goal each. The game was pretty even in the first half, but the second half the visitors pressed about two-thirds of the time, and should have won the game, but for the good clearing on the part of the local backs in Gribb and Perry who played a fine game.

The home team was the first to score, shortly after the half time when Mason and Edwards went in on Horwitz, the left back, and Edwards shot and when Horwitz tried to clear the ball rolled in the goal.

Deloro came right back and the local defence was called to handle many hard rushes, but finally Smyth, the Deloro centre-forward shot from the left and scored the goal that evened up the game.

Hawthorne, who played left halfback for the home boys, got hurt and had to retire from the game, and with the visitor's odd man it kept the home defence working overtime to hold the score a tie, and the local forward line with a man short could not do much with the Deloro defence, who are a good husky clean defence and know how to play the game.

The Deloro team is pretty well balanced, and they have the weight and staying power, and gave the local team the best game they have had for some time on local grounds.

The Peterborough boys will play at Deloro on Civic Holiday, Monday, August 10th, and as the Deloro boys are good entertainers, the boys who make the trip are assured a grand old time.

Mr. J. G. Bedwell, of Deloro, refereed the game and gave good satisfaction.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough—Goal, Ridley; backs, Gribb, Perry; halfbacks, Playdon, Hawthorne; forwards, Hartshorne, McKinley, Mason, Edwards, Bills.

Deloro—Goal, Yates; backs, Carswell, Horwitz; halfbacks, Smith, Mills, Ablett; forwards, Boycott, Fisher, Smyth, Vennore, Bidgood.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

The Hamilton Herald says that someone kindly disposed to the human race should close Brantford up, because there is not a big kick being made locally over the proposal to replace this city by Toledo next year. As the only reference to this change has come from Toledo, it seems hardly worth while raising a row about it. When something definite crops up, then it will be time enough to take action, but until that time it is cehaper and easier to let the other fellow do all the worrying. Incidentally The Ham. Herald has enough on its hands keeping the Athletics out of the cellar, which position we are now holding with all the dignity possible. We might yet get "nawsty" and allow Hamilton to slide down.

* * *

A different view is taken by The Hamilton Spectator, which says that Brantford, St. Thomas and Peterborough are not the weakest teams in the League. Erie was on Sunday last in second place. They staged a double-header for Sunday at Erie, and 1000 people attended. If Erie can get out but 1000 with a team in second place and two games offered, it is about time such a team was dropped and another one picked up. Again the towns of the Canadian League are not picking up any thousands of dollars on their infrequent visits to Toronto, where the attendance has been slim, even with the team in fourth place. Toronto and Erie are financially weaker than the other three towns mentioned, even though their population did not allow the League to go up to a higher classification. As President Nelson says that there will be a Canadian League team here as long as there is a Canadian League, there need be no worry for some time yet. The main thing is to get a few players here who can go out and win games occasionally.

The Petes are full of confidence after having, like Brantford, caught the Senators in a slump. After the three games this week-end they may talk in a different tone—and they may not.—Brantford Courier.

Jean Dubuc is Helping Keep The Tigers Near Top

(By H. T. Woodruff)

When Hughey Jennings' once proud Detroit Tigers, three times American League pennant winners, finished in sixth place in the flag hunt of 1913, after having occupied the same position in 1912, direful predictions were made that it would take many years to build up another first division aggregation. For Jennings has no pitching staff," said the critics.

Every one was willing to admit that Detroit had Cobb and Jennings and there the admissions ended. Those who had looked behind the records however, knew also that Jennings had Jean Dubuc, a stocky right handar, who had developed a slow ball which did a perfect "hesitation" when the Canadian was working right. But Dubuc was about Jennings' entire staff—at least the best of the lot.

Wher are the despised Tigers this season? Nowhere except right up there on the heels of Connie Mack's Athletics and pressing the world champions hard, and in turn being pressed so hard by four other clubs that the American League race is assuming the tightness for which it was noted before the Athletics got into the habit of monopolizing the pennant and world's series honours.

Hall, and High, and Dauss, and Covelskie, who enabled the Cubs to win the pennant of 1908 by a series of defeats administered to the Giants have come to the rescue of Dubuc, and the Tigers are taken seriously.

Jean Arthur Dubuc, who staggers under the nickname of Chauncey, was born on Sept. 17, 1888, at St. Johnsbury, Vt., a city of 15,000 inhabitants, located near Burlington. His father was French born, but his mother was a native of Canada, so he is of that French-Canadian stock which has produced so many specimens of physical strength.

Jean is one of a family of six boys who have been given a good education by their father, who is in the building construction business in Montreal. Dubuc pere has erected eighty-nine churches at different cities in the United States and Canada. The present Detroit hurler was only 6 years old when he was sent to a sisters' school at Nashau, N. H., where he remained four years, and then went to St. Theressa, Canada, near Montreal, for four years. His next educational fight was at St. Michael's, located at Winooki, Vt., a suburb of Burlington.

Dubuc was at St. Michael's only one year, but it was long enough for him to establish a baseball record. His school nine won the preparatory school championship of Vermont with seventeen victories in eighteen games. Jean was pitcher and outfielder, for his heavy batting was wanted in every game.

Such baseball skill was sought by Holy Cross and Fordham, but Dubuc chose Notre Dame University because of its technical school, and he attended the Indiana College in 1906-'07-'08, taking a degree as an electrical engineer. He also took a master's degree in baseball on a nine which had among its members Cutshaw, Bob Bescher, Daniels, Curtis, and "Lefty" Scanlon, a brother of "Doc". In addition to baseball Dubuc was forward on the basketball five. He turned out for the eleven, but the athletic council deemed it inadvisable for so promising a hurler to court injury on the gridiron.

Dubuc took part in the triumphal eastern trip of the Notre Dame nine of 1908, which payed Fordham, Williams, Syracuse, Dartmouth, Seaton Hall, Georgetown, and Boston College, and claimed the national college championship because of its success. In his three years as pitcher for Notre Dame he lost only two games, one to Vermont with Ray Collins pitching and another to Minnesota in 1908, when he held the Gophers to one hit in twelve innings, only to have the game booted away by his support.

Dubuc played with the Waterbury, (Conn.) Independents in the summers of 1906-'07, along with Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, Hayden, and a number of Holy Cross players, but preferred not to enter the professional field until the completion of his college course. Then there was spirited bidding for his services between Cincinnati, the Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and others. Cincinnati offered a salary of $3,000 for the balance of the season, and a $1,200 bonus for signing. That bonus settled it with Dubuc, just out of college, where a fellow always is broke, no matter what his allowance.

With the Reds in 1908 Dubuc won five and lost six games. The following spring he was stricken with typhoid fever, and pitched only four games in 1910, winning two and losing two. He was sent to Buffalo in 1910, but after a fuss with Manager Bill Smith was released to Montreal. There he developed the slow ball, after working a long time for effectiveness. His mastery of the deceptive delivery is based on the theory of the English applied to a billiard ball. He won nine and lost thirteen games as a pitcher on a second division division club, but ranked third in the Eastern League swat averages with .326. Sent up as a pinch hitter twenty-seven times, Dubuc come through with a safety twenty-three times.

In 1911, at Montreal, Dubuc established the record which caused him to be drafted in the fall. He won twenty-one and lost eleven games on a second-division club, with one string of ten straight victories. With Detroit, in 1913, he won seventeen and lost ten games on a club which finished sixth. Last season winning and losing games were dropped from the official American League averages but Dubuc ranked twenty-sixth among the League hurlers in effectiveness, and batted .267 in sixty-six games, of which thirty-six were as a pitcher and the others as pinch hitter. Dubuc still is pitching and pinch hitting for the Tigers in their fight against the Athletics.

In the off season Dubuc does not allow his 182 pounds of baseball skill which arises to an altitude of 5 feet 10 1-2 inches, to loaf. He deals in real estate in Montreal, his present home. His method is to buy building lots, on which his father erects houses, and these homes then are put on the market. Jean's annual profits are greater than his baseball salary, but, with his father to look after the business in his absence, he argues that he should take the baseball money while the taking is good.

When Dubuc is through with baseball, or when baseball is through with Dubuc, he will find his profitable business awaiting him. If any world's series plum happens in the meantime it will enable him to buy that much more real estate. So he will keep on pitching and pinch hitting with that end in view until time gives him the ten day notice of release. No minor league career for Dubuc.

PRISON PASTIMES.

Prisoner's Suit of Civilian Clothes Found in Coal Bin.

KINGSTON, July 20.—A stoker at the penitentiary, while shovelling coal found a suit of civilian's clothes tucked away in a small working bun, and shortly among coal, thereby showing up a plan one of the convicts had to make his escape. The suit belonged to parole prisoner J. Cardinal who was brought to the penitentiary last week.

An investigation is now being made to ascertain why the clothing was not destroyed in the furnace, as is the custom. One or more convicts have made their escape at opportune times by changing their striped suits for civilians' suits, and Cardinal having been made years to serve and would be given a new suit on leaving. Orders were given for his suit to be put in the furnace, but evidently one of the guards neglected his work. It is the duty of the guards to stand by and see that the clothing is destroyed.

Shot By Stranger.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—Felix H. Anderson, assistant to the president of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association, was shot yesterday by a man who entered his office and demanded to see President McChesney. Mr. Anderson was shot in the left shoulder. He was taken to a hospital. The wound is not dangerous. The assailant entered the office of the terminal association at the Union Station and demanded to see President McChesney. Mr. Anderson asked him his business, and after a few words, the man drew a revolver and fired. He then ran out of the office and disappeared.

MONEY CONSUMERS.

They Are the Hopeful Thing in Sales as Advertised.

A cup of tea and a sandwich or two sometimes quite enough of "the time" to tide one over until dinner time, when the bridge games breaks up, and lost and lost do forget hostesses feel compelled to offer elaborate luncheon in the way of salads, ices and sweet cakes so late in the afternoon. Some women spend days of spoiling the dinner occurring soon thereafter and other women are in mortal terror of growing fat, so the elaborate lunch is little appreciated and, though everybody nibbles prettily, most of the dainties are left on the plates.

Tea and buttered muffins always served by a certain hostess after the bridge meeting at her home make her afternoons especially popular. Coffee and sandwiches are also relished, but sweets are better avoided, for few women really want to eat them just before dinner and are sorry when they do, though the hearty appetite of late afternoon makes sweets especially palatable.

Celery stalks chilled and stuffed with cream cheese and chopped nuts is a toothsome delicacy for afternoon bridge serving. Coffee and tiny rolled sandwiches may accompany the stuffed celery. To make rolled sandwiches cut the bread in thin slices in the morning, having first shaved off all the crust from the loaf. Pack the slices, one on another and wrap in a wet napkin. In an hour's time have ready some melted butter, a pastry brush and squares of oiled paper. Brush each slice of bread with melted butter, roll and wrap firmly in oiled paper. Set the rolls of paper in the icebox and just before serving remove the papers. The sandwiches will retain their rolled up shape.

Cooked sausage meat put through a chopper makes delicious filling for sandwiches. So does chopped apple and celery. Cream cheese with chopped nuts cannot be excelled. Chopped onions and green peppers are relished by some people as a sandwich filling, but there should always be other sandwiches without the onion filling.

Rather One Sided.

RAILROADS IN THE UNITED STATES KILL 10 150 YEARLY

Maximum Legal Indemnity Would Be $105,150,000—"Safety First" Idea Has Not Been Particularly Fruitful

WHAT IS REQUIRED

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 6.—If the railroads of the United States were to pay the maximum legal indemnity of $10,000 for each life they took during the year ending June 30 last they would disburse $101,150,000 to widows, orphans, and other dependents of the victims.

The report of railway accidents for the last fiscal year now being prepared by the interstate commerce commission discloses a death roll of 1,150 persons, the greater number of whom were employees. During the same period 180,000 persons were injured in railroad accidents.

Confronted by this graphic evidence of the deadliness of the American railroad the commission has decided that radical steps must be taken to achieve a greater measure of safety for employees and for the travelling public. Although the efforts of the commission so far have resulted in some progress in the direction of "safety first" the improvement is shown by the official figures to be slight. For the last fiscal year the number killed was only 814 less than for the previous year.

Kill 210,000 in 25 Years.

During the last twenty-five years more than 210,000 persons have been killed on American railroads and more than 2,600,000 injured. The property loss due to wrecks since 1907 totals $58,000,000.

"The ravages of war pale into insignificance before these silent indications of the destruction of human life accompanying the peaceful operations our our railroads," said an official of the commission, discussing the forthcoming report.

"The causes of death and injury are legion. They include derailments, collisions, boiler explosions, miscellaneous train accidents, and industrial accidents to employees.

"There is a dreary monotony in the sameness of the reported cases of these accidents," says a report of the commission. "Year after year derailments and collisions due to identical causes are reported."

Most Victims Employees.

Under the present law, railroads are required to report by telegraph to the commission all accidents in which human life is lost. There are more employees killed than passengers, many employees losing their lives in the operation of trains in railroad yards. In wrecks more passengers than employees are killed. There are a surprisingly large number of trespassers killed on American railroads. This class includes persons not employed nor passengers.

The interstate commerce commission is doing all it can under present laws to prevent accidents. It prescribes safety appliances and enforces the law which limits the hours of service of train employees and telegraph operators. This law was passed by Congress when it was shown that many wrecks were due to the overworking of train crews.

Great speed has been developed on American railroads during the last decade, and this speed seems to be in deference to public demand. The weight of trains has increased to such an extent that it has caused terrific wear on steel rails, notwithstanding the increase in the weight and size of the rails. Ten years ago rails of less than 100 pounds were largely used on American roads.

Rail Weighs 110 Pounds to Yard.

Now the prevailing rail weighs 110 pounds to every thirty-six inches and on the large systems the main line rail weighs 110 pounds to the yard. In the recent hearing before the interstate commerce commission Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania system, stated that the Pennsylvania is making plans for laying 125 pound rails on its main lines.

The high speed of trains has developed a defect in rails that is dangerous, particularly as the defect cannot be detected under present methods in the making of the rail or after it is completed. A heavy train running at a high speed develops the defect and ultimately a derailment takes place that causes loss of life and injury to many persons. This defect is what is known as transverse fissure. Its elimination calls for better mill practice, the experts of the commission say, and they are now engaged on a series of tests that may result in revolutionizing the making of rails in the United States.

Whenever a wreck is reported to the commission which involves the loss of life, an investigation is made by inspectors if possible and a report published. This ends the matter so far as the federal government is concerned.

Publicity Not Enough.

Something besides publicity, the commission has found by experience, is necessary to effect a reform. It has recommended that it be given authority to supervise to a large extent the physical operation of railroads. This authority would include the prescribing of signals and equipment, the character of rails, compulsory use of steel coaches, and a variety of other precautionary measures, including the regulation of speed.

The New Haven investigation showed that two wrecks in which a couple of scores of lives were lost were caused by precisely identical conditions that had caused wrecks on the same line a few months previous. To make the matter worse and to accentuate the fact that these wrecks could have been prevented it was shown that the commission in the case of the earlier wrecks had made recommendations which the railroad had deliberately ignored. The commission's experts think there is a vital need for a compulsory use of the block system and for the use of automatic stops in certain situations, and also for a uniform code of signals and rules.

Train Order System Bad?

It is stated that the inherent weakness of the train order system is disclosed by the fact that of forty-seven collisions investigated, twenty-three were due to failures of conductors or engine men to understand or obey orders.

Derailments and collisions are responsible by far for the largest loss of life and injury to persons, and these generally in connection with high speed.

A NARROW ESCAPE

On Saturday a drunk stumbled between the coaches of a train moving out from the G.T.R. station and only the efforts of a baggagement, who pulled him out, saved him.

FUN FOR THE ROWDIES.

Some curious particulars of the dances of London streets in the old days are given in an article on "The Scowrers and the Mohocks" in a British magazine. The favorite practice of the Scowrers was to invade some tavern in the evening, drive out the customers, ill treat the proprietor and his attendants, wreck the premises and, above all, "roar." Steele tells of the Mohocks, one of whose pastimes was to "inclose women in casks and roll them down the street." In 1712 a royal proclamation was issued offering a reward of £100 for the apprehension of any Mohock.

Soon after the accession of George IV. to the throne in 1820 there was a recrudescence, though in a milder form, of Mohock rowdyism, and attacks on the watch—"boxing the Charlies," as the phrase went—once more became fashionable among the wilder spirits of London. These revelries, however, were rudely disturbed by the establishment in 1829 by Sir Robert Peel of an efficient body of police.

Yet again in early Victorian days there was another Mohock outburst under the auspices of the Marquis of Waterford, and once more knockers and bell handles were wrenched off, public monuments injured, lights extinguished and crockery smashed. This form of humor, however, was quite wasted upon the local authorities, the marquis being promptly knocked down by a watchman and taken up half dead. The same authority tells us that in the following year he and some other men of fashion were convicted at Derby assizes of trying to overturn a caravan, screwing up a toll barkeeper and painting houses and people red. For these recreations they were fined £100 apiece.

He Fooled Them.

Mrs. Odell had a caller one afternoon and invited her to remain to dinner. The invitation was accepted and the hostess said:

"I am so glad you can stay, Mrs. Parker. There is to be a joke on Mr. Odell. He is always criticising my cooking. To-day his mother came to, and I persuaded her to make some cakes. Won't it be funny when he finds fault with the cakes and I tell him that his mother made them herself?"

When the cakes were served at dinner that evening Mr. Odell exclaimed:

"My dear Maude, you are certainly becoming a perfect cook. These cakes are as fine as my mother makes."

ST. MARGARET'S DAY

Who St. Margaret Was---Some Fine Characters Bearing Her Name

HER EMBLEM AND AN ODE TO IT

There are many women and girls in this City who have been christened by the name of Margaret. Yet it may be wondered how many of them are aware that this—the twentieth day of July—is the day on which is commemorated the martyrdom of St. Margaret, virgin and martyr, which occurred in the early part of the 4th century.

Who Was St. Margaret?

St. Margaret was born in Antich, in Asia Minor, towards the end of the third century. Her father was a Pagan priest and on account of her embracing Christianity she was disowned by him—her mother having died at the time of Margaret's birth—and was adopted by her nurse. One day, while tending her nurse's flocks, she attracted the attention of a Roman prefect, who wished to make her his wife, conditionally that she renounced the Christian faith. As she declined to do this, the prefect had her brought before him in public trial. Threatened with death unless she renounced the Christian religion, she—brave girl that she was—refused to acknowledge the Pagan gods of the Roman Empire.

Her Martyrdom.

As a result an attempt was made to burn her, but tradition says that the flames left her unhurt. Then she was bound, hand and foot, and thrown into a cauldron of boiling water, in which she stood up uninjured. Finally, she was beheaded.

In art St. Margaret is usually represented as a Shepherdess; sometimes as leading a chained dragon.

The Emblem of St. Margaret.

The emblem of St. Margaret is the flower known as the field daisy, well enough known to most of my readers. The French name for a daisy is Marguerite, which is also the way of spelling, in French, Margaret. These field daisies, looked upon here, by many, as no better than weeds, are really beautiful flowers. It is the same as with a good many other good things, it is not the most costly article that is the most beautiful.

Beauty in Wild Flowers.

There are always, of course, some ingrates who cannot see any beauty in things which "cost nothing". There are some girls who would value (ostensibly) a gift of flowers, if they knew that the donor had paid the florist a couple of dollars for the bouquet. But wildflowers! Psah! "They cost nothing, what can they be worth?" Throw them out into the road or the gutter, paltry things like those!" And out into the road they accordingly go. Yet some of the wild flowers are exquisitely lovely to those who have eyes to see beyond the wretched dollar. Moreover, the value of a gift is not to be measured by its intrinsic monetary value, but rather by the kindly spirit actuating the offering of that gift.

Cultivation of the Flower.

In England, as well as in France and Germany, the "Marguerite" is largely cultivated for market purposes, being very much in vogue for decorative purposes, whether in the Church or in the home.

In the Old Country the large daisy is known as the Margaret daisy in contra distinction to the small daisy which grows on lawns.

Some Notable Margarets.

There have been many famous Margarets. Amongst others, there were Margaret of Denmark (1353-1412); Margaret of Anjou, wife of Henry VI, King of England (1430-82); Margaret of Navarre (1492-1549); Margaret of Scotland (1045-93).

The Meaning of the Name.

It may be mere coincidence, but, curiously enough, the majority of girls bearing that splendid good old-time name are girls of high repute, force of character, and fineness of feeling; but of course there are some others. It is a name very popular in all Christian countries and has been borne by saints, queens, princesses, and duchesses. The meaning of the word is "a pearl," both in Latin and Greek.

The cult of St. Margaret was very widely spread in England, where more than two hundred and fifty Churches are dedicated to her.

Ode to the Marguerite.

Scented Spring!
Bear your odours on your wing,
And white Marguerites with you bring.

In your song
To the merry flower throng,
Praise the Marguerite loud and long.

Woodland green!
Where the loveliest flowers are seen,
Let the Marguerite be your Queen.

BIBLE IN PHOTOPLAY.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—We believe the people of Peterborough have but a faint idea of the wonderful educative influence that is in their midst in the Photo-Drama of Creation, now being exhibited at the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association of Brooklyn, N. Y. Although its preparation has required about four years, and has cost several millions of dollars, the marvellous part is that to the public it is "as free as the wind that blows." Film and talking machine have never more skilfully united to give a vivid picture of earth's progress. Works of art, paintings of priceless value, and motion pictures of the highest type combine to give in a few brief hours what would otherwise require years of travel and study.

Over five milion people have already witnessed this wonderful production, and many cities have shown an appreciation that has packed large auditoriums for weeks. The school boards of some cities have furnished Opera Houses free, and have made great endeavours to have its educative influence reach all classes. In New York City I saw Sunday School teachers bringing large classes to see it, and where blind prejudice has not prevailed, Christian Endeavour Societies, ministers and priests have visited it and pronounced it fair, impartial and of high educational value.

As a teacher of science in both High School and College, I would draw attention to the wonderful manner in which the Photo-Drama harmonizes scientific and scriptural truths; and to the fact that it is absolutely free to the public, as it is supported entirely by voluntary donations. I remain,

Very truly yours,
Bible Student.

A CONSUMER'S LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I was very pleased to see in your valuable paper the report of a protest made to the City Council, against the Transient Traders' law. I often wonder how some of our present-day storekespers would have fared hid they been called upon to pay $100 as a cash security before they could open out in business.

It is just the time when the new beginner wants all the capital he can command.

I firmly believe it is only a scientific way of avoiding competition.

We have another Association making rapid strides and that is "The Retail Merchants' Association. That hoary old maxim, "competition is good for trade," has been everywhere displaced by "combination is the soul of trade".

Manufacturers and Retailers alike, instead of, as formerly, fighting against one another, are leagued together to demand any price they wish for any commodity they wish to sell.

It is time the worm turned. What we want is "A Consumers' League." Ladies and gentlemen, get busy, and take the Boy Scouts' motto for our watchword "Be Prepared". Everything is advancing in price and the only way of bringing prices down is by organizing our forces "as consumers."

Trusting this will cause you, Mr. Editor, no inconvenience, and thanking you in anticipation of a small space in your paper, I remain

Yours sincerely,
DKO.

THE SERVICES IN THE TENT

Evangelist Johnston Speaks to an Appreciative Audience Last Evening

A theme of special interest was considered last night by Evangelist F. Ed. Johnston, in the tent on the corner of Dublin and Harvey street, in which was plainly seen the response of history to the voice of prophecy. Taking for his study the prophecy of Daniel 7:1-8, he proved how that God in His wisdom had outlined the career of the nations of earth beginning with the rise of Babylonian empire and closing with the final consummation of all things. This prophecy, he declared, proved beyond any doubt that the end of all things is very soon to be realized, and when this time arrives, the earth, so he said, would then be the final habitation of the saints.

In dealing with the symbols he explained why it was that a lion with eagle's wings was used to represent Babylon; why a bear was there used to symbolize Medo-Persia, and also why a leopard with four wings and four heads was used as a symbol of Greece. He closed with the third symbol and dwelt to some degree on the career of the renowned Alexander, how that, although he conquered the entire world, and that within the space of only eight years, yet becoming so elated over his marvellous success, he drank to excess and died at drunken debauchery. This, the evangelist said clearly proved beyond doubt, that although he was reckoned great in the world's estimation, yet there still remained a world that he was unable to conquer—himself. He deplored the liquor traffic of the present generation, and referred to the destitution that followed in its trail. Tthis great evil, he declared, is sweeping many into ruin, destroying home and comfort. He closed with an exhortation to lead a higher life, which could be accomplished only by he Gospel of Jesus Christ.

DRIVER CONTROLLED HORSE IN RUNAWAY

A horse attached to a dray owned by Mr. R. Denne caused some excitement on Saturday evening on Charlotte street. It was evidently frightened by an auto, and when it bolted broke a breeching which allowed the dray to run up on the horse.

The driver handled him well, and after a run of six or eight blocks, got out of a tight corner.

FUNERAL OF LATE ED. KEMP OF DOURO

The funeral of the late Edward Kemp of Douro took place on Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The service, which was a most impressive one, was conducted by Rev. Mr. Grobb, of All Saints' Church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends of the deceased, including a representation from the Canadian Order of Foresters, of which order the late Mr. Kemp was a member. The relatives of the deceased desire to express their appreciation of the sympathy shown and the many beautiful flowers sent, marking the respect in which the late deceased was held in the community.

THE FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of the late John Belleghem, who met death with such a tragic death at Havelock on Saturday morning last, took place on the arrival of a C.P.R. special train yesterday afternoon at 2:30. The funeral was under Masonic auspices, and a large number of the Order, both from Havelock and Peterborough, attended the funeral. The popularity of the deceased was manifested by the large number of visitors from Havelock, irrespective of the Engineers and Firemen, who attended the funeral in a body. The Rev. Mr. Keith conducted the service at the Little Lake cemetery.

THE APPLE CROP IS FAIRLY PROMISING

Reports From Various Sections of Ontario, U. S. A. and England—Bigger Crop Than 1913

OTTAWA, July 18.—The following bulletin has been issued by the Fruit Commissioner:

New Brunswick—(Province has splendid young orchards but not yet producing sufficient fruit for home consumption.) Apple crop promises 70 per cent crop only, a few orchards injured by frost. Scab showing very little. Summer and fall varieties heavier than winters. Size and quality good. Raspberries promising well.

Nova Scotia—Weather conditions favourable. Very little spot showing. General estimate of apple crop too large. The crop will be, at most, one million barrels. Spy, King, Russet, Wagener, Bellefleur, Baldwin and Ribston leading. Nonpareil, Blenheim, Fall water, Stark, Gravenstein and Ben Davis light. Crop last year 660,000 barrels, 1912 1,000,000 barrels, and in 1911 a record crop of 1,750,000 barrels.

Ontario, Lambton—Apple crop 40 per cent. above 1913, and 15 per cent. below 1912. Weather has been hot and dry for six weeks with sufficient drop to prevent thinning. Favourable showers this week and well sprayed orchards will have a good commercial crop of clean fruit. Plums and pears fair to good, but ...ch lighter than last year. Grapes promise a good crop.

Norfolk — Crop one-third heavier than 1913, and one-third lighter than 1912. Fungous prevalent but quality is good in orchards that have been well sprayed.

Huron—Crop about 25 per cent. heavier than 1913, in spite of heavy drop. Quality will be good. Plums light.

Counties North of Lake Ontario—Prospects not so good as expected. Drop has been heavy. Crop will run about same as last year, or about 25 per cent. less than 1912. Fruit well distributed, and all trees bearing. Weather conditions fair.

Okanagan Valley, B.C.—Long dry spell was broken by rain. Quality of apple crop excellent. Total crop will approximate 1,000 cars, which is equal to the crop of 1912, and 25 per cent. greater than 1913, with Wealthy, Jonathan, Wagener and McIntiah heaviest. Pears 20 per cent. increase over 1913. Tomato acreage increased 25 per cent. Peaches a fair crop, totalling 50,000 twenty-pound boxes.

United States—Western New York crop is slightly less than 1912, and double that of 1913. States of Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho average 81 per cent., as compared with 84 per cent in 1913, and 91 per cent. in 1912.

London, England—Latter half of June very dry, but rain general during early part of July. Present conditions favourable. Plums about average. Kent and neighbouring counties show fair apple crop. Midland counties very uneven.

Hurried New Automobile Out Of Blazing Garage, Saturday

Not since Mr. Sargent's horse did the circus acts a week or more ago on Charlotte street, have the residents of the west end of the city had any excitement to break the monotony of the recent hot spell until Saturday, when the garage of Mr. C. Young, Charlotte street, was completely destroyed by fire. At about noon Mr. Leo Young, who was at dinner, noticed the smell of burning rubber, and on rushing out of the house saw the garage in a mass of flames with the car on the inside in a fair way of being completely demolished with the fire blazing merrily. Mr. Young jumped into the garage and the car being a self-starter, he was able to get it out without any damage to himself or the car, but the garage is a total wreck. A horse owned by Mr. Thos. Young, a neighbour, had to be taken from the barn. The fire was a hot one while it lasted, and it is fortunate no further damage was done.

Annual Fish Story From Sam Hunter At Stoney Lake

The following story by Sam Hunter, cartoonist with the Toronto World, is his annual contribution to piscatorial narrative:

Jimmie is an old-timer, a fisherman with a first hand intimacy with fish extending over sixty years. Not a garrulous man, not given to vain boasting, he has nothing but contempt for the fish story teller. "God knows the truth's marv'lous enough," he will say, "wit'out resortin' till fool lies." On my way to the Landing this evening I ran across Jimmie for the first time this season. He was emerging from the cedar thicket about fifty yards above the Spring. He had a paddle and battered tin pail in his hand. As he came out onto the path he stooped and took another squint in the direction of his hidden canoe. "Ah was squash headed enough til leave 'er drawed up near Choates wharf last time Ah was en," he confided to me after a brief greeting, "an' Bob Hamilon's cows walked intil 'er an' she's never been what ye might call th' same canoe sence. She was strained, ye understan', an' there was a thwart broke an' three or four punctures in her bottom—an' a brindle steer carried away me trollin' lins on his tail a' lost it up over th' hill." I was expressing a feeling adequae to the occasion when he broke in with, "An' have ye had any fishin'?" Very little I told him, a couple of bass, small ones; but I had heard of a monster nineteen pound 'lunge being taken last evening over near Sheriff Hall's. "Well, mebby, but monster—was it monster ye called it? Did I ever tell ye," he asked, setting down his pail and fishing for a match as he seated himself on a log, "did I ever tell ye of th' livin' catamaran hat eloped weth me in spawnin' time, twenty-six years ago?" He had neglected to tell me, I assured him as I passed a handful of cut plug and joined him on the log. "Well, Ah was livin' that spring in a bit of a frame house that me an' the' lad had put up down ner the dump. One evenin' about dusk or 'twixt th' twal an' the' mirk as th' Scotch say, me an' him was takin' a turn along th' shore when Ah sees what Ah took till be two fine cedar logs lyin' about eight foot apart, their ends almost touchin' th' shore weeds. 'Run up an' get a couple of five-inch nails an' a plank,' Ah says. James Henry, an' we'll use these lads, Ah says, for a bit of a wharf—th' plank'll hold them for th' night. Now, Ah says, as he came back with th plank, give us a nail, Ah, says, an' do ye, Ah says, nail your end about five feet from th' end of yon log an' Ah'll nail h' plank til this log. With that Ah wades out an' slid th' plank til where I wanted it. Steppin' onto th' plank now I druy a nail in just as he druv one at his end. Ah was half kneelin' an' me han' with th' stone in it raised for another stroke when somethin' seemed to happen. Ah could hear James Henry's voice soundin' like it was far off, callin' 'Jump, dad! for mothers sake, jump!' But Ah couldn't jump. Ah was bein' carried under water at what seemed to be ninety miles an hour on th' upper deck of an insane torpedo boat. Th' next minute th' craft seemed til rise in th' air eight or ten foot an' then plunge again. Is this death? was the lightnin' like thought that flashed in me brain, an' is it a submarine or a airyplane that's doin' it til me, which? An then Oh dont remember anythin' til a man over at Julia's Landin' was askin' me if Ah felt better, an' where Ah lived. Ah asked him what day it was an' what time, an' he told me. It was four miles across th' lake an' Ah'd made it in ten minutes from th' time me an' James Henry had dhruv th' first fool nail intil them two spawnin' lunge.

MANY LEARNED TO SWIM LAST WEEK AT Y.M.C.A.

The learn-to-swim campaign of the Y.M.C.A. that week was a great success, fully 98 per cent. of the boys taking lessons and learning to swim in their second lesson. They also learned to dive and become right at home in the water. This demonstrates that it is easy to learn the art if you start in when you are young. Among men who took lessons 80 per cent. of them learnt so that they can look after themselves in the water, with a reasonable amount of safety. Much credit is due to the local Association for its good work.

ARE ALMOST PERFECT.

Go to Japan If You Really Want to See Model Children.

Without doubt, the little Japanese boys and girls may be termed "model children" in every sense of the expression. The little girls, especially, are used to obeying everybody, beginning with their own brothers. As soon as they are dressed in the morning the children go to their parents, bow reverently, touching the ground with their foreheads, and ask, "How is your honorable health?"

Before they begin to eat their breakfast they raise their spoon or fork to their forehead and bow their heads in sign of gratitude, and they do not start for school without having kneeled in front of their mother. If their father goes out they follow him to the porch, bow their heads and murmur, "May God be with you! Come back soon!"

The great annual festival of the little girls takes place on the third of March. It is the festival of the dolls, which dates back to the reign of the Emperor Hidatzu, 322 years before Christ. It is an exhibition of dolls representing the Emperor and Empress in magnificent robes and surrounded by their Ministers and court and great historical personages. Looking at these miniature exhibitions, the little girls learn the rules of etiquette, and looking at all the objects that surround the dolls, they also learn what things are necessary in a household.

The state compels parents to send their children to school for six years, and during these six years two hours every week are devoted to the moral instruction of the young. The books are chosen by the secretary of education. The lessons change every few weeks, and the principal subjects deserve to be mentioned — devotion to parents, respect of ancestor, loyalty to the Emperor and Empress, charity, honesty, gratitude, economy, kindness to old people and servants, etiquette, duties to your neighbor, love of God and country and courage. During recent years lessons are given in the duties of citizenship, the duties of the soldier, election of Parliamentary and municipal representatives, the duties of man toward woman, etc.

Thus boys and girls are taught their respective duties at an early age. The boys are also taught athletics and learn fencing, boxing and base-ball. The girls are invariably expected to marry sooner or later, and this is why every girl is taught at school not only to sew, but to cut and make her own garments, and, unless she belongs to the aristocracy, she is also taught to cook. Needlework is the principal occupation of the young girl after she has married, when she is responsible for the condition of all the clothes of the members of her household.

The mothers teach their daughters to look upon marriage not as a romantic paradise of happiness but as a period of self-sacrifice and devotion, when they will need all their best qualities and virtues to fulfill their destinies in life.

This is the reason why the Japanese wife, in contrast to her western married sisters, who are often disappointed with married life, is always calm and contented, and generous her not always pleasant duties with noble resignation.

DOFFING THE HAT.

It Was Once a Sign of Abject Submissiveness to a Superior.

We remember a man a gentleman who takes off his hat to a lady. At least the act is thought to be gentlemanly polite. The origin of this custom, like so many other customs common among so-called civilized peoples, go back to primitive times.

When a person was made captive his conqueror stripped him of his weapons and clothing and left him without anything he could call his own. The captive was thus made a slave, his lack of clothing being evidence of his subjugation. We need only to look at the sculptures of the Assyrians to see the truth of this fact. And in Isaiah xx. 2-4, we find the following statement: "And the Lord said, like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years for a sign, so shall the King of Assyria lead away the Egyptians prisoners and the Ethiopians captives, young and old, naked and barefoot."

The first step then, in tracing the origin of taking off the hat, is the surrender of the clothing among primitive and ancient peoples as a mark of submission. The next step is the uncovering of the body as a mark of reverence. There are all degrees of uncovering, though often only the most valuable parts of the clothing are taken off in the presence of superiors.

Captain Cook tells us that during his stay at Tahiti two men came on board, and, as a sign of respect, took off the greater part of their clothing and put it on Cook and his friend. In Abyssinia, Spencer tells us, it was the custom for inferiors to bare their bodies down to the girdle before superiors. But in the presence of equals only a corner of the tunic was removed so as to bare the shoulder. This baring of the shoulder, especially throughout the Gold Coast, is a custom as common as taking off the hat with us. Uncloaking in Spain is similar in origin. In Africa the men bare their shoulders and doff their caps to superiors, thus joining two customs in one.

It must be remembered that this act of uncovering the body was ceremonial in nature and used to show reverence to a superior. Then came the use of the ceremonial to propitiate the dead. We can see a remnant of this most any time. At funerals and in our graveyards men take off their hats on entering churches and before images of Christ and the Madonna.

In times of chivalry men raised their hats to ladies to show reverence. But this was only superficial in meaning. A knight would ride down a poor peasant woman carrying a large burden and never think of helping her—least of all would he think of taking off his hat to her. However, if he heard of some beautiful damsel of his own class in the slightest danger, imaginary or real, he would go to her and, hat in hand, kneel and dedicate himself to her service.

To-day much the same thing occurs. Ordinarily a gay youth forgets to take off his hat to his mother, yet he shows this deference to his "best girl." After all it is only form, and politeness should go deeper than this. However, the form persists, and it is of some historical interest to remember that it is a remnant of the primitive stripping of a captive by which process was expressed the fact that he yielded up all he had. Taking off the hat to a wealthy girl means occasionally not only the yielding up of all you have, but the getting of all she has. Ceremony is often nothing but a hard calculation in regard to personal results, especially where self-aggrandisement is the ultimate aim of the polished individual.

The Rich Turkish Beggar.

Beggars are never suppressed in Turkey. The story is told (and they say it is true) about a lady who by mistake gave a beggar of Constantinople a gold piece. The man had left his post when she returned, but one of his colleagues told her where he "resided." It was a fine house, and at the door was a servant, who politely informed the lady that "my master is dressing. He will be down soon." And then the well groomed beggar, dressed for dinner, appeared and gladly returned the gold piece, exclaiming in the meanwhile that such mistakes were highly embarrassing.

Excellent.

"Your first name is June, is it, little girl?"

"Yes, sir; only I don't spell it the way most folks do."

"How do you spell it?"

"J-u-n-e."

"Why is that, little girl?"

"Do you s'pose I'm goin' to let the Miss get ahead of me when it comes to spellin' names different?"—Chicago Tribune.

The safest way of not being very miserable is not to expect to be very happy.—Schopenhauer.

What They Cut Out.

"I understand you had to undergo a surgical operation?"

"Yep, some operation."

"Doctors cut anything out?"

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A rail decision held up, spoiled the market trend. It would have to be a very favourable decision to do the market any good now. Speaking of this decision as far back as June 27th, I said that if they kept postponing it much longer a very severe break would result. So far, our programme has carried out to the letter since the New Year, and I have every reason to believe that the rest of it will be carried out as per schedule. The market rallied about a point in the active issues. U S which I said to sell at 60¼ rallied to 60%. I hope you waited for our selling figures instead of selling it at the opening weakness. U S could have been sold at 187 as advised, and if it opens on Monday at a quotation ex rights equivalent to that price, it should be sold on any little rally near to-night's close.

You also had a chance to sell NYC at 87. SR 21. SP 96¾, etc. Otherwise last night's letter holds good.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Visible supply. Wheat increase, 3,437,000. Corn decrease, 1,319,000. Oats decrease, 1,007,000.

NEW YORK, July 20.—London sold about 15,000 shares of stock in our market, and Berlin was credited with heavy sales on the decline.

CALUMNIES WRECKED HER HAPPINESS IS MME. CAILLAUX'S DEFENCE

Wife of French Statesman Arraigned for Murder of Editor Weeps in Court.

LOST HER HEAD

PARIS, July 21.—Mme. Caillaux, the wife of Joseph Caillaux, once Premier of France, and former Minister of Finance, occupied the prisoners' enclosure in the assize court of justice yesterday and recited in a dramatic manner the circumstances leading up to the shooting of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, with whose murder, on March 16, she is charged.

When the court clerk, reading the indictment, reached the words "wilful murder," she began to weep. Shaking with sobs, she placed a handkerchief over her face.

She said, when questioned by Judge Albanel, that she was married to Leo Claretie at 19, and they had two daughters, one of whom died, and the other is 19. She obtained a divorce in 1906. She was married to M. Caillaux, who was then Premier. "I found complete happiness, but my life began to be poisoned by calumnies." The campaign of The Figaro against her husband then began and all the people in the salons received her with smiles that were intended to wound her. One person said behind her that her husband had taken money from Germany to cede the Congo. These slanderous rumors penetrated every part of society. She was forced to leave the gallery of the Chamber of Deputies owing to being the object of unpleasant attention. Painful incidents took place with her acquaintances when she went shopping, and even when at home.

"The attacks of The Figaro," she said, "were implacable. They had nothing to do with politics. They were personal. I suffered. I lost my head."

The attacks of The Figaro, she said, had nothing to do with politics, because they were personal attacks on her husband. She read all the articles of Gaston Calmette against M. Caillaux, and said: "Oh, my poor husband! He was recklessly accused."

She explained that the "Mr Joe"

letter formed one of a trilogy which her husband's first wife had purloined to make use of against him. These letters were a sort of biography of M. Caillaux, and he referred to them to his meeting of the prisoner, his happiness, and his desire for freedom from his first wife. One letter explained to her that Caillaux had made an advantageous investment.

Witness denied that she was the cause of the divorce of her husband from his first wife.

OFF FOR JAMAICA.

Gen. Huerta, Gen. Blanquet and Families Set Sail.

PUERTO MEXICO, July 21.—The German cruiser Dresden, with former President Huerta and his family and former War Minister Blanquet, Senora Blanquet and their daughter aboard, sailed at 7.30 o'clock last evening for Jamaica.

The departure of the former President was without incident, there not being even any shouts of "good-bye" to him from the deck.

Gen. Huerta yesterday shrugged his shoulders and smiled contemptuously at the idea that the force of Constitutionalists, known to be a short distance from here, would dare to attack this city.

The military companions of the fugitive former dictator, however, did not display the same degree of confidence and an extended line of outposts was maintained.

Huerta continued to pass most of his time in the railroad car in which he arrived from Mexico City. Since his arrival here he has not taken an hour's exercise.

The White Business.

A very young housekeeper went to market to purchase a spring chicken. After selecting one and inquiring the price she said:

"Isn't three shillings rather high? The poulterer in our road only charged me 2s. 9d. the other day."

"With the feet on?" asked the salesman.

"No, I believe, now you mention it, the feet were cut off," she replied, with some hesitation.

"I thought so," said the man at the stall. "When we sell a fowl here, ma'am, we sell it feet and all."—London Telegraph.

LITTLE FELLOW TOOK SICK WITH DIARRHOEA

Was 30 Miles From a Doctor

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry Cured Him

Mrs. Fred Schaepp, Peasant, Sask., writes: "I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry when my boy was not expected to live. We were 30 miles from a doctor when the little fellow took sick with diarrhoea. He at first would sleep all day, and at night would be in pain, and would have a passage every five or ten minutes. This went on day and night until he began to pass blood. I gave him the "Dr. Fowler's Extract" and after he had taken it for a short time he was relieved and commenced playing with his toys, and is now as well as ever."

There are a number of preparations on the market to-day, claiming the same curative powers as "Dr. Fowler's," and also called similar names, so as to fool the public into thinking they are getting the genuine.

There is nothing that can take the place of "Dr. Fowler's."

There is nothing "Just as Good."

Price, 35 cents. The genuine bears the name of The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ARMY IS MUSTERED AT VANCOUVER

Thousand Men Are Ready to Go Aboard the Komagata Maru If Needed.

HINDUS WILL RESIST

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 21.—Upwards of a thousand men, comprising the sixth regiment, Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, and the newly formed Irish Fusiliers, were called out last night by a special order signed by Col. Duff-Stewart and Col. George A. Cruddas. More than a thousand men should be on the Rainbow when the cruiser goes out to-day to take possession of the Komagata Maru. Unless the Hindus suffer a violent change of mind, they will show a stubborn resistance and a bloody fight may result.

Japanese Consul Hori received cabled instructions from his Government yesterday morning to see that the Japanese crew of the Komagata Maru was not mixed up in any battle. To this end the whole Japanese crew was last evening taken off the ship, and will remain off until such time as the Rainbow bluejackets have the matter under control. Gardner Johnson, agent for the owners, and Sir Charles H. Tupper, counsel for the owners, had a mid-day conference, and the lawyer had addressed another letter to the Hindu committee of the Komagata Maru, pointing out that the ship has all the water she needs, and assuring them that plenty of provisions will be put on board for the trip across the Pacific. The letter goes on to point out the fact that the Hindus will have to return, and that, therefore, they might as well go peaceably.

The Hindus are not preparing for peace, however; they are preparing for war. To-day the forward and aft well decks on the vessel are short wooden barricades, backed up with coal, and it looks as if they are prepared to make a vigorous defence.

With a message from the Governor-General, H. H. Stevens, M.P., and Immigration Inspector Hopkinson, with a party, went out to the ship at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. The wire was from the Duke of Connaught to the Hindu passengers on board the steamer.

No one appears to know just what was contained in the message to the passengers on the Komatage Maru in reply to their message of a day or two ago, but it is quite definite that it was nothing definitely satisfactory to the passengers. The probability suggested is that the Governor-General simply said that the question was being taken up by the Departments concerned. This at all events would seem to be the reply which might be expected.

Mr. Hopkinson had quite an interesting conversation with Geldit Singh yesterday. Geldit Singh is Gurdit's secretary and no doubt officially represented the passengers on the boat at the conference with the immigration men. Mr. Hopkinson talked on the Maru itself, apparently having no fear the Hindus, although made the object of such a deadly attack during the night affray.

Geldit stood beside him and Mr. Stevens on the immigration launch, gave advice to Mr. Hopkinson, when the latter reported on the terms desired by the Hindus. Geldit opened fire with the proposition just as the message was received from Mr. Hopkinson. He said that the passengers were willing to leave if the provisions were put aboard at once; if medical attention was furnished for those injured in the night fight, and if they were given a chance to hold a talk first with some of the Hindus on shore in order to say good-bye to them and to ask forgiveness for all the trouble which they had caused.

Mr. Hopkinson came back with a counter proposition. He said that if the Hindus allowed the Japanese crew to get up steam, and agreed in writing to permit the boat to weigh anchor and proceed to sea five hours after steam was up, the immigration people would start putting the $6,000 worth of provisions on board. Arrangements would also be made to permit the secretary of the Sikh Temple and Rham Singh, one of the alleged charterers of the Maru, to go on board and talk to the passengers. Mr. Hopkinson demanded to see some of the Hindus said to have been hurt the other night, but Geldit Singh did not care to produce them.

Geldit further refused to agree to the suggestions and said that the provisions would have to be put on board at once.

This was so manifestly unfair that, after Mr. Stevens and Mr. Hopkinson consulted for a minute or two, they unhesitatingly refused, saying that an agreement in writing would have to be made, and before any provisions would be put on steam must be up. They pointed out that if the provisions were put on board now from the Sea Lion, the Hindus, with their 400 tons of water and $6,000 worth of food, could take life easy and laugh at the immigration officials. "Then you can send thousands of soldiers with us if you wish," declared Geldit Singh, dramatically. "We would sooner die here than go to sea, unless we get provisions right now. See our shore friends and have our sick attended to."

The conference ended right there.

British Army Aviator Killed.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., July 21.—Lieut. Llewellyn Charles Hordern of the Lancashire Fusiliers, and of the Royal Flying Corps, was killed yesterday when the biplane in which he was flying, made a sudden dive to earth near here. His mechanic also was hurt. The motor was stopped and the aviator was gliding to the ground when the accident occurred.

To Properly Treat Obstinate Wrinkles

Particularly where wrinkles are long and deep, the massage devotee is apt to rub too hard and too frequently. This loosens the skin, causes muscles to sag aggravates the wrinkled condition—just the opposite result from what you thought.

Better than massaging, or anything else for the most obstinate wrinkles, as well as the finest lines, is a formula well known in England, which you may readily avail yourselves of, as you will have no difficulty procuring the inexpensive constituents from druggists in this country. It is this: One ounce powdered eatolite, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe face, neck or hands in this. The effect is really marvelous, not only as to wrinkles, but also in cases of baggy cheeks and chin. Marked improvement is noticed after the very first application. The lotion is cooling and soothing, tending to relieve fatigue and remove "that tired look."

LITTLE HOPE SAYS REDMOND

Unionists Say Conference is a Skilful Device to Hold Off Trouble

LONDON, July 21. — Premier Asquith at the opening of the House of Commons yesterday announced that King George "in view of the grave political situation has considered it right to summon a conference of the representatives of the political parties, both British and Irish, to discuss the outstanding points of the problem of Irish Government."

The Premier added that the Rt. Hon. James Lowther, Speaker of the House of Commons would, at his Majesty's request, preside over the conference. In view of this development of the situation Premier Asquith said he would not ask the House to discuss the bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill.

The invitations have been accepted by two representatives each of the regular Opposition, of the Ulster Unionists, of the Irish Nationalists and of the Government. Premier Asquith said he hoped the meetings of the conference would begin to-day.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, on its behalf remarked that it had "loyally accepted the command" of His Majesty.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, scarcely appeared to regard the proposed conference as attractive. He said: "My colleagues and myself take no responsibility for the policy of calling this convention and I do not think I am called upon to express an opinion as to whether the result will prove useful or the contrary. The invitation came to John Dillon and myself in the form of a command from the King, and as such we at once obeyed it."

Outmanoeuvred By Unionists.

LONDON, July 21. — There was some extremely heated criticism yesterday in Unionist clubs of the contemplated conference at Buckingham Palace between King George and the leaders of the Liberal, Unionist, Nationalist and Ulsterite parties on the Irish Home Rule Bill. Members of the Unionist party expressed the view that their party again had been outmanoeuvred by Premier Asquith and at the moment when through the House of Lords reconstruction of the amendment to the Home Rule Bill, they were in a better position than for a long time.

The initiative for the conference was taken by Premier Asquith and not by King George, according to the Unionists, and the Premier's one, and only object, was to gain time and prevent a provisional government in Ulster being constituted until after Parliament had adjourned, thus avoiding criticism of his followers, and possible defeat on division. If the Premier can carry out this plan, a prominent Unionist said yesterday, he probably can safely weather the political storm, until Parliament is dissolved in its natural course in 1915. The Ulsterites which, he said, were running short of money, the organization of the volunteers having cost a tremendous sum, and the Ulster business men, whose trade had been badly disorganized through the crisis were unable to subscribe any more.

"But he won't succeed," added this Unionist, "Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, has been given to understand that he must brook no delay in the negotiations and he will tell the conference that the conference must not last more than a week."

Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulsterites, took the calling of a conference quite calmly. He told his colleagues that it could make no difference in his attitude.

The Parliamentary Labor party strongly disapproves King George's intervention in a political controversy, even with the laudable object of settling the Irish question, and have asked Premier Asquith to inform the King what they think of his action.

Are Hopeful at Dublin.

DUBLIN, July 21.—The prospects of the conference on Irish Home Rule between the party leaders in London is regarded hopefully here. It is thought the King's influence will cause both sides sufficiently to moderate their claims as to bring about an acceptable compromise.

Street Railway Men to Strike.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 21.—Edmonton street railway employes at a secret mass meeting, decided by a large majority to go out on strike. No date has been fixed. The trouble has arisen over the question of seniority, the employes desiring promotion according to length of service. This the authorities have refused up to the present time to recognize.

Ten Run For Controllers.

OTTAWA, July 21.—Nominations for the new civic Board of Control took place yesterday and ten candidates entered the field. They are: Joseph Kent, Dr. Parent, E. R. McNeill and J. W. Nelson, the controllers who were unseated; D. H. McLean, Thomas Clarey, Napoleon Champagne, Charles Pepper, Fred Hunt and S. L. Kyle.

May Dismiss More Guards.

KINGSTON, July 21.—A number of guards and instructors at the penitentiary come under the age law, so it is claimed, but they have not been dismissed, and it is stated Hon. Mr. Doherty, Minister of Justice, will personally investigate the matter. Three guards were recently dismissed, because they gave wrong age and height measurement.

FLEMMING TESTIFIES.

Premier of N. B. Denies Giving Privileges to Contributors.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 21—Premier Flemming was again on the stand when the Dugal timber graft inquiry was resumed yesterday afternoon.

The Premier could not recollect any of his colelagues having asked him if the lumbermen were not paying more than their bonus for the renewal of their licenses. It had been reported to him that the Bathurst Lumber Co. were cutting undersized logs and he had referred the matter to Mr. Berry. He denied that the company had maintained their right to do so because they had paid well for the privilege. He said he did not know of any lumbermen claiming special privileges on account of their contributions. In 1913, he had given the Dominion Pulp & Paper Co. the privilege of cutting logs slightly under size to thin out a thicket and improve the growth. He did not know until recently that they had continued this year, and did not know that they protested that they had paid dearly for the privilege. He denied that fishermen or liquor men contributed to party funds.

SUFFRAGETTE VIOLENT.

Annie Bell Says She Will Blow Up Police Court.

LONDON, July 21. — "The next bomb I explode will be in the police court and I hope it will be this one."

This was the parting shot at the magistrate at Westminster by Annie Bell, the militant suffragette, as he committed her for trial yesterday on the double charge of attempting to destroy on May 30 the Metropolitan Temple in South London and on July 12 the old Church of St. John the Evangelist.

Miss Bell enlivened the sitting of the court by singing the "Marseillaise" and shouting and struggling with the court attendants. She challenged the magistrate on the futility of sending her to prison, saying: "If I have been there ten times I have never served my sentence."

She added: "The blowing up of a church does not count, even if it is blown out of creation."

"PEBLO"

The Glass of Quality

We have not any doubt but that most people value their eyesight sufficiently to want to take the best care of it. That is why we went to the expense of securing for our Optical Trade the Highest Grade of Lenses that can be made and which we handle exclusively under the trade mark "PEBLO." We believed our patrons would appreciate having their eyeglasses fitted with this superior quality lens, and after two years exclusive use of "PEBLO" Lenses, we are well satisfied with the result, judging by the hundreds of satisfied customers whom we have fitted with these beautiful lenses. It is interesting to know that in spite of the expense of procuring "PEBLO" Lenses the prices to our patrons are no more than when we used other makes of lenses, this being due to the large quantity we buy at a time. We manufacture these "PEBLO" Lenses from the purest "PEBLO" glass, in our own lens grinding department.

Any kind of lens duplicated while you wait, and all work guaranteed.

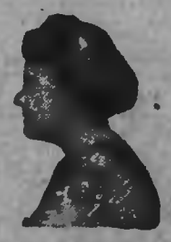
THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

EDWARD EVERETT HALE



MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

By Edward Everett Hale

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Mary Roberts Rinehart and Owen Johnson was "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale. His works are published by Little, Brown & Co.

PART II.

NOLAN must have been in every sea and yet almost never on land. He told me once, with a grave smile, that no man in the world lived so methodical a life as he. "You know the boys say I am the Iron Mask, and you know how busy he was." He said it did not do for any one to try to read all the time more than to do anything else all the time, but that he read just five hours a day. "Then," he said, "I keep up my note-books, writing in them at such and such hours from what I have been reading, and I include in them my scrapbooks." These were very curious indeed. He had six or eight, of different subjects. There was one of history, one of natural science, one which he called "odds and ends." But they were not merely books of extracts from newspapers. They had bits of plants and ribbons, shells tied on and carved scraps of bone and wood, which he had taught the men to cut for him, and they were beautifully illustrated.

Till he grew very old, he always went aloft a great deal. He always kept up his exercise, and I never heard that he was ill. If any other man was ill he was the kindest nurse in the world, and he knew more than half the surgeons do. Then if anybody was sick or died, or if the captain wanted him to on any other occasion, he was always ready to read prayers. I have remarked that he read beautifully.

My own acquaintance with Philip Nolan began six or eight years after the war, on my first voyage after I was appointed a midshipman. It was in the first days after our slave trade treaty, while the reigning house, which was still the house of Virginia, had still a sort of sentimentalism about the suppression of the horrors of the Middle Passage, and something was sometimes done that way. I first came to understand anything about "the man without a country" one day when we overhauled a dirty little schooner which had slaves on board. An officer was sent to take charge of her, and after a few minutes he sent back his boat to ask that some one might be sent him who could speak Portuguese. We were all looking over the rail when the message came, and we all wished we could interpret when the captain asked who spoke Portuguese. But none of the officers did, and just as the captain was sending forward to ask if any of the people could, Nolan stepped out and said he should be glad to interpret if the captain wished, as he understood the language. The captain thanked him, fitted out another boat with him, and in this boat it was my luck to go.

When we got there it was such a scene as you seldom see and never want to. Nastiness beyond account and chaos run loose in the midst of the nastiness. The negroes were, most of them, out of the hold and swarming all round the dirty deck, with a central throng surrounding Vaughan and addressing him in every dialect and patois of a dialect, from the Zulu click up to the Parisian of Beledeljereed.

As we came on deck Vaughan looked down from a hogshead on which he had mounted in desperation and said:

"For God's love, is there anybody who can make these wretches understand something?"

Nolan said he could speak Portuguese and one or two fine looking Kroomen were dragged out, who, as it had been found already, had worked for the Portuguese at Fernando Po.

"Tell them they are free," said Vaughan, "and tell them that these rascals are to be hanged as soon as we can get rope enough."

Nolan explained it in such Portuguese as the Kroomen could understand and they in turn to such of the negroes as could understand them. Then there was such a yell of delight, clinching of fists, leaping and dancing, kissing of Nolan's feet and a general rush made to the hogshead by way of spontaneous worship of Vaughan as the deus ex machina of the occasion.

"Tell them," said Vaughan, well pleased, "that I will take them all to Cape Palmas."

This did not answer so well. Cape Palmas was practically as far from the homes of most of them as New Orleans or Rio Janeiro was—that is, they would be eternally separated from home there. And their interpreters we could understand, instantly said, "Ah, non Palmas," and began to propose infinite other expedients in most volubile language. Vaughan was rather disappointed at this result of his liberality and asked Nolan eagerly what they said. The drops stood on poor Nolan's white forehead as he bowed the negroes down, and said:

"He says 'Not Palmas.' He says 'take us home,' take us to our own country, take us to our own house, take us to our own pickaninnies and our own women.' And this one says," looked out Nolan, "that he has not heard a word from his home in six months, while he has been locked up in a infernal barracoon."

Vaughan always said he grew gray himself while Nolan struggled through this interpretation. I, who did not understand anything of the passion involved in it, saw that the very elements were melting with fervent heat and that something was to pay somewhere. Even the negroes themselves stopped howling as they saw Nolan's agony and Vaughan's almost equal agony of sympathy. As quick as he could get words, he said:

"Tell them yes, yes. Tell them they shall go to the Mountains of the Moon if they will. If I sail the schooner through the Great White desert they shall go home!"

And after some fashion Nolan said so. And they all fell to kissing him and wanted to rub his nose with theirs.

But he could not stand it long, and, getting Vaughan to say he might go back, he beckoned me down into our boat. As we lay back in the stern sheets and the men gave way, he said to me: "Youngster, let that show you what it is to be without a family, without a home and without a country. And if you are ever tempted to say a word or to do a thing that shall put a bar between you and your family, your home and your country, pray God in his mercy to take you that instant home to his own heaven. Stick by your family, boy. Forget you have a self, while you do everything for them. Think of your home, boy. Write and send and talk about it. Let it be nearer and nearer to your thought the farther you have to travel from it, and rush back to it when you are free, as that poor black slave is doing now. And for your country, boy," and the words rattled in his throat, "and for that flag," and he pointed to the ship, "never dream a dream but of serving her as she bids you, though the service carry you through a thousand hells. No matter what happens to you, no matter who flatters you or who abuses you, never look at another flag, never let a night pass but you pray God to bless that flag. Remember, boy, that behind all these men you have to do with, behind officers and government and people even, there is the country herself, your country, and that you belong to her as you belong to your own mother. Stand by her, boy, as you would stand by your mother if those devils there had got hold of her today!"

I was frightened to death by his calm, hard passion, but I blundered out that I would, by all that was holy, and that I had never thought of doing anything else. He hardly seemed to hear me, but he did, almost in a whisper, say, "Oh, if anybody had said so to me when I was of you age!"

I think it was this half confidence of his, which I never abused, for I never told this story till now, which afterward made us great friends. He was very kind to me. When we parted from him in St. Thomas harbor at the end of our cruise I was more sorry than I can tell. I was very glad to meet him again in 1830, and later in life, when I thought I had some influence in Washington, I moved heaven and earth to have him discharged. But it was like getting a ghost out of prison. They pretended there was no such man and never was such a man. They will say so at the department now.

There is a story that Nolan met Burr once on one of our vessels, when a party of Americans came on board in the Mediterranean. But this I believe to be a lie; or, rather, it is a myth, well found, involving a tremendous blowing up with which he sunk Burr—asking him how he liked to be "without a country."

After that cruise I never saw Nolan again. I wrote to him at least twice a year, for in that voyage we became even confidentially intimate; but he never wrote to me. The other men tell me that in those fifteen years he aged very fast. And now it seems the dear old fellow is dead. He has found a home at last, and a country.

Since writing this I have received from Danforth, who is on board the Levant, a letter which gives an account of Nolan's last hours. It removes all my doubts about telling this story.

To understand the first words of the letter the nonprofessional reader should remember that after 1817 the position of every officer who had Nolan in charge was one of the greatest delicacy. The government had failed to renew the order of 1807 regarding him. What was a man to do? Should he let him go? What, then, if he were called to account by the department for violating the order of 1807? Should he keep him? What, then, if Nolan should be liberated some day and should bring an action for false imprisonment or kidnaping against every man who had had him in charge? The secretary always said, as they do even to-day in Washington, that there were no special orders to give and that we must act on our own judgment.

Here is the letter:

Levant, 3° 2' S. @ 12° W.

Dear Fred—I try to find heart and life to tell you that it is all over with dear old Nolan. The doctor had been watching him very carefully and yesterday morning came to me and told me that Nolan was not so well and had not left his stateroom, a thing I never remembered before. He had let the doctor come and see him or he lay there, the first time the doctor had been in the stateroom, and he said he should like to see me. Oh, dear, do you remember the mysteries we boys used to invent about his room in the old intrepid days? Well, I went in, and there, to be sure, the poor fellow lay in his berth, smiling pleasantly as he gave me his hand, but looking very frail. I could not help a glance round, which showed me what a little shrine he had made of the box he was lying in. The stars and stripes were tricked up above and around a picture of Washington, and he had painted a majestic eagle, with lightnings blasting from his beak and his feet just clasping the whole globe, which his wings overshadowed. The dear old boy saw my glance and said, with a sad smile, "Have seen, I have a country." And he pointed to the foot of his bed, where I had not seen before a great map of the United States as he had drawn it from memory and which he had there to look upon as he lay. Quaint, queer old names were on it in large letters. "Oh, Danforth," he said, "I know I am dying. I cannot get home. Surely you will tell me something now—stop, stop! Do not speak till I say what I am sure you know—that there is not in this ship, that there is not in America—God bless her!—a more loyal man than I. There cannot be a man who loves the old flag as I do or prays for it as I do or hopes for it as I do. There are thirty-four stars in it now, Danforth. I thank God for that, though I do not know what their names are. There has never been one taken away. I thank God for that. I know by that that there has never been any successful Burr. Oh, Danforth, Danforth," he sighed out, "tell me—tell me something—tell me everything, Danforth, before I die!"

Ingham, I swear to you that I felt like a monster that I had not told him everything before. Danger or no danger, delicacy or no delicacy, who was I that I should have been acting the tyrant all this time over this dear, sainted old man who had years ago expiated in his whole manhood's life the madness of a boy's treason? "Mr. Nolan," said I, "I will tell you everything you ask about, only where shall I begin?"

Oh, the blessed smile that crept over his white face! And he pressed my hand and said: "God bless you! Tell me their names," he said, and he pointed to the stars on the flag.

Well, I told him the names in as good order as I could, and he bade me take down his beautiful map and draw them in as I best could with my pencil. He was wild with delight about Texas; told me how his brother died there. He had marked a gold cross where he supposed his brother's grave was, and he had guessed at Texas. Then he was delighted as he saw California and Oregon. That, he said, he had suspected partly because he had never been permitted to land on that shore, though the ships were there so much. "And the men," said he, laughing, "brought off a good deal besides furs." Then he went back—heavens, how far!—to ask about the Chesapeake and what was done to Barron for surrendering her to the Leopard, and whether Burr ever tried again, and he ground his teeth with the only passion he showed. But in a moment that was over, and he said, "God forgive me, for I am sure I forgive him." Then he asked about the old war and settled down more quietly and very happily to hear me tell in an hour the history of fifty years.

How I wished it had been somebody who knew something! I tell you, Ingham, it was a hard thing to condense the history of half a century into that talk with a sick man. And I do not now know what I told him of emigration and the means of it, of steamboats and railroads and telegraphs, of inventions and books and literature, of the colleges and West Point and the naval school, but with the queerest interruptions that ever you heard. You see, it was Robinson Crusoe asking all the accumulated questions of fifty-six years.

I remember he asked all of a sudden who was president now, and when I told him he asked if Old Abe was General Benjamin Lincoln's son. He said he met old General Lincoln when he was quite a boy himself at some Indian treaty. I said no; that Old Abe was a Kentuckian, like himself, but I could not tell him of what family. He had worked up from the ranks. "Good for him!" cried Nolan. "I am glad of that. As I have brooded and wondered I have thought our danger was in keeping up those regular successions in the first families." I told him everything I could think of that would show the greatness of the country and its prosperity.

And he drank it in and enjoyed it as I cannot tell you. He grew more and more silent, yet I never thought he was tired or faint. I gave him a glass of water, but he just wet his lips and told me not to go away. Then he asked me to bring the Presbyterian Book of Public Prayer, which lay there, and said, with a smile, that it would open at the right place, and so it did. There was his double red mark down the page, and I knelt down and read, and he repeated with me, "For ourselves and our country, O gracious God, we thank thee, that, notwithstanding our manifold transgressions of thy holy laws, thou hast continued to us thy marvelous kindness," and so to the end of that thanksgiving. Then he turned to the end of the same book, and I read the words more familiar to me, "Most heartily we beseech thee with thy favor to behold and bless thy servant, the president of the United States, and all others in authority," and the rest of the Episcopal collect. "Danforth," said he, "I have repeated those prayers night and morning—it is now fifty-five years." And then he said he would go to sleep. He bent me down over him and kissed me, and he said, "Look in my Bible, Danforth, when I am gone." And I went away.

But I had no thought it was the end. I thought he was tired and would sleep. I knew he was happy, and I wanted him to be alone.

But in an hour when the doctor went in gently he found Nolan had breathed his life away with a smile. He had something pressed close to his lips. It was his father's badge of the Order of Cincinnati.

We looked in his Bible, and there was a slip of paper at the place where he had marked the text:

"They desire a country, even a heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city."

On this slip of paper he had written:

"Bury me in the sea. It has been my home, and I love it. But will not some one set up a stone for my memory at Fort Adams or at Orleans, that my disgrace may not be more than I ought to bear? Say on it:

"In memory of
PHILIP NOLAN,
Lieutenant
In the army of the United States.

"He loved his country as no other man has loved her, but no man deserved less at her hands."

WIGS, HOODS AND CAPS.

Shapes, Colors and Significance of Old Egyptian Headgear.

The reliefs and paintings on the walls of the tombs and temples of the Egyptians show that that race of people wore thick and elegant headdresses. Hats with brims were apparently unknown. Their headgear consisted of wigs, hoods and caps.

"The wigs were very likely made of hair or tow, for their great size could not have been made by dressing of a person's own hair; the caps were also very large and high and made of material which as to its kind can only be guessed at," says Charles E. Kenter in a history and development of hats and headgear.

"The largest were cupola shaped, and their use was probably confined," he further says, "to those of royal blood. They were yellow, white and red. It is supposed that the yellow ones were made of brass and were a kind of helmet, that the white was the crown of upper Egypt and the red the crown of lower Egypt. The pschent, a combination of the white and red, was considered as the symbol of the rule over the land. Lower flat crowned caps were worn both alone and over a hood, and sometimes with a strap under the chin to hold the headpiece in place. The huge wigs were probably worn upon the shaven heads, as it is supposed that the clean shaven head was as prevalent in Egypt as it is now in tropical Asia."

A Reason For Tears.

An amusing story about Dr. Archibald Pitcairne, the physician, Jacobite and scholar, is told by Francis Watt in "The Book of Edinburgh Anecdote."

Dr. Pitcairne was not often a church goer, but on one occasion he took refuge in a church from a shower of rain. The sermon was commonplace, but the preacher was emotional, and he wept copiously and, as it seemed to Pitcairne, irrelevantly. He turned to the only other occupant of the pew, a stolid countryman, and whispered, "What on earth gars the man greet (weep)?"

"You would maybe greet yourself," was the solemn answer, "if you was up there and had as little to say."

Census Reports Take Time.

Each United States census report represents a compilation of statistics for the entire country, and much time is required to make an actual canvass and to publish the results. For example, in the census of manufacturers uniform reports must be secured from more than 270,000 establishments and in the census of agriculture from more than 6,000,000 farms. In collecting statistics from manufacturers, farmers, electric light and power plants, electric railways and other interests it is necessary to allow a sufficient time to fill out the schedule so as not to interfere with the conduct of private business.

Kangaroo Tendons.

In Australia kangaroo farming is an important industry. The hides are valuable, and the tendons extremely fine. Indeed, they are the best known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher than catgut.—London Globe.

Defectives.

"Here's a story about a man with a cork leg, a cork arm, a rubber ear, a glass eye and a wig."

"He must be one of those defectives there's so much agitation about."—Buffalo Express.

A Question.

"The pen is mightier than the sword."

"Then can the fellow with the fountain pen be said to be carrying concealed weapons?"—Town Topics.

Cured.

"It was; but, then, I took a second look."—Buffalo Express.

FLAVOR OF FOOD.

It Is an Important Factor in Digestion and Good Health.

If it were not for flavor we should not digest our food properly. Epicureanism in eating is the handmaid of good health. Flavor has been called the soul of food. The viands that are most agreeable to our sense of taste, those we enjoy most, are those we are most likely to digest well and from which we are most likely to derive the maximum of nourishment.

A book was devoted to this subject by Henry T. Finck of New York. He called it "Food and Flavor." In a review of it the Scientific American says: "The psychic factor of desire must precede ingestion or results will be unpropitious. To each cent spent for nutriment we add five more for flavor. Flavor, in short, has an appetizing value, a health value, a commercial value.

"The evolution of a discriminating appetite and the education of the cook must go hand in hand. But your gustation is never an epicure. Rational mastication must accompany the highest enjoyment of food, and in this enjoyment lie perfect assimilation and health. It is flavor that stimulates the flow of the digestive juices; it is the digestive juices that prepare the mood for the extraction of nutriment."

The Professor Was Wrong.

Several decades ago a learned professor delivered a course of lectures, in one of which he proved to his own satisfaction that the Atlantic ocean could never be crossed by steam. Steam power had been discovered and applied on land, but he was confident it could never be applied to the ocean. Under the peculiar conditions of the heaving tides, the danger of storms, the rolling of the tide, and so forth you could never apply steam to navigation across the Atlantic. The book in which that lecture was published was on the first steamer that crossed the Atlantic. The captain took it along as a sort of curiosity. That book did not have a very large sale, but there has been quite a run of steamers ever since, and the professor ceased to argue that steam could not be utilized on the ocean.—Christian Herald.

Salting One's Smoke.

The strangest way of taking his salt was probably Dr. Parr's. Telfourd records that he used to fill his pipe half with the finest tobacco and half with salt. After that it is not very surprising to learn that he smoked "with a philosophical calmness." On one occasion when the two met Charles Lamb's furious smoking of the strongest tobacco filled Dr. Parr with astonishment. Gently laying down his pipe, he inquired how Lamb had arrived at his power of smoking at such a rate. "I toiled after it, sir, as some men toil after virtue," was Lamb's reply.—London Graphic.

Strychnine.

Strychnine is one of the most powerful vegetable poisons known, but it has very odd effects. Up to about one thirty-second of a grain it is often used in medicine as a stimulant. Very little more is required to bring on that peculiar state known as "tetanus," in which the muscles lock themselves up into such hard masses that they are as rigid as bone. An overdose, however, has been known in at least one instance to cure itself.—Exchange.

How He Felt.

"You act as though you thought yourself superior to the government."

"Well," replied the genial egotist, "I do feel slightly superior. As a taxpayer when I owe the government anything I pay. When the government owes me anything it does as it likes about the matter."—Washington Star.

Plenty of Hopeless Ones.

At the age of twenty-five a man can be forgiven for thinking he knows it all, but if he hasn't changed his mind at forty there is no hope for him.—Toledo Blade.

Faint Heart.

"Have you spoken to father yet?"

"Certainly. I said 'Good evening' when I passed him in the hall."—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Circumstances are beyond the control of man, but his conduct is in his own power.—Beaumont.

Neuralgia of the Heart

This Letter Tells of Wonderful Change Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James G. Clark, Fosterville, York County, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pains about the heart and the quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms, and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a true tonic and the greatest of nerve restoratives, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited Toronto.

PARISIAN BEGGARS.

Clever Rogues Who Study the Weak Points of Their Victims.

An accomplished mendicant, like a clever salesman, studies his customers, discovers their weak points if he can and trades upon them. In this relation it is of interest to note the skillful methods whereby a certain class of Parisian beggars play upon the superstitions of their victims.

There is a common saying in France that giving alms brings good fortune, a saying that has not been overlooked by the Parisian beggar. If one visits the Sorbonne on the days of examination for the bachelor's degree he will see an interesting sight. The collegians approach, each with his dictionary under his arm, on his way to make the famous Latin version, on the success of which all his future depends. A crowd of beggars surround them.

"A sou, monsieur; a morsel of bread," the beggar will say to a collegian. "It will bring you happiness."

The candidate hurries on. "You will be blackballed, monsieur," the beggar continues.

This sinister prediction always takes effect. The collegian pulls out his purse, and the beggar turns away, chuckling.

A similar scene may be witnessed at the Hotel de Ville on the days of examination for certificate of ability for teaching. When there are no examinations in progress there may be races, and to them go the beggars, for gamesters and sporting men are notoriously superstitious.—Washington Star.

The Cricket's Chirp.

The variation of speed in the chirping of crickets depends so closely on temperature that the height of the thermometer may be calculated by observing the number of chirps in 1 minute. At 60 degrees F. the rate is eighty chirps a minute, at 70 degrees F. 120 per minute, and the rate increases four chirps to the minute with a change of one degree. Below a temperature of 50 degrees F. the cricket is not likely to make any sound.

What He Was Looking For.

"I do wish, Edward," said the lady of his choice, "that you wouldn't stare at other women so much. It's very rude and is certainly no compliment to me."

"On the contrary, my dear," replied the resourceful benedict, "I was looking to see if I could find a prettier face than yours, and I confess I really cannot."

Justifiable.

"Why did you beat Dobson so terribly?" said the judge, indicating the bebandaged figure of the plaintiff.

"I asked him why a horse had run away, your honor," explained the prisoner, "and he told me that it was because the animal had lost its equinelmity."

"H'm," said the judge. "Discharged."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Control of Cancer.

Cancer respects neither race, creed nor social position.

It is the common enemy of all mankind, attacking rich and poor alike.

Its insidious onset occurs at the most useful period of life, and death is most common at the age when the care and guidance of children and the continuance of business responsibilities make the mother and father the most useful members of society.

The only sure way to do this is by a surgical operation.

All cases will end in death if let alone.

Records of our best hospitals prove that the chances of cure are very high with early operation and that these chances decrease with every day of delay.

Early diagnosis is therefore all important.

A Fish Wizard.

If the fish did not come soon enough in British Columbia the Indians used to employ a wizard, who made an image of a swimming fish and put it in the water to attract live fish to the bait.

Montreal's Inquests.

The coroner conducted 492 inquests in Montreal during the first six months of this year. This is a slight gain in the number for the same year.

Canada's Acreage.

Canada's cultivated area in 1911 was 82,404,110 acres.

"But," asked the defaulter, who was arranging for transportation to Mexico, "haven't you something special for tourists?"

"No," replied the ticket agent.

"Pardon me, but I have," chimed in the detective, appearing at that moment with a pair of steel bracelets; "here's something special for two wrists. Suppose you try 'em."—Catholice Standard and Times.

SHADOW OF THE MOON.

Its Rapidity of Motion Is Shown in a Solar Eclipse.

Probably the fastest motion that man can perceive with his eyes is that of the shadow of the moon across the earth in a solar eclipse. This rate is practically that of the moon in its orbit, which is about 2,000 miles an hour. This is roughly half a mile a second. Now, if a person were to be stationed on a mountain whence he could see for some miles he could actually watch the approach of the shadow and keep his eye on its edge. Of course the shade would cover the whole landscape for any one person.

From the testimony of many men who have witnessed the phenomenon in such circumstances it is a terrible and awe inspiring spectacle. Thus Forbes of Turin: "I confess it was the most terrifying sight I ever saw. As always happens in the case of sudden, silent, unexpected movements, the spectator confounds real and relative motion. I felt almost giddy for a moment, as though the massive building under me bowed on the side of the coming eclipse." Another view is described by Langley: "The bright cloud I saw distinctly put out like a candle. The rapidity of the shadow and the intensity produced a feeling that something material was sweeping over the earth at a speed perfectly frightful. I involuntarily listened for the rushing noise of a mighty wind."

There are, of course, many velocities greater than this that occur on the earth, which, too, are measurable, such as the speed of light, which is 180,000 miles a second, and the speed of molecules of hot gases, but they are not directly perceptible to the human vision. —Lawrence Hodges in Chicago Record-Herald.

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

HIS FIRST CASE.

The Young Lawyer Made the Court Sit Up and Take Notice.

Several prominent attorneys were discussing the peculiar and rather humorous questions put to witnesses by young attorneys entering upon their legal work, and one of the number vouched for the authenticity of this incident:

"I went up to the superior civil court one day to hear a young friend of mine try his first case. All his relatives and friends were there, and the novice wore a most serious expression as he started to question a witness. He did nicely until he asked the man:

"'Did you have a contract with the plaintiff?'

"'Yes,' replied the witness.

"'What kind of a contract was it?'

"'An oral one,' replied the witness.

"'Will you please produce it?'

"The witness stood stock still staring at the attorney and then looked at the judge inquiringly. There was a ripple of laughter throughout the courtroom, but still the young attorney did not 'catch on,' and, looking toward the judge, remarked:

"'Your honor, I ask you to give the witness until 2 o'clock to produce that contract.'

"The court could not longer withhold and joined in the laughter. Then the young lawyer saw his mistake and with reddened face also had a good laugh."—Boston Record.

PLAYING THE PIANO.

Present Day Methods From the Viewpoint of a Cynic.

The piano is one of our best known musical instruments. It was invented several hundred years ago and in its earlier incarnations was known as the spinet or the harpsichord and afforded eminent artists many opportunities to portray languishing ladies seated before it, says the Chicago Post.

The piano comes either as an upright or a grand. The grand is a large, flat proposition that takes up several hundred dollars' worth of room, while the upright has a nice smooth top on which bric-a-brac may be placed.

The piano is usually played by young ladies until the young man proposes. It is also played by young men in the pan shop. In these places the youth, who has flowing hair and a discouraged necktie, allows a cigarette to hang from one corner of his mouth while he shouts a song from the other corner and uses the loud pedal excessively.

In the old days, before women became advanced as they are now, it was considered quite some things to play a piece on the piano which required the hands to be crossed. Nowadays the piano is fitted with a self playing attachment, and the young man caller feeds a perforated pinglet into it.

Pete Coyne's Elevation

By SARAH BAXTER

In the development of a country its people are developed also. The leaders in the primitive state often become the leaders in its developed condition. Sometimes they take on a higher refinement; sometimes they don't.

When the first railroad was pushing its way across the great American desert I, being fond of hunting wild game, went to a small town on that part of the line that was finished and made it my headquarters for hunting buffaloes and other game. I boarded with a Mrs. Copeland. Whether she was a widow, a brevet widow or held no matrimonial commission whatever no one cared, and no one asked. Her regular boarders called her by her first name, Kate. She was one of those women who fit in readily with uncouth surroundings. Her boarders were all men, but every man was respectful to her, in accordance with the manners of the country. They did not hesitate to swear in her presence, and probably if one of them should have had a difficulty with another neither would have hesitated to shoot in her presence, but so far as she was herself concerned she was immune from any disrespect whatever.

Mrs. Copeland was but twenty-three years old and tolerably good looking. She showed no preference for any of the men with whom she came in contact and accepted no attentions from any one of them. She treated them all alike, except one, Peter Coyne, whom she seemed disposed to quarrel with. Coyne had been a professional gambler, but had recently turned his attention to a contract he had with the railroad for taking dirt from where it was not needed and putting it where rails were to be laid. He appeared to be the most forceful of Kate's boarders, and I wondered why she singled him out for ill usage. Her treatment seemed to trouble him, and every time she scolded him he would hang his head and take what she said to him like a guilty schoolboy.

I noticed that Kate's reprimands to Coyne were never occasioned by any ill treatment of her. Sometimes they arose from differences of opinion, sometimes because he was unmindful of the feelings of others, and once I heard her abusing him because he had shown a tendency to backslide into his former profession of gambling. Just before I left I witnessed a makeup after one of the dressings Kate gave Coyne, and it was very amusing. The big man had got a posy somewhere and offered it to her as a peace offering. He went up to her with it as shyly as if he expected her to open on him with a six shooter.

Soon after this little episode I finished my hunting operations and returned to the east. The railroad and other transcontinental lines were finished, and the western part of North America began a development that has worked wonders. New farming territory was opened, towns and villages sprang up with modern conveniences, and the people, throwing off their uncouth manners with their rough dress, were transformed into ladies and gentlemen.

Some twelve years after my hunting trip to the west I had occasion to visit Washington. Congress was in session, and the social season was at its height. At a reception of the president, which I attended, I was moving about among the throng when I met a man and a woman handsomely dressed, both of whose faces seemed familiar to me. The lady showed signs of recognising me, but passed on with only the sign. Later a man, evidently a westerner, approached me and said:

"Beg your pardon, sir. There is a lady in another room who desires to speak with you."

I followed him, and he led me to the woman I had met shortly before.

"Mrs. Senator Coyne!" said my conductor, and since he did not know my name he left us.

I stood looking at the lady wonderingly, while she sat looking at me with an amused expression on her face. Then suddenly through the silk and lace gown she wore I recognised the woman I had boarded with years before. I grasped her hand.

"You would hardly recognise in me," she said, "the woman you boarded with when on your hunting trip, would you? And you wouldn't have expected that I would marry Pete Coyne. Fact is, I saw there was the making of a fine man in Pete, and when you were with me I was trying to get him up on to a higher plane. He made money by contracting, and after awhile I married him. Then when the territory became a state he was sent to congress. That led to his being made one of the state's senators, and here we are right in it for all we're worth."

"And I admire you," I replied. "One would not suspect but that you were born here."

"Oh, this is my third winter in Washington. When I first came I was pretty rough. But, you see, Pete was rougher than I, so I had to pull myself together and get on to society ways in order to polish him. That's been my hardest job. Pete is older than I am, and you can't make a gentleman of a man after he's grown up. It's hard enough to make a lady of a woman."

Nevertheless Senator Coyne was an influential man in the senate during the time he represented his state there. I was probably the only person in Washington who knew that he owed his rise to Kate Copeland.

The Esra of Simbirsk call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep all they can, with the idea, it would seem, of getting the mourning of life over so that only joy may remain.

A Tiny Farm For a Dime.

Land is cheap. For easy figuring let us say it is worth $160 an acre. A square rod, then, is worth only $1, and 10 cents' worth will be a little more than twenty-seven square feet, or a little farm slightly more than five feet on a side.

How often a boy will waste a dime and think nothing of it. For a dime he can buy land enough to hold a flower bed, four hills of clover or a peach tree! The boy who can save a dime can become rich. Make a dime look like a tiny farm. The boy who learns to save a dime and to know values will some day come into his own.

Uncle Sam Appoints Woman as Commissioner to Solve Problem of Vocational Training for Boys and Girls

She Is Miss Florence M. Marshall, Principal of the Trade School for Girls, Who All Her Life Has Been Interested in the Working Girls of Large Cities, Especially in the Girls Who Work in Factories.

MARY SMITH is a fast operator on straw hats.

She is so accomplished that in the season when the factory where she is employed is turning out enough straw hats to supply all the women in Manhattan with at least one she sometimes makes $35 a week.

During the straw hat season last year she earned $600 in twenty-three weeks, an average of more than $25 a week. So much for the poor working girl from the straw hat point of view.

But fashion makes the straw hat season a highly concentrated period of trade activity. Because the models must be selected at the last moment and millions of hats turned out in a rush after fickle Fashion has at last issued her final decree as to headgear, the twenty-three weeks clean up the annual opportunity. There is nothing then for the straw hat operator but a half year of idleness while the $600 grows weekly and monthly beautifully less.

That is, there need not to be anything else. Nowadays there is Miss Florence M. Marshall, principal of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls, in New York city, whom President Wilson has recently appointed as one of the two women who are to serve on the national commission to investigate vocational education.

Nowadays Mary Smith and her friends who also are engaged in seasonal trades, if they are at all ambitious to be busy all the year, hie them to the domain of Miss Marshall and there learn how to pursue other kinds of trades with which they may fill in the time when they are laid off. Mary Smith may quickly become an operator of an embroidery machine, when she may earn perhaps $9 a week for the rest of the season.

This does not seem a wage of startling proportions. Nevertheless it brings her annual earnings up to nearly $900 a year, instead of a possible $600. The difference each week is $4.

Step across the threshold of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls, in East Twenty-third street, and for a moment you will be sure you are in an idealized factory.

The buzz of machinery, the serious groups of girls bent over their tasks suggest a practical working establishment rather than a school.

The girls are making gowns, underwear, children's wear, hats, fancy boxes, trays for jewelry, lamp shades and sample cards, inviting and elaborate, to be flashed before the eyes of the retail merchant by the salesman on the road.

At the central point of all this activity sits Miss Marshall, who has other problems to solve than those of Mary Smith. Indeed, the difficulties of the skilled worker whose trade is seasonal is only a minor phase of the hardships of the working girls' labors with which the school concerns itself.

Miss Marshall is practical and kind. Those two qualities shine out from her clear gray eyes and her warm and friendly smile. All her life she has been interested in the working girls of large cities, especially in the girls who work in factories. After she was graduated from Boston University she took a course at Teachers College, in New York city. She then opened the Boston Trade School and later was in charge of vocational supervisory work for the State of Massachusetts. Three years ago, after the Manhattan Trade School, until that time a private corporation, had been taken over by the New York Public School system, she went to New York and became head of the school.

"There are two sides to the problem of the working girl, or, rather, let us say the girl who works at trades," said Miss Marshall. "Of course, the State must not permit the employer to exploit these girls, and that sort of thing may be to some extent controlled from outside.

"On the other hand, the girl must be better equipped to earn her living than she has been. I believe that it is unsound economically as well as impossible to demand that girls shall be paid wages when they are not equipped to work. To a very large extent all improvements in conditions of labor must come through the demands of the workers themselves. When girls are able to work capably, when they have been trained and realize what their rights are, and their responsibilities as well, then they can bring about improvements in the conditions of their trades themselves."

"What do you think about the recently printed statement that a girl cannot live in New York on $7 a week?"

"I don't think that a little girl—a girl of fifteen, or even sixteen—ought to be expected to earn her own living completely," said Miss Marshall. "I think if she pulls her own weight by the time she is eighteen or nineteen she is doing very well. Under that age she is expected to live with her own family, where her wage of $5 or $6 a week will go into the general purse. If she does not live with her family, then, while she is so very young, she would be helped out."

Elaborate Gowns Are Made in the Advanced Dressmaking Class.

Girl Garment Operators.

Boxes and Lampshades Are Made in the Novelty Shop.

Learning to Operate on Straw.

"That is one of the things which a trade school can do. It can make it possible for girls to go on in their trades and earn more money from year to year, because what they have been taught in the school gives them an all round knowledge of the trade and enables them to take up different parts of it. The old apprentice system is gone forever, apparently, and the trade school offers the only opportunity to girls and boys to learn anything but one very minute operation among many that go to the construction of an article.

"There are many persons who object to trade schools," said Miss Marshall, "because they do not like to think that it is necessary for young girls to go into factories. But it does not help any to deplore the economic situation which forces young girls to become wage earners, nor is it sufficient to offer courses which are merely designed to make better home makers. The would be wage earners could not afford to attend such classes. We have a course in cooking and it is surprising that so few girls take it up. The reason is that these very young girls would have no opportunity to earn money as cooks.

"We must face conditions as they are. Each year there is an enormous exodus of young girls from the schools and into the factories and workshops of the large cities. To say that the school trains girls for skilled trades and occupations expresses only in part the aim of the school. It is more correct to say that it assists girls in choosing a vocation and acquiring sufficient elementary training therein to enable them to make a fair start. The school aims to train girls so that they may gain a foothold in industry, and to enlarge their vision beyond the immediate 'job' and the immediate wage. It hopes to make its girls efficient, self-supporting and self-respecting women."

"How do the trades unions regard this sort of a school?"

"It has their entire sympathy," said Miss Marshall. "Many of our teachers are leaders in the trades unions.

"You see, our whole effort is to help the girl. Incidentally we help the employer by sending him better workers, but that is not our initial object. This is a school and not a factory, and so we try to keep always in view something bigger than merely trade success. Nevertheless, it would not be possible for such a school to reach the girls for whom it is intended at all unless it was very practical. We keep closely in touch with the trades, so that the school will not get into ruts and turn out workers whose methods are not up to date."

Miss Marshall believes that a vocational school should have a placement department through which pupils may be placed in the trades at the end of their course.

"We do not guarantee to place girls," said Miss Marshall, "but as a matter of fact we have no trouble in finding places for girls who have completed the year's course. The knowledge that the school will endeavor to find positions for its pupils at the end of the year places a premium on the attainment of school standards. No discipline is required in the school. The girls are anxious to do well, and the fact that there is a placement bureau ready to give them practical help in finding a place in the world of trade if their school careers are satisfactory makes other discipline unnecessary.

"The Trade School sells its products for two reasons," said Miss Marshall. "First, it is educational to do so, and, second, it is economical.

"By the sale of the products an atmosphere of trade is given to the school which gives zest and meaning to all class room work. The influence on a girl of having her work judged by trade standards is very marked. A trade school without this actual trade side would be that only in name.

"From the standpoint of economy the sale of the product is an important item. The materials used in the work are very expensive.

"In six months of last year 9,509 articles were made. These included elaborate street and evening gowns, plain cotton, linen and serge dresses, children's wear, swimming suits, aprons, kimonos, underwear, sewing bags, novelty cases, lamp shades and hats.

"The net profit on these articles was about $3,500. In addition, therefore, to paying for its own materials, the school put in about $2,000 worth of new machinery and paid for machinery repairs and office supplies.

"While the sale of the product is valuable from an educational standpoint and is also economical, it is necessary to be very careful not to over-emphasize the commercial side. This is what would happen if an attempt were made to have the school self-supporting. In order that we may have a school and not a factory it is necessary that a girl should drop a process as soon as she has mastered it and go on to something else. This, of course, is entirely contrary to trade practice and makes it impossible for the school to be self-supporting."

An example of the working out of this policy was shown in the putting room.

Here the girls were engaged in learning how to put novelty boxes together and also how to make sample cards and lamp shades.

"You see," explained the instructor, "we have been obliged to refuse an order for sample cards because the order called for a great number of cards all alike. From carrying out this sort of an order the girls would learn nothing. After making one or two sample cards of one kind they should be able to take up another sort of sample card or to pass on to other work of the same general class, but differing in detail."

The trade school course of study is divided into three parts:—

The teaching of trade and shop practice, which takes up four-fifths of the time:

The teaching of related subjects, and the teaching of hygiene.

At present the school is teaching the following trades:—

Clothing machine operating, embroidery machine operating, straw machine operating, dressmaking, millinery, novelty case making, lamp shade making, sample mounting and embroidery designing and perforating of embroidery patterns.

There is a registration of more than five hundred pupils for the day school, and for two years there has been a long waiting list of pupils eager to enter, but for whom the school could offer no accommodation. In the night classes there are about two hundred and fifty in attendance.

Girls who have graduated from the elementary schools and are fourteen years of age or more, and have completed the requirements of the elementary school education necessary for the obtainment of working papers, are admitted to the school.

"We require only one year of training," said Miss Marshall, "as there would be little use of offering a prolonged course of training, which only girls with ample means could attend."

In the night classes of the school there is no such course. While the day school is primarily for very young girls who are not engaged in any trade and whose school work is just beginning, the night classes are for girls who are already at work and many of whom have attained skill in some one branch of trade. They are there either perfecting their work or they wish to master another branch of the business, and so they take a course in the night trade classes.

It may be, for instance, that a girl who has already learned to operate an electric sewing machine is desirous of learning the art of hemstitching on the machine. A few lessons in this will make her a sufficiently good operator to meet trade requirements.

In connection with the trade instruction there is art instruction which relates strictly to the business in hand. The trade of dressmaking and that of millinery, for instance, make constant demands upon the taste of the worker. The art instruction afforded by the school is confined to such a course as will develop the taste of the student in regard to harmony of colors, grace of line and beauty of design.

Some instruction also is given in arithmetic and English. This also is related to the trades. The accounts which it is necessary to keep, the letters which must be written in connection with a particular trade and compositions in trade topics constitute the basis of such instruction.

Some time is devoted to the study of textiles; and there is also a course in what might be called the rights of the employe, in which the girl is instructed as to her right to fire protection, sanitary conditions, &c.

The promotion of health is a very important part of the work of the school.

"We feel that a trade school is confronted with unusual responsibilities in regard to the health of the pupils," said Miss Marshall. "It is absolutely essential that the school should know whether or not a girl is fit to pursue the trade she has chosen.

"It would be little short of criminal neglect to permit a girl to train for a working trade who had flat feet or poor circulation, or to allow a girl with serious nervous difficulties to follow an operating trade where she would have to endure the constant noise of machinery.

"Physical training should be especially strong in a trade school. Among our physical exercises we include relief work to counteract the strain of close confinement at trade practice, corrective work to improve posture and correct defects, educational work to give control over the body and its members and recreative exercises such as games and dances."

"What is the commission going to do for vocational education?"

"I suppose the duties of the commission will be to determine whether or not federal aid should be extended to vocational schools and if there should be such aid, in what form it should come," said Miss Marshall. "We haven't a great deal of time to work in, as we are expected to report in June. There has been a difference of opinion as to legislation on the subject, and so I suppose the commission has been called to gather material on the work already existing.

"To some extent the public seems to fear the expense of trade schools, and yet, when they sell their products to pay for their materials, they are no more expensive than high schools. They simply fill a different place. One necessary element of expense in trade schools is that instruction can be given only to a small group at one time.

"We employ both regular teachers and trade women to instruct the pupils. The regular teachers give the first instruction, for the skilled workers in trades would not be sufficiently patient with beginners. Then after the girls have learned the rudiments they pass to the skilled workers in each branch of a trade. Over all of these instructors in any special trade there is a forewoman, who has executive ability and business knowledge.

"We keep in close touch with the needs and the development of each trade by our system of follow-up work. After a girl has completed the course here and has gone to work we keep a record of her success, and we try to have the employers, as well as the girl, contribute to this record. In this way we get much practical information as to the strong and weak spots of our system and can modify the training accordingly."

In a Woman's World of Work.

THE gentle art of impromptu hospitality is gradually dying out. No hostess of the present day seems to be prepared for unexpected guests. Even impromptu teas have been discarded for formal afternoon receptions and only in a few old fashioned houses is the quaint old custom of serving five o'clock tea every day preserved. It is a most attractive custom and it is a decided improvement of the modern hostess that it should be allowed to die out. In England it is religiously observed and visitors may always be sure of tea and crumpets if they call at five o'clock.

In most families of moderate means the woman of the house is seldom prepared to serve tea at a moment's notice. It seems to consider that she is very lucky if she and her home are sufficiently tidy to receive the guests at all.

After all there is no reason why impromptu teas should go out of fashion in these modern days when everything can be bought ready to eat at the delicatessen shops. So long as the housewife is dressed herself and the house in sufficiently tidy to admit unexpected guests such a small thing as serving tea should not seem a big job to handle.

Serving tea can always be quite simple and easy if the tea things are kept in good condition, ready to use. If the tea napkins and tray cloth are always placed near at hand, and are laundered after each use, there will be no difficulty in fixing the tray in two minutes. Of course, if the hostess must rush and look for them ten times and polished tea silver, besides setting the tray and preparing the food, unfeasibly, five o'clock tea will assume bigger proportions than the average meal.

It is always a good idea to keep two or three tea tray sets of linen in use at the same time, so that a clean one may replace the soiled one instantly, but, where such can not be afforded, it may easily be straightened in a few moments. In such a case as this it is best to remove all the trays immediately when the guests are done with them, and iron it at once. In this way the girl is clean for the next tea, whether it be to-morrow or next week.

First Woman to Head a State Democratic Committee In Colorado, Is a Firm Believer in Machine Politics

MRS. GERTRUDE A. LEE, of Denver, is the first woman chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee, and probably the first woman in the United States to hold such an important political position. She has been prominent in politics in Colorado throughout the suffrage career of the State.

MRS. GERTRUDE A. LEE.

"I am a machine politician," declares Mrs. Lee, "but I certainly do not approve of steam roller methods. My idea of a machine as applied to politics is that it should represent an organization pure in principle and certain in purpose. A machine—in other words, a forceful and harmonious organization—is the only factor which can assure party success. I believe in the party above the individual. The candidate should be pledged to certain principles, and after that the personal equation should be eliminated."

Mrs. Lee has for six years been vice chairman of the State Central Committee, and became active chairman recently through the resignation of George T. Bradley. She is already busily engaged in outlining a strenuous campaign during her term of office.

"My aim will be to effect a better organization of our party in this State," she says, "and I shall endeavor to have democrats reinstated to all the offices in the land, if we can afford to put a republican succeed Senator Thomas when his term as United States Senator expires.

"I intend to get right after every county chairman in the State and learn the true existing conditions. I will also try to reorganize the local committee and have a movement inaugurated immediately that will assure party success at the election next fall."

According to Colonel George E. Lee, Assistant Adjutant General of the State and husband of Mrs. Lee, the latter, even as a schoolgirl, developed a keen interest for everything of a political nature, and always had her class in the then customary debates on the political issues of the day. Now at the age of forty, proud of her position as the only party leader of her sex, her activities show no signs of waning.

Mrs. Lee's home life is ideal. She is the mother of a son aged twelve and a daughter who is twenty years old. The latter will be graduated from the State University next fall.

The new State chairman has been an active member of the Woman's Club of Denver since its organization, and is also active in the work of the North Side Woman's Club and a leading member of the Mothers' Congress. Her strong qualifications as a political leader were first noticed in her record as a precinct chairman several years ago, when it was conceded that her precinct was the best organized in the State, and soon afterward she was made chairman of the County Central Committee. Her present incumbency of the position of chairman of the State Central Committee will last until after the election next fall, and it is not at all improbable that she will direct the affairs of the democratic State organization for two years thereafter.

"One of my greatest aims," said Mrs. Lee, "will be to bring the majority of the women of the State into the fold of our party. I am a democrat for principle's sake—not for political reasons. The progressive party makes the claim of being the true representative of woman's rights in Colorado, but I hope to make the democratic party the true exponent of the rights of women."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Thinking of Something Else

Troubles of an Absentminded Man in Love.

By MAUD HALLOWELL.

"Whatever you do, Sue," said Dr. John Murray's wife, half laughing, half angry, "don't you ever marry an absentminded man. A man that is always 'thinking of something else,' like that big husband of mine, may be wonderfully good at his profession, because that's what he's always thinking about, but he is surely a domestic trial at times."

Mrs. Murray laughed, her ill nature having evaporated completely under the heat of her little outburst. Her visitor, Susan Harland, laughed with her, for Dr. Murray's wonderful feats in his fits of abstraction were famous.

"Why, Sue," continued Mrs. Murray, laughing gayly at the recollection, "do you remember when I had that touch of rheumatic fever? One night when I was burning with thirst I woke John and said to him, 'John, if you don't get me a drink of water quick I don't know that I'll live till morning.'

"He got up, sort of dazed, walked over to the mantelpiece and came back to me holding out an empty vase. I wanted a drink of water that much that I hung on to my patience until he was wide awake and knew what I was talking about. Then he went to the refrigerator and came back with a glass brimming full of good cold water. But, if you will believe it, Sue, he just stood there looking at me, and before I could say a word that man drank every drop of that water himself with me glaring holes through him. I declare, it makes me angry to this day!"

They were going to a dance and were waiting for Dr. Murray to escort them.

"No, Sue; don't you ever marry an absentminded man," said Mrs. Murray impressively when they drove away at last, with Dr. John safely opposite them.

"As long as he isn't too absentminded to attend the wedding, Sue," chuckled Dr. John, "you take him, provided his name is Dick Kendall."

Sue was glad that the darkness hid her blushes.

"Dick is going to do something great in chemistry, I do believe," said Dr. John. "There's his compound of phosphine"—

"A wife wants something besides your old phosphates and other ill smelling things," said Mrs. Murray. "Dick Kendall is as bad as you are. He's just as likely as not to come to the dance tonight with his old laboratory coat on."

Dick Kendall did not fulfill Mrs. Murray's dark prophecy literally, but he did so in effect. It is true that he was soberly and blamelessly clad in his evening clothes, but the tout ensemble was somewhat marred by the sad fact that he had a patent leather pump on one foot and a bright russet shoe on the other.

Sue blushed and then she flushed, and then she grew angry as the titters and smiles ran around the room when unconscious Dick hurried forward to meet her.

Luckless Dick was doomed to further disgrace. He had barely repaired the disaster of the shoes by sending a messenger posthaste to his home for the other pump when something worse happened.

During a waltz, when Miss Sue was his partner, somebody brushed against Dick. There was a sharp crackling of broken glass, and the next instant the couple was wreathed in beautiful violet smoke that gradually filled the room.

Nobody had leisure or desire to observe the beauty of its color though. It was so instantly suffocating that there was a mad, wild rush for doors and French windows.

The accident filled Sue's cup, and it brimmed over—only a little, but too much. In her anger she stamped her foot and cried, "Dick Kendall, your absentmindedness apparently extends only to me and not to your profession. It is plain that you care more for chemistry than for me, and it would be a thousand pities to disturb your devotion."

She stripped the ring from her finger, and he took it in bewildered silence. Before he could reply she had turned her back and the next moment was walking up the corridor with Dick's pet aversion, Charles Maule, whom everybody called "the model Maul," in apt description of his mental equipment.

Miss Sue's words had been uttered in the hearing of many persons. Next day the news of the broken engagement was all over town.

Dick tried to placate the girl, but with characteristic lack of policy he did not wait for her anger to cool off. The result was that the breach seemed final to him. In his simplicity he believed every angry word she said and did not realise that the girl was eager to forgive as soon as she had punished him a little.

Dick was absentminded about little things, but not about great ones. With a heart full to breaking, he made his preparations to leave the place.

A week afterward Sue stopped at Dr. Murray's house to accompany Mrs. Murray and the doctor on a drive into the country. Dr. John was not there when she arrived.

"I hope he hasn't gone to bed by mistake," said Sue, smiling. She was cheerful, for she had made up her mind to write to Dick, forgiving him and asking him frankly to forgive her.

"No," said Mrs. John. "Didn't I tell you where he was going this morning? He went to drive Dick Kendall down to the harbor to see him off on the Viking."

Susan Harland's half opened lips and startled eyes showed her surprise.

"Didn't you know?" said Mrs. Murray, embarrassed. "Dick is going on a cruise around the world with his friend Randall, who bought that big yacht Viking."

Susan sprang up, casting aside all pretense, like the honest, warm hearted girl she was. "Kate," she cried, "I can't let him go! I cannot! I cannot! I was wicked. As if I would lose Dick for all the absentmindedness in the world! Oh, Kate, we must stop him! I don't care what people think!"

"Sue, dear," said Mrs. Murray, "it is too late. Look!" She led Sue to a window that commanded a view across a bluff and far to sea. Some miles out a great steam yacht was steaming toward the horizon.

"I must cable to him at once—at once!" said Sue passionately. For a few minutes Mrs. Murray made no reply, but held her arms around the girl and stroked her hair.

"You must be patient, dear, now, and plucky for awhile. The Viking is bound to the south Pacific, and we shall not be able to reach her for some time—perhaps for six months."

She led the sobbing girl into the library, bestowed her comfortably in an easy chair and wisely left her alone to have her cry and her trouble by herself till the first keenness should have worn off.

She had scarcely re-entered the drawing room before she heard her husband driving up to the door. A moment afterward there entered two men, looking very, very sheepish and guilty. They were Dr. John and—Dick Kendall.

"Now, don't scold and don't laugh, Kate," implored Dr. John. "I'll tell you what happened. I picked Dick up all right at his lodgings, and we did all you told us to do, saw that everything was locked up and counted his baggage and made sure that he had his money in his pockets. See, here's your memorandum, all checked off. But, Kate," added Dr. John, with a twinkle, half humorous, half ashamed, "you forgot to add on the memorandum that Dick was to be delivered on board the Viking."

"And so, you know," interposed Dick, eager to divert blame from his friend's head, "I got to telling John about a new test for white blood corpuscles, and we got interested and stopped for just a few minutes at the board of health laboratory."

"And then, as usual, you forgot all about a little thing like a trip around the world," Mrs. Murray burst out. But, strangely enough, there was a delighted smile on her face.

Taking Dick Kendall by the shoulder, she pushed him toward the library. "Now, you great, useless child," said she, with her eyes shining, "you go in there and sit down for a moment. I have something to say to the doctor."

She closed the door behind him and ran to Dr. John, clapping her hands softly. Dr. John didn't look at all absentminded when she whispered to him, but gazed at the door with as much eagerness and joy in his face as there was in hers.

They waited a quarter of an hour with highly commendable patience. Then Mrs. Murray walked to the door and knocked, but not before she had heard Dick Kendall's deep voice:

"Think of something else? Sue, I couldn't think of anything except that I had lost you."

And before the door opened Sue said: "Stop, you bear! You've nearly knocked my hat off."

Scenic Railway Runs on Sundays So Playhouses Test Law.

QUEBEC, July 21.—Two of Quebec's playhouses opened their doors to the public on Sunday in contravention to the Sunday Act, and yesterday morning Chief of Police Trudel entered action against them. They are the Auditorium and Princess Theatres.

The managers of the two places stated yesterday that they do not intend breaking the law, but that since the city has allowed amusements and a scenic railway to be operated on Sunday without molestation, they feel they have as much right to be tolerated as the Quebec Exhibition, which by the way, is now under the control of a municipal commission.

Detective Suspended.

MONTREAL, July 21. — Detective Charette, who shot Melvin G. Cowie, real estate dealer, 2,050 Park avenue, through the foot by mistake for a burglar while Mr. Cowie was standing in his own yard on the night of July 13, has been suspended for an indefinite period, pending an investigation by the police authorities.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise some 95 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your chemist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—J. J. G.

WORM PEST SPREADS.

Millions of Insects Are Reported From New Districts.

BRANTFORD, July 21.—The army worm has made its presence known by the millions in new sections, one being around Blue Lake, north, where it has wiped out pasture and is now in the crops working devastation; around Mount Pleasant, to the southwest, where it is cleaning up pasture land; on Cockshutt road, to the south, where it has congregated in millions and is doing great damage, and around Paris, especially on the low banks of the Nith, where it is cleaning out pastures.

Several New Outbreaks.

WOODSTOCK, July 21. — Several districts have now been added to the list of those already infected by the dreaded army worm. An outbreak of the worm has developed on the Epileptic Hospital farm on the 12th line in the city limits. The worms have attacked the grass along the barley field and have started on the march into the field.

Word has come from a number of farms in both West and North Oxford that the pest has commenced its ravages in those districts.

Niagara District Fested Per.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21.—Fearing that the army worm which has swept across Western Ontario, will now march through the Niagara district, fruit growers and farmers are greatly alarmed. The parasites have appeared at Waterdown, and yesterday they swooped down on the Hendrie farm and other properties along the Plains road by the millions.

LAWS OF WARS.

The Code Now in Use Among All the Civilized Nations.

The "laws of war" as at present formulated by the civilized nations forbid the use of poison against an enemy; murder by treachery, as, for example, assuming the uniform or displaying the flag of a foe; the murder of those who have surrendered, whether upon conditions or at discretion; declarations that no quarter will be given to an enemy; the use of such arms or projectiles as will cause unnecessary pain or suffering to an enemy; the abuse of a flag of truce to gain information concerning an enemy's positions; all unnecessary destruction of property, whether public or private.

They also declare that only fortified places shall be besieged; open citiesor villages not to be subject to siege or bombardment; that public buildings of whatever character, whether belonging to church or state, shall be spared; that plundering by private soldiers or their officers shall be considered inadmissible; that prisoners shall be treated with common humanity; that the personal effects and private property of prisoners, except their arms and ammunition, shall be respected; that the population of an enemy's country shall be considered exempt from participation in the war, unless by hostile acts they provoke the ill will of the enemy.

Personal and family honor and the religious convictions of an invaded people must be respected by the invaders and all pillage by regular troops or their followers strictly forbidden.—New York Herald.

A Dhow Survival.

The dghaisa (pronounced dysa), the gondola of Malta, is a survival, says John Wignacourt in "The Odd Man In Malta," of the oldest vessel ever used and varies little in shape from the Egyptian boats of the dead. Actually the eye of Osiris is still to be seen upon the prow. It is propelled by two experienced oarsmen, one of whom always stands. When the Gregale wind is sweeping the harbors and the steam ferries are unsafe you can still use the trusty dghaisa. It is a gay little craft, painted in brilliant colors—in this respect a contrast to the somber gondola of Venice.

Pleasant For the Callers.

Two ladies made a formal call on a distant acquaintance. The maid asked them to wait until she ascertained whether the person inquired for was in. Presently she tripped downstairs and announced that "the lady was not at home." One of the callers, finding that she had forgotten her cards, said to her friend, "Let me write my name on your card."

"Oh, it isn't at all necessary, miss," put in the maid cheerfully; "I told her who it was."—New York Globe.

An Artist's Criticism.

Probably no two artists ever criticised each other more severely than did Fuseli and Northcote, yet they remained fast friends. At one time Fuseli was looking at Northcote's painting of the angel meeting Balaam and his ass. "How do you like it?" asked Northcote after a long silence. "Northcote," replied Fuseli promptly, "you're an angel at an ass, but an ass at an angel."

When the Liver Gets Torpid

There is Nothing Like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to Set it Right.

Mrs. C. L. Cook, 209 Tenth street, Brandon, Man., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the last four years for liver trouble, and can say that I have had great satisfaction and help from them. I find that I do not need any doctor if I use them when the liver gets torpid, and believe that they are exactly suited for my case. My husband has used them for kidney trouble with good results, and my daughter in Winnipeg has been helped a great deal by the use of these pills. We say we can't keep house without them, and have cheated the doctors here out of a good many visits. I think Dr. Chase's medicines are just the thing, and have recommended them to many people who have used them with good results."

By keeping the liver active and the bowels regular Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure such disorders as biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and headache. One pill a dose, 25c a box, 5 for $1.00; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Japan's Gorgeous Fire Brigades.

The fire brigades of Japan are organized into companies, and each of these companies carries some striking emblem as a kind of rally banner. Glorified drum majors' sticks, gigantic clubs, spades, hearts, diamonds, balls, ornaments—all kinds of strange signs—are borne proudly aloft by the standard-bearer of the detachment. It is the duty of this functionary to stand in the thickest of the fire, amid smoke, sparks and hissing water jets, to show where his company is at work. Thrilling tales are told of modern Casablancas among these men who have remained too long at the post of duty and have been engulfed in a fiery furnace upon the collapse of a roof.—Wide World Magazine.

How Timber Is Selected.

Timber was formerly selected according to its external appearance. The diameter and length of the piece, the straightness of grain, sometimes the weight, sufficed to determine both its commercial value and its destination. The diversified industries of the present day require a corresponding diversity in the wood employed. For one purpose the important quality is hardness; for another, elasticity; for a third, ease of working or resistance to attack by external agencies. The compound microscope is now used for the minutes and careful examination of longitudinal and transverse sections of a specimen of timber.—London Telegraph.

A Naturally Formed Punch Bowl.

At Kenmare Castle, Ireland, is an enormous cockleshell, weighing 150 pounds, brought from the South Sea Islands. It is moulded into a most fascinating form and exquisitely polished by the hand of Nature. In the olden days of baronial hospitality it was used as a punch bowl. When this gigantic natural bowl, filled with its cobalt of delicious punch, was placed on the oaken table in the vaulted hall of the castle it is recorded that the effect was very pleasing.

"PARADISE A DESERT."

Turkey Is Considering Irrigation Scheme for Mesopotamia.

Mesopotamia, for generations the cradle of the human race and the one place in the world that is generally supposed to have been the prehistoric Garden of Eden, stands now, for the first time in its history, a fair chance of reclamation. Up to the present Abdul Hamid has never permitted anything that would really further progress in that country and has always been opposed to any movement that would in any way tend to be reactionary. Governmental change has greatly benefited conditions there and Sir William Willcocks, the most celebrated irrigation engineer in Europe, is working on plans for the restoration of the ancient irrigation system that made Mesopotamia, one of the richest countries in the world. In ancient times Mesopotamia was especially noted for its rich and fertile agricultural lands. In the land lay the secret of the great wealth of Babylon and Nineveh, but although the evolution of the centuries the land has suffered from neglect and that which once furnished luxury to the denizens of the Babylonian palaces is now a desert.

Sir William proposes, by dams and canals, to store the floods that are brought down from the mountains in the spring, in enormous reservoirs for use during the summer, and has indicated locations for at least five, which will, he believes, answer every purpose. At least two of these localities were used as reservoirs by the Babylonians and probably by previous civilizations, and Sir William will adapt to modern use the same canals that were then used to distribute the water over the plains. Several dry river beds can also be made available and thus compassing the desert.

After the 3,000,000 acres that will be first reclaimed have been settled and utilized the area available for agriculture can be doubled by the expenditure of $15,000,000 additional, and ultimately the grain would be 6,000,000 acres capable of producing annually, according to his estimates, 2,000,000 tons of wheat, 4,000,000 hundred weight of cotton and fabulous quantities of other exportable products, in addition to whatever food will be necessary to support a population of a million people.

In addition to the agricultural products he promises pasturage for millions of sheep and goats and hundreds of thousands of cattle in the delta, and he would build a railway from Bagdad to Damascus with branches here and there to tap the harvest fields. The total length of this road would be about 550 miles and, according to his estimates, it could be constructed for between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000.

The Turkish Government falters and hesitates about accepting the report. They do not seem to be able to grasp the magnificent schemes, the vastness of which bewilders them. This attitude cannot be permanent however in a little while the syndicates will become interested and for spite of Ottoman "luck" of damage will carry the scheme to a successful conclusion and the "Garden of Paradise" will be reclaimed from the desert.

NURSED A HOT TEMPER.

Something Had to Give Way When William Morris Broke Loose.

Though explosive tempers may not be admirable and temperamental explosions are not always harmlessly expended, they are always preferable to soreness, sullenness, brooding resentment or cold anger. Arthur Compton-Rickett in his study of William Morris—that "fully vivid man," as he terms him—relates several new instances of Morris' violent thunderclaps of temper and swiftly ensuing sunniness and sweetness.

Once while he was painting he was called from the room, and presently his startled model heard him furiously anathematizing some one outside whom he dismissed or ejected and then returned a moment later still boiling with wrath. He could not resume his work, but made wild dashes about the room, growling and muttering, until at last in a culminating access of rage he took a flying kick at the door and with a vast crashing and splintering smashed in a panel. It was too much for his model's nerves, and he started to flee. But at that moment Morris, with his fire entirely gone now that the explosion was over, turned with a beaming smile, and entered him genially:

"It's all right, it's all right, but something had to give way!"

CONFERENCE WAS ADJOURNED TO-DAY

Great Crowds Gather to Watch Arrival of the Leaders at Buckingham Palace.

GREETED BY KING

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Eng., July 21. — Great crowds to-day gathered about Buckingham Palace watching the arrival of Government, Opposition and Irish leaders in the epoch-making conference called by the King in an attempt to bring about a peaceful solution of the Home Rule fight. His Majesty formally greeted the conference in the Privy Council Chamber, shook hands with each leader, but did not participate in the discussion, however, and withdrew, the conference then going on for an hour and a half. Speaker Lowther, of the House of Commons, presided. One of the first to arrive was Premier Asquith, who, with Lloyd George, represented the Government, and the meeting appeared friendly enough, although Law and Asquith have been bitter personal enemies. It was also perhaps the first time Redmond and Dillon have exchanged greetings with the sovereign. The conference adjourned to to-morrow.

With two or three exceptions the Unionist and radical press accept His Majesty's conference as the wisest move. The Times says the King only took action to avert immediate civil war. The Chronicle dismisses alleged unconstitutionality of the act as ridiculous. The Citizen Labour paper calls on Parliament to sweep aside all outside gatherings, declaring the conference dangerous.

FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE

County Police Magistrate Edmison Retires After Practising Law for Half a Century

After fifty years of active service in the Legal profession, His Worship County Magistrate George Edmison ,K.C., is resigning his commission. During the long term of office of 27 years Magistrate Edmison has held commissions both as Dputy Judge and Local Master. Hence the title of Judge, by which he is popularly known.

He has filled many offices with capability and straightforwardness.

The retiring Magistrate, who holds the esteem of all, is within a few months of eighty years. He was born in Smith, and later articled with Mr. Elias Burnham. On graduating as a solicitor and attorney in 1864, he commenced the practice of law in Peterborough and was called to the Bar in 1877.

Subsequently Mr. R. E. Wood became partner in the firm. Upon Mr. Wood's appointment as Crown Attorney, Mr. Edmison was joined by Mr. A. E. Dixon. On June 11th, 1887, he (Mr. Edmison) received the commission of County Magistrate and in 1902 no less than three commissions, separate and distinct, were bestowed upon him. They were those of Deputy Judge of the County and General Sessions. Local Judge of the High Court of Justice, and Local Master of the Supreme Court. In the same year also he received the title of K.C.

Although he will be greatly missed by all those who were actively associated with him in official services, he carries with him their good wishes for a long and happy life in retirement.

Judge Edmison's resignation takes effect at the end of the month.

John Coros Appears in Police Court This Morning on Charge Laid by Wife

Aaron Kilburn confessed he had too much whiskey and was fined $2 at police court this morning.

John Coros was charged with assaulting his wife. Mrs. Coros took the stand and said that her husband had abused her and slapped her when she had a baby three weeks old. "Any man who beats his wife will take the medicine he gets here," remarked the Magistrate. Coros must stay in jail till he furnishes a bond of $500 in two sureties, to keep the peace. A reconciliation is being brought about. Mr. Widdifield appeared for prisoner.

Charged with vagrancy, Thomas MacCluskey and George Brice pleaded not guilty. Mr. C. Eaton said he had seen them prowling around about the evening of the 14th inst. This the prisoners denied, as the said they were looking for a boarding house. These men are regular workers at the Brinton Carpet Co. The case against them was dismissed, but the men got a warning not to frighten the citizens.

Michael Larouse, who has appeared in court many times before, was charged with vagrancy. An old charge of supplying liquor to a blackleister was also brought against him and he pleaded guilty. He was fined $25 and not having the money, will spend 30 days in jail. The charge of vagrancy was withdrawn.

STONEY LAKE TOOK LARGE NUMBER TO LINDSAY YESTERDAY

The Stoney Lake took a capacity crowd to Lindsay yesterday, and everyone spoke highly of the sail. After the sail through the chain of Kawartha lakes, the steamer reached Lindsay about 7 o'clock, the passengers returning home on the flyer. Mr. Jerry Young went up from Peterborough by train and secured extra coaches. When their capacity proved insufficient for the party, he took over the parlour car. Every provision was made for the comfort of the excursionists, and the crew's efforts to please were appreciated.

ARE FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT

John White and George Heron Are Arraigned in Police Court To-day

George Heron and John White were charged at Police Court to-day with stealing $20 from one John Brayne on Saturday night, July 18th. They pleaded not guilty.

John Brayne said that he had no home, but worked in the shanties and only left the Cavendish Lumber Co. on Friday last and was staying at the American House.

He had $52 in his pockets, $20 of it being in cash, the rest in a time-cheque which he cashed at the bank. On Saturday night he went into the hotel yard and was walking around when he saw the prisoners who got him to go up in the loft in the shed and were taking his money when Detectives Meagher and Newhall appeared on the scene.

When asked if he knew prisoners witness said he knew one of them, but he wouldn't tell any lies about the other. Detective Newhall said that he had received a message at 6.30 to go to the American House, and they saw White in the stable and they asked him what he had in the granary and he replied nothing. He denied the presence of Brayne, and when searching around they heard a scuffle above. Detective Meagher climbed up into the loft and had Heron and Brayne down in the hay. Newhall went up and helped to subdue the two and they put handcuffs on Heron and White and took all three to the police station. Newhall said that Heron had a $2 bill in one hand and a $5 bill in the other hand which he claimed was his own, but afterwards he stated he had been out of work.

Detective Meagher corroborated Newhall's evidence except the conversation between Newhall and White on the ground floor which occurred while he was up in the loft which he did not hear.

Heron and White both went into the witness box and denied they took the money.

Magistrate Dumble found the prisoners guilty but remanded them a week for sentence.

PLOUGHMEN'S ASSOCIATION IS FORMED

Officers Elected at a Representative Meeting of Farmers of the County

ANNUAL MATCHES

West Peterborough is to have a Ploughmen's Association that will rival both in size and interest the big associations that hold their annual ploughing matches in Western Ontario. This is the decision of the representative farmers who met in Peterborough on Saturday last, and were unanimous in the forming of such an association.

The following will be the officers for the coming year:

President—J. H. Garbutt, R. R. No. 4, Peterborough.
1st Vice-Pres.— Joshua Smithson, R. R. No. 8, Peterborough.
2nd Vice-Pres.— Alex. McGregor, R.R. No. 9, Peterborough.
Sec.-Treas.—Fred Campbell, R. R. No. 3, Peterborough.
Auditor — Wm. Collins, 242 Romaine Street, Peterborough.
Directors—J. W. L. Hatherly R. R. No. 6; H. B. Cowan, Farm and Dairy; C. E. Moore, R. R. No. 2; E. L. Duffus, 195 Simcoe Street; H. Stubbs, R. R. No. 4; John Henderson, 265 Burnham Street.

Through the holding of annual ploughing matches the new association aims to interest farmers' sons in becoming first class ploughmen, thereby largely increasing the yield and quality of the field crops. Already the association has a membership of over twenty wide-awake farmers, and everything points to having one of the strongest organizations of its nature in the province. Full information regarding membership, etc., can be secured from the Secretary.

To Stop The Advance Of The Army Worm

OTTAWA, July 21—The Conservation Commission to-day issued a bulletin advising farmers to dig a deep furrow or scrawl around the fields with vertical or steep side of furrow next to the crop to be protected as the best barrier to prevent the march of the army worms, with holes or pits every ten feet.

NEW SERIAL WILL COMMENCE ON SATURDAY

"Darkness and Dawn," a Thrilling Tale by Geo. Allan England Will Be Enjoyed by Examiner Readers

AN UNUSUAL STORY

The Examiner will offer its readers a new serial story on Saturday in "Darkness and Dawn,' a story well out of the beaten path, by Geo. Allan England. Imagine New York wiped out of existence by some strange catastrophe that left skyscrapers a mass of ruins and destroyed all the inhabitants, except a young engineer and his stenographer. This is the situation at the beginning of the story, and the author develops a remarkable story from these premises. "Darkness and Dawn" is all different from anything the Examiner has yet published, and will be found a most interesting romance.

KRAFT WILL BE BOUGHT BY NEWARK

Magnates Find a Way Out of Threatened Trouble

NEW YORK, July 21.—National and American League magnates found the way out of the threatened strike of all baseball players to-day, it was believed when they authorized the re-sale to the Newark Club of Player Kraft. The player is to be purchased by Newark at a valuation set by Nashville

CRESSMAN'S STORE IS TO BE EXTENDED

Schneider's Will Be Included and Used as a Gentleman's Furnishing Dept.

Messrs. A. W. Cressman Ltd. have taken in Schneider's store giving a frontage of 75 feet on George street. The store will be remodelled with an entire new front and will be used for the Gents' Furnishing stock.

The front portion of the present clothing store will be used for window space and be made into an arcade with display windows on each side and at the rear—with an entrance through the arcade to both stores. The idea will be entirely new and original, and will give a very large amount of display window space, totalling according to present plans 194 feet, and giving 3 extra large windows approximating 60 feet each.

In the re-arrangement some of the present departments will be given increased floor space—notably the furniture department—which will be nearly doubled in size.

It is intended to have these alterations completed during August.

BURGLARS AGAIN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OLD LINDSAY

Took Two Ton Safe From C. P. R. Station, Run It to Residential Section and Smashed the Door Off

AND NO ONE INTERFERED

LINDSAY, July 21.—Robbers entered the C.P.R. station here this morning about four o'clock, rolled a 4,000-lb. safe out through a waiting room, across the platform and on to a lorry, pushed the car out the Bobcaygeon track to a spot near the end of St. Peter street, and in a residential section, battered off the heavy iron door and got away with $150 in cash.

Impossible as the circumstances sound they are apparently all too true, and the residents are trying to wonder at how the affair was so boldly carried out without the attention of some one being directed toward the noise which must have resulted.

It was a big two-ton Goldie and McCullough safe, and must have taken some time to get it out of the station. But this morning when the clerk arrived as usual the safe was gone, and unmistakable evidences of its departure were not wanting. As it was pushed through the ticket office door it carried most of the frame with it. Then it was rushed across the ladies' waiting room and out to the lorry.

The section around St. Peter street, where the safe was dumped to one side of the track is regarded as a residential section. And yet the heavy blows of hammers forcible enough to crush the hinges and loosen the door, failed to bestir the neighbourhood. Several holes were found bored in the top of the door, indicating a first intention to blow the safe open.

Sectionman Saw Two Men.

One of the sectionmen states that he saw two men in their shirt sleeves pushing a lorry up the Bobcaygeon track, but he paid no attention to them. Train Master Anderson states that he believes the safe-crackers were still at work about six o'clock and were unnoticed.

Chief Shortt has no clues to work on, but it is thought that this job is the work of the men who pulled a somewhat similar stunt at Campbellford.

Stoney Lakers Dance Three Nights a Week

Dancing has certainly taken a hold on the young people of Stoney Lake. Last night another successful dance was held in the Pavilion at Juniper Island. Mr. Asa Hwyche of this City furnished the music to the satisfaction of everybody. It is the intention of the Cottagers' Association to hold dances on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings of each week throughout the summer.

FIRE IN THE DUMP

The dump at the Incinerator gave the fire brigade a fight of an hour and a half last evening. Mr. Dolsen, of McDonald's Mills, noticing flames spreading rapidly in the grass gave the alarm, and the firemen laying a line of hose, extinguished the flames before any damage resulted.

NEW BY-LAW TO WORK WITH

Power Committee Rejected Former By-laws and Drew Up New One For Council's Use

WILL PROCEED NOW

The Power Committee held a meeting last night when the first steps in a new direction were taken toward carrying through the citizens' Hydro-electric intentions. Ald. Johnston presided with Mayor Butler, Ald. Duncan and Ald. Anderson present.

The expropriation total is expected to be in the neighbourhood of $100,000. This sum is arrived at from the inventory of possessions presented by the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and from the examination of these details of the plant. The City simply expropriates the distributing plant without the Asylum dam, although several of the Aldermen have expressed the wish that the Council could have seen its way clear to taking this generating plant.

At last night's meeting the Committee repealed the former by-laws, and passed a new one, by which the City will utilize its right to expropriate the Company's distributing plant. The following motion was passed:

Moved by Mayor Butler and seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the Committee recommend that the former by-laws, expropriating the property of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., and appointing an arbitrator in the matter, be repealed, and a new by-law, as prepared by the City Solicitor, be passed to expropriate the property of that Company.

A letter was read from Henry Hope & Sons, saying that before they could get the power turned on at their factory they had to pay for the transformers and that would expect to be reimbursed the amount they paid for them.—Carried.

LESSONS NEEDED.

In the East Lambton recount, deputy returning officers neglected to separate the counterfoils from a number of ballots before depositing them in the ballot box. The judge regarded these as spoiled ballots and they were not counted, though, of course, they expressed the preference of the voter who marked them. In effect the voters were disfranchised and the candidate for whom they voted in good faith did not get the benefit of their vote.

It may very easily happen that when deputy returning officers are appointed for party reasons, the supply of persons of the requisite intelligence is limited, and we have blunders committed that disfranchise electors voting in good faith for a candidate, without his deriving any benefit from the votes honestly cast. It would not seem to be a bad thing to have a school for training deputy returning officers in which they would receive the needed lessons. We punish —sometimes—bribery that defeats a candidate, but the blunder of a deputy returning officer, which in effect is as bad as bribery, goes unpunished. The strong minded lady who doesn't have a vote, laughs in her sleeve, at the blunders the "superior sex" make, in the simple matter of handling an election ballot, and very justifiably feels that she wouldn't be so stupid.

THE NAVAL NEED.

We may well rejoice that the Nationalists in exacting from Mr. Borden the abolition of the Laurier idea of a Canadian navy, as the price of their support, did not stipulate for the destruction of the "tin-pot" navy outright, but graciously permitted the "Niobe" and "Rainbow" to live. We need them now to fight the heathen Hindu, who are making trouble in British Columbia. They refuse to be deported, and 200 men, who have been in training on the Niobe at Halifax are to be despatched to Vancouver to man the Rainbow and enforce the deportation of the recalcitrant orientals.

This involves a comparatively trifling matter; but it is an evidence of the need of a Canadian navy on the Pacific coast, either a fleet unit or one or two efficient cruisers, such as would now have been available if Sir Robert Borden had not sold Canada's naval interest to the Nationalists for the price of their support. We may not have a war that will bring Canadian war vessels into use; but we need a navy if for no more than policing our sea coasts. The fishing interests of Canada in the Pacific are every day injured for lack of "adequate protection," which Sir Robert is quite willing to provide for millionaire manufactures, but not for our fishermen, whose contribution to the national assets of production amounts to about twenty-five millions a year.

CITY WATER AND THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

There is a very close relation between city water and the city beautiful. The intimacy of this relation is intensified under the conditions of unprecedented dry weather we have had this summer. The lawns and flowers and even small, and not too deeply rooted, trees, are dependent, and have been so for nearly three months, upon an adequate supply of city water.

There are numerous complaints that during the permissible hours for using city water—form 5 a.m. to 9 a.m. and from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.—the pressure has been vexatiously inefficient. When, on a hot night or morning, every lawn service is in play, the effective pressure is naturally reduced, and men and women are holding gamles that yield a mere dribble, and the effect produced is correspondingly inadequate. It requires the tireless work of holding and directing a hose nozzle the whole of the permitted time to get anything like desirable results. This is the burden of the complaint made by city water users, and they claim that if the pressure were increased twenty or twenty-five pounds, or whatever is feasible, during the lawful hours, the same watering results could be produced in half the time with no greater consumption of water.

Whatever the reasons for the low pressure at the hours of using water, the Water Commissioners might, if they have not done so, consider the situation. They are supposed to know their business and very probably do so; but there is the citizen side to be regarded. No doubt there are reasons for the light pressure. Low water in the river may be one of these. But whatever the reasons, the public would like to know. If there are legitimate reasons for low pressure they would like to know them, and, being reasonable, they would be satisfied if the low pressure complained of at watering hours, were for mechanical reasons or reasons of expediency necessary and inevitable.

Certainly the beauty of our lawns and flowers which are open to the enjoyment of the public at large, and not so much for the pleasure of the individuals that have worked and work hard every lawful hour to keep them in fair condition, is something worth straining a point to attain and maintain.

Conditions would not be so bad if we had an occasional downpour of rain. With all due respect to city water, it is a fact that an hour's rain, is worth to a lawn, half a dozen hours of hand watering. The nitrogen in a state of suspension in the atmosphere, brought down by the rain, acts as a liquid fertiliser, and the effect upon the lawns is magical.

But it seems we are doomed to have no rain, and in default of that, citizens would like to have a little better water pressure during the hours permitted for the use of water. The very time the water is needed—a time of excessive dryness—is the time that the people demand a more adequate supply. We are sure that if this can be given with a due regard to other considerations, the action of the commissioners will not be found wanting.

REINDEER WANTED.

It would be strange if some of Canada's "barren lands" should turn out to be of great value to the country as a source of food supply, and yet this is Dr. Grenfell's view. He estimates that the vast areas of moss-covered wilds of Labrador and Northern Canada will carry from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 reindeer, which will mean a great addition to our food supply. But the 3,000,000 are not yet in sight.—Christian Guardian.

WILL BORDEN TAKE THE PLUNGE?

A cartoon in a politically friendly paper shows Sir Robert Borden standing hesitatingly on the brink of the general election pool waiting to see what happens to Sir Rodmond Roblin, who has just taken a "header" into the water. There is very little reason to doubt the essential accuracy of this picture of the political situation. The fact that Sir Rodmond hit his head on a log at the bottom and is still politically in a semi-unconscious condition is likely to make Sir Robert more doubtful of the wisdom of an immediate plunge than he appeared to be after Sir James Whitney emerged safely two weeks ago.—The Globe.

Empty Bags.

Andrew Carnegie once gave a clergyman a donation for his church and at the same time another gift for a brother clergyman who had fallen into destitution.

"But I doubt if he will take this money, Mr. Carnegie," the clergyman said doubtfully. "He is very proud."

"Oh, he'll take it," said the ironmaster. "Poverty destroys pride. How can an empty bag stand upright?"

Beanyclabber.

New drinks have sometimes a glorious and brief popularity. Lord Stratford, writing to Lord Cottington in 1635, extols "beanyclabber," which he says "is the bravest, freshest drink you ever tasted. Your Spanish don would, on the heats of Madrid, hang his nose and shake his beard an hour over every sup he took of it and take it to be the drink of the gods all the while."

No one, however, seems to know the exact composition of the seductive "beanyclabber," although from an allusion to it by Ben Jonson it would seem to have been a mixture of beer and buttermilk.—London Chronicle.

Willing to Divide.

Cabbie—I should like to lend you that $10, old man, but I know how it would be if I did. It would end our friendship. Stone—Well, old chap, there has been a great deal of friendship between us. I think if you could make it five we might worry along on half as much.—Life.

The Fateful Message.

Hubby—Didn't I telegraph you not to bring your mother with you? Wifey—I could not help it, Frank. She insisted on coming after she'd read your telegram.

Genuine benevolence is not stationary, but peripatetic. It goes about doing good.—Novum.

KEEPING TAB ON THE CROPS

The Way the Agricultural Department Gets Its Information.

The details of the comprehensive system employed by the department of agriculture in gathering the crop information from all over the country are interesting. There are 20,000 township correspondents scattered all over the Union, whose duty it is to go carefully over the territory and submit each month concrete information as to the condition of all kinds of crops. In addition to this branch, 2,000 "county correspondents" send in separate reports from those of the township men. A state agent makes a further report direct from his agents, and an organization in direct communication with the department, comprising seventeen traveling "field agents," go about the country and make separate reports for groups of states. Special cotton correspondents are also employed to furnish accurate information concerning the cotton yield. Five different reports are sent to Washington each month by five differeng sets of correspondents. This safeguards the government crop reports for accuracy in local crop reports and keeps the great crop account and cost estimates for the millions of American farmers. These records are sent to the agricultural department. Officials of the bureau of statistics and a board go over all the five reports from five distinct groups of correspondents, and from all the figures a crop report estimate is distributed to 70,000 postoffices throughout the country every month.—National Magazine.

The Electric Fan.

Back in the early eighties Dr. S. S. Wheeler, an electrical engineer of New York, was experimenting with a small electric motor. In the course of his experiments the doctor conceived the idea that steamboats might be run with electricity if the propellers could be directly connected to high speed electric motors, doing away with all the gears then in use in steam propulsion. With this idea in mind he had a small screw propeller constructed and fastened it to the armature shaft of his small motor. To his surprise the experiment resulted in a fine breeze of cooling air which more than delighted the experimenter, for the day was decidedly hot. It is needless to add that the experiments with screw propellers ended right there, and the engineer took up the study of the electric fan, with the result that he soon perfected the device until it was a commercial success.

REGIMENTS ARE ALLIED WITH OLD COUNTRY CORPS

OTTAWA, July 18.—Alliances between Canadian and British regiments instituted after the Boer War, are receiving every encouragement from the department of militia. They are proving an efficacious means of fostering imperial sentiment, promoting mutual good will and encouraging efficiency.

Some seventeen Canadian corps are now allied with British regiments. The first alliance was effected between the 5th Royal Scots of Montreal and the British Black Watch Regiment, and the idea has been quite extensively propagated. The origin of it was due to so many British reservists, or those who had served in British regiments in South Africa, coming to Canada and joining Canadian corps. They encouraged the idea of allying the Canadian regiments with regiments in the Mother Country.

At the present time papers are going through looking to an addition of three or four more regiments to the already substantial list of corps so allied.

The regiments co-operating are as follows: 5th Royal Highlanders, Montreal, with the Black Watch; 6th Regiment, Vancouver, with the Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade; 13th Regiment of Hamilton, with Princess Albert's Somerset Light Infantry; 10th Regiment, St. Catharines, with the Lincolnshire Regiment; 48th Highlanders of Toronto, with the Gordon Highlanders; 57th Regiment, Peterborough, with the Middlesex Regiment, the "Die Hards"; Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, with the East Kent Regiment, "The Buffs"; 63rd Regiment, Halifax, with the King's Royal Rifles, originally the Royal Americans of Boston; 72nd Regiment of Vancouver, and 78th Regiment of Pictou, with the Seaforth Highlanders; 77th Regiment of Dundas with the Middlesex Regiment; 79th Regiment of Winnipeg with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders; 91st Regiment, Hamilton, with the Argyle and Sutherland Regiment; 10th Royal Grenadiers with the Leinster Regiment, the old 100th; 101st Fusiliers of Edmonton and the 104th Regiment of New Westminster, with the Royal Munster Regiment, and the 8th Hussar of Calgary with King Edward's Horse.

FACED FOUR LIONS.

Coolness and Daring of a Plucky Kaffir Herdboy.

Four lions attacked a herd of cattle on a farm at Romsey, South Africa, says the Rhodesia Herald. The herdboy was standing on an ant heap examining a pair of boots he had got the day previous, when he heard a low growl near him. On looking up he saw that three lions had got hold of three cows, while another lion stood looking on.

The boy pulled off his boots and threw them at the nearest lion, and then made a rush for them with a stick, shouting at the same time at the top of his voice to another herdboy to bring a gun.

In the meantime two lions had got their cows down, but, nothing daunted, the Kaffir made a rush for them, and the lions moved away from their prey. The boy then rounded up his cattle (he had 106 head), and while he was doing so had to chase the lions away several times. When he was at one side the lions would try to catch the cattle on the other. However, he brought all his cattle safely home, though one of the cows afterward died, the claw of a lion having penetrated her lung.

For cool daring it would be hard to beat the chasing of four lions single handed and with no weapons except a pair of boots and a stick.

She is So Sensitive.

"I wish some persons weren't so all fired sensitive and ready to see an insult when none is intended," remarked the man with the troubled look, looking for sympathy. "Now, last night I got myself into an awkward fix just trying to be agreeable and to please everybody. I went to see a young lady I think a great deal of—yes, I do think a great deal of her, but I wish she would be more sensible. Girl friend of hers was there, and it was her first visit since she'd sent a crazy looking, good for nothing decorated cup and saucer with scalloped edges as a birthday gift.

"'When I was out shopping,' the girl friend explained, 'and saw that cup and saucer I just thought of you, Marguerite.'

"'How? Hand painted, isn't it?'

"Now, the recipient's complexion is natural, as any one can see, and there was no reason for her to be so chilly toward me the rest of the evening. Hang such sensitiveness!"—New York Telegram.

LEARNING HOW TO UNLEARN.

Modern Scientists Harking Back to Thales of Miletus.

When we were young and knew without doubt that the molecule was composed of two or three ultimate parts called atoms, we listened complacently to the statement that "science progresses in a straight line, philosophy around in a circle, or at best along a helical spiral." Now that we are older and believe that the simplest atom has nearly 1,900 parts, we find that perhaps the helix is expressive of science as well, observes the editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal.

We believe, with the alchemists, that the so called elements are fundamentally the same. Whether we will trans mute one to another remains to be seen: we follow the alchemists in attempting it.

Were one of the Greek philosophers, Thales of Miletus, for instance, to stroll into a modern assembly of physicists and chemists, the language would be more troublesome than the ideas He would hear the physical chemist remarking cheerfully that there is no matter, for that which we call matter is only energy, and Thales would remark, "Plagiarist." The disciples of relativity, the ultra modern physicists, would tell him that space and time are one, and Thales would sigh to think of his boyish debates.

John Locke.

John Locke, whose "Essay on the Human Understanding" was the first work that attracted attention in England to metaphysical speculation, was born at Wrington, England, Aug. 29, 1632, and died at Oates, England, Oct. 28, 1704. The chief purpose of the essay was to find the original source and scope of human knowledge. The conclusions he arrived at in this study were that there is no such thing as "innate idea; that the human mind is as a sheet of white paper prepared to be written upon; that the knowledge thereon written is supplied by experience and that sensation and reflection are the two sources of all our ideas." He made the first sketch when he was thirty-eight years of age and finished it seventeen years later. The book was bitterly attacked.

Transit of Venus.

The transits of Venus came in pairs, with an interval of eight years between them. A pair occurred in 1761 and 1769 and again in 1874 and 1882. The whole of the twentieth century will pass without another transit. Not until the years 2004 and 2012 will posterity have the opportunity of witnessing it. It was long supposed that transits of Venus over the sun's disk afforded the only accurate method of determining the distance of the sun, but latterly the speed of light has become the more favored method for that purpose.—New York American.

Health and Beauty Aids

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Myrtle H.: Perhaps it is the face powder you use which is causing your complexion trouble. Many cosmetics do this by clogging the pores and preventing natural circulation. Don't worry. Your skin will probably respond at once to this simple treatment, which is also a beautifier. Dissolve 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint of water; add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, let stand until cold, and keep tightly corked. It is a delightful and most effective lotion, which answers a double purpose of preserving the youthful texture of skin and whitening it, too. In summer I use no other powder, as it relieves the shine and stays on the skin longer than ordinary face powder.

Mary M.: That "stubborn" hair and unhealthy scalp are probably due to improper washing. You should never use soap on your hair. The alkali makes it dry and brittle. Hair that is faded and streaked is usually the result of shampoos. The ideal shampoo is the simple and ever-reliable preparation made by stirring one teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hmot water. It cuts away all the dead matter, removing all dandruff and leaving the hair soft, fluffy, and lustrous. If your hair is thin, get some quinsoin from your druggist. It makes a splendid tonic.

Nellie B.: For your wrinkles there is no better remedy than this simple home made one. It will support and strengthen the muscles of the face and cleanse, heal, stimulate, and smooth the skin. Obtain from the druggist an ounce of almonia dissolve in ½ pint of cold water and add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir briskly, and let stand overnight. Rub the preparation into the skin night and morning. It is a splendid preventative of blackheads and rough "muddy" spots. Be careful to use a good powder, for which see answer to Myrtle H., and keep the blood and system clean (see answer to Cora K.).

Cora K.: With spring fever comes complexion troubles. You may purify your blood before you can help the skin's complexion troubles. You must purify your system with a good blood tonic to remove the cause of that sallowness. I highly recommend the following reliable home-made preparation: Get 1-2 pint of alcohol and 1 ounce kardene. Dissolve kardene in the alcohol, put in ½ cup sugar, and add enough water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful of this before each meal. It will aid your digestion, make the liver active, and clear your blood of the poisons that are spoiling your complexion.

Mary S.: When the ends of your hair are split there is usually trouble with the scalp. Here is a fine recipe for a home-made hair tonic: Get an ounce of quinsoin, dissolve in 1-2 pint alcohol and add 1-2 pint water. This restores scalp health and prevents dandruff. It is an antiseptic and stimulates the vitality of the roots. If your hair is losing its fresh colour, you should restore it at once with this treatment. The effect should be all you need to bring back the natural shade and a luxuriant, glossy growth. I recommend, also, frequent shampoos. For these you should use only canthrox. Ask your druggist for these items.

Olive: You are right in taking steps to reduce your weight. There is a remedy for excess flesh, easily prepared at home, which I am glad to suggest to anybody who sees her figure and good looks threatened by fat. Dissolve 4 ounces of marmelis in 1 1-2 pint water and take two tablespoonfuls three times daily. This treatment does not call for starvation or martyrdom of any kind. It simply checks a tendency to obesity. Its action is healthy and there is no shrinkage of tissue of the skin.

Molly: It is not likely that you need glasses. You may be nervous and your eyes feel the effects. By the use of a cheap, home-made tonic you can easily get back that brightness which you say "he" used to rave about. It means only a trip to the drug store for an ounce of eyetone. Dissolve it in a pint of soft water and drop two drops of the solution in each eye. If the lids are red use it two or three times daily. To make weak eyes strong and beautiful, put a little of the solution on dabs of cotton and lay them over the eyes and lie down for a few minutes.

Clarissa: Yes, there are many so-called "thin-reducers" made, but I cannot recommend any special one. For flesh-reduction see reply to Olive.

SOME CHOICE RECIPES.

Veal Loaf.

Veal loaf is a good hot weather dish. Use three pounds of raw veal chopped very fine, butter the size of an egg, three eggs, three tablespoonfuls of cream, or milk, with a small piece of butter. Mix the eggs and cream together. Mix with the veal four pounded crackers, one teaspoonful of black pepper, one large tablespoonful salt, one of sage; mix well together and form into a loaf. Bake two and one-half hours, basting with butter and water while baking. Serve cut in thin slices.

Frozen Pineapple Custard.

Separate three eggs and beat the yolk with a small cupful of sugar, and stir into a pint of milk. Heat to nearly boiling point, stirring all the time. Then let it get cold, and add a cupful of sweet cream and the whites of the eggs beaten up stiff and whip. Turn into a freezer and turn until almost solid; then stir in a small pineapple which has been chopped and allowed to stand for three hours, mixed with a cupful of sugar. This is a delicious and not expensive dessert for a hot day.

ROTATION OF CROPS THE BEST WEAPON AGAINST ARMY WORM

Study of the Pest That Is Being Fought by Ontario Farmers With Zest Just Now.

"Ontario has had outbreaks in the past," said C. W. Nash, the entomologist and naturalist, when asked if the latest army worm invasion of Western Ontario had been unprecedented. "All of them have been local, but some have been very serious. Rotation of crops is really the most effective safeguard, as the army worm is hatched in the grassy lands.

"The moth deposits its eggs in the autumn, and the worm is hatched in the spring. Before the worm is fully developed the food supply is exhausted, and the pest must seek pastures new. Then comes the march in which millions join.

"When the worms migrate in vast numbers few cereal plants escape. In fact about the only thing that enjoys immunity is the potato or the pumpkin, although I am not absolutely, certain even of these two exceptions. When fully developed the worm enters the pupa stage and the season's damage is done. In less than a month the moth emerges and deposits its eggs for the next year's campaign.

Word Picture of Pest.

"The worm, when fully developed, is 1 1-2 inches long. It's a striped caterpillar, marked with black, yellow, and green. The moth is a dull brown, but can be recognized quite easily by a distinguishing white spot on each forewing; hence the specific name, unipuncta.

"One reason for the frequent recurrence of the pest is that farmers are allowing too much of their land to lie in grass for a long period.

"No, the worm is not peculiar to the United States. It is American in the larger sense and, therefore, is just as much Canadian as American.

"As to the remedies, the army worm can be kept in check without much difficulty if discovered in its early stages in its grassy haunts. Spraying with any of the arsenites will serve the purpose. When matured, the worm may be affected somewhat by the arsenites, but the applications are not so readily made.

"When the worms are on the march they may be checked by plowing a trench around the infested district, turning the furrow toward the worms. At the bottom of this trench holes should be dug 6 or 8 inches deep and at intervals of 10 or 15 feet. The sides of both trench and holes must be kept perpendicular, so that the worms can't climb out. In their efforts to escape from the trench, the caterpillars will fall into these holes and may readily be destroyed if straw or some other inflammable material is thrown upon them and ignited.

Birds and Flies.

"The worm's best or worst enemy is found in the birds. It's the old story, as I have pointed out time and again. Our insectivorous birds must be protected. Apart from the birds, there are flies that lay their eggs in the bodies of the caterpillars. When hatched, the larvae of the flies feed on the soft tissue of the worm. These flies are numerous this year, but the effect of their work will not be noticed until next year. In fact, the army worm seldom breaks out in consecutive years in the same locality. Of the flies that help the farmer most against the army worm, the Techina flies are the most valuable.

Grave reports of the ravages of the army worm (leusania unipuncta) are reported from the Western part of the Province. The Counties of Oxford, Brant, Waterloo, and Wellington are affected. The Ontario Government's officers of the Agricultural Department are co-operating with the farmers to check the spread of the different so-called "armies" before they sweep across the intervening areas now dividing them, and mobilize into one resistless horde capable of over-running the whole Province.

Men Are Out.

"We have our men out," said Mr. Chancellor Boylan, secretary of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "In Brant our local officer, Mr. Roy Schuyler, is leading in the work. The method is to ditch across the line of march. The caterpillars—for that is what the army worm is, a kind of caterpillar—fall down into the ditch and cannot crawl up again. Post-holes are bored in the bottom of these ditches at intervals and partly filled with coal oil. The army worms, crawling along the bottom of the ditches seeking a way out, fall into these post-holes, and perish in the kerosene."

Waging the Fight.

For nearly two weeks this fight has been raging. For some reason the natural enemies which hold the army worm in check this year have weakened and failed. For it is a fact that the army worm is present more or less numerously every year. Held in check by their enemies, they usually do not mobilize in rmies, but stay in certain fields. When they become numerous enough to "feel in touch," however, they start "marching," and travel across the country in ever increasing numbers, eating up the crops in their path.

"The army worm is to be seen in the Province every summer" said Mr. Boylan. "I can show you some in Toronto right now; in fact, I picked some off my own rose bushes this morning."

Common in States.

The army worm is common in the United States as far west as the Rocky Mountains. The larvae of the moth, from which the army worm is derived, is about one and a half inches long. It is striped black and yellow. The mature army worm or caterpillar is of a dull brown colour, marked in the centre by four rings, and a distinct white spot. It usually breaks out in meadows and pastures. Paris green is sometimes employed to kill them off, ditching being resorted to when the danger becomes more serious. Th Government officers are at present trying to "ring in" the districts of Ontario where the armies have started marching.

From London, Ontario, this morning comes word that the worms are moving eastward rapidly, and that while billions of the worms have been killed or burned in the kerosine ditches, new multitudes are being discovered in scattered areas. Agricultural experts are being applied for at the Guelph headquarters to lead in the work of saving Middlesex County's crops.

Seedsmen of the Provinces are vitally interested in the operations of th army worm.

"We are sending two men each in an automobile into the districts affected," said Mr. Tom Rennie of the Wm. Rennie Company. "They will report to us about the end of the week."

Moving East.

Berlin, Ont., July 20.—The march of the army worm continues north and east. From the London and Brantford districts it has reached Berlin and Guelph. It has appeared in large numbers on farms between Waterloo and Bridgenorth. Farmers were digging trenches to stop the march of the pest. The worms were noticed by farmers and gardeners last Wednesday, but were considered to be the ordinary caterpillar.

Fields of oats on the Seagram farm and entire gardens were ruined. In some cases the worms have got across the trenches and are working their way toward Bridgeport.

J. S. Knapp, district representative of the Department of Agriculture at Galt, will take charge of operations. A hole was found on one farm where worms by the million were discovered.

Strange to say, the only place near Guelph where the pest has been found is in a field of corn at the Ontario Agricultuarl College. The college authorities are not apprehensive. Mr. Douglas, farm superintendent, said he thought the worms would not do any serious damage. They cover quite an area, travelling in two sections, the most important body covering about ten acres. Men were at work plowing a deep furrow in the path of the invaders, so arranged that when the worms get into the ridge they cannot very well get out. They will then be destroyed by poison and fire.

Near Brampton.

The worm appeared near Brampton on Sunday ,at Grahamsville on the farm belonging to Charles Gardhouse. They are gaining headway on neighbouring farms, notwithstanding the efforts of the local agricultural representatives to get rid of them. Mr. Gardhouse has cut thirty-five acres of oats, which will be useless for grain and the root and corn crop is being attacked. Mr. F. C. Paterson, of the local branch of the Department of Agriculture, says that they will likely have to cut a lot of grain if they expect to get rid of the army worm.

A trip made by J. S. Knapp, to the farm of James Currie, off Sprague's road, near Galt, revealed thousands of worms in a field of barley. Inspection of adjoining land indicates they are at present confined to one field and around this a furrow will be plowed. In the north part of the county the worm has been discovered on three farms on Brealau Road.

LEFT THIS MORNING FOR ST. ANNE'S

A party numbering nearly a hundred left Peterborough via C.P.R. this morning on the annual pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre. Enquiries revealed the fact that in the George street office forty-eight had purchased tickets, and at the station forty-nine. Among the number were Mr. Alex Gordon, Miss Galvin and Mr. McCarthy.

BIG EMIGRATION DROP.

Figures for First Six Months of Year Show Decrease.

LONDON, July 20.—The main feature of the emigration return just issued is a remarkable drop in the Canadian figures during June and the first six months of the year.

The figure in June last year was 38,203; last month it dropped to 7,-859. During the first six months of this year the number of emigrants totalled 53,100, against 133,496 in the corresponding period in 1913.

HINDUS ARMED WITH KNIVES NOW BARRICADE SHIP

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., July 21. — The Government ship Rainbow arrived in Vancouver this morning and immediately anchored near the ship containing the troublesome Hindus. The Rainbow was prepared to overawe the Hindus, but had taken no action. The working out of the details of a second attack has been left to Admiral Kingsmill.

Premier Borden and Minister of Justice Doherty are giving practically all their attention to developments, and are constantly in touch with Vancouver and London. The Hindus have practically no arms, but many are known to have knives and they are now barricading the boat, and it is feared their determined opposition might lead to serious consequences.

JUST ONE VERSE.

Tracers.

O what has become of the old-fashioned boy,
Who didn't talk back to his pa?
And what has become of the girl—such a joy—
Who didn't know lots more than ma?
They have wandered away; they have gone, hand in hand,
With those others who mounted the skids,
Those old-fashioned parents who used to demand
A little respect from their kids.

And where can that old-fashioned fellow be found
Who gave up his seat in the car?
Who, pausing to chat with a woman, felt bound
To at once toss away his cigar?
He has gone, hand in hand, with the old-fashioned maid
Who used to say "Thanks" for the seat;
Who thought cigarettes, for men even, a shade
Indecent, not merely effete.

O what has become of the man who would treat
All women as if they had wings?
Who'd not take a girl to hear actors repeat
The very improperest things??
He has gone, hand in hand, with the maiden who sang
Such songs as went well with a lute;
Who'd think songs suggestive and teeming with slang
Just vulgar, not catchy and cute.

This jolly world moves in a lot of new grooves
And brightly dawn many new days;
It's a good world, you bet, growing better—and yet
There was sense in some old-fashioned ways.
Now if you had command of the whole blessed land
Where would you start to put on the lids?
Can you think of a better beginner, off-hand,
Than inspiring respect in the kids

SOME HOT WEATHER PROMISED FOR FIRST PART OF AUGUST

Rev. Ivi Hicks' Weather Predictions For Next Month—What is Promised for Last Summer Month.

THE STORM PERIODS

A reactionary storm period is central on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd, with the Mercury disturbance still in full force. Thick and prolonged cloudiness, attended with drizzling rains over much of the country, will be natural results at this time. The moon being at its extre declination south on the 2nd, winds will blow from northerly directions, bringing a possible respite, for two or three days, from very warm weather. By the close of this Mercury period, we may indulge the hope that refreshing rains will have reached kide areas of the country, giving, at least, a partial mid-summer boost to maturing crops, especially in central to northwestern sections. Northern, to extreme eastern and northeastern extremes will probably share most abundantly in the precipitation at this time.

A regular storm period is at its centre on the 7th, covering the 5th to the 10th. The full moon on the 5th will increase the tendency to falling barometer and general storm conditions at the beginning of this period, possibly causing the preceding disturbances to hold over and blend with this period. Frim about the 7th, to the 10th—notably on the 8th and 9th—look for marked barometric depressions, threatening August clouds, with violent thunder gusts. It is a fact worth repeating—a fact that every observer may and should prove for himself—that the passage of the moon over the celestial equator, especially at or near full or new moon, is almost invariably attended by a decided increase of temperature ending in storms of lightning, thunder and wind. See if such results do not show themselves very generally on and touching the 9th. These disturbances will be followed from about the 9th to 13th—first in the west, then in central, then in eastern parts of the country—by rising barometer, west winds and much cooler. This, let us repeat for the thousandth time, gives us three phases of weather, existing at the same time during he central culmination of the storm periods, namely, warm, with falling barometer east of actual storm areas; actual storm areas in central regions; rising barometer, winds, shifting to the west, attended by clearing, cooler weather west of storm areas. All of these phases, it is clear to all, except the wiseacres, cannot exist in the same locality at the same time; but all localities will be visited by all of them, in the due order of their march from west to east across the forecasts, aided by a good barometer and hygrometer, can tell within a few hours when any and all of these changes are going to reach his locality, and whether they are going to be normal or severe. Put this away in your memory box, and prove the truth and practical worth of it to your own satisfaction and good.

A reactionary storm period is central on 12th, 13th and 14th. The moon is in apogee, or farthest from the earth on the 12th, and at last quarter on the 13th. It is also entering that quarter of the zodiac which is verging on the eclipse node. These turning points, when directions, distances and angles, are culminating, are more concerned in the phenomena of storms and weather and earthquakes, than is "dream't of in"—some people's philosophy. Low barometer and storms of more or less intensity will touch most parts of the country, as the disturbances of this period pass from west to east, on and touching the 12th, 13th and 14th. Some cooling winds from the west, with refreshing ozone down out of the ether, will follow these disturbances for three to four days. The opposition of the planet Jupiter on August the 10th, will play an important part in the storm and weather and earthquake role, during all the central parts of this month. Abnormal heat and scarcity of rain fall are among the things indicated.

A regular storm period extends from the 17th to the 23rd, having its centre on the 19th. By this time the earth's autumnal equinox will be a growing factor in all terrestrial disturbances. The moon will be new, at a solar eclipse node, on the 21st, and in perigee on the equator on the 23rd. We will name the 21st, 22nd and 23rd, and dates next to them, as a time of probable danger. The barometer will indicate the nature of approaching disturbances, hours, if not days before the storms appear. Western extremes will have falling barometer, growing warmth and menacing cloudiness as early as the 18th and 19th; but storms will organize and break into violence in their eastward progress, on and touching the days named above. We warn gulf and south Atlantic coast regions of probable danger of West India cyclones and hurricanes at this and other August periods following.

A reactionary storm period will follow close on the heels of the preceding period, extending from about the 24th, to 27th, and this, in turn, will be followed by the approach of a regular storm period during the closing days of August. Watch developments on and about storm days indicated in the storm diagram.

A seismic period extends three to four days before and after August the 5th. The most marked seismic volcanic and tidal wave crisis of the summer will be central on the 21st, reaching three to four days before and after that day. It will not require a seismograph to locate some of the disturbances of this period. Mark this forecast, ye wise ones, and don't mention it when it is verified. On the 21st the moon will not only be in conjunction with earth and sun, but it will be at a total solar eclipse node,—calling for a maximum strain of magnetic and electrical forces in the earth and its atmosphere. The totality of this eclipse will fall in the south Atlantic and Indian ocean regions, but antipodal quakes, storms, eruptions and tidal waves will result.

On page 50 of our 1914 Almanac, written May 19th, 1913, find these words: "In every probability very active volcanic eruptions will attend the seismic, and other peculiar phenomena during these June periods. Keep tab on reports—see if big volcanoes do not turn over and growl." This forecast has been fully verified in all parts of the earth. Volcanoes have shown constant unrest since early in June, in Japan, Europe, in the southern seas and islands, and right here in our country. Mount Lassen, California, a supposedly extinct volcano for many generations, has been in violent eruption, and so continues, at this writing, June 23rd. We could fill all our space with such reports as the following:

Batavia, June 5th.—A violent volcanic eruption occurred to-day on the Dutch Island of Sanguir, 140 miles direct south of Mindanao, in the Philippines. Several volvanoes were included in the disturbance. Streams of boiling lava poured down the sides of the mountains, overwhelming forests and cocoa plantations. At the same time a rain of stones and ashes from various craters fell over the whole island. Official reports register the destruction of 100 houses.

Rev. I. H. Humphrey, our esteemed correspondent and observer at Kyoto, Japan, reports an earthquake on that Island on the 23rd of May, within one day of the centre of a seismic period. At the period, on May 26th, violent quakes were reported from Asaka, Japan. Coming into June, earthquakes have been reported from Mexico, California, and many other parts of the Earth, too numerous to particularize.

Meantime, the meteorologic record has been, and continues to this writing—June 23rd—phenomenal in many ways. Storms, cloudbursts and floods, attended by surprising and unseasonable cold have prevailed in many parts of our own and other countries; while conditions of unprecedent heat and drouth have affected intervening extremes. The characteristics of the Venus disturbance—such a period covering all of June—have been present to an astonishing degree. "The electric fire of Venus has certainly turned quickly to ice," in the midst of all the startling and strange phenomena. Here is a sample, taken from the Globe-Democrat of to-day, June 23rd:

Muncie, Ind., June 22nd.—With the temperature at 100 degrees this afternoon, snow fell in Muncie for more than a half hour, mingled with a heavy rain. The flakes melted before they reached the ground, but the air about the higher stories of office buildings much of the time was white with snow. Hundreds gazed upon the curious phenomena and caught fleeting flakes as they scurried through open windows.

Fairbanks, Alaska, June 23rd.—An earthquake which lasted 80 seconds, accompanied by a rumbling like thunder, occurred yesterday.

This was at the centre of the second June earthquake period.

St. Louis, June 26, 1914.

Normal Entrance Papers Plucked Too Many of Students

The following letter by M. A. James of Bowmanville in yesterday's Globe, deserves more than a passing reference. Readers can decide for themselves whether the responsibility remains with the officials appointed to lay out the papers or not:

To the Editor of The Globe: Supplementary examinations should be held again this year in September to permit the hosts of candidates over the Province who failed in lower school examinations for entrance to Normal schools and faculty of education. The average of successful candidates was very small, for some reason not yet made public. Reports have reached us that at Cobourg only two out of nineteen have ben successful; at Lindsay only twenty-nine out of sixty; at Peterborough, twelve out of twenty-eight; at Bowmanville, five out of fourteen; at Stirling, nineteen out of thirty-two; at Brighton three out of seven, while some Toronto schoos are reported to b lower still. It is said that Herbord Collegiate Institute, Toronto, only passed four out of forty, and Humberside Collegiate only one out of thirteen.

If these reports are correct the Department of Education should surely hold supplmentary examinations, because there were some unusual circumstances that would cause the plucking of such a large percentage of candidates.

M. A. James.

BUSINESS HAS CHANGED HANDS

The tobacco store and barber shop at 399 George Street, hitherto conducted by Mr. Jas. Collins, has been taken over by Messrs. E. Wellwood and P. Sproat, who will run the business from now on under the name of Wellwood and Sproat. The business will continue exactly as before the change and Mr. Gates' shoe-shine department will remain with the new firm.

E. W. COX ESTATE $1,500,000.

Head of Canada Life, 'Tis Said, Did Not Possess Such a Large Fortune as was Attributed.

The estate of the late Edward W. Cox, President and General Manager of the Canada Life Insurance Co., whose death occurred in England some ten days ago, has not yet been filed for probate in the Surrogate Court, the will being in possession of the National Trust Company, which is acting as administrator.

It is stated upon good authority that the estate totals some $1,500,000 and not the very much larger sum credited to the deceased. The papers are due to reach Succession Duty office next week. Mr. Cox's fortune was currently estimated at ten millions.

SIGNIFICANCE OF RECENT MANITOBA ELECTION RESULTS

The results of the recent Provincial election in Manitoba is full of significance for all Canada. It is more than a crushing blow for the Roblin Government. It tells plainly and emphatically of Manitoba's hostility to the Borden Cabinet and of Manitobas' condemnation of the extravagance, inefficiency and unsound policies of that Cabinet. It forecasts plainly the rejection of Borden candidates by the electors of the Province whenever the Ottawa Government musters up courage to appeal to the people.

Briefly put the result of the election has been that the Liberals polled a large majority of the votes cast though the arrangement of the constituencies is such that present figures indicate that the Roblin Government may be several seats to the good in the next Legislature. The Liberals polled this popular majority in a contest in which they had to fight against the organised forces of two Governments. The full power of the Borden Government was united with the strength of the Roblin Cabinet against the Liberals. Hon. Robert Rogers took active charge of the campaign fund was provided. The den. Two other Borden Ministers were continuously in the Province for some time before polling day. A huge capaign fund was provided. The electors of the Province were deluged with campaign literature sent out from the Conservative press bureau at Ottawa professing to tell of great things done for Western Canada by the Borden Government. Yet, with the record and policies of the Ottawa Ministry put before the people as issues in the campaign, the Liberals were given a popular majority of thousands of votes.

The people of Manitoba were sick of the machine tactics of Mr. Rogers and Sir Rodmond Roblin, but the condemnation of the Rogers-Roblin methods is of less significance to the people of Canada generally than the fact that Manitoba, staunchly and strongly Conservative for years, has condemned the record and policies of the Borden Government. The Borden-White policy of tariff revision upwards, the refusal of the Government to grant the reasonable demand of the farmers for the abolition of the duties on wheat and flour and agricultural implements, the continued readiness of the Premier and his colleagues to hear and obey the whispers of the special interests, the attempt of the Government to fasten upon Canada the policy of tribute and centralization in navy affairs, the militaristic folly and waste of the Ministry, the hard times which have come with Borden rule — all these have been passed upon by the people of Manitoba and the Government has been condemned.

Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba have condemned the policies and actions of the Borden Government. It is useless to attempt to blink the fact or explain it away. Federal questions, as well as Provincial issues, have been thrust forward in the elections in each of these Provinces in the past two years. Each time those who upheld the Borden side have lost. In other Provinces, there are many signs of antagonism to the Ottawa Government, signs which are multiplying as the existing depression continues and the cost of living soars upward while the Premier and his colleagues have no thought save for the giant railway corporations to which they give millions and for the other special interests which placed them in power.

Manitoba has emphasized the Liberal flow of the tide. It has marked the growing strength of the hostility to the Borden Ministry. It has given one more indication of the certainty of Borden defeat when the time of reckoning comes. These are the facts which make the Manitoba result so full of significance to all Canada.

THREATENS TO SUE COLONEL HUGHES.

LONDON, Ont., July 20.—One of the officers of the Sixth Field Battery stated today that it has been practically decided to go ahead with an action for damages against Hon. Col. Hughes on the strength of a newspaper report that the Minister of Militia had referred to the battery as a "bunch of boosers."

PREPARING FOR CELEBRATION ON LABOUR DAY

The following were appointed to the Sports committee, with power to add to their numbers: Messrs. Robertson, Gainey, Browne, Sharp, Abearn, Cotton, Duggan, Miller and Carroll.

The various sub-committees were appointed ,and this year's celebration promises to be the best ever.

It was decided that the General committee meet every Monday evening until Labour Day.

TO WITHHOLD ASSENT?

King May Refuse to Sign Home Rule Bill, Says Daily News.

LONDON, July 21. — (C. A. P. Cable.)—"The King intends to withhold his assent to the Home Rule bill unless the amending bill is presented along with it," says A. P. Nicholson in The Daily News to-day. He says that it may seem incredible to Liberals that the King should refuse to sign the Home Rule Bill despite the advice of his Ministry, but the explanation appears ly i. this:

The view, expressed in court circles, is first, that the Government has violated the Parliament act procedure in the third session by the introduction of the amending bill to a bill designed to pass unchanged under the Parliament Act, secondly, that since the Parliament Act procedure has not, as it is sugrested, been complied with, the King is not bound by the provisions of the Parliament Act in the case of the Home Rule Bill.

Regarded from a constitutional point of view this is a very serious situation, since it would bring the King into direct conflict with the democracy. A feeling of dislike to the conference was expressed very strongly by many Liberal back-benchers last night. Unionists, too, of different shades of opinion, pronounced unfavorably upon it.

There are, however, many Unionist members who do not take a hostile view of the conference because they hope it will lead to a settlement although they do not see how the leaders who will enter the conference room with their hands tied can arrive at a settlement.

It has been proved by actual experiment that small rodents of arid regions which eat dry seeds, can live from two to three years without water.

WILL OPERATE ELEVATORS

Control of Grain Growers' Lease Probable for Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, July 21.—As a result of negotiations which have been proceeding between the Manitoba Government and the Grain Growers' Company, there is every probability that the company will continue to operate under lease the Manitoba elevators belonging to the Government. The present contract expires on Aug. 31, and it is understood that the Grain Growers' Company is willing to renew the franchise under certain conditions. An offer has been made to the Government, and the matter will now remain in abeyance until an answer is given by the Provincial Government. This answer is expected to be transmitted to the Grain Growers' Company within the next few days and an arrangement arrived at.

Proposal To Celebrate Opening Of Canal To Lake In City's Interest

The celebration of the opening of the Trent Canal from Peterborough to Lake Ontario, as suggested by Mr. J. H. Burnham, promises an opportunity in this city of linking the city's name indelibly with the canal. The local member stated that it was expected that this last section would be completed by August 1, but the Chief Engineer recently stated that the date of opening would be somewhat later. Everything will be ready for a celebration before navigation closes, and Peterborough's long dreams of becoming a lake port will be realized. This is the feature which Mr. Burnham suggests should be fittingly celebrated, and next year when the entire canal is completed the city will have another opportunity of linking its name with the Trent waterway. The committee appointed to take this matter up is composed of Mayor Butler, Alderman Johnston and Alderman Saunders. They will likely confer with Mr. Burnham in working out a programme to be submitted to the Council.

Steamer Esturion On The Bottom

The Boat at Its Dock in East City, Settles in the Water

The steamer Esturion, the property of a local syndicate, which plied the waters of this vicinity last year, took upon itself the idea of resting on a more solid foundation and from some unascertainable cause settled itself at its moorings near the East City wharf. The water where the boat went down is not very deep. It has not been in commission this year. The Esturion is one of the best boats in the Trent waters, but has had a varied career this last two or three years.

LICENSE INSPECTOR'S RAID AT KINMOUNT

Examiner Special:

KINMOUNT, July 21.—License Inspector Ayerst made a clean-up in Kinmount recently, collecting fines to the extent of $200 for breaches of the Liquor License Act. One woman hotel keeper was included in those who were charged with breaking the law.

PETERBORO MEN ARE STOCKHOLDERS IN GAMEY'S MINE

There are a number of Peterborough hotel keepers' names in the list of the subscribers of the stock of the Elizabeth Gold Mines, Ltd., of which R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., is President, and at which the Globe is endeavouring to direct the attention of the Conservative purists Sir James Whitney in particular. There are 585 shareholders in the Elizabeth mines and of these 144 no less than twenty-five per cent. are described as men identified with liquor selling. It is thought that there are many others in the list not so described, but none the less connected with the business. The Globe infers that Mr. Gamey used his influence tacitly or otherwise with iquor license holders to sell them stock. No word has been said about the investment which may prove a good one, but the apparent method of the member from Manitoulin in this case and as also with the fishermen of the district stirs the Globe to demand from Sir James what he intends to do with a member who, it claims, is under a cloud of suspicion. Here is the Peterborough list:

D. Corkery, Commercial Hotel, Cobourg, now at the King George, Peterborough, 200 shares.

Patrick Horan, Albion Hotel, 200 shares.

A. T. Johnston, Windsor Hotel, 200 shares.

J. B. Laroeque, King George, 200 shares.

F. Montgomery, Montgomery House, 500 shares.

C. R. Nixon, Grand Hotel, 500 shares.

The Globe concludes:

Too Late for Silence.

What does this list of names mean? By what process of reasoning did R. R. Gamey convince all these license holders that it would pay them to invest in the Elizabeth mine? Does Sir James Whitney propose to keep silent still or will he order an investigation into transactions that, on the face of them, are far more reprehensible than that which cost Gustave Evanturel his seat in the Legislature? It is too late for silence. Sir James Whitney must speak or stand in the pillory beside the member for Manitoulin.

Examiner Special:

OMEMEE, July 21. — The mixed train from Port Hope via Bethany narrowly escaped a serious runoff near the Pidgeon River bridge a short distance from her. Very fortunately the passenger coaches remained on the track. The cause of the accident is unknown.

ASSOCIATION MET

A well attended meeting of the Sturgeon Point Cottagers' Association was held Thursday evening in the shelter at the Upper Wharf.

The date on which to hold the annual regatta was next taken up. Mr. Jos. Brown favoured August 17th. Lindsay's Civic Holiday, but it was the general idea that this was too late as many of the cottagers had started to leave. It was finally decided to make Thursday, August 6th Regatta Day, as it would fit in well with the regattas at Chemong Lake and Clarmong and would be plenty early in the season so all the cottagers could [illegible]

A SENSATION IN CAILLAUX TRIAL

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, France, July 21.—A sensation was sprung in the Caillaux case to-day when the deposition of President Poincare, an unprecedented procedure, was read. Caillaux was also a witness to-day, telling how his wife pondered over his threat.

THE LOST BALL IN BASEBALL

The Pittsburg Club has a protest in against the long-distance victory of the New York team because Honus Wagner was called out for interference when, after sliding into third base and the ball was apparently lost, he carried the sphere in his clothes between third and home and scored after dropping the ball on the base paths. The New York World says on this play: "Wagner showed his lack of football training. If he had been able to hold that ball under his arm until he reached the bench the play might have declared himself an unsolved mystery of baseball. They might have attended what became of the ball. But once it was dead with the practice spheres they would have had [illegible]

While the home players were searching for the ball Holly ran to third and then home, dropping the ball from under his [illegible] as he crossed the plate. Holly could thus carried the ball to the bench and nobody would have been any the wiser. As it was, the umpire, instead of calling him out, sent Holly back to second base.

BASEBALL

A very exciting game was played on Monday evening between the Lift Lock team and the East City Twirlers. The score resulted 17 to 2 in favour of the Twirlers.

Batteries for the Lift Lock team were: McMahon and Hamilton; for the Twirlers, McLean and Williams. Umpires—R. Long, J. May.

The Human Mind In Summer

THE human mind knows no summer Languor. It seeks to be interested, instructed and informed as much in season of midsummer heat as in the season of Midsummer Cold.

The mind of a man does not change from month to month as does the season; nor does it go to sleep for months at a time as does the bear.

In summer the mind is less preoccupied with cares than in the more strenuous months of social and business demands.

In summer the time which is given at other seasons to other interests is often given to the reading of newspapers.

In summer newspaper circulations often increase, for then men and women have more time and daylight for reading.

The summer months, then, are choice months for advertisers to use to draw attention to themselves and their goods, to arouse interest in what they provide, and to implant desires for what they sell or make.

You can obtain helpful advice on advertising, free of cost and without obligation by consulting the Business Department of the EVENING EXAMINER.

FIRST GAME WAS EASY FOR OTTAWA SHAGMEN WON YESTERDAY BY 9 TO 3

Cresswell Was Hit Hard and Poorly Supported in the First Four Frames When Senators Put the Game on Ice.

NILL HAD FOUR HITS

Ottawa found little opposition from the Petes yesterday, and the Senators had scant trouble in winning the first game of the series by 9 runs to 3. Cresswell, usually a mystery to the Shagmen, seemed to have nothing with to fool them yesterday, and he was hit hard during his tenancy on the rubber, while the Petes made some costly errors behind him, the net result being six runs in the first four innings. Belting finished the game and was nicked for three runs in the fifth, after which he held the Senators scoreless.

Joe Lill started for Ottawa, but failed to show little except an inability to locate the plate. He was finally derricked in the fourth in favour of Lefty Rogers. The southpaw seemed to have nothing but a good opinion of himself, but like all port siders, found the homesters rather soft picking for the balance of the engagement.

The game was draggy and listless, the only feature being the hitting of Nill and Mitchell. The former was at the plate five times and banged out three singles and a double and drew a pass, while Mitchell had a double, two singles and a complimentary in five appearances. Each scored three runs. Mitchell looks like a classy short fielder, handling his chances very snappily. He fumbled a slow roller from Blount's bat, but the hitter broke away fast and would have beaten a throw anyway. Everything else Mitchell looked after nicely.

First Innings.

Ottawa—With three and two on him Mitchell singled through the box. Rogers was safe on Byrne's fumble of his hunt while Mitchell went to third. Shaughnessy died on a roller to Cresawell, Mitchell staying on third. Both Mitchell and Rogers scored on Kelly's low throw to third in an attempt to get Mitchell off the bag. Stewart grounded to King. Lage singled to left centre, and was out stealing, Kelly to Fox. Two hits, two runs, two errors.

Peterborough—Blount walked on four successive bad ones. Welsh sacrificed, Lill to Dolan. Rogers robbed Dolan of a hit by a one-handed catch of his hard drive to left. Rooney doubled over Rogers' head, scoring Blount. Lage made a nice catch of Byrne's foul fly. One run, one hit, no errors.

Second Innings.

Ottawa—Dolan flied to Blount. Nill singled over second. Smykal flied to Welsh. Lill walked. Mitchell doubled to left centre, scoring Nill. Rogers flied to Blount. One run, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough—King went out on a long high fly to Shaughnessy. Fox fanned. Kelly grounded to Smykal. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

Ottawa — Shaughnessy fanned. Stewart grounded to Byrne. Lage was safe on Byrne's fumble. Dolan forced Lage, King to Fox. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough—Cresswell walked. Blount sacrificed, Lill to Dolan. Welsh singled to left centre, scoring Cresswell. Dolan grounded to his namesake, Welsh going to second. He went to third on a wild pitch. Rooney rolled to Nill. One run, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Ottawa—Nill walked. Smykal singled over third and went to second on the throw to third to get Nill. Lill fanned. Mitchell singled to centre, scoring Nill and Smykal, and going to third on Blount's wide throw to the plate. Rogers singled through short scoring Mitchell. Shag doubled to right. Stewart popped to King. Lage grounded to Byrne. Three runs, four hits, one error.

Peterborough—Byrne died on a grounder which Lill grabbed with one hand. King walked. Lill threw three balls to Fox and was derricked. Rogers going to the rubber and Powers to left field. His first peg was a ball and Fox walked. King stole third. Kelly drove a sacrifice fly to Stewart, scoring King. Belting flied to Powers. One run, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Ottawa—Dolan walked. Nill doubled to centre, scoring Dolan. Smykal grounded to Fox. Powers died the same way, Nill scoring. Witchell walked and stole second. Rogers singled between short and third, scoring Mitchell. Shag flied to King. Three runs, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough—Blount bounced a hit off Rogers shins. Welsh forced him, Mitchell to Smykal. Dolan singled over second. Rooney fanned. Byrne flied to Stewart. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Ottawa— Stewart walked. Lage bunted a fly to Kelly in trying to sacrifice, Stewart stole second, Kelly's throw being wide. Stewart tried to go to third on the play and King threw him out. Dolan was hit. Kelly caught Dolan, off first. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—King flied to Stewart. Fox bunted a fly to Nill. Kelly doubled to right. Belting grounded to Rogers. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

Ottawa—Nill singled over second. Smykal sacrificed, Belting to Dolan, Powers grounded to Fox, Nill going to third. Mitchell grounded to Byrne.

Peterborough—Blount was safe on a slow one to Mitchell, which he had beaten anyway. Welsh forced Blount on a grounder to Dolan. B. Dolan hit into a double play, Nill to Smykal to Dolan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Ottawa—Rogers grounded to King. Shaughnessy grounded to Fox. Stewart flied to Fox. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Rooney flied to Powers. Byrne grounded to Nill. King flied to Mitchell. No runs, hits or errors.

Ninth Innings.

Ottawa—Lage flied to Rooney. Dolan walked. On the hit and run play, Nill singled to right. Dolan going to third. On an attempted squeeze Dolan was run down when Smykal failed to hit. Smykal fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough — Fox died on a grounder to Dolan, Rogers covering. Kelly flied to Shaughnessy. Schettler batted for Belting and singled through the box. Blount flied to Stewart. No runs, one hit, no errors.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Ottawa Journal—Pitcher Marshall drew a pink slip on Saturday; Pitcher Paige will probably follow to-day unless he can show something; Brazzell went back to the Adrian club in place of Shortstop Mitchell, and there is a probability that one of the high priced men of the squad will go before the champs return from Peterborough on Thursday for heir four-game series with the Beavers. The choice may die between Nill or Rogers. Rogers has been playing away below form and Nill has also been off colour. Injuries have probably caused Rogers' slump. If any of the veterans go the choice will lie between these two.

While in Peterborough Shag will attempt to make a dicker for Pitcher Schettler, the Petes' vetrean. If the Champs can land Schettler they are fairly well fortified for the former big leaguer can twirl great ball with any kind of support. With Mitchell and Smykal around second the local infield looks just about a hundred per cent. better. The Champs now need only another outfielder and a reliable twirler to go out after the lead the Cockneys have.

Hamilton Spectator—Jack Pendry, an experienced infielder, will join the local club to-day and will get into the game against Erie this afternoon or to-morrow. Pendry will replace Baldwin at third base, while the latter will be benched and rested up. Baldwin has fallen down badly in his hitting, but White still has faith in him and does not intend to let the youngster get away from the club, it being his opinion that Baldwin will come back strong before the season is over or get away good next spring. Lack of experience has been the only thing against Baldwin, and this has told heavily in thel ast few weeks. Pendry is an old player who has always hit well and has always been very aggressive. White wants more aggressiveness to the team and thinks Pendry will prove considerable help.

COBB AND BECKER ARE THE LEADERS

CHICAGO, Ill., July 20.—Beals Becker, Philadelphia, with an average of .340, is leading the batters of the National League, according to figures published here to-day. Last Home Lacrosse Game In This District Will Be Played On Thursday

The last lacrosse game in this district, and probably the last of the summer, will be played on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, at Riverside Park, when Campbellford meets the locals. The locals by winning this game and defeating Havelock early in August have a chance for a look in with the finals. That chance depend upon Hastings dropping its next two games, and although this is hardly to be expected, still the local district has provided a number of surprises this summer, and the Norwood team will give them a real battle. The Campbellford team held the locals to a 6—3 score at the 'Ford, and may be expected to give a good account of themselves here. Mr. Alex. Kemp will referee.

Ultimatum From Players

Will Not Consider Themselves Under Contract After To-morrow

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 20.—An unqualified ultimatum that all members of the Baseball Players' Fraternity will no longer consider themselves under contract after July 22, was received by Chairman August Herrmann of the National Baseball Commission to-day.

The letter, written by President David L. Fultz of the Fraternity, follows:

"Mr. August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission:

"Dear Sir,—Inasmuch as organized ball sees fit to continue its violation of section 18 and several other sections of the Cincinnati agreement, which agreement is a part of every players' contract, the Board of Directors of the Baseball Players' Fraternity has authorized me to inform you that on and after Wednesday, July 22, the members of the organization will no longer consider themselves under contract.

"Very truly,

"(signed) David L. Fultz, Pres."

Shortly after receiving this letter Chairman Herrman, as President of the Cincinnati Baseball Club, called the members of his team together and recited to them his version of the controversy that has arisen.

The ball players, after holding a fifteen-minute session, told Mr. Herrmann that they have received no information from Mr. Fultz on the subject, and in case they did they would consider the matter further and would let him know their decision by tomorrow night.

After the meeting Mr. Herrmann said:

"I have tried to get into communication with President Tener, of the National League and President Johnson of the American League. I have been unable to do so, but even if I can later I believe it is a matter of too deep import to be discussed without the fullest consideration."

THE WORK OF THE BIG LEAGUERS

Interesting Data on the Runs and Hits Scored by Teams

NEW YORK, July 20—Interesting insight relative to the work of the big league baseball clubs is furnished by the figures compiled for the first half of the present pennant season. The date, while not official, is collected from the daily box scores, and for the purpose of comparison, is sufficient to show the strength and weakness of the six team clubs composing the National and American League circuits. Eliminating the games won and lost, as shown in the daily standing of the leagues, the total number of runs, hits, errors, and left on bases, are indicated for the first three months of the season, and the resultant averages give a clear idea of the reason for the respotive standing of the teams.

In the National League the New York Giants have scored 330 runs in 70 games, the average of hits being a trifle under two per run, while the error column shows a percentage of about 1-4 per game. With the exception of Cincinnati, the Giants have had fewer players left on bases than any other club in the Senior Association. The Chicago Club playing eight more games than New York, has scored but one home run, eight hits less, and made fifty more errors, in addition to having almost one hundred more players left stranded on the bases. The St. Louis Cardinals' figures indicate that while winning close to 50 per cent. of their games, they failed to score within fifty runs of the leaders, although credited with an equal number of hits. NNext to Pittsburg and Boston, the Club is charged with the least errors in the league ranks, while but two other teams have fewer base runners left. Cincinnati scored runs at the rate of one for every 1.93 hits, in addition to averaging but 1.22 erros per game. In men left on bases the Club has the best reord in the League, the figures being 428 in 76 games.

In the second division Philadelphia scored 312 runs and 612 hits in 70 games, made 181 errors, and had 470 players stranded. Brooklyn, in an equal number of games, made 625 hits, 234 runs 123 errors and 469 players got on the paths to be left there. The Pittsburg record for 73 games is 237 runs, 588 hits, 194 errors and 461 base-runners left, while Boston, in an equal number of contests, made 283 runs, 591 hits, 186 errors and had 508 players left between firstbase and the home plate.

The American League figures, which include the games in the same manned as in the National organization records, furnished some surprising information. The world's champion Philadelphia Athletics, while leading the league in number of runs and hits, have had more base-runners left on the bases than any other club in the circuit, except the Detroit Tigers. Three other clubs have made fewer errors, but none can equal the record of runs and hits totalled by Connie Mack's men at the midway mark of the season.

In 82 games the Athletics scored 362 runs, 696 hits, 129 errors, and had 330 players left on bases. Detroit, in one game less, fell 71 hits and 46 runs short of the Philadelpia record, while making 11 more errors and leaving 11 more men on bas. Washington's figures for 78 games were 339 runs, 607 hit s, 120 errors, and 484 runs stranded. The Chicago White Sox, playing one game less, scored 377 hits, 349 runs, 149 errors and 473 Chicago players reached first and were left on the paths.

The St. Louis Browns, while charged with more errors than any other club in the league, had the fewest players left, their record being 285 runs, 606 hits, 157 errors and 426 left on bases in 83 games. The Boston Club led the League in clean playing but 110 errors being charged against Manager Carrigan's men in 81 games. The Red Sox made 595 hits, 253 runs and had 476 runners marooned. The New York Yankees, second in fielding and players left on bases, showed extreme weakness with the bat, being last in number of hits and runs. The record of the New York Club, under Chance, was 226 runs, 496 hits, 118 errors and 465 eft on base. Cleveland had 606 hits, 274 runs, 138 errors and 466 left on base.

Defends The Decision of The Referee

London Sporting Life warmly defends the decision of Referee Corri in the Smith-Carpentier fight, in which Carpentier was awarded the decision on a foul. It says that, according to the official timekeeper, Smith was knocked out in the fourth round, but declares that this does not justify Carpentier in claiming a knockout, because, on account of Smith's deafness, both men had agreed that Referee Corri should make the count and indicate to them when the time had expired, and Corri agrees that Smith was ready to rise after five seconds, and was only awaiting the signal. When Carpentier was down in the sixth in apparent distress from a foul blow Corri immediately disqualified Smith. The paper considers irrelevant the questions whether Carpentier went down at the result of a blow from Smith or from fainting his own swing; whether Descamps, Carpentiers' manager, contravened the rules by entering the ring, and whether Carpentier bluffed, in seeming distress. Nobody disputes the correctness of the decision apparently, but there is no doubt that Carpentier will not get the credit from the sporting world that he perhaps deserves until he meets Smith again.

OBITUARY

MARGARTT CHRISTINA MICK.

The death occurred last evening, at the Nicholls Hospital, of Margaret Christine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mick, of this City.

The funeral will take place at one o'clock this afternoon, from Belleghem's undertaking establishment, to the G.T.R. station, and thence to Napanee for interment.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The recount in Lakeside, Man., constituency has reduced the majority of J. J. Garland, Conservative candidate, over McPherson, Liberal, from 13 to 10.

A strong attack was made by the rebels on the city of Cape Haitien, but the assaulting force was eventually repulsed by the troops of the Government of Hayti.

President Wilson said yesterday that during his recent conferences with business men, those men who thought business conditions bad did not hold the tariff was responsible.

Constable Stringer of Fort William has seized four trunks containing 195 beaver skins, 41 otter skins and a box of castors. The skins were marked for consignment to the Hudson Bay Co.

Mary Kennedy, cook at the residence of Judge Benson, Port Hope, was found yesterday evening drowned in the cistern. She was about 50 years old, and is supposed to have committed suicide.

While working on a tug at the foot of Portland street, Toronto, yesterday morning William Desjardines, 18 years old, of Montreal, was drowned. The manner in which the youth fell into the water is unknown.

A body believed to be that of Catherine Winters, aged nine, of Newcastle, Ind., for whom a nation-wide search has been made for more than a year, was exhumed in the potters' field in a cemetery at Urbana, Ill., Sunday.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

That was a very entertaining band concert in King Edward Park last night. Oh, you missed it? So did the rest of us!

Will some one kindly remove the Home Rule question until there is something definite about it.

"The rich man hath done wrong, and yet he will fume; but the poor man is wronged and must hold his peace."—Eccles.

Which of the aldermen was delegated to arrange a series of concerts in that south end park?

Wait until the car stops at your corner for that witty exchange with Brown and the new schedule will be reduced to tatters.

The wind and sun are a withering and desicating combination just now.

Organized baseball seems to be steering for the breakers.

"Where is King Edward Park in the first place?" asks the Antrim Street citizen. That's just what you got for starting something.

'Steen bands and fire brigades will compete in Lindsay on July 30. That's not so far from the Bobcaygeon fishing grounds.

A couple of days' rain would also rest up the ball team. They've been skipping only Sundays for a long spell.

If groups of citizens who manifest an interest in party politics would divert some of it towards civic matters they would, in the most of them at any rate, receive more personal satisfaction.

McGill Street residents have petitioned the Power committee for a street lamp.

Says the Toronto Globe: Surely Col. Hughes is less alert than of old. He has not yet issued an order for the recruiting of an army worm corps. Under discipline the army worm might become a valuable means of defence.

The sporting editor says Lindsay is the town in which a man dropped dead in front of the post office on a Sunday morning and was not found until the following Wednesday.

Stock Markets

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Latest reports indicate the presence of buying orders under the market for accumulative purposes. Significant buying of the best grade of stocks is reported from a dozen representatives. This is said to be many for accounts that intend to hold such purchases for a considerable period of time. The buying is inclusive, both of odd lot and larger purchases, and is representative of careful preliminary consideration. Foreign absorption is observed in Union Pac. and S.P. Atch. N.W. and R.G. are reported by floor sources as well taken. Pool buying is found in V.C., W.X., A.F. and W.U.

Montreal liquidation continues in Can. Pac.

Adverse rate influences are referred to as explaining the selling of L.V., Erie and B.O. S.T. is hammered by professionals with N.P. on the rust damage to the Northwest wheat.

NEW YORK, July 20. (Tuesday's Letter, Baring.)— The stock market opened lower, then rallied about 1-2 point, after which the general list declined from 1-2 to 1-1-2 points, the latter on T.X.O. T.X.O., whose sale we advised around 143, and which could have been sold at 142 several times, got down to 134 and a fraction to-day. I think it will go below 128 and can still be sold if it rallies above 138.

U.F. opened at 126 and after rallying to 127 1-4, closed 126 1-8, equal 166 1-4, being nearly a point lower than it closed Saturday, and according to Saturday's letter it should have been sold. Stay short of it for much lower prices, for it is now selling "Ex Harrimann," and I think you will soon cover it at 115. I look for low prices this week and if you sold stocks on Saturday's rally keep short.—Chas. Baring.

TO WEAR CALICO AND OVERALLS

ST. LOUIS, July 21.—The congregation of the East Alton Baptist Church will go to church next Sunday in calico and overalls as a means of rebuking Dame Fashion. The members noted a decrease in church attendance and decided that many persons preferred to be comfortable on Sunday to going to church and decided on a plan whereby they could do both. The pastor, Rev. D. C. Blunt, is enthusiastic over the plans. Some of the persons who had been remaining away from church told the pastor they had done so because they did not have clothes which enabled them to make a "splurge" that compared favourably with that of other members. The pastor thinks the new order will have one good effect at least. The women will devote their time to worship rather than getting fashion hints.

CAILLAUX ASSUMES THE RESPONSIBILITY

Says He Did Not Realize the Full Effect of Calmette's Articles on His Wife.

HUSBAND TESTIFIES

PARIS, July 22.—Joseph Caillaux held the court for two intense hours yesterday, testifying in defence of his wife, who sat in the prisoner's enclosure, charged with the killing of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, on March 16 last. The appearance of M. Caillaux was hardly less dramatic than that of Mme. Caillaux Monday.

"I accuse myself," he cried in one climax. "I committed a fault. I should myself have acted, but, absorbed by public affairs, I failed to realize the ravages Calmette's calumnies had made on the soul of my wife."

M. Caillaux spoke as if in the Chamber, his voice of high tenor, softened in quality sometimes rising in falsetto in moments of excitement.

He would, he said, tell the jury the history of his private life from his first marriage down to the sad event which caused his presence on the stand. He explained the incident of the two letters, which he supposed had been destroyed before his divorce from his first wife. He only knew of their existance when a friend warned him that they were about to be published.

When he married Mme. Raynouard he knew for the first time what true happiness was. When he spoke of her, Mme. Caillaux blushed crimson and bowed her head in her hands and sobbed silently.

"She was a most tender affectionate wife," said M. Caillaux. "We lived and live in the closest communion of heart and mind. My wife, however, took alarm at the dangers my political campaign exposed me to. She tried to dissuade me from entering Doumergue's Cabinet. The income tax, she said, had formidable adversaries and I should be the object of fierce press campaigns.

"As she foretold, the attacks recommenced with redoubled fury, but I refused to adopt the means employed by other politicians to stop them, I pursued my way unfettered. I could not believe that any one would publish the 'Thy Joe' letter, although I had been warned by Pierre Mortier, by the Princess of Monaco and by the Princess of Monagno-Estradere."

In January, 1914, M. Caillaux had a conversation with Jean Batthon, the former Minister of Justice, who said: "Your wife (first wife) is against you. You made a great mistake in writing those letters."

After the publication of "Thy Joe" letter M. Caillaux's first wife telephoned him to clear herself of any suspicion he might have had that she was responsible for its divulgence.

"At that time," said M. Caillaux, "I firmly believed that other letters would be published. My wife shared my belief, which was confirmed by information from a number of persons."

Up to this time M. Caillaux had been moderately calm, but now he worked himself up to a violent fit of indignation as he denounced the calumnies levelled against his honesty.

"Never have I touched a single stock with my personal fortune while Minister of Finance," he declared. "Never did a Bourse order come out of my office. I affirm it in the strongest terms."

Returning to the "Thy Joe" letter, he described the effect of its publication on his wife. Finally he became so impregnated with her fears that other letters would be published that he consulted President Poincare, who had been one of the witnesses of their marriage. The President did his best to reassure him and advised him to consult a lawyer.

"My lawyer told me," continued M. Caillaux, "that nothing could be done. I then said to my wife, 'Be reassured. I will go and smash Calmette's snout myself.' After that I felt relieved in mind, but my wife, on the other hand, was depressed.

"At the police station, on my way home from the Senate, I learned of the tragedy. My wife's constant prayer was, 'I hope he is not seriously hurt, I meant to only give him a lesson'."

M. Caillaux then entered upon the purely political phase of his deposition.

The campaign carried on by The Figaro, he asserted, was meant to strike him down at any cost because he stood for the income tax.

BIG BLOCK BURNED.

Damage Amounting to $116,000 In Prince Albert Building.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 22.—Fire yesterday morning gutted the McKay and Adam block, destroying the Manville Hardware Co. stock, the McKay and Adam law offices, the offices of McMaster and Christie, surveyors, office of the West Lumber & Supply Co. and part of the furniture of the Carlton Club. It started in the basement of the hardware store and soon after there was a terrific explosion, which blew the plate glass across the street.

The losses which total $118,000, are as follows: McKay and Adam block $40,000, insurance $24,000; Manville Hardware Co. stock $40,000, insurance $25,000; McKay and Adam, probably $25,000, not much insurance. The $10,000 law library of James McKay, M.P., was destroyed with no insurance. It was reported to be the best law library in Saskatchewan. Other losses of personal effects in the building will not total over $3,000, with little insurance.

Then he will go west, accompanied by Hon. Mackenzie King, W. B. Carvell, M.P., and Hugh Guthrie, M.P.

Guard Sleeps; Convicts Revel.

KINGSTON, July 22.—Making his rounds in the foundry at the penitentiary yesterday morning Robert Creighton, acting warden, found a guard sound asleep and a gang of convicts, numbering 15, playing high jinks. The guard was dismissed. One of the convicts noticed the acting warden coming and tried to arouse the guard.

Light weight is still another.

Great strength and sturdiness are others.

All are the results of laboratory tests and selection of material; of heat treatment of fine steels; of intensive manufacturing.

Accuracy and completeness of Studebaker manufacturing produce alignment and balance to a degree unknown to the assembled car, no matter what its price.

It is semi-officially stated in Parliamentary circles that there will be no session this autumn, and that the House will not meet till January.

A large balloon traveling rapidly in a southwesterly direction is reported to have been seen crossing the Ottawa river near the capital yesterday.

George Banks, awaiting transference from the Eight County jail to the Central Prison on a three months' sentence on charges of assault, escaped from the jail at St. Thomas yesterday.

At a joint meeting of the finance committees of the Chatham City Council and the Board of Education held yesterday it was decided to spend $30,000 in additions to the schools.

Sir George Foster left Ottawa yesterday for Quebec, where he will proceed to Rimouski to meet the members of the Dominion's Royal Commission, and accompany them to Metapedia.

Fire totally destroyed the beautiful summer home of W. H. Nichol of New York, on the north side of Howe Island, near Brockville. The loss, including contents, which were also destroyed, is placed at $100,000.

The license commissioners for South Renfrew, in session at Arnprior yesterday, refused renewal of licenses to three hotels and two liquor shops. This reduces the hotels to two and cuts off the sledge altogether.

Herman McCrea, brother of the late Hon. W. McCrea, died at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. R. K. Kilborn, Kingston, yesterday. He was a native of Granville County, and a scion of United Empire Loyalist stock.

Eucharistic Congress Opens Today.

LOURDES, France, July 22.—Ten cardinals, two hundred archbishops and bishops from all parts of the world are to attend the International Eucharistic Congress to be held here this year, starting to-day and lasting until July 26. Especial importance is attached to the conference this year, not only because it is the first in France since the separation of church and state, but because it is the 25th anniversary of the foundation of the world-wide movement, the first conference having taken place in Lille in 1889.

HINDUS CAPITULATE WILLING TO RETURN

Government Refuse to Indemnify Them or to Pay Fares Home—Medicine and Food Only.

WANTED RECOMPENSE

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 22.—Just before seven o'clock last evening the Hindus, through their shore committee, agreed to accept the terms of the Government and have agreed to allow peaceable possession of the Komagata Maru. There will be no fighting.

The Hindus made many new demands, but were finally forced to accept the proposals of the officials, which were to provide them with medicines and $6,000 worth of food for their return trip. They absolutely refused to give money for their return fares and to allow anything to the local Hindu committee by way of recompense.

At seven o'clock Capt. Yamamtto started out for his ship to get steam up.

Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture in the Federal Government, was largely the director in negotiations yesterday afternoon with the Hindus.

After the return of the local Hindu committee, at 3.15 from their talk on the Komagata Maru, the seven Hindus held a private meeting in the immigration headquarters to draft a written reply to the Government. Then they decided they wanted legal advice and went uptown to see A. H. McNeill. They brought him back with them at five o'clock and submitted new written proposals.

They made new demands. Not only they ask for food and medicine immediately as a price for restoring peace on the ship and also renewed their demand for their return passage to Calcutta, but they insisted that the Government reimburse the local Hindu committee for the money spent recently in sending food to the Maru and for the charter of the vessel.

In the early evening the crowd which gathered downtown to view the waterfront was almost larger than the throng of the early morning when the Rainbow arrived. The upper windows and even the roofs of office buildings were crowded.

The waterfront looked like nearly day with the number of small craft that were out. Uptown lawyers and business men were making telephone engagements to go out on the inlet in the afternoon. Nothing in remembrance has had such a disturbing effect on the minds, and daily duties of the citizens of Vancouver. There was all the excitement of war, mixed with the humor of a comic opera.

Baron Singh, one of the five who were ten days ago marooned by the other Hindus aboard the Komagata Maru, and who was off that vessel for several days, yesterday afternoon threw off a message in a bottle which reached the immigration authorities. He wanted to be rescued. He says that his compatriots yesterday threatened to throw him into irons. It is probable that the immigration authorities will attempt to get him off, for they fear for his life. On the occasion of the previous incident Baron Singh was accused by the men on the ship with being a traitor.

PRICE IS CHANGED

He Becomes Chief of Compensation Board at $12,000 a Year.

TORONTO, July 22. — Samuel Price, K.C., has been appointed chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Commission at a salary of $12,000 per year and will at once take up his work. This was the announcement Sir James Whitney made after yesterday afternoon's Cabinet council. The Premier said the other two members would be named "in due time" and asserted that ability was alone considered in choosing Mr. Price from the many applicants.

The chairman will confer with F. W. Hinsdale, the Washington expert engaged by the Government, to put the act in force at once.

"We selected Mr. Price from a list probably containing more names of able men than ever came before a Government in Canada before," said the Premier. "We chose him after considering all and we believe we have got the best man. The people of Ontario are anxious to see the Compensation Act in force. We believe it is the best in the world and will be a success.

"No question but the capacity and fitness of the individual was considered by us in making this appointment."

Samuel Price, K.C., has served the Government of Ontario and Canada for many years in various capacities. He has been a royal commissioner in investigations, he is a mining and railway legal expert of prominence and has at different times helped frame laws and settle disputes in these industries. He once declined the chairmanship of the Ontario Railway Board.

No General Steps Yet Taken To Fight Army Worm.

TORONTO, July 22. — Yesterday brought reports from still more districts in rural Ontario of grave inroads by the army worm upon the field crops. Sections neighboring Brantford, Bolton, Galt, Guelph, Ingersoll, Aurora, Woodstock and Berlin are fighting the worm. Now it has started on its destructive march in Etobicoke Township. Though there has been suggestion of a province-wide campaign against the army worm by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, nothing so comprehensive has been done. Each district seems to be fighting its own fight. The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and the Department's district representatives are leading the farmers in the fight.

Some township and county councils have voted sums of money to give the army worm battle. Reports indicate that the farmers, in whose fields the army worm are working, are vigorously battling with it, but nothing is said of efforts to offset the worm before it places the crop in serious danger.

Reports last night from the affected districts show the outbreak very little, if at all, lessened.

Australian Marksmen Carry Off Kolapore Cup at Bisley.

BISLEY CAMP, July 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian total in the Kolapore Cup competition was 253, Australia's 255, England's 249, India's 247, Guernsey 240.

This match finished under exciting conditions. Canada, among the three leading competitors, finished firing first, and when the Mother Country closed down a minute later, Canada was four points ahead. The Australians, however, who shot slowly, had several shots to go, managed to overtake the Canadians by two points. Reservist Cross scored the highest Australian aggregate of 99.

When the Australians were declared winners the Canadians heartily cheered the victors. Australia twice previously won the Kolapore Cup in 1903 and 1903. This year's winning aggregate is 14 points behind that of last year, when the Mother Country won.

WOMENS WALK OUT.

St. Petersburg In Throes of Great Sympathetic Strike.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—Serious strike disturbances broke out yesterday in St. Petersburg, where 100,000 workers have laid down their tools as a protest against the drastic measures of the authorities at Baku and elsewhere against demonstrating strikers. The Cossacks in the capital were mobilized in the Viborg quarter to disperse the strikers, who indulged in much stone-throwing and also fired some revolver shots. The troops succeeded in clearing the streets without resort to bullets, as a couple of regards of blank cartridges proved sufficient to rout the demonstrators at least temporarily. Several of the strikers were hurt during the disorder, but the casualty list was small.

Later in the morning the strikers made a raid on the street cars, driving out their occupants and overturning the vehicles. The strikers appeared to be in an ugly mood, disregarding the summonses of the police to disperse.

Incendiary Fire In Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 22.—Fire supposed to be of incendiary origin yesterday destroyed the plant of the Watson Carriage Co., corner of Murray and Friel streets. The loss is about $25,000; insurance $20,000. Mrs. George Miller, residing across the street from the factory, dropped dead of heart failure during the excitement.

A LODGING FOR THE NIGHT

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

By Robert Louis Stevenson

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. The choice of Booth Tarkington, Jack London, Alfred Henry Lewis and Richard Harding Davis was "A Lodging For the Night," by Robert Louis Stevenson.

BOOTH TARKINGTON

PART I.

IT was late in November, 1456. The snow fell over Paris with rigorous, relentless persistence. Sometimes the wind made a sally and scattered it in flying vortices; sometimes there was a lull, and flake after flake descended out of the black night air, silent, circuitous, interminable.

The cemetery of St. John had taken its own share of the snow. The clock was hard on 10 when the patrol went by with halberds and a lantern, beating their hands, and they saw nothing suspicious about the cemetery of St. John.

Yet there was a small house, backed up against the cemetery wall, which was still awake, and awake to evil purpose, in that snoring district. There was not much to betray it from without, only a stream of warm vapor from the chimney top, a patch where the snow melted on the roof and a few half obliterated footprints at the door. But within, behind the shuttered windows, Master Francis Villon, the poet, and some of the thievish crew with whom he consorted, were keeping the night alive and passing round the bottle.

A great pile of living embers diffused a strong and ruddy glow from the arched chimney. Before this straddled Dom Nicolas, the Picardy monk, with his skirts picked up and his fat legs bared to the comfortable warmth. His face had the beery, bruised appearance of the continual drinker's.

On the right Villon and Guy Tabary were huddled together over a scrap of parchment, Villon making a ballad which he was to call the "Ballad of Roast Fish," and Tabary spluttering admiration at his shoulder. The poet was a rag of a man, dark, little and lean, with hollow cheeks and thin, black locks. He carried his four and twenty years with feverish animation. Greed had made folds about his eyes. Evil smiles had puckered his mouth. The wolf and pig struggled together in his face. It was an eloquent, sharp, ugly, earthly countenance. His hands were small and prehensile, with fingers knotted like a cord, and they were continually flickering in front of him in violent and expressive pantomime. As for Tabary, a broad, complacent, admiring imbecility breathed from his squash nose and slobbering lips. He had become a thief just as he might have become the most decent of burgesses by the imperious chance that rules the lives of human geese and human donkeys.

At the monk's other hand Montigny and Thevenin Pensete played a game of chance. About the first there clung some flavor of good birth and training, as about a fallen angel. Something long, lithe and courtly in the person; something aquiline and darkling in the face. Thevenin, poor soul, was in great feather. He had done a good stroke of knavery that afternoon in the Faubourg St. Jacques, and all night he had been gaining from Montigny.

"Doubles or quits?" said Thevenin.

Montigny nodded grimly.

"Some may prefer to dine in state," wrote Villon, "on bread and cheese on silver plate. Or, or—help me out, Guido!"

Tabary giggled.

"Or parsley on a golden dish," scribbled the poet.

The wind was freshening without. It drove the snow before it. The cold was growing sharper.

"Can't you hear it rattle in the gibbet?" said Villon. "They are all dancing the devil's jig on nothing up there. You may dance, my gallants. You'll be none the warmer. Whew, what a gust! Down went somebody just now! A mediar the fewer on the three legged mediar tree! I say, Dom Nicolas, it'll be cold tonight on the St. Denis road?" he asked.

Tabary laughed immoderately over the mediars. He had never heard anything more lighthearted, and he held his sides and crowed. Villon fetched him a dilip on the nose, which turned his mirth into an attack of coughing.

"Oh, stop that row," said Villon, "and think of rimes to 'fish.' Look at Montigny!"

All three peered covertly at the gamester. He did not seem to be enjoying his luck. His mouth was a little to a side, one nostril nearly shut and the other much inflated. The black dog was on his back, as people say, in terrifying nursery metaphor and he breathed hard under the grew some burden.

There was a brief and fatal movement among the gamesters. The round was completed, and Thevenin was just opening his mouth to claim another victory when Montigny leaped up swift as an adder and stabbed him to the heart. The blow took effect before he had time to utter a cry, before he had time to move. A tremor or two convulsed his frame. His hands opened and shut, his heels rattled on the floor, then his head rolled backward over one shoulder, with eyes wide open, and Thevenin Pensete's spirit had returned to him who made it.

Every one sprang to his feet, but the business was over in two twos. "My God!" said Tabary, and he began to pray in Latin.

Villon broke out into hysterical laughter. He came a step forward and ducked a ridiculous bow at Thevenin and laughed still louder. Then he sat down suddenly all of a heap upon a stool and continued laughing bitterly as though he would shake himself to pieces.

Montigny recovered his composure first.

"Let's see what he has about him," he remarked, and he picked the dead man's pockets with a practiced hand and divided the money into four equal portions on the table. "There's for you," he said.

The monk received his share with a deep sigh, and a single stealthy glance at the dead Thevenin, who was beginning to sink into himself and topple sideways off the chair.

"We're all in for it," cried Villon, swallowing his mirth. "It's a hanging job for every man Jack of us that's here—not to speak of those who aren't." Then he pocketed his share of the spoil and executed a shuffle with his feet as if to restore the circulation.

Tabary was the last to help himself. He made a dash at the money and retired to the other end of the room.

Montigny stuck Thevenin upright in the chair and drew out the dagger, which was followed by a jet of blood.

"You fellows had better be moving," he said as he wiped the blade on his victim's doublet.

"I think we had," returned Villon, with a gulp. "D—— his fat head!" he broke out. "It sticks in my throat like phlegm. What right has a man to have red hair when he is dead?" And he fell all of a heap again upon the stool and fairly covered his face with his hands.

Montigny and Dom Nicolas laughed aloud, even Tabary feebly chiming in.

"Cry baby!" said the monk.

"I always said he was a woman," added Montigny with a sneer. "Sit up, can't you?" he went on, giving another shake to the murdered body. "Tread on that fire, flick!"

Dom Nick was better employed. He was quietly taking Villon's purse as the poet sat limp and trembling on the stool where he had been making a ballad not three minutes before. Montigny and Tabary thereby demanded a share of the booty, which the monk silently promised as he passed the little bag into the bosom of his gown. In many ways an artistic nature unfits a man for practical existence.

No sooner had the theft been accomplished than Villon shook himself, jumped to his feet and began helping to scatter and extinguish the embers. Meanwhile Montigny opened the door and cautiously peered into the street. The coast was clear. There was no meddlesome patrol in sight. Still it was judged wiser to slip out severally, and Villon was the first by general consent to issue forth.

The wind had triumphed and swept all the clouds from heaven. Only a few vapors as thin as moonlight fleeted rapidly across the stars. It was bitter cold, and by a common optical effect, things seemed almost more definite than in the broadest daylight. Villon cursed his fortune. Would it were still snowing! Now, wherever he went he left an indelible trail.

Two things preoccupied him as he went, the aspect of the gallows at Montfaucon in this bright, windy phase of the night's existence, for one, and for another, the look of the dead man with his bald head and garland of red curls. Both struck cold upon his heart, and he kept quickening his pace as if he could escape from unpleasant thoughts by mere fleetness of foot.

Suddenly he saw a long way before him a black clump and a couple of lanterns. The clump was in motion, and the lanterns swung as though carried by men walking. It was a patrol. Just on his left hand there stood a great hotel, with some turrets and a large porch before the door. It was dark inside after the glimmer of the snowy streets, and he was groping forward with outspread hands when he stumbled over some substance which offered an indescribable mixture of resistances, hard and soft, firm and loose. His heart gave a leap, and he sprang two steps back and stared dreadfully at the obstacle. Then he gave a little laugh of relief. It was only a woman, and she dead. He knelt beside her to make sure upon this latter point. She was freezing cold and rigid like a stick. A little ragged finery fluttered in the wind about her hair, and her cheeks had been heavily rouged that same afternoon. Her pockets were quite empty, but in her stocking underneath the garter Villon found two of the small coins that went by the name of whites. It was little enough, but it was always something, and the poet was moved with a deep sense of pathos that she should have died before she had spent her money.

While these thoughts were passing through his mind he was feeling half mechanically for his purse. Suddenly his heart stopped beating. A feeling of cold scales passed up the back of his legs and a cold blow seemed to fall upon his scalp. He stood petrified for a moment; then he felt again with one feverish movement; then his loss burst upon him. He cursed. He threw the two whites into the street. He shook his fist at heaven. He stamped and was not horrified to find himself trampling the poor corpse. Then he began rapidly to retrace his steps toward the house beside the cemetery. He had forgotten all fear of the patrol, which was long gone by at any rate, and had no idea but that of his lost purse. It was in vain that he looked right and left upon the snow. Nothing was to be seen. He had not dropped it in the streets. Had it fallen in the house? He would have liked dearly to go in and see, but the idea of the grisly occupant unmanned him, and he saw besides as he drew near that their efforts to put out the fire had been unsuccessful. On the contrary, it had broken into a blaze, and a changeful light played in the chinks of door and window and revived his terror for the authorities and Paris gibbet.

He returned to the hotel with the porch and groped about upon the snow for the money he had thrown away in his childish passion. But he could only find one white; the other had probably struck sideways and sunk deeply in. With a single white in his pocket all his projects for a rousing night in some wild tavern vanished utterly away. And it was not only pleasure that fled laughing from his grasp; positive discomfort, positive pain, attacked him as he stood ruefully before the porch. His perspiration had dried upon him, and although the wind had now fallen a binding frost was setting in stronger with every hour, and he felt benumbed and sick at heart. What was to be done? Late as was the hour, improbable as was success, he would try the house of his adopted father, the chaplain of St. Benoit.

He ran there all the way and knocked timidly. There was no answer. He knocked again and again, taking heart with every stroke, and at last steps were heard approaching from within. A barred wicket fell open in the iron studded door and emitted a gush of yellow light.

"Hold up your face to the wicket," said the chaplain from within.

"It's only me," whimpered Villon.

"Oh, it's only you, is it?" returned the chaplain, and he cursed him with foul, unpriestly oaths for disturbing him at such an hour and bade him be off to hell where he came from.

"My hands are blue to the wrist," pleaded Villon; "my feet are dead and full of twings; my nose aches with the sharp air; the cold lies at my heart. I may be dead before morning. Only this once, father, and, before God, I will never ask again!"

"You should have come earlier," said the ecclesiastic coolly. "Young men require a lesson now and then." He shut the wicket and retired deliberately into the interior of the house.

Villon was beside himself. He beat upon the door with his hands and feet and shouted hoarsely after the chaplain.

A door shut in the interior, faintly

Though they were bold,
They never told
Of dresses of the charmer.

But nowadays
They sing their lays
And let them with a bang go
And drain a glass
To that brave lass
Who wears the trouser tango.

"Wondering what?" said Mrs. Gabb.

Keep the Spade Bright.

If the hired man carelessly puts the spade away without cleaning it you may have a hard time cleaning it next time you go out to dig. But if you have been careful to put cinders in a nice pile not more than one minute will be required to clean the spade and make it as bright as a new dollar.

Simply dig in the cinders for a minute or so, shoveling them about as you do gravel and cement when mixing concrete, and the job is done. The cinders should be wet, as they are sure to be if exposed to the weather.

We learned this while shoveling cinders into a post hole when building a fence. It works like a charm.

Russian Marriages.

The celebration of a Russian marriage sometimes extends over three days. At the wedding festivities the bride is expected to dance with the men one after another until she drops with sheer fatigue. It is a matter of pride with her to keep going as long as possible, and it is not unusual to find a bride dancing gayly after three days and three nights of vigorous frolic. When a girl is dancing with a man she always holds his pipe. It would be regarded as extremely rude if a man should continue to smoke his pipe in such circumstances.—Tit-Bits.

PART II.

THE house in question looked dark at first sight, but as Villon made a preliminary inspection in search of the handiest point of attack a little twinkle of light caught his eye from behind a curtained window.

"The devil!" he thought. "People awake! Some student or some saint, confound the crew! Can't they get drunk and lie in bed snoring like their neighbors? What's the good of our few and poor devils of bell ringers jumping at a rope's end in bell towers? What's the use of day if people sit up all night? The gripes to them!" He grinned as he saw where his logic was leading him. "Every man to his business after all," added he, "and if they're awake, by the Lord, I may come by a supper honestly for once and cheat the devil."

He went boldly to the door and knocked. The sound of his blows echoed through the house with thin, phantasmal reverberations, as though it were quite empty, but these had scarcely died away before a measured

World's Greatest Short Stories

tread drew near, a couple of bolts were withdrawn, and one wing was opened broadly, as though no gaffe or fear of guile were known to those within. A tall figure of a man muscular and spare, but a little bent, confronted Villon. The head was massive, but finely sculptured; the nose blunt at the bottom, but refining upward to where it joined a pair of strong and honest eyebrows; the mouth and eyes surrounded with delicate markings, and the whole face based upon a thick white beard, boldly and squarely trimmed.

"You knock late, sir," said the old man in resonant, courteous tones.

Villon cringed and brought up many servile words of apology. At a crisis of this sort the beggar was uppermost in him, and the man of genius hid his head with confusion.

"You are cold," repeated the old man, "and hungry? Well, step in." And he ordered him into the house with a noble enough gesture.

"Some great seigneur," thought Villon, as his host, setting down the lamp on the flagged pavement of the entry, shot the bolts once more into their places.

"You will pardon me if I go in front," he said when this was done, and he preceded the poet upstairs into a large apartment, warmed with a pan of charcoal and lit by a great lamp hanging from the roof. It was very bare of furniture; only some gold plate on a sideboard, some folios and a stand of armor between the windows. Some smart tapestry hung upon the walls representing the crucifixion of our Lord in one piece and in another a scene of shepherds and shepherdesses by a running stream. Over the chimney was a shield of arms.

"Will you seat yourself," said the old man, "and forgive me if I leave you? I am alone in my house tonight, and if you are to eat I must forage for you myself."

No sooner was his host gone than Villon leaped from the chair on which he had just seated himself and began examining the room with the stealth and passion of a cat. Then he stood in the middle of the room, drew a long breath, and, retaining it with puffed cheeks, looked round and round him, turning on his heels, as if to impress every feature of the apartment on his memory.

"Seven pieces of plate," he said. "If there had been ten I would have risked it. A fine house and a fine old master, so help me all the saints!"

And just then, hearing the old man's tread returning along the corridor, he stole back to his chair and began humbly toasting his wet legs before the charcoal pan.

His entertainer had a plate of meat in one hand and a jug of wine in the other. He set down the plate upon the table, motioning Villon to draw in his chair and going to the sideboard, brought back two goblets, which he filled.

"I drink your better fortune," he said gravely, touching Villon's cup with his own.

"To our better acquaintance," said the poet, growing bold. A mere man of the people would have been awed by the courtesy of the old signor, but Villon was hardened in that matter; he had made mirth for great lords before now and found them as black rascals as himself. And so he devoted himself to the viands with a ravenous gusto, while the old man, leaning backward, watched him with steady, curious eyes.

"You have blood on your shoulder, my man," he said.

Montigny must have laid his wet right hand upon him as he left the house. He cursed Montigny in his heart.

"It was none of my shedding," he stammered.

"I had not supposed so," returned his host quietly. "A brawl?"

"Well, something of that sort," Villon admitted with a quaver.

"Perhaps a fellow murdered?"

"Oh, no, not murdered," said the poet, more and more confused. "It was all fair play—murdered by accident. I had no hand in it. God strike me dead!" he added fervently.

"One rogue the fewer, I dare say," observed the master of the house.

"You may dare to say that," agreed Villon, infinitely relieved. "As big a rogue as there is between here and Jerusalem. He turned up his toes like a lamb. But it was a nasty thing to look at. I dare say you've seen dead men in your time, my lord?" he added, glancing at the armor.

"Many," said the old man. "I have followed the wars, as you imagine. Have you any money?"

"I have one white," returned the poet, laughing. "I got it out of a dead lady's stocking in a porch. She was as dead as Caesar, poor wench, and as cold as a church, with bits of ribbon sticking in her hair. This is a hard world in winter for wolves and wenches and those rogues like me."

"I," said the old man, "am Engueurrand de la Feuillee, signor de Brisetout, baille du Patatrac. Who and what may you be?"

Villon rose and made a suitable reverence. "I am called Francis Villon," he said, "a poor master of arts of this university. I know some Latin and a deal of vice. I can make chansons, ballads, lais, virelais and roundels, and I am very fond of wine. I was born in a garret, and I shall not improbably die upon the gallows. I may add, my lord, that from this night forward I am your lordship's very obsequious servant to command."

"No servant of mine," said the knight. "My guest for this evening, and no more."

"A very grateful guest," said Villon politely, and he drank in dumb show to his entertainer.

"You are shrewd," began the old man, tapping his forehead, "very shrewd. You have learning. You are a clerk, and yet you take a small piece of money off a dead woman in the street. Is it not a kind of theft?"

"It is a kind of theft much practiced in the wars, my lord."

"The wars are the field of honor," returned the old man proudly. "There a man plays his life upon the cast. He fights in the name of his lord the king, his Lord God, and all their lordships the holy saints and angels."

"Put it," said Villon, "that I were really a thief, should I not play my life also and against heavier odds?"

"For gain, but not for honor."

"Gain?" repeated Villon, with a shrug. "Gain! The poor fellow wants supper and takes it. So does the soldier in a campaign. Why, what are all these requisitions we hear so much about?"

"These things are a necessity of war which the lowborn must endure with constancy. Look at us two," said his lordship. "I am old, strong and honored. If I were turned from my house tomorrow hundreds would be proud to shelter me. Poor people would go out and pass the night in the streets with their children if I merely hinted that I wished to be alone. And I find you up, wandering homeless and picking farthings off dead women by the wayside! I fear no man and nothing. I have seen you tremble and lose countenance at a word. I wait God's summons contentedly in my own house, or, if it please the king to call me out again, upon the field of battle. You look for the gallows—a rough, swift death, without hope or honor. Is there no difference between these two?"

"As far as to the moon," Villon acquiesced. "But if I had been born Lord of Brisetout and you had been the poor scholar Francis, should not I have been the soldier and you the thief?"

"A thief?" cried the old man. "I a thief! If you understood your words you would repent them."

Villon turned out his hands with a gesture of inimitable impudence. "If your lordship had done me the honor to follow my argument?" he said.

"I do you too much honor in submitting to your presence," said the knight. "Learn to curb your tongue when you speak with old and honorable men, or some one heavier than I may reprove you in a sharper fashion." And he rose and paced the lower end of the apartment, struggling with anger and antipathy. Villon surreptitiously refilled his cup and settled himself more comfortably in the chair, crossing his knees and leaning his head upon one hand and the elbow against the back of the chair. He was now replete and warm, and he was in service frightened for his host, having gauged him as justly as was possible between two such different characters. The night was far spent, and in a very comfortable fashion after all, and he felt morally certain of a safe departure on the morrow.

"Tell me one thing," said the old man, pausing in his walk. "Are you really a thief?"

"I claim the sacred rights of hospitality," returned the poet. "My lord, I am."

"You are very young," the knight continued.

"I should never have been so old," replied Villon, showing his fingers, "if I had not helped myself with these ten talents. They have been my nursing mothers and my nursing fathers."

"You may still repent and change."

"I repent daily," said the poet. "There are few people more given to repentance than poor Francis. As for change, let somebody change my circumstances. A man must continue to eat, if it were only that he may continue to repent."

"The change must begin in the heart," returned the old man solemnly.

"My dear lord," answered Villon, "do you really fancy that I steal for pleasure? I hate stealing like any other piece of work or of danger. My teeth chatter when I see a gallows. But I must eat, I must drink, I must mix in society of some sort. What the devil! Man is not a solitary animal—ut Deus faxitnam tradit. Make me king's jester, make me abbot of St. Denis, make me bailie of the Patatrac, and then I shall be changed indeed. But so long as you leave me the poor scholar Francis Villon, without a farthing, why, of course, I remain the same."

"The grace of God is all powerful."

"I should be a heretic to question it," said Francis. "It has made you lord of Brisetout and bailie of the Patatrac. It has given me nothing but the quick wits under my hat and these ten toes upon my hands. May I help myself to wine? I thank you respectfully. By God's grace, you have a very superior vintage."

The lord of Brisetout walked to and fro with his hands behind his back. Somehow he yearned to convert the young man to a better way of thinking and could not make up his mind to drive him forth again into the street.

"There is something more than I can understand in this," he said at length. "Your mouth is full of subtleties, and the devil has led you very far astray, but the devil is only a very weak spirit before God's truth, and all his subtleties vanish at a word of true honor, like darkness at morning. Listen to me once more. I learned long ago that a gentleman should live chivalrously and lovingly to God and the king and his lady, and, though I have seen many strange things done, I have still striven to command my ways upon that rule. It is not only written in all noble histories, but in every man's heart, if he will take care to read. You speak of food and wine, and I know very well that hunger is a difficult trial to endure, but you do not speak of other wants. You have totally forgotten the great and only real ones, like a man who should be doctoring toothache on the judgment day, for such things as honor and love and faith are not only nobler than food and drink, but indeed I think we desire them more and suffer more sharply for their absence. I speak to you as I think you will most easily understand me. Are you not, while careful to fill your belly, disregarding another appetite in your heart, which spoils the pleasure of your life and keeps you continually wretched?"

Villon was sensibly nettled under all this sermonising. "You think I have no sense of honor!" he cried. "I'm poor enough, God knows! It's hard to see rich people with their gloves and you blowing in your hands. An empty belly is a bitter thing, although you speak so lightly of it. If you had had as many as I, perhaps you would change your tune. Anyway, I'm a thief—make the most of that—but I'm not a devil from hell. God strike me dead! I would have you to know I've an honor of my own as good as yours, though I don't prate about it all day long as if it was a God's miracle to have any. It seems quite natural to me. I keep it in its box till it's wanted. Why, now, look you here, how long have I been in this room with you? Did you not tell me you were alone in the house? Look at your gold plate! You've strong, if you like, but you're old and unarmed, and I have my knife. What did I want but a jerk of the elbow and here would have been you with the cold steel in your bowels, and there would have been me, making in the streets with an armful of golden toys! Did you suppose I hadn't wit enough to see that? And I scorned the action. There are your d—d goblets as safe as in a church: there are you, with your heart ticking as good as new, and here am I, ready to go out again as poor as I came in, with my one white that you threw in my teeth! And you think I have no sense of honor—God strike me dead!"

The old man stretched out his right arm. "I will tell you what you are," he said. "You are a rogue, my man, an impudent and black hearted rogue and vagabond. I have passed an hour with you. Oh, believe me, I feel myself disgraced! And you have eaten and drunk at my table. But now I am sick at your presence. The day has come and the night bird should be off to his roost. Will you go before or after?"

"Which you please," returned the poet rising. "I believe you to be strictly honorable." He thoughtfully emptied his cup. "I wish I could add you were intelligent," he went on, knocking on his head with his knuckles. "Age, age; the brains stiff and rheumatic!"

"God pity you," said the lord of Brisetout at the door.

"Goodby, papa," returned Villon, with a yawn. "Many thanks for the cold mutton."

The door closed behind him. The dawn was breaking over the white roofs. A chill, uncomfortable morning ushered in the day. Villon stood and heartily stretched himself in the middle of the road.

"A very dull old gentleman," he thought. "I wonder what his goblets may be worth?"

WOMAN'S BEST MEDICINE

Mrs. Kelly Advises all Women to Take "Fruit-a-Tives"

MAGNETAWAN, ONT., Aug. 26th, 1913.

"I can highly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" because they did me an awful lot of good and I cannot speak too highly about them. About four years ago, I commenced taking "Fruit-a-tives" for a general break-down and they did me a world of good. We bought a good many dollar's worth, but it was money well spent because they did all that you claim for them. Their action is so pleasant, compared with other laxatives, that I found only pleasure, as well as health, in taking them. They seemed to me to be particularly suited to women, on account of their mild and gentle action, and I trust that some other women may start taking "Fruit-a-tives" after reading my letter, and if they do, I am satisfied the results will be the same as in my own case".

MRS. W. N. KELLY

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

RIVERS OF ALASKA.

The Waterway Wonders of This Immense Territory.

Were the rivers not navigable there would be little done in the interior of Alaska today. First used by the prospector in his poling boat and the trader with his little steamer, they have become the means of opening up every camp that has been struck in the interior of Alaska.

The Yukon is very shallow at its mouth, which is about seventy miles in width across its delta. There are places 400 miles from the mouth of the river where the biggest Atlantic liners could navigate with ease, for there are soundings which show a ninety foot channel in a mile wide river. The Yukon is navigable for 2,100 miles. The Koskoquim, a sister stream, has been navigated only on the lower reaches, but with its navigable branches is believed to have 1,000 miles of navigable water. The Tanana has been ascended for 500 miles and the Koyukuk in excess of that figure. Scores of other streams can be used by small steamers for from twenty-five to 200 miles. Altogether it is safe to say there are 5,000 miles of navigable streams in Alaska. The Yukon opens for navigation the latter part of May and closes the latter part of October.

But with all its wealth of gold, its unheard call to toilers of the soil, its mountains studded with gems of riches—the lodes of veins of copper and other materials—this empire starves for the one thing that would make it thrive.—Collier's.

The Name Noah.

Not many persons are sufficiently acquainted with the Bible to know that Noah was the name of a woman as well as of the patriarch. At an inquest in England a female witness gave her Christian name as "Noah." The coroner remarked that he had never before known a woman to bear the name, whereupon the witness, who was well posted in the origin of her singular prenomen, said:

"It is a Bible name, sir; you'll find it in the last chapter of the book of Numbers."

Reference was duly made, and in the eleventh verse of the thirty-sixth chapter the coroner found mention made of "Mahlah, Tirzah and Hoglah and Milcah and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad."

Twenty Volume Novels.

The longest novels of today are pygmies compared with those published in the seventeenth century. Mlle. de Scudery's "Le Grand Cyrus" ran into ten volumes, its publication being spread over five years. And when it was translated, or, to quote the title page, "Englished by a Person of Honour," it appeared in five folio volumes of some 900 pages apiece. Another novelist of the same period, La Calprenede, was even more diffuse, one of his works, "Cleopatre," extending over twenty-three volumes. These novels found plenty of readers despite their enormous length. The Paris publisher of "Le Grand Cyrus" made 200,000 crowns by the first edition alone. Nearly all the works of Scudery and Calprenede were translated into English as soon as they appeared and many of them into German as well.—London Chronicle.

BATTLES WITH LOCUSTS.

In 1780 an Army Was Arrayed Against the Ravaging Pests.

Since the days of the pharaohs the locust has been an unmitigated plague. Pliny relates that in many places in Greece a law obliged the inhabitants to wage war against the insects three times a year—i. e., in their various states of egg, larvae and adult.

In 1749 locusts stopped the army of Charles XII., king of Sweden, as it was retreating from Bessarabia after its defeat at Poltava. The king at first imagined that he was being assailed by a terrific hailstorm.

In Transylvania in 1780 the ravages of the locusts assumed such disastrous proportions that the army had actually to be called out to deal with the pests, and whole regiments of soldiers were employed gathering them up and putting them into sacks.

A weird, uncanny looking customer is the locust. The general color scheme of his body is a kind of indefinite green, relieved by pink legs and wings of a whitish color. Two huge, blank, unmeaning eyes give an expression of utter imbecility to the insect's countenance.

To atone in a measure for their destructive proclivities the locusts are edible. The Arabs are particularly fond of them. Camels, to which they are given after being dried and roasted between two layers of ashes, look upon locusts as great delicacies.

The flavor resembles that of crabs, and in Bagdad they are consumed so extensively as to affect the price of meat.—Stray Stories.

Betrothals in Germany.

In Germany an elaborate method of announcing the betrothal practically puts an end to all breach of promise cases. As soon as a couple become engaged the pair visit the town hall and declare their willingness to marry and sign, with witnesses, a series of documents which render a change of mind on the man's part practically out of the question. When either party wishes to withdraw from this agreement the pair again visit the town hall and additional documents are formally signed, witnessed and sealed. The authorities then determine the question of compensation for injured feelings, etc.

Ready For the Storm.

"I intend," the poet wrote, "to continue to storm the citadel of your affections."

"Storm away," she wrote back, "but I've just succeeded in getting in out of the wet by becoming engaged to a dear old man who has $9,000,000."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Smaller One.

Many stories are told of Tom Reed's sudden flashes of wit—as, for instance, when Miss Reed struck the earth instead of the golf ball and he said, "Hit the other ball, Kitty."—Portland (Me.) Express.

An Instance.

"We don't realise how much a thing's worth till we've lost it."

"That's right. For instance, my life is insured for $10,000."—Exchange.

ANY COLOR, so it's black, has recently been the slogan of the new art decorator, but still more recently that edict has been modified by the addition—and tango yellow.

So there you have it—black and white and tango yellow.

A Princeton boy wandering into a new studio might well imagine—with the modesty for which the youth of Princeton are noted—that the color scheme had been thought out entirely in his behalf.

The black and white craze which has taken possession of the world of interior decoration—the modernist school of it, at least—has not, generally speaking, seemed particularly practicable, in the opinion of the average housewife, who has been reluctant to plunge her family into so deep a gloom.

In these days of terrible responsibility, when every one is more or less weighed down with the effort of getting his steps right, it is rather hard to have the four walls of one's home offer so sepulchral a welcome.

But if the housewife who means to redecorate for the spring and summer examines the idea of black art in the home thoroughly she will find that instead of being gloomy its effect, unless great care is taken in its treatment, is too brilliant.

For if the black and white decoration is used after the foreign manner it will be found that there are always intense tones of bright color spotted here and there as a relief.

In many interiors also the black is used sparingly, just here and there, so as to accent the decoration of a room.

Futurism, cubism, neo-impressionism have had their fling in the world of decorations as in the world of paintings and gowns. There is a German school, an Austrian school and a French school of interior decoration, all nearly or distantly related to the wild doings of that group of painters who captured New York last winter.

Now the new ideas in decoration are being modified so that they are possible for the ordinary household. Like everything else in this world, there is a place for them, and there are places where these new ideas do not properly belong.

Much of the new furniture, the new draperies and the new ideas for treating interiors altogether, which are generally referred to as belonging to the French, the German or the Austrian schools of new art, are especially suitable for the country or suburban house. For bungalows, summer hotels, small and large cottages at seashore or mountain, they seem to be perfectly fitted. Modified and used with discretion, the startling designs are pleasing and harmonious and they afford a refreshing novelty.

Black and white checked floor coverings are very popular with the modernists, and these are reproduced in various sorts of fabrics, among them velvet carpet and Brussels. The centre may be black and the border checked, or the other way about. Sometimes the centre is plain gray or drab and the borders are black and white or drab and white instead of the more vivid contrast. This idea was evidently taken from the black and white tessellated pavements used in the vestibule of many old-fashioned houses and the effectiveness of which every one will remember.

In addition to the black and white linoleums there are many other linoleums used in the rooms of the modernists, for Europeans, unlike Americans, have not relegated this material to kitchens and offices. They make use of it for every room in the house, and they produce it in a great variety of pleasing neutral tones and unobtrusive designs such as are most useful and appropriate for the floor covering of living rooms. There are so often rooms whose floors are beyond redemption, save by the expensive process of replacing, that the possibilities of linoleum are well worth examining.

Many decorators believe that the black and white floor coverings are much too striking to be used anywhere but on a passage room. They declare that it is quite impossible that a room which is to be much used should have this unrepose-ful element.

Professor Josef Hoffmann, of Vienna, who is declared to be the sponsor for black and white in interior decorations, has introduced black in a great variety of ways, in addition to the draperies of black and white or colors against black backgrounds.

There is furniture of black with intense decorations or with small white ornaments. There is likewise white furniture with small, brilliant decorations in black. This black and white furniture is usually upholstered in the most vivid chintz or in black and white upholstery material in large and striking designs.

On the other hand, there is furniture ornamented with designs of brilliant color. When the back of the chair has these color decorations the upholstery is usually very vivid, but plain.

A very striking set of chairs in black was upholstered in black and white. These chairs, straight backed and in a Viennese design, had a central panel in the back. An odd effect was the decoration of this central panel with a strip of the black and white chintz, which was pasted directly upon the wood.

Black and white chints is also used upon white enamelled chairs, which have a little black ornamentation in the middle of the top of the back. The only other black touches on the chairs are little squares of black enamel at the top of each leg. With these simple straight backed chairs goes a prim little oblong table, beautifully proportioned, which has also the square black enamelled ornaments in the corners.

This little set is used in a room having white walls stencilled in black. The wall is panelled in white wood. At the top of each panel there is white striped paper, around which there is a tiny stencilled border of black. The lower half of the panel is of a close figured chintz in black and white.

The touch of intense color which seems to be necessary for all these rooms is afforded by a brilliant Austrian chintz, which is cubist, and, above all, futurist.

Panelling is also used in the rooms decorated by followers of the Austrian, French or German schools of modern art. Frequently the dough-nut, painted out with moulding, first in white enamel. The lower part of the wall may be covered with one of the brilliant French or Austrian chintzes. Then, above this, the wall, painted in neutral tones or covered with a plain paper, is panelled with a wood moulding which is very frequently painted black. The effect of such wall decoration is most attractive. Sometimes the panels are also painted instead of being made with mouldings. Black is not always used, as often the walls only be panelled in two mildly contrasting tones or in two shades of the same color. When this is done, however, there is a vivid note somewhere in the room to give to its decoration the boldness that is characteristic of all the new designs.

The hangings may be of some of the brilliant chintzes from Austria or of plain linens, &c., embroidered in black or the most brilliant colors. In a room whose walls were of light straw color the hangings were of deep cretonne figure embroidered in black. The deep border was very open and light looking, composed of geometrical designs in black, but in the centre of each hem was set a design a foot wide wrought in the most vivid colors obtainable—intense orange, brilliant red, black and purple. It is the foreign decorators of the home insisting that black and white shall be used for every purpose of interior decoration without producing a sober result.

The furniture designed by all of these foreign decorators is straight in line and usually strikingly simple, but it comes in a great variety of patterns, and when an important commission is undertaken it is designed especially for such room. There are charmingly light and delicate pieces as well as strong and heavy ones, and in this way French, Austrian and German designers seem to differ entirely from the modern furniture craftsmen of other countries, whose designs, although effective and strong, are usually on one pride and include little that is delicate or light.

Not only the floor, the walls and the more important furnishings of the new art room are considered of great moment, but the cushions and ornaments are also carefully selected so that they will accord absolutely with the design of the apartment, and will even do more than this, for with these smaller objects an accent may be given to a room. One cushion may complete a room if it is exactly of the proper material. Its absence may leave the apartment without its final necessary fillip. It is like a hat which, after all, depends just as much for its perfection on the tasteful selection of the tiny rose that goes under the brim as it does on the shape and the important upper trimming.

Those who have seen the opera "Salo" have come to realize the value of cushions in a room. While the scene may be regarded as an exaggeration of modern French art in furnishing, it nevertheless, as is often the case with exaggerations, brings out the points of novelty, the boldness of modern decoration and shows how the brilliant note afforded by the cushions may be the central point of decoration in the room. To dare very much is the keynote of this modern decoration. Reticence is never its fault. It exemplifies the harmony of contrast when it is seen at its best.

There are ornaments also which are especially suited to these rooms, adding them the vases, of odd shapes but usually all in white, which were invented by Professor Hoffmann. These vases are sometimes cylindrical, sometimes square; again they are made of three square tapering pieces which are fastened together. The ware of which the vases are made is usually reticulated, not in diamonds but in squares. Inside the porcelain vase there is one of glass or tin, or the ware is so made that within this reticulated pattern there is a solid lining.

Figurines in pure white are also among the appropriate decorations for these rooms furnished in modern style. They are quaint in shape and have a peculiarly attractive quality when placed against the backgrounds of bright colored chintzes or the panelled walls of the futurist rooms.

Professor Hoffmann to exercise so dominant an influence over the art of the home, and the German decorator, while he may get a little inspiration from Professor Hoffman, is not so decidedly a member of any school as the Viennese decorator is apt to be.

To the straw colored walls of this room there is opposed a rug of gray and blue, which prevents the color scheme from becoming monotonous. The rug is plain in effect, but has in reality a border of two shaded bands of color.

The furniture is of white wicker or of white enamelled wood, or the two in combination. The cushions have in them a touch of the yellow of the walls and the orange of the window hangings. These hangings are of an intense orange or white. They produce an effect of sunlight.

There is a fascinating little dining room whose hangings are of black and white Austrian chintz and whose walls are yellow. The chintz is striped black and white has large white flowers scattered over the striped background. The rug is of deep soft tones of gray, the furniture is black. One of the features of the room is a lighting fixture which has an inverted globe that is like a huge bowl, which is made of white oblongs set in black borders.

Black is also used on the woodwork and in the most effective fashion. It must be handled adroitly, of course, otherwise it would be quite impossible. But those who have studied the methods of Professor Hoffmann understand how this may be done.

Let us suppose a room is to be decorated with yellow walls or walls of orange, drab or greenish gray. It does not matter much what the wall color is if the woodwork be trimmed with black. With orange walls the doors may be painted with outer borders of black and with green the moulding of the central panel done in black. It seems somehow to go with the gray doors without making too much of a contrast.

A room with pale yellow walls, and the doors painted in the same shade of yellow, had the door panels and the window frames outlined with black. Narrow black panelling to the Viennese decorator seems to be like the touch of black in a costume recommended by the Parisian couturier never amiss.

A few words in reference to the test-hands in the first article, bidding and play.

No. 1—At score; first game—love all.

It will be remembered test-hands Nos. 1 and 2 were given in connection with the discussion of negative bids, that is, contracts to take less than the book (7 is the book for such), and to be played the reverse of no-trump. Obviously negative suit bids are not practicable.

I had for some time aired his idea to the "Coterie," that weak hands be accorded some show. Other games do it, and down the monopoly of high cards. Some had doubts about the feasibility. It was put to a trial. As my record shows, on February 15, 1913, these hands were dealt. To dispirit all misgivings, Prospero, as Z, plunged into the unknown and began with minus one (Nullo's appellation did then not exist, and 10 was to be the trick value, same as positive no trumpers). We had some doubts what the book should be. Thirteen cards, divided by two for odd trick, would not go. We correctly concluded to make the book 7 for negative, as it was 6 for positive play, and to figure the contract by subtraction from 7; in same sense as by addition to 6 in ordinary play. Z weighed his hand a sure loser; would not bid eight or jack high reckoning his two losers and two trays the equal of aces and kings; given to say a spade about an invincible. Below a suit bid and did not appear promising. Z's reasoning decided on negative play.

A followed, quite in the dark, with as nutried declaration just made. In the usual way, he would have said "By." But here was Z with a bid announcing utmost weakness; hence A ventured a no trump, just to give partner B to understand that he held fairly good cards. A's bid was scarcely defensible, holding hardly three sure tricks. Y, as much in the dark on that novel proposition of partner's, but having high cards well seconded by low ones, and a black suit that would become useful for the discarding of honor cards, is willing to run the risk of minus two.

(Here I notice two answers starting Z with a spade, a "By" and letting Y say a diamond, to which B responds with a heart.)

To return to the original bidding. B with 2 aces though weak, and two long suits with good cards, cannot help but support A's no trump, by going boldly to two no trumps.

Thus encouraged, Z rises to minus 3 (not over 4 tricks for Y Z); in pursuit of fatality, says 3 no trumps. Y, "no." B, "no."

Should Z let it be, after giving as much encouragement to the reverse play? Z declares minus 4—closed. The contract stands that Y Z do not take but three tricks, placing ten tricks on A B, in spite all A B can do to force tricks on Y Z. It looks like a risky undertaking; after A had led X of spades and Y's hand came on the table, it looked somewhat less risky to Z. The record of the play follows: the card taking the trick is underscored.

Players.	A	Y	B	Z
1.....	Xs	Qs	Js	Kh
2.....	Jd	Qd	Ad	Kd
3.....	8h	Ah	9h	6d
4.....	9d	7d	Ac	3d
5.....	6h	Xh	7h	Jc
6.....	Jh	4h	Qh	Xc
7.....	6s	5s	4s	9c
8.....	7s	3s	9s	7c

12.....	Qc	4d	3h	3c
13.....	Kc	2h	2s	2c
Tricks.....	7	3	3	—

Ten for A B.

The result shows Y Z won, three tricks against ten for A B, four tricks for Y Z below line (were) 40. As to honors, if the aces are to count on side not holding them (the which Prospero is not in favor of) Y Z would also be entitled to make three aces above line.

With the experience gained by twelve months' trials and the settlement of many mooted points this same deal was recently given to entirely different players, Y Z taking but two tricks on their bid of negative four, same as in first attempt.

Will my readers try to play it and give the progress of the game? Perhaps even better can be done barring obvious errors. I am really curious to see the improvement that is possible. Test hand No. 1 is the first negative play on record. Through it this feature originated. In fact, it gave the impulse to the writing of books, the publishing of many articles, the keen discussion in clubs of college and evoked the supreme effort and the despair of legions of bridge players. Whether permanent or a whim of the moment the public will decide.

To return to the test hand. I should advance several questions. Which, or any other, declaration would score game for either side? Which declaration, considering each hand by itself, would be safe? The probability is that either clubs or diamonds for Y Z; or hearts, royals, no trumps at one for A B, would go. At two, in any declaration (positive) the player would be set. Try them out, even with the four hands open before you. How different from actual play!

As the game was played, Z starts with a negative bid, on which he has a margin of five, and in actual play one of seven—that is no trick at all. Partner Y clearly understands the necessity of seconding the bid; he is confident he will be able to "chuck" (a most expressive term, highly acceptable, and for which I thank the originator) or to discard his high cards on a blank suit in clubs. This co-operation, hands fitting into each other, renders a bid of four negative fairly safe. True, we witness a race between positive and negative no trumpers. Suppose we do. What harm is done? If A B had been left in with three no trumps there would have been another story to tell. Is the game less or more fascinating?

As deductions from that first negative play, some strong points came to the surface. Foremost it showed the immense importance of black suits—veritable Gokcoubas. The very opposite of their play with no trumpers. Then the estimation the dances and trays deserve and sequences beginning low, similar to Z's clubs—there was no entrance to that fortress, no break into that wall. The side Y Z ran, even had they been out at plans 4, was very slight in comparison to a game in.

Another phase between close play in negative play the dummy hand is the one that is the more dangerous and on which the tricks can be forced by the opponents.

Here I am discussing the first test hand; my space is about filled. I am compelled to defer No. 2 for the next article, and for to-day I have Test Hand No. 1.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Claimant

He Had Recourse to a Brute For a Witness

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

There is in man a faculty for development that the lower animals do not possess.

An illustration of this diversity between men and animals occurred during the eighteenth century in the case of a young Irishman who emigrated to America and later returned to his native country. Arthur Donovan was a younger son of the Earl of Strongford. Young Donovan was devoted to hunting, and, since there was a fine pack of hounds on the estate, he occupied himself largely with the sport. Neither of his older brothers cared for it, so that the dogs came to look upon Arthur as their master, and he never went among them that they did not show the greatest affection for him.

Arthur was not only beloved by his dogs, but by every one who knew him. He was a fine, manly fellow, while his older brothers were disposed to lead a dissolute city life. The heir to the title and estates spent most of his time in London, while the second was an officer in one of the aristocratic English regiments. Arthur, having only the remotest chance to inherit the title, became restive and did what a great many younger sons of British noblemen did in those days—he emigrated to America.

Arthur Donovan was but eighteen years old when he left Ireland for America. The last goodby he spoke was to the dogs. Going out to the kennels, he called to them, and they gathered about him, barking their joy, supposing that they were going for a hunt. There was one dog, Hector, of which Arthur had made an especial pet. He was very young, but Arthur had found him capable of being trained far easier than the other hunters. Hector loved his master, and his master loved Hector. When it came to bidding farewell to this dog Arthur's eyes became wet, and, breaking away from his pet and waving adieu to the pack, he returned to the house, where a conveyance was waiting to take him to Belfast, from which point he was to sail for Virginia.

Arthur reached America not long before the breaking out of the Revolutionary war. In civil strifes the side youngsters take is liable to be decided by circumstances. Perhaps young Donovan was influenced by a hereditary antagonism to England, but the immediate cause of his advocating the American cause was meeting with John Paul Jones, who became famous as a naval commander. Jones was as much Scotch as Donovan was Irish. Donovan joined the future conqueror of the Serapis and was with him during that famous battle, receiving a wound in the face which left a scar which largely changed his expression.

At the end of the war Donovan had been in America ten years. Between eighteen and twenty-eight there is always a considerable change in a man's appearance, but in this case there was much more than is usual. When Arthur left Ireland his face was smooth. Now it was covered with a beard, which he wore partly to hide the scar he had received in battle. Then he had a thick head of hair, which was now thin, and he had inherited a family predisposition to become gray early. As soon as hostilities ceased, with some prize money he had received he bought a tobacco plantation in Virginia, and, settling down on it, there was every prospect of his living the life of an American southern planter.

When Arthur joined Paul Jones he wrote his family in Ireland of the fact, and his father ordered that his name should never again be mentioned by any of the family. Eight years passed without a word between him and them. The oldest son died of dissipation, and the next younger brother, who had been sent with his regiment to America, was killed at the siege of Yorktown, which occurred near the end of the war. Neither of these men was married.

This left Arthur Donovan Earl of Strongford by right, but there was a barrier between him and the title which would be difficult to pass. In the first place, a cousin, Herbert Donovan, a keen and unscrupulous lawyer, was next of kin and, with Arthur out of the way, would possess the title and entailed estates. Secondly, Arthur, having had no communication with his family for years, would likely have difficulty in proving his identity. Thirdly, in endeavoring to establish his claim against his cousin his having fought England, especially with the so called pirate, Paul Jones, would prejudice every one against him.

When the Earl of Strongford died Herbert Donovan laid claim to the inheritance, taking the ground that Arthur was dead. To prove this he sent an agent to America with instructions to find a record of the death of some one bearing the name of Donovan and many affairs evidence that the claimant was the youngest son of the Earl of Strongford. This was not difficult. There were plenty of Donovans in America, and a record was found of an Arthur Donovan who had been killed at the battle of Trenton. Ireland was much farther from America in those days than now, and to make up a case proving this man was a son of the Earl of Strongford was not the task it would be today.

The position taken by Herbert Donovan was well fortified before Arthur heard of the great changes that had occurred since he left home. The occasion of his hearing of it at all was that the case became known to a Dublin attorney, O'Rourke, who knew the Strongfords, especially Herbert, and through a desire for gain, as well as a sense of justice, concluded to find Arthur, if alive, and notify him that his inheritance was about to pass to another. He, too, sent an agent to America in the matter of the Strongford title and estates.

Arthur was riding over the broad acres of his tobacco plantation when a man accosted him and handed him a letter from O'Rourke notifying him of the death of his father and brother and saying his cousin had laid claim to the title and estate. Arthur at once put his affairs in America in a position to go to Ireland and took the next vessel that sailed from Philadelphia. Arriving in Dublin, he went straight to O'Rourke, whom he had known before leaving home, and introduced himself as Arthur Donovan. He received his first setback in the fact that the attorney recognized nothing in his appearance of the youth he had seen more than ten years before. He asked Arthur what proof he had of his identity, and Arthur was obliged to confess that the life he had led as a sailor during the American war had resulted in the destruction of every paper he had possessed connecting him with the family.

O'Rourke was disheartened. He had spent some money in sending an agent to America, which it now appeared he was likely to lose. He was very doubtful about his client being the real Arthur Donovan. But Arthur, who had learned in his experience with the colonists how to put up a good fight, persevered and succeeded by narrating events which had happened in his family with which O'Rourke was conversant in putting sufficient confidence in the attorney to induce him to undertake his case, though Arthur was obliged to send to America for means to pay the costs.

When Herbert Donovan saw the claimant to the Strongford title he felt quite comforted. He had seen his cousin frequently in years gone by and now saw not the slightest resemblance between this man and Arthur Donovan. He had taken possession of the late earl's residence and ransacked the house, searching for any papers or likeness that might aid in establishing Arthur's claim. He had found some letters and a miniature painting on ivory made when Arthur was sixteen years of age. He had destroyed the letters and kept the portrait till he could discover whether it would aid his own case or his cousin's.

Death and change had played havoc with the Strongford household. Lady Strongford had died before Arthur left home. Most of the servants had gone elsewhere, and of those who remained many pronounced him an impostor, the rest being in doubt. Michael Monahan, the keeper of the hounds, was still there, though but two or three dogs were left of the pack, since no member of the family had hunted since his departure. Michael when he saw Arthur was in doubt whether he was the man he had known as a youth or an impostor. Asking Arthur for his hat, he put the lining up to his nostrils and drew a long breath.

"Ah, Mr. Arthur," he exclaimed, "you're the rale hunter that went to Ameriky! I know you by the fine perfume of you."

Arthur at once communicated this fact to his attorney as important proof. But O'Rourke drew nothing in it, and if there had been he said it could not be utilized in court. If Michael had not seen Arthur since his return to Ireland and could pick him out by his personal odor among a number of men it would go far toward establishing his claim. Was there any one else who had not seen him who would recognize him by this odor, which was very like musk and agreeable rather than unpleasant?

Unfortunately not a person could be found who had ever detected this personal odor. Arthur worked hard to get other evidence, but for every bit he got in his favor his cousin secured one against him. His counsel took the matter up for trial with misgivings but hoped for the best. Michael Monahan made an excellent witness, and O'Rourke told Arthur that if he could get anything in the same line to reenforce it he believed that he could win the case for him.

Arthur asked Michael if any of the dogs he left behind when he went away were still living. Michael thought awhile, then replied that there was one left, old Hector, but he was half blind. After a conference between O'Rourke and Arthur it was decided to bring Hector into court as a last hope.

The scene when the old hunter was led up to Donovan was long remembered in those parts. Hector cast a glance at his master and looked away. Donovan drew nearer the dog till he was within a few inches of the animal's nose. Then Hector began to sniff, nosing about as though trying to remember something. Then he gave a low moan, which he kept repeating.

"Hec!" said Donovan.

Hector started, whined and raised himself till his forepaws rested against Donovan.

It was now evident that the dog remembered his former master, laying his head against Donovan's breast and crooning like an old woman over a newly found child.

The case was won. What it is difficult to describe in words was easy for the jury to interpret. Donovan was and soon after took possession of the title and estates. The most valued creature on the premises was old Hector, which died at the advanced age of thirteen.

WORRY CAN KILL.

Science Proves That Fretting Frequently Cost Life.

We have often heard that worry can kill even the nine-lived cat, but we have only half believed it, and until now we have had no scientific proof that it was so.

Medical science has recently confirmed the fact and explained how worry commits its murders. It has reached the conclusion that in many instances of what has been regarded as lunacy, and from which the victim finally dies, the case has simply been one of acute worry. Instead of the person dying of mental breakdown he has worried himself to death.

Worry medical science now defines as the dominance of one idea, usually that of fear. There is a fear of some existing condition or dread of what may happen. The idea crowds all others from the mind, or permits them only the feeblest and occasional activity. The most terrible tyranny is the tyranny of an idea.

This one idea pounds hammer-like upon one set of brain cells. It overstimulates them, causing an unusual flow of blood to these portions and a dearth of it to other parts of the brain. This would not be serious if it happened only now and then, for every brain cell should be replenished by more than the usual flow of blood at times to keep it properly fed and nourished.

But a constant overfeeding of these cells causes a congestion there. The cells become more and more distended. The worry grows more and more acute. The pounding of the blood against the sides of the cell acquires a hammer-like violence. The sides of the cells wear thin. A cell bursts. There is a so-called "clot on the brain." Death follows.

The cure of the worry that kills is prevention. Refuse to worry. Do your best, and, having done this, decline as positively to fret about the results as you would decline to drink a draught of poison. Worry comes as an occasional visitant to everyone, but as we shut our doors to unwelcome visitors, so we close the portals against the entrance of worry. Admitted, it ceases to become a visitor—it is a habit, and a habit that destroys. The action of worry upon the brain cells is most like the constant dropping of water upon a stone. At first it makes not the slightest impression upon the stone, but in time it wears it away. The cells of the brain are of more delicate tissue, and the steady wear and tear of the extra blood supply in time quickly wears them out.

Or, according to medical science, it is as though a garment worn day after day without change soon falls into tatters. Examinations of the brain after death have shown a group of nerve cells at the crown of the head that have perished in the same way the nerve of a tooth dies. While every other brain cell seems to be in ordinary condition this group has shrunken. It is a curious coincidence, and science says a consequence, as inevitable as cause, that the hair on the portion of the scalp just above this brain area is the first to grow gray, and an excess of blood in any portion of the brain causes the scalp above that portion to be overheated.

STRENGTH FOR EVERY NEED

In human affairs we often find the value of things to be mainly a question of comparison, and to depend largely, on the point of view taken. What seems a thing of great moment to one may be a trifle to another, and that which appears poverty to one person may express wealth to his neighbour. It is even possible that what would be a real hardship in one case might promise no little satisfaction in another. It is evident, therefore, that in every instance need is an individual question.

How, careful, then, one should be not to critize nor condemn when seeming failure to achieve, or to hold, overtake a neighbour! A liberal measure of the large-hearted charity that thinketh no evil," and "is kind," may be all that is wanted to inspire the defeated one with fresh hope, and the courage and determination to act more worthily in the future. At the same time, however, great divergence of opinion there may be in our estimate of our own or others difficulties, it is certain that the sense of need for strength above and beyond human capacity is constantly presented with mankind, whether conspicuously recognized and admitted or not.

Through the teaching of Christian Science we see how the discords of daily life—attended by beliefs of discouragement, hardship, loss or failure—are only seemingly unsurmountable when there is no turning to God for the strength which is freely given to all who seek it. Just as unlimited credit at a bank would be useless to the possessor if he never drew upon the recources at his disposal, so humanity, failing to draw upon the divine Mind, falters in the struggle with the false claims of evil through not knowing, or not remembering, that the joy of the Lord is man's strength and that the supply is inexhaustible.

The belief of self-sufficiency so long as it is present is fatal to the right overcoming of the trials and temptations which beset the path of mortals. When David put aside the material armour offered him by Kign Saul it mattered nothing that he, although short of stature and youthful, was bravely facing a giant trained in war, for he went to the conflict in the "strength of the Lord," in the knowledge that God was with him and would be his shield and buckler. When Christ Jesus overcame the prolonged temptation in the wilderness, it was with absolute self-surrender, seeking help in the Word of God alone. In the proportion that men realise that, as joint-heirs with Christ, all God's children are entitle to a full inheritance of good, will they prove the promise, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." This strength will be found available in every instance where the necessary condition of absolute reliance on God is fulfilled, and in this way only can we conquer every enemy of truth and face each difficulty with the knowledge that with God for us the victory is already ours.

Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, through her earnest seeking after truth and the purity of her love for humanity became the channel for the great revelation of the true teaching of the Messiah concerning the allness of God, good, and the unreality of evil and all its false claims. In "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures," the text-book of Christian Science, we read, "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man" (p. 336). Mortals are constantly proving their own powerless to stem the tide of human want and woe or to grapple with the belief of sorrow and suffering in themselves and others. But "man's extremity is God's opportunity," and to lay down the weapons of the fleshy mind and to reach out for the armour of God is to begin aright. Such seekers will be guided to that full assurance of faith which always leads to victory.

To those who study and ponder on the teaching and mighty works of the great Master it is self-evident that the strength which met every need and mastered every foe was God-given, the necessary and unfailing result of unswerving obedience to Truth. It is little wonder that a material world failed to uphold the recognition of the spiritual idea, the reflection of the one infinite Mind in its pristine purity, and confusing the divine with the human, ultimately declared the human Jesus to be God Himself, instead of the Wayshower, the great demonstrator of God, as Christian Science teaches.

In the perfect understanding of Love, as divine Principle, Christ Jesus knew that he could do nothing of himself, but that the loving Father of all would not and could not withhold needful strength from any of His children,, since God, is the continuous Giver of all good. It was this deep-seated joy and confidence expressed in spontaneous thanksgiving which heralded the great achievements of the meek but mighty Nazarene. There was no need for the prayer of petition in that joyous realization of his oneness with the Father, "I new that thou hearest me always." And the trustful assurance was passed on to His disciples in that rest-giving injunction, "Let not your heart be troubled, neithel let it be afraid."—Christian Science Monitor.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Ninga, Man. No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion." — Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Clarksville, Ont. — "I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial." — Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

JAPANESE WOMEN.

Perfection of Home Life Is One of Her Highest Ambitions.

The woman of Japan does not have to bother or interest herself in what the coming fashions are in dress. She does not have to be prepared to change her full plaited short skirt into a long, sweeping tight one or a banded, strapped bobble one—but what she does have to do is to change the color of her kimonos to carry out the Japanese idea of fashion. Color is the thing. Her kimono remains the same, but Madam Nippon may be terribly out of fashion if she dons a kimono that is pink when the season's dictator of women's fashions says that she should be wearing violet tones. Another peculiarity of Japanese fashion is that the older a woman of that country becomes the shorter and smaller must be her kimono sleeves.

Japanese women are further advanced socially than they were before the new code of 10 years ago, a condition which has been brought about largely through the differences in the marriage laws. Now divorce can only be procured through mutual consent. Formerly a man could divorce his wife without any cause whatsoever. According to the present laws there are just two reasons for divorcing a woman—one is unfaithfulness and the other is if she has served a prison sentence of over a year's time.

The girls of Japan are brought up with different ideas of life from those held by girls in America. They are taught that their lives are to hold suffering and care; that whatever there is of happiness is an incident. Marriage is looked forward to as one of woman's duties and as a high service. Therefore she generally accepts her mother's choice of a husband without dissent, for she is brought up to believe that her parents' judgment is best until she is married. This explains why in that country marriages, for the most part, are satisfactory, while divorces are much less frequent than in America.

Japanese women concern themselves not at all about politics, for it is not customary for women to know about such matters or to show curiosity about them. Whatever effort they wish to spare from attending the domestic duties is concentrated on philanthropic and educational questions. Domestic duties come first of all, however, for these women take the keenest interest in their home lives, the highest ambition of a wife being to perfect her own in this regard so far as she may be able.

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress, Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver, and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, Sound View, Conn.

HOT SHOT FOR WAR OFFICE.

Speakers at Bisley Dinner All Back Canada's Stand.

BISLEY, July 22.—Vociferous cheers greeted a speech by Col. Merrill, commandant of the Australian contingent, at the general meeting of Bisley marksmen last night when he said that Australia would have nothing of the new conditions which the War Office had imposed on the National Rifle Association.

Col. Ross disclaimed any authority to speak for the Canadian Minister of Militia or the Dominion Rifle Association, but his personal knowledge, he said, convinced him that Canadian marksmen would not have any aspirations if the new conditions were imposed.

Lord Cheylesmore, the chairman, asked the overseas commandants to give him a written statement conveying their objections to put before the War Office. Bisley without a Canadian contingent, he added, would be unthinkable.

AN OFFICIAL SNUB

Paddy Pilny at Canial Robert Louis Stevenson.

A CONSUL WITH A GROUCH.

The Author Called on the Newly Appointed Official at Apia to Pay His Respects and Was Given the Raw Wide Four-Fingers and No Ceremony.

When Robert Louis Stevenson lived in Samoa he dressed as the others there did. Up at Vailima they all went about in their bare feet, except when expecting guests.

When Stevenson came into Apia he rested only half dressed. He always came down with a soft shirt on and generally white flannel trousers, sometimes with a red sash round the waist.

On one occasion the gruff author was equally snubbed by a newly appointed British consul at Apia, one Colonel De Coetlogon. The story is told in "With Stevenson in Samoa," by H. J. Moors, the author:

One Sunday morning while Stevenson and myself, barefoot and in pajamas, were discussing the various local celebrities, my friend suddenly jumped up and announced that he had neglected a bounden duty. Here he had been in Apia for some considerable time and had not yet called on her Britannic majesty's representative. Every Britisher of much thought attend to such a duty at the earliest possible moment. I must introduce him without one moment's further delay! "Come along, Moors," said he; "let's get it off our mind!"

I informed him that Colonel De Coetlogon was himself a new man in the place—in fact from 24 Apia but a little while—and I had not yet met him. People who had met him had mostly declared him to be an unpleasant, crusty old fellow, full of pomposity. I was therefore very loath to go until the new arrival had disappeared down somewhat. It was rumored that he had been for years governor of some great jail in Britain, and people remarked that he treated many of his callers as ticket of leave men who had come in to report.

But Stevenson, feeling very sure of his powers to charm this Gorgon, would take no warning, but shouted gayly: "Come on, Moors! I'll attend to this case. He'll welcome us all right." I pointed out his attire and his lack of shoes, and, with a sigh, he compromised so far as to put on a clean shirt and a pair of trousers and shoes, but my best efforts would not induce him to wear a coat. In the rig we were and under his blue yachting cap he positively looked no more than twenty or twenty-five years of age. He bubbled with enthusiasm over everything new and strange that came within his view as we passed along the road to Malaeata, where De Coetlogon lived. From the beginning I doubted if we would receive anything like an effusive welcome, and I took care to impart my fears to my friend, but he only laughed. Particularly did I point out that this was Sunday and that we should choose another day for our visit. He still laughed.

With pride and joy he threw open the consular gate and strode manfully across the lawn, I following close behind. A tall, soldierly person, with white mustachios and close cropped hair, was sitting peacefully on the veranda. He made no attempt to rise and welcome us. A whisky and soda and just then his rapt attention. We ascended the steps. The statue in the chair merely regarded us. We might as well have been a couple of distressed prisoners coming to pray for some amelioration.

Stevenson would have embraced this cold representative of his country's greatness, but the chill restrained him. "Good morning, sir."

A grunt. "Well, what do you want?"

"My name is Stevenson. I am well known in Britain by my works—in fact, I am a novelist. This is Mr. Moors."

"Well, what do you want?"

No friendly hand was stretched out to greet us. We noted a face as hard as stone, as uncompromising and as sympathetic as a brick wall. Stevenson stood there as one petrified; I was quite appalled. My friend had not counted on such a start. There was no seam or crevice in which he might momentarily locate to speculate before he should attack again. The consul's brow was cold to look upon. He had not even risen civilly to hear us.

"We have come, sir, to pay our respects."

"If you have any business and desire to see me I will listen to you on week days and in my office at the proper time. Good morning."

Stevenson quite lost the power of speech and looked appealingly at me. I cannot remember exactly what I said, but I know that I endeavored to depict to the consul the worth and honesty of my companion.

In return came this: "I don't care who you are—either of you! If you have any business at this consulate come and state it at the proper time."

Without more than a profound bow Stevenson turned and made his way out into the road again, I having preceded him. "By heavens, Moors, you were right! What a beast! What a d——d—well, I suppose he has a right to choose his own Sunday morning company. I had thought that I was one of the foremost men of letters of the day, but this fellow differs. What a situation for a man of my supposed eminence to find himself in! People will differ in their opinions, won't they?" And he burst out into a merry laugh.

"My new teeth are pretty good company at a square meal."

"Still, you must be careful how you pick your company." — Philadelphia Ledger.

FENNEL.

It is to the Italian Somewhat as Celery is to Us.

"That's about the last Italian table d'hote furniture anything that takes me back to my grandmother's time," said a New York man, "I at first was my experience last night. The first nibble of something I'd supposed was celery sent my mind wandering back fifty years to an old New England village.

"'Fennel?' I asked the Italian waiter. He nodded and smiled and gave me the Italian form of the word, which I carefully wrote down on a scrap of paper, 'Finocchi.' I suppose it showed my ignorance, but never before did I know that fennel is to the Italians what celery is to us. Evidently the large beans of the habitants are bleached in similar fashion, and from the way it was served I could see it was intended to be dipped in salt, as we eat celery. My obliging waiter told me that it was delicious as a salad and when boiled and served with cream sauce it made a popular Italian dish.

"But after all what did these culinary details matter? What musty recesses was that strange, penetrating flavor which took me back to my childhood. As I thoughtfully nibbled my floral stalks the last fifty years seemed a blank. I was a child again, picking big clusters of yellow, aromatic fennel seeds in my grandmother's garden."—New York Sun.

AFRICAN WITCH DOCTORS.

They Make Themselves, Like Their Idols, as Hideous as Possible.

The most impressive period of the young African's life is that between youth and manhood (or womanhood). It is then that the witch doctor is extremely busy with his various mysterious rites. It is an important part of his calling to be hideous, as in most cases he undoubtedly is. A ridiculous mask covers his head, and wildcat or other skins are hung dreond his loins. Pigment of various colors is plentifully daubed over his body, and in this hideous state it is not to be wondered at that he strikes terror into the maidens' hearts as he dances wildly in the dim firelight, glaring at them with fiendish eyes. The timid young creatures are like the hare which trembles as the hovering bird of prey flutters over its head. Fear will be crushed, and the erstwhile playful, willful child is transformed in most cases into a frightened creature, with, for the time being, no will of her own. It is a curious thing that nothing connected with what one may call the spiritual side of the blacks' life is ever beautiful. Their carved figures are always, to say the least, grotesque and calculated to frighten rather than comfort the bereaved.—Wide World Magazine.

Found a Friend In Dr. Chase

His Medicines Proven Effective and Always Kept at Hand in This Home.

Mrs. Chas. Lovell, Agassiz, B. C., writes:—"I feel it my duty to tell you what a great friend Dr. Chase's medicines have been to myself and family. I cannot praise his medicines too highly, and Dr. Chase's name is a household word in our home. Well, quite a number of years ago I sent to you for a sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment for protruding piles, and, having used the sample and found relief, I sent to a neighbouring town for four boxes, and I am completely cured.

"I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for constipation, and, after using them, I am completely cured of this dreadful disease. I am the mother of ten children, of whom nine are living, and when seven of my children were all very bad with whooping cough, caught in the middle of a severe winter, I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and they were all cured before the winter was over, and now we are never without Dr. Chase's medicines in our home, and I recommend them to all."

WATERY BLISTERS INTENSELY ITCHY.

Between Fingers. Spread to Tips. Would Swell Up, Itch and Burn. Did Not Dare Put Hands in Water. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Carman, Manitoba.—"A breaking out between my fingers was the first trouble. It was very itchy and spread to my finger tips affecting the nails. It first appeared in watery blisters and they were so intensely itchy I scratched them and let the water run making sores. They would swell up, itch and burn and finally the nails would become sore and come off. I could not dare to put my hands in water enough to wash them.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, but was told by others that the remedies would help a terrible [illegible] I was not free from it altogether. I was that way for nine years trying everything. I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for them and before I had used them half a dozen times I noticed an improvement. By washing with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Ointment frequently I was cured in three months." (Signed) Miss Florence E. Middleton, May 28, 1913.

THE IRISH GUARDS CHEER THE NATIONALIST LEADERS

Leaders in Home Rule Controversy Confer for an Hour and One-half To-day and Again Adjourn

ENORMOUS CROWDS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., July 22.—Enormous crowds thronged the streets today to watch the leaders in the Home Rule controversy enter Buckingham Palace for the King's conference today, which lasted four and a half hours, and again adjourned. It was pointed out that any suggestions made would first have to be submitted by the Nationalists and Ulster leaders to caucuses of their parties before acceptance. An unusual scene was presented as John Redmond and John Dillon, the Nationalist leaders, were returning from the conference. They were recognized by the Irish Guards as they passed Wellington Barracks and were wildly cheered by the troops.

Experienced Chef For Boston Cafe

Constantine Dikto Has Had Many Years Training

The Boston Cafe, always noted for the excellence of its cuisine, has secured in the person of Constantine Dikto, a chef of unexcelled skill. Mr. Dikto has been a chef for twenty-five years in the old world and on this continent. He is experienced in the French, Italian, Russian, German and Oriental styles of cooking, as well as in the culinary and secrets of the American chefs, and his career includes four years in the household of Lord Kitchener, in South Africa and Egypt. In 1912, at Montreal, he won first prize in a cooking contest, participated in by the chefs of the leading hotels in that city. With the acquisition of Chef Dikto, the Boston Cafe is prepared to serve banquets for parties over five in number, in any style required, or at any price, while the dinner menu shows many signs of the skill of the new chef. The Boston is open all night, never closing its doors to the public.

THE DEATH OF DEAN JOHN GALBRAITH

One of Canada's Greatest Educationists and Founder of School of Science, Passes Away

END WAS SUDDEN

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Ont., July 22.—Dean John Galbraith, Toronto University, died to-day, at his summer residence, "Go Home," Georgian Bay, according to word received here. There are no details except that he died suddenly. Funeral will be in Toronto on Friday. He was one of Canada's greatest educationalists, and founded schools of science of the university thirty-six years ago from which every Canadian engineer has graduated since that time. He taught men living in every port of the world, and was a man of superabundant energies which evidently caused his death. Though he had been failing for some time the end was unexpected.

He was one of the experts employed after the collapse of the Quebec Bridge.

NO TRUCK OR TRADE

Government trade statistics for the past fiscal years are decidedly embarrassing to Conservative arguments in regard to the "No-truck-or-trade-with-the Yankees" propaganda. During the fiscal year exports to the United States totalled $190,459,373, a gain of no less than $30,985,961, as compared with the preceding twelve months. Despite the refusal of the Conservatives to take advantage of the American efforts to let down the tariff barriers and give the Canadian freer access to the market of 90,000,000 people, trade has continued to steadily increase even in a year of comparative depression. Even with the tariff barriers still up against Canadian wheat and oats and fish, Canada sent last year to the United States, wheat to the value of $8,887,884, oats to the value of $8,838,035, and fish to the value of $6,644,235. Canada sent animals to the amount of $9,318,072 across the line during the last fiscal year. The Canadian farmer and the Canadian fisherman may realize from figures like these what he lost when the reciprocity agreement was turned down.— Brantford Expositor.

WATER SUPPLY OF THE CITY

Mr. W. H. Moore Points Out That Too Great a Strain Must Not Be Put On Wells

100 GALLONS PER CAPITA

Editor Daily Examiner:

Sir,—I have read your editorial of the 21st inst. and admit that an explanation is owing to the citizens who complain of insufficient pressure and supply in the morning and evening for baths and private lawns, and note that you invite a reply.

I would therefore point out that in my opinion no benefit, or at most very little, is obtained by sprinkling water between 9.00 a.m. and 6.00 p.m., the time during which the use of water for that purpose is prohibited on account of the large demand on the works by companies and persons who have contracts with the Commissioners.

The pumps are capable of delivering 10,000,000 gallons daily and they are worked with a pressure of 100 lbs. to the square inch. An increase of 20 or 25 lbs. is suggested. The late Mr. Henderson, Superintendent, never went beyond 70 or 80 lbs. I do not think it would be wise to put so great a strain as is named on the mains. A break might be a very serious matter indeed. Of course the pipes are guaranteed much higher than 100 lbs. but you must not expect us to go to the limit.

The quantity at present pumped is upwards of 4,000,000 gallons per day and this to 23,000 citizens seems to me a pretty liberal allowance, namely, over 160 gallons per head, man, woman and child. Of course no one will contend there was used such a quantity for any beneficial purpose, probably one-half was not used but wasted through bad plumbing, the cure for which would be the adoption of meters. The other remedy is the laying of large mains or trunk lines to distant points in the City. Last year $30,000 was spent in this way and an improved service followed, but to make the pressure at all points satisfactory the expenditure of at least $80,000 more would be required.

I am thankful we are not suffering as another large city in Ontario, where the shortage of water is so great that, as reported, no lawn sprinkling is allowed. We have plenty of water power; what is needed are the additional large mains in the west and south of the City, where dwellings have increased so greatly. Had builders selected sites in the north, where there is ample room and more desirable locations, there would have been no cause of complain.

THE GAS-HEATED IRON

Costs Only Three Cents to Do Ten Hours' Ironing

Considerable interest is already being evinced in the new gas-heated flat iron which is being introduced into Peterborough by the Light and Power Company. Some of the main features of this new iron which bears the euphonious name of "Iwantu" are as follows:

It costs less than any other good iron on the market, the present advertised price being only $3.50.

It is guaranteed to burn only one cent's worth of gas in three hours, and costs only three cents to do ten hours' ironing.

Its construction is such that it will cost practically nothing for repairs.

3,500 of these flat irons were sold in two months in Chicago.

The cost of connection is a mere trifle, and if you are one of the first twelve in Peterborough to purchase this iron it will be installed and connected free of cost, provided you are now using gas for cooking. See announcement on another page.

WON WATCH AND PURSE OF $50

P. J. Kenny's Aid to Church Social Brought Him Two Big Gazettes

RECEIPTS INCREASED

Mr. P. J. Kenny, Simcoe Street, was the winner of the prize of $50 in gold drawn for in connection with the popularity contest held at the Sacred Heart Church social. Mr. Kenny on Monday night also won a gold watch valued at $50 and thus was lucky enough to get the two choice prizes of the social.

The contest was between the C.M.B.A. and C.O.F. of the south end parish and in the count made last night it was found that one of the societies had a slight majority over the other. Hence it was decided in view of this fact, and of the importance of the decision that a recount would be held. The possessors of the slight advantage suggested this idea and a recount will be taken.

It was understood to-day that the net receipts of the social will show an increase over last year of several hundred dollars.

Oak Orchard Appreciated By Visitors

A lady who has travelled extensively with her husband, who is an ardent fisherman, was remarking to her friend who lives in this vicinity, of the different kind of accommodations she had encountered on her travels with her husband.

"You know," she said, "a woman at a fishing resort is usually very de trop and has to put up with every inconvenience for the sake of her husband's fishing trip. I had given up going with Mr. ——— for these reasons but he prevailed upon me this year to go with him to the Kawartha Lakes. Now, I'm glad I did, for it has changed by idea of fishing resorts in general and made me an admirer of one in particular."

"You, of course, living here so close to Oak Orchard, know all about its beauties, fishing, and accommodations, but to us it was a revelation. The quiet beauty of the place appealed to us the moment we landed. Imagine in the back woods of Canada, the service of an up-to-date metropolitan hotel. Our trunks were no sooner in our rooms when a trim maid knocked and said she would be pleased to help me unpack and to press anything I needed for the evening. In fact I was so tired after the trip that I let her do it and was glad to. Then on Sunday after a very nice mid-day dinner the evening meal was a simple buffet supper, like we have at the Roadside Club at home, such a relief from the same old hotel service and customs."

"I'm sure you all must enjoy such a lovely place to motor out to and so often to you. We would give a good deal to have such a delightful place so near to our big city."

LADY DIVER IS REPORTED KILLED

Rumour Has It That Magdalena Meier, With Washburn Shows, Was Killed on Monday in North Bay

HAD PERFORMED HERE

Rumour was current in the city this morning that Miss Anna Meier, the lady who entertained many Peterborough audiences by the high dives during the recent visit of the Washburn Shows, had been killed in North Bay. It was said that the unfortunate young lady was wafted out of her course by a gust of wind during her descent, and that she alighted on the side of the water tank. So far, however, although The Examiner has solicited enquiries from many sources, including North Bay, no reliable information is to hand.

Bank Clerk Drowned in Swimming Pool—Toronto House Collapses and Three Have Narrow Escapes

ASQUITH'S STATEMENT

Special to The Examiner.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 22.—Courtney H. Wiltshire, aged twenty-three, of the Imperial Bank staff, son of Lady Wiltshire of Ilford, England, was drowned in the swimming pool here.

TORONTO, July 22.— Grain markets very dull and slow. Bags $2.30 to $2.35 fed and watered; $2.75 to $2.85 ex cars. Spring Wheat $2.00 to $2.02. Good to medium cattle, $7.65 to $7.85.

HOUSE COLLAPSED.

TORONTO, July 22.—A house being changed into apartments fell to pieces this morning. Three workmen barely escaped being crushed, and much excitement was caused. It is alleged the city architect's orders were disobeyed.

ASQUITH EXPLAINS.

LONDON, Eng., July 22. — Premier Asquith to-day accepted full responsibility for the speech delivered by the King yesterday in addressing the opening conference of leaders. In response to questions put to him in the Commons, Asquith insisted that the King acted strictly constitutionally in the entire proceedings. It had been sent to him in the regular way by the King, who left it to the discretion of the conference as to its publication.

ARTHUR W. ROBSON.

LAKEFIELD, July 22. — Arthur W. Robson, who has been ailing for some time, passed away Monday afternoon. Mr. Robson was born in Norfolk, England, in 1851. In 1873 he moved to Canada and settled in Peterborough County and has been a resident of Lakefield for thirty years. During that time Mr. Robson has served on the Village Council for two years. He was a Baptist in religion. He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow and two daughters, Miss Ida and Mrs. J. Riddle, both of Lakefield.

The funeral took place from the family residence, Smith Street, on Wednesday, July 22nd and proceeded to the Lakefield cemetery for interment.

GRASS FIRE.

A grass fire at the Minisotta Oval at 6 o'clock last evening assumed such proportions as warranted the assistance of the Fire Brigade. The flames were extinguished and no damage resulted.

CONTRACTOR PAID $1500 TO A CONSERVATIVE MEMBER TO SECURE A SUB-CONTRACT

Startling Testimony in New Brunswick Railway Enquiry --Member Let It Be Known He Had Say Regarding Jobs—Just Plain Graft

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 21.—At the graft probe to-day, John Scott, a contractor on the Valley Railway, swore that he had paid $1,500 to Hon. H. F. McLeod, now Conservative M.P. for York, but then a member of the Provincial Government, in order to secure a sub-contract. He said that he paid this money because he believed he had to do so in order to get the contract. Mr. McLeod, he said, had told him that he could not get any contracts on that portion of the road except through him, and he believed it.

ESTIMATES GREATLY CUT DOWN.

This witness also told that the advance estimates on which he figured were so greatly in excess of the actual quantities that he received only $30,000, instead of about $112,000 as he had expected. On one occasion his progress estimate was cut by $1,600, until after lunch.

MR. McLEOD OBJECTED MUCH.

Mr. McLeod was in the court, and took an active part in the proceedings. His chief activity was in protesting against the form of questions and the line of questioning, until Mr. Carvell reminded him that an ex-cent man was rarely concerned with technical objections. Mr. McLeod declared he would speak fearlessly when the proper time came.

C. Fred Chestnut, a director of the St. John-Quebec Railway Company, testified. His stock was assigned to him by H. E. MacDonell, and he had paid nothing for it. He did not know who was the Treasurer of the company, he had never seen any of the company's funds, or had a voice in their disbursement. He did not even know for certain that the company had any books.

Testifying regarding his contract Mr. Scott said: "After the satisfaction of agreement was signed I met Mr. McLeod, and told him that as soon as we got the finances fixed up I would settle. I said: 'I'll have to send it from Woodstock.' He said: 'I don't want my name to be mixed up in it. You had better send it by express to Mr. Magee, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, and tell him to hand it over to me.' I did this and sent the money. Mr. Magee has since died."

Q.—Did you get a receipt?

Witness produced it.

Q.—Did you ask Mr. McLeod again?

A.—Yes, and he told me he had received the money, and it came at a good time, as election bills were coming in.

Q.—Was it necessary to pay the money to obtain the contract

A.—I believe it was.

Q.—Was anything to that effect said?

A.—No. Only we lost the first one, for which we had not agreed to pay.

HOW TO GET EVEN.

Here's a chance for Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes to again "get in right" with his disgruntled Orange brethren who have been guilty of lese majestie in criticizing the Minister of Militia over his action in permitting the 65th Regiment, Mount Royal Carbiniers, to use arms in the Corpus Christi procession in Montreal. It is true Col. Hughes did not allow the 65th the use of service rifles; he showed his skill as a tactician, by smuggling some obsolete government rifles through a junk shop for the use of the Carbiniers. If the Minister should now turn over these arms to the Ulster Volunteers, might not all be forgotten and forgiven?

SOUND-SLEEPING LINDSAY.

The town of Lindsay is to be congratulated upon the clean conscience of its citizens, that permits the enjoyment of a sound sleep, that burglars making a noise like a boiler shop cannot break. Think of a gang of thieves seizing the safe of the Grand Trunk Railway in the still hours of the night, hurdling it out of the station building with force and noise enough to almost tear out the side of the structure; loading it on a lorry, rolling it to a street in the residence section, smashing off the door with a sledge-hammer, getting away with $180 cash, and with all this continued and complicated noise, failing to break the slumbers of the sleeping beauties of the Scugog City. Lindsay may be wide-awake when it wakes, but it seems to take so much noise to wake it, that the racket of a first-rate thunder storm would only be a lullaby. It must be sound sleep that no sound will disturb.

A GARBAGE GRIEVANCE.

The churches of the city that have received their tax bills, are not a little astonished that they are each required to pay between $40 and $50 for "garbage collection." This is regarded as unfair, inasmuch as payment of this impost, would not represent value received. It is pointed out that churches have no garbage, such as collects in the ordinary household, to remove; they have only ashes, which are required to be moved only during the winter; it is argued that $45 or $50 would remove all the ashes that accumulate in any one church in three or four years. Some of the churches regard the impost as an injustice for the reason that no service representing the amount of tax to be paid is rendered. The matter is called to the attention of the city fathers, and the responsibility rests upon them to convince the churches of the justice and good policy of imposing so considerable a tax for a service which it is claimed is not rendered.

EVIDENCES OF GOVERNMENT FAILURE.

In the year 1911 the good and "easy" electors of Canada were stampeded into voting out of power a government under which we had fifteen or sixteen years of continuous national prosperity, continuous progress and continued good times, unprecedented in the history of Canada. The electors were hysterically enjoined amid much meretricious flag-waving to save Canada to the empire. The appeals were heeded and the Borden Government was put into power. Has the change made you rich, have times improved, has national progress gone on? Certainly not. The opposite has happened—no not happened—but been brought about by inefficient government. Here is some proof of this assertion:

During the first three months of the present fiscal year—April, May and June—there was a drop of over $7,000,000 in the customs revenue of the Dominion as compared with the revenue for the corresponding months of the preceding year. The huge decrease does not mean that there has been any reduction in customs taxation under the Borden Government; on the contrary, at the last session of parliament the tariff was increased upon many commodities in order to meet the demands of the Big Interest allies of the ministry. What the decrease in revenue does mean is that Canadian purchases abroad have fallen off by many millions within the past three months—one more proof of the depression and the serious financial conditions which have come to the Dominion with Borden rule.

With development works stayed as a result of the financial stringency, with industrial works stayed as a result of the financial stringency, with industrial plants shut down or running part time only, with unemployment evident to an extent never before known in Canada, the purchasing power of the people has naturally and inevitably suffered a great reduction. Increased taxation and falling revenues are part of the price Canadians are paying for Borden methods of administration.

Another form of evidence of inefficient administration of national affairs is available. For the first time in a score of years, emigration from Canada is likely to exceed the number of newcomers entering the Dominion during the current fiscal twelvemonth. For the first time in the history of the country, a government is called upon to deport settlers, not as criminals or "undesirables" but because there is no work by which they can earn their living. This is the situation which has come upon Canada since Borden rule was substituted for that of the Liberal party.

The facts must be faced. Nothing can be gained from an attempt to disguise or conceal them. It is worse than idle to follow the lead of partisan Conservative papers and denounce as "calamity howlers" those who set down conditions as they exist. The truth must be met.

Under the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, there was increasing prosperity in Canada and a constant flow of desirable new settlers to a land which offered work and opportunity for all. Under the administration of Sir Robert Borden, there has come industrial stagnation, an alarming slackening of Canadian prosperity, and widespread unemployment accompanied by a steady increase in the cost of living.

The Government cannot escape the condemnation of the facts. Its reactionary tariff policy, its extravagance, its inefficiency, has brought a complete reversal of the prosperous, progressive conditions which prevailed under Liberal rule.

DANE'S OFFENCE.

(Montreal Gazette)

Mr. Fred Dane, one of Canada's commercial agents in Great Britain, is being censured by the Liberal press because on July 12 he took part in and spoke on behalf of the Unionists at a political gathering. The censure is justified. Mr. Dane is committing the same offence as did Mr. C. R. Devlin, when as Canada's agent in Ireland he took part in politics on the Nationalist side.

THE LAND TAX HELPS.

(Ottawa Citizen.)

When improved lots pay no more taxes than unimproved lots, buildings will go up; and more buildings on the market will bring rents down. More buildings and lower rents mean better housing conditions for the poor, and better surroundings tend to higher morals. But that is not the whole story. Vacant lots employ no labour. To put buildings on them requires labour and materials, and when labour and materials are in demand wages tend upward. Hence, the shifting of taxes from buildings to land values will better the housing conditions and also raise the wages of those now stranded in the slums. It is a very simple proposition. There are no unknown qualities. And it lies within the power of society to make the change whenever it wishes.

THE GENESIS OF A COLOSSAL BRIBERY FUND

The revelations made before the commission now inquiring into certain matters in New Brunswick reveal the tactics that can be employed by an unscrupulous government, or by the unscrupulous friends of a government to secure money for campaign purposes. The story may be recited in a few words.

One Berry, an official of the Conservative Government of New Brunswick, was collecting fees for the renewal of timber licenses. He intimated to the license holders that he would expect something extra, and managed to secure about $71,000 from them. Of course the Premier, Mr. Flemming, did not know about this until Berry told him that there had been a voluntary subscription among the license holders for election purposes. The Premier wished to avoid the appearance of evil, so he not only declined to take the money himself, but advised Mr. Barry that he, as a Government official, should not hold it. But he recommended a Mr. Teed as a good man for the purpose. So Mr. Teed accepted the cash, and locked it up in a safety-deposit box, to be ready for use whenever required, with no tell-tale checks to show who might be the recipients of the coin. As there was no immediate use for it, Mr. Teed loaned the Premier $15,000 for business purposes which amount was paid back. He also bought $9,000 worth of stock from the Premier, but knowing the honesty of the gentleman did not even have the stock transferred. It remained in the name of the original owner, though the money for it had been paid over. Then Mr. Teed became ill. And as an honest and careful man, before making his will, makes due provision for possible contingencies, Mr. Teed sent Mr. Flemming the keys of the strong box. Mr. Flemming kept the keys, but carefully abstained from opening the receptacle where the loot was stored. In theory, he knew nothing about the contents of the cash box. It really might have been empty so far as his personal knowledge went.

It is a pretty story as it stands. We doubt if, from a legal point of view, the Premier has been guilty of any wrong-doing. But the fact remains that the lumbermen of New Brunswick were taxed for political purposes; that a fund of $71,000 was raised from their involuntary contributions; that the Premier borrowed from this fund for his personal benefit; and that morally he is entitled to as much blame as anybody else. If the report of Mr. Gamey's attempt to sell stock to the holders of a fishing license in Manitoulin is correct, there would seem to be a similar code of morals in New Brunswick as in Ontario, among a certain class of people, the only difference being that down east they looted license holders for the benefit of a political party, while in our province the taxcollecto gets the money for himself.—London Advertiser.

PRESENTATION TO FATHER KELLY

Rev. Father Kelly left last week to assume charge of the parish at Ower Sound, Ont., to which he was recently appointed.

At the Sunday morning service previous to his departure, the congregations of 'St. Paul's,' Norwood, and 'Our Lady of Mount Carmel,' Havelock, took occasion to express their appreciation of the labours of their pastor by presenting him with the following address, accompanied by a purse of gold. The address was read by Mr. A. Breault and the presentation made by Mr. John Kelly:

Rev. P. J. Kelly, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Norwood.—

Dear Father Kelly,—It is with deep regret that the announcement of your appointment to the parish of Parry Sound was received by your parishioners. We, the members of St. Paul's Church, were hoping that you might remain with us some years, but his Lordship Bishop O'Brien has appointed you to a larger and more important parish. The appointment is, no doubt, due to the appreciation of those high personal qualities which have made you so dear to all classes of people living within the community. Rest assured that we deeply regret your removal from our midst, and that we fully appreciate the great efforts made by you to improve spiritually and materially, the parish of St. Paul's. We ask you to accept this purse as a small token of our esteem and appreciation of the good work manifested for our spiritual and material requirements. We wish you good health and the Lord's blessing to assist you to perform those duties for the glory of God and Mother church, which are so dear to your heart.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of St. Paul's.

John Fitzpatrick.
John Kelly.
John Doherty.
P. McNulty.
A. Breault.

In the examination results published last week, Norwood High and Public schools made a most creditable showing, which will be very pleasing to the citizens of the village in general, as well as to the successful pupils and their parents.

At the Junior High school entrance examinations, fourteen pupils wrote from the Norwood Public school and fourteen passed, a full 100 p.c., which is an exceptional occurrence and reflects much credit upon Principal Trenouth and his assistants:

In the Lower school Normal entrance examinations there were twelve successful pupils from the Norwood High school. This is one-third of the total number of candidates who passed in the country.

Mr. M. H. Hunter, B.S.A., representative of the Department of Agriculture at Renfrew, and Mr. Frank L. Smith of Belleville, manager of the Lorenzo Operatic Co., of Canada were the guests of W. T. F. G. Andrews last week.

Miss Iva Hudgins was the guest of Miss Laura Brinkman, Havelock, last week.

Dr. R. R. Richardson went to Kingston last Tuesday.

Mr. Earl B. Cumming of Toronto, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas Cumming, Hastings Road.

Mrs. W. Brother and son of Lindsay, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Minore.

Mr. W. S. Bagshaw is relieving Mr. W. Browne, C.P.R. operator here.

Messrs. J. Finlay & Sons Co's employees are taking their annual three weeks' holidays.

Mrs. W. H. Brethen has returned from visiting friends at Hay Bay and Napanee.

Miss Williams of Campbellford was the guest of Miss Maybel Andrews during the past week.

"Hark!" observed the romantic young woman spending her holidays on the farm. "Just hear how those old trees in the orchard moan and groan in the storm, like the crying of a lost soul!"

"Well," rejoined her practical and unromantic companion, "I guess you'd moan, too, if you were as full of green apples as those trees are."

A PROMINENT LAWYER of this City took out a straight Life Policy of $1000.00, at age 28 in May, 1893, paying therefor an annual premium of $19.65. This he paid for 20 years, when the accumulated profits reduced the premium permanently to $10.25, subject to further yearly reduction. Thus he paid only $10.25 the twenty-first year. His annual dividend for the next year, in May last, reduced his 22nd premium to $4.30. Had he taken a Non-Par Policy he would have had to pay $17.80 annually, as long as he lived.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

THE HOME RULE CONTROVERSY

Unionist Organizations Stand Out Hard to Prepare for Election

LONDON, July 22.—In compliance with the King's summons, which all speak of, in accordance with the time-honored tradition as a "command," the eight party leaders most vitally concerned with a settlement of the Home Rule deadlock, met at Buckingham Palace yesterday for the purpose of trying to reach an agreement.

The King received them with a speech, which also according to constitutional custom, was framed by the Prime Minister. In this speech the King pointed out the seriousness of the situation and the narrow margin of difference which now exists, and expressed the hope of a friendly solution of all difficulties.

The eight leaders, some of whom were not on speaking terms, included John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, and John Dillon, who never before had come into personal contact with the King. They discussed the situation for more than an hour and then adjourned.

The mere fact that they will have another meeting shows that as far as the principals are concerned — and the principals are, of course, the leaders of the Liberal and Conservative parties — an agreement is in sight. But agreement by principals does not portend by any means a definite settlement of any scheme for the future Government of Ireland.

The Conservatives have the Ulster covenanters, represented in the conference by Sir Edward Carson and Capt. James Craig, to reckon with, and Premier Asquith cannot deliver any goods without the consent of the Home Rule leaders, Redmond and Dillon. Moreover, the Labor party, which is an important faction of the Premier's present majority in the House of Commons, is in revolt, and there is a bolting contingent in his own party.

The fact that the Prime Minister considered it necessary to resort to such a conference is hailed by his opponents as a virtual surrender on his part. His opponents prophesy and his Radical supporters fear that he will consent to Carson's loudly proclaimed ultimatum of a clear-cut exclusion of the whole of Ulster from the projected new Irish Government.

Parliamentary experts assert that if such an agreement is laid before the House of Commons it will be defeated, because Mr. Asquith's majority is dependent upon the Irish and and Labor members, with several bolting Liberals, will vote against it. Under those circumstances a general election must follow, and so convinced are the Unionists of a general election that they have sent messages to all the party workers to be prepared for such an election within three weeks.

Sir Edward Carson and John Redmond are not in the conference as [illegible] supporters, the Orange Ulstermen and the Catholic Nationalists respectively, and both Irish factions are in an attitude of no surrender.

There was an outburst of growling and warnings against the King by the Liberal papers yesterday. To people who do not understand English conditions, it might have looked as though the monarchy were threatened. But this happens inevitably under similar circumstances. In England the balance of power is so adjusted that all factors are remorselessly jealous of anything that looks like an attempt of one branch of the Government to trespass upon the prerogatives of another branch.

Factions In Fighting Mood.

LONDON, July 22—Messages from all parts of Ireland say that the Nationalists and the Orangemen are absolutely at the fighting point, and will not listen to talk of a compromise.

Baby Eczema Becomes Chronic

Causing Great Suffering and Anxiety —Prompt Relief and Cure by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This is one reason why every mother should know about Dr. Chase's Ointment, since it is an unfailing cure for all itching skin diseases.

Mrs. P. Clarke, Belmont, Man., writes:—"My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad, and nothing seemed to do her much good. Hearing of the remarkable cures Dr. Chase's Ointment was making, we sent for some, and after the third application the sore began to heal. I am glad to say that it is quite well now, and we give the credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment. We cannot recommend this preparation too highly."

Here is another letter, which tells of the cure of a five-weeks-old baby: Mrs. Wallace Mingon, River John Road, Colchester County, N.S., writes: "My little girl took eczema when she was five weeks old. Though we doctored her until she was nearly a year old, she got no better, I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this treatment completely cured her."

FIFTEEN ANSWER ROLL CALL AT SUMMER CAMP FOR T. A. S. BOYS

Fifteen of the younger members of St. Peter's T.A.S. are enrolled at the camp which was opened on Monday at the T.A.S. Park. The upper storey of the club house is used as sleeping quarters, and with the wide windows and balcony the accommodation promises to be ideal. During the past two nights there have been no mosquitoes, and the weather has been conducive to sound slumber. Two cooks have been engaged to provide for the appetites, which are bound to be keen edged, and meals thus far have been decidedly good. Rev. Father Cote is chaplain for the camp, and while fulfilling the duties conected with this position, he has also entered the various activities of th camp. Some of the older members of the camp are up at four o'clock for a paddle and trawl, returning about five-thirty for a little game of ball. Then comes a swim. Mass is at 6.30 and supper at 7. The members who are employed up town make the trip each way in a launch. The boys who spend the day at the camp are under supervision of Rev. Father Cote, who has begun teaching the inexperienced the first swimming strokes. They are not permitted in the water without their instructor, and every precaution will be taken to watch over the campers and safeguard their health. The objects of those who have projected the camp is to provide an enjoyable and wholesome holiday for members of the T.A.S., and particularly for the younger members, with every promise to parents that children will be well taken care of. The rates are exceedingly low, simply the cost of the camp, and it is expected that a prolonged stay will be made at the park.

$100,000 Damage By Army Worm

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, Ont., July 22.—According to agricultural experts engaged in fighting the army worm to-day, the total damage already done in Western Ontario will exceed a hundred thousand dollars, with new outbreaks being reported constantly.

Niagara District Safe.

NIAGARA, Ont., July 22.—It is said the Niagara District cannot be reached by army worms owing to the number of rivers and the Welland Canal, which they cannot cross, and the farmers are not worrying.

Recently patented shears for ripping seams work in the usual way, but have vertical cutting edges that project in opposite directions from the arms.

HARWOOD HOSTELRY FULL OF GUESTS

The new lessee of the Lakeview House, Harwood, is making friends fast. Mr. Gilman has put him in touch with many tourists who annually visit Rice Lake, and who speak well of his management. During the month of June the House had quite a gathering of American guests after the fishing began, but this month the influx of guests has been quite large. Last week there were over twenty visitors. At present there are eleven new names on the register, mostly from Rochester, who have their launches and fishing tackle, and are enjoying a "whale of a time." Six new visitors are expected Saturday.

Mr. Gilman has opened a new register, printed in modern style, which is filling up rapidly, and is sure to become quite an interesting historical record for years to come.

A MOTHER'S COMPLAINT

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is only extreme provocation and no prospect of any other remedy that urges me to write this note. Last night the residents of Gilmour street were kept awake by sounds of revelry by night. A party of some kind was in progress, and the hosts and guests were apparently making all their fun, and rather noisy fun it was, upon the open verandah. With all the windows in the neighbourhood open, and with some trying to sleep on verandahs, of course, sleep was impossible. And when at about half past two in the morning the break-up was celebrated with noisy good-bys shouted from distances, others who had not been kept awake were aroused, and in many cases got no sleep the rest of the night.

I, myself, was so worried and annoyed, so angry by the noise that had kept me awake, that I did not get sleep for hours.

It seems awful that people who work for a living and have to rise early, and tired mothers of children whose rest is broken under the best conditions, should be punished so severely by the thoughtless unkindness of neighbours.

I don't like to complain to the authorities of my neighbours, and I don't like to have my rest destroyed as well as that of others. We certainly pay enough taxes to have the authorities protect us. It may be that the thing comes from thoughtlessness, but the nuisance is just as bad as if it was meant. We are told to love our neighbour as ourself—and we can't do that by robbing them of their rest. Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,

Mother of a Family.

A PLEA FOR THE REGULATION OF RESIDENCE RENTALS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I notice a good deal in the press with reference to this reform, but I think if the idea were confined to rent reform it would be of much greater benefit to the country. There is no more reason why rents should not be regulated by law than some other things. I believe landlords should have a reasonable percentage of their outlay, but otherwise it is more a matter of opinion than a reasonable percentage. To my mind rents ought to be regulated by law according to the assessed value of the property rented. There are many other things regulated by law according to the assessed value of the property rented. There are many other things regulated by law for public use or for hire. Then why not a dwelling or any other property. If the public can place a tax on real or personal property or dictate as to its sanitary or moral condition, why not in other matters. It might be said such a course would prevent improvements. Not at all. No one builds houses or improves property for the love of comfort of his neighbours or citizens generally. The onus is purely speculation from start to finish. Besides such a course would bring about much tax reform. The present cost of rents and conditions is a powerful agency in the production of all and vice. Neither would I approve of lowering assessment or remitting taxes because such property was not rented or rentable, such property is held on speculation, and has no more right to a rebate than if invested in a mine or a ship at sea.

Yours truly,

Tenant.

PETERBOROUGH LADY AMONG "NOTED CANADIAN WOMEN"

"Nan Moulten" in one of a series of articles in a Quebec journal, entitled "Portraits of Noted Canadian Women," has the following to say of a former Peterborough lady, Mrs. Margaret Boucher Scott, who will be well remembered by the older citizens as Miss Boucher, sister of he late Dr. Boucher, and widow of he late W. H. Scott. Aside from the personal element of interest in the sketch, it affords evidence of how a noble-minded, large-hearted woman can be an influence and a factor in doing splendid works of charity and benefaction, carrying on in a human and humane way the work her divine prototype conducted on earth. The sketch of Margaret Boucher Scott reads thus:

With Mrs. Margaret Scott at The Margaret Scott Nursing Home in Winnipeg are eight nurses, besides Mrs. Scott's assistant in her own special and personal missionary work. Last year these nurses paid nearly thirty thousand visits to the sick poor of Winnipeg, something less than five thousand being to obstetrical patients, something less than five thousand to infants and sick children in connection with the Child Hygiene Department, and the rest to surgical patients, the aged and chronic cases. It is nine years since the Margaret Scott Nursing Mission was founded, with a Society and a Board, to perpetuate the work carried on for years by Mrs. Scott, which at that time was growing too big for her and her one trained nurse assistant.

Margaret Boucher's father was County Court Judge in Colborne, and her mother a member of the U. E. Loyalist family of Ruttan. On the death of her mother, Margaret was sent to live with her aunts at Campbellford. When Margaret Boucher became Margaret Scott, her happiness was at the centre of a life of moving interest, her husband being a well-known lawyer in Peterborough, a Q.C., and a member of he Ontario Legislature for Peterborough, his political opponent being the man afterwards known as Senator Cox.

Widow at 24.

Left a widow at twenty-four, Mrs. Scott faced the necessity of self-support. Through Mr. Cox, she was given a position in the office of the Midland Railway in Peterborough. She did not know anything of business, she naively confesses, but she wanted to know everything. Something of the woman's thoroughness, grasp and ability is seen in the fact that a couple of years after she had begun sorting tickets in the office of the Midland Railway, she was in the audit office of the Grand Trunk Railway, in Montreal, in charge of the work of thirty girls and the conduct of fifty. After a few years of this, Mrs. Scott's health broke down and she moved to Winnipeg for a change of climate. Mr. H. H. Smith, Dominion Lands Commissioner in Winnipeg, had been her husband's friend. Mrs. Scott took a position in this office, later going to the law firm of Hough and Campbell.

It was about this time that the mission work began. The Rev. C. C. Owen, at that time assistant rector of Holy Trinity, was much interested in the Coffee House in Winnipeg, and in other forms of what we now call social service. One morning, while Mrs. Scott was still in the Dominion Lands Office, the late Mr. Ernest Taylor, a bank manager, of Winnipeg, told her of the burden of the enormous correspondence of Mr. Owen. Mrs. Scott went to Mr. Owen and offered to help him with this work, taking his dictation Saturday afternoon and doing the letters through the week before and after her office hours.

Thus she started and thus she went on. The Police Court was in a pitiful state. A Citizens' League was formed and an appeal made to the women of Winnipeg. Mrs. Scott began to visit that pitiful, sordid world, then at the corner of King and James streets, and only the police and the magistrate and the women themselves can ever tell what she has meant to them all in that Court down through the years.

It was perhaps fourteen years ago that Mrs. Scott first had a trained nurse as an asisstant in her work. She had seen something of the Nursing Mission in Toronto, and her own visits had shown her the need of a trained nurse in the homes of the sick poor. Mr. Taylor volunteered the salary of a trained nurse for three months during the winter to help Mrs. Scott. Following the success of this experiment the city offered to pay half the salary of a permanent nurse if Mr. Taylor would become responsible for the other half and Mrs. Scott for the work. Finally, shortly before Mr. Taylor's death, the city colunteered to pay the whole salary. (The city now gives a yearly grant to the Mission: The Provincial Government also recognizes the value of the Nursing Mission by a grant, and the Immigration Department contributes for any of their people who are looked after).

The Child Hygiene Department was begun in 1911. During the previous year every third death registered in Manitoba had been that of an infant under one year of age. In 1913, among the 1810 babies under the care of the Mission nurses, there were only three per cent. of deaths. The Child Hygiene nurses follow up the maternity cases registered at the City Hall. Every child is followed up for two years after birth, with care, with instructions, with record cards.

There was the little Nursing League, again started by Mrs. Scott and her ladies, and appropriately taken over by the School Board. Mrs. Scott had read of this League in New York, had seen how most of the North End babies are mothered by little sisters, and made her connection again. So the little girls at the Strathcona and Aberdeen schools learn how to bathe a baby (a real one for demonstration, not a doll) and about modified milk, and barley water and how sour bottles make sick babies. They even go out after the manner of the Boy Scouts spotting shop-keepers with dusty fruit.

The Auxiliary.

Along with the formation of the Board of the Nursing Mission came the inception of the Auxiliary. In order to leave the Mission nurses free for just nursing, the Auxiliary took over the Relief work. The workers are voluntary. They sew children's clothing, provide pneumonia jackets, take delicacies and flowers to the sick and aged at Christmas and Easter, pay visits, give children outings, read to the shut-ins and provide funds that have marvellous elastic qualities in the hands of Miss Beveridge. The ladies of the Board asked to share in Mrs. Scott's work a bit. So two of the ladies of the Board are vistors for each month. They go to the sick and shut-ins, wherever Mrs. Scott knows visitors would be welcomed. They establish relations practical and sympathetic, find out the details of illness or lack of employment or needs of children, and are able often to fit these needs to a corresponding need for a worker.

Over all the activities of the Mission Mrs. Scott has had the care and the supervision, in addition to her own missionary work, and all that this means no one human shall ever know.

LONG JOURNEY WITH LOAD OF BLUEBERRIES

A countryman from the eastern end of the County arrived in the City this morning with a waggon load of blue berries, after a drive of about seventy miles, according to his estimation. He left the patch, in the vicinity of one of the lakes, back of Havelock, and reaching Peterborough at eleven this morning.

"Is there no market to-day?" he asked.

"No, this is Wednesday," was the reply.

"But you used to have a Wednesday market?"

No one offered to give him an account of how well the market is being looked after.

"Well, I guess I'll have to peddle them."

So out he went with seventy big patent pails for which he wanted $1.50 apiece.

It might be suggested to the Market Commitee that at this season of the year an effort might be made to hold a daily market in the interests of both sellers and buyers, but the people probably should not expect Aldermen who have to work for themselves to get out and vote their time in behalf of the general public.

HEART TROUBLES.

An Italian doctor has just made a girl's heart beat, by massaging it. That's nothing. We have known of young men—not doctors, either, who have caused violent feminine heart beating merely by approaching near to the owners of the hearts in question. There are ways and ways of stirring the heart!

ORIGIN OF TARIFF REFORM

An interesting light on the origin of the Tariff Reform campaign is thrown by a letter which the late Mr. Joseph Chamberlain wrote in 1896 or 1897 to a young Glasgow man. It shows that the campaign, so far from being a device to draw attention from the South African War, as the Liberals are so fond of saying, was actually in Mr. Chamberlain's mind at least two years before the war broke out.

How the letter came to be written was as follows:

In the session 1896-97, in a literary society in Glasgow, a young man was giving an essay on "Tariff Reform and Colonial Preference." Being amidst a great number of those who scoffed at this idea, he wrote Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, enclosing a syllabus of the society, and asking him for various figures and facts relating to Colonial trade, Mr. Chamberlain replied personally:

I recived your letter and syllabus, for which I thank you. Being outside my department I have handed your letter to my friend and colleague, Mr. Ritchie, President of the Board of Trade, and all information desired shall be sent you.

I may state I am pleased to see a young man taking up such a subject, and one I myself at present giving great attention to, as it is destined yet to become one of the leading questions of the days.—Yours, &c.,

(Signed) J. Chamberlain.

This letter was followed up by the late Sir Robt. Giffen sending on, not only the information desired, but additional information.

Berry Pickers Are Engaged in Country

Berry-picking at Stenson's gardens in North Monaghan is carried on extensively while the crop is ripening. Yesterday thirty-five women and boys and girls spent a busy day filling boxes of raspberries at 1 1-2 cents a box. Some of the women earned as high as a dollar and the younger folk averaged around 75c. About eight o'clock the pickers were conveyed into the City, and at the close of the day the women were served with tea.

DEATH OF THE GREATEST CLYDESDALE IN THE WORLD

"Baron O' Buchlyvie" Was Sold For $42,500

The famous Clydesdale stallion, Baron o' Buchlyvie, owned by Mr. William Dunlop, Danure Mains, Ayr, Scotland, is no more. On Monday afternoon the Baron had his near fore leg broken as the result of a kick from a mare, and so severe was the kick that the bone of the leg was broken clean through. Mr. Dunlop, the owner, received news of the accident by telegram while attending the Royal Show at Shrewsbury, England, and he hastened north with all speed. He concluded that great as the loss would be, the only course was to destroy the valuable beast, and accordingly this was done. So terminated the career of a horse that has made history. The protracted litigation between Mr. Kilpatrick, Craigie Mains, and Mr. Dunlop over the ownership of the horse is still fresh in the public memory, and countless by this alone the horse earned some notoriety, but it is in his great reputation as a sire of Clydesdale stock, and because of the prices paid for him at auction that his name will go down to posterity. Admitted that his best days were past at the age of fourteen, it must be recalled that his illustrious sire, Baron's Pride, lived till well over 30 years, and up to within a year of his death propagated his species, and a few of his posthumous offspring have brought good prices and are doing well.

As most people know, Baron o' Buchlyvie was sold within the horse repository of Mr. Craig's auction mart at Ayr in December, 1911, and realized the fabulous sum of $42,500. To all who attended the sale the day is a memorable one. True, the sale only lasted some twenty minutes in all, but into that brief space there was compressed much tense excitement. While agriculturists predominated, all manner of commercial and public interests were represented, and many people travelled long distances by rail to be present. Never before or since has there been such a vast crowd within the confines of the building. The Baron had scarcely room to move in the narrow space left to him in the ring. To the average man the animal appeared a commoner, for he was shown in the rough—albeit no curry-comb or dandy brush had been near him for some time previous to the sale—yet he carried his fine head and beautifully arched and powerful neck in a way that impressed. His even temper, which was always a feature, remained practically unruffled, except when applause broke forth now and again as the sale proceeded. The scene can easily be pictured. Mr. Dunlop occupied a place on the auctioneer's right, and Mr. Kilpatrick was close beside the auctioneer on the left. From the start the bidding was of a sensational character, $35,000 offered by Mr. Rennie of Paisley, Scotland, opening the ball, and immediately being an eye-opener for all present. By $500 bids the guineas mounted rapidly, among the bidders being Mr. Kilpatrick and Mr. Dunlop. The last-named dropped out somewhere about $38,000, and at that point a stranger in the gallery nodded to the auctioneer, and immediately everyone, without expending himself in as many words, wondered who the stranger was. Mr. Kilpatrick kept steadily at it, and latterly the bidding was confined to the stranger and Mr. Kilpatrick. The last-named was in at $40,000, and this drew forth tremendous cheering. $500 bids, on the suggestion of the stranger, whom some people thought was shirking, had been taken from $40,500 up till the $42,000, but afterwards the $500 stage was resorted to. "Hauf-groon bids noo," blurted out by some witty South Ayrshire farmer, relieved the tension, and created the much-needed laughter. At $42,500, when the auctioneer had exhausted the bidding, there was an ominous silence as the hammer fell, and Mr. Craig shortly afterwards announced that the Baron had passed into the ownership of Mr. Dunlop, Danure Mains, Ayr, Scotland. Immediately, the announcement was made there was a scene of excitement, hats and sticks being waved in the air. So ended a sale that was remarkable in many respects.

The Baron was the head of what is at present the leading Clydesdale stud in the world and it is well for Mr. Dunlop that he has not been standing upon the deck "single-handed" as he owns "Auchenflower," the sire of "Danure Ideal," the dam of "Danure Footprint," the most wonderful breeding mare in existence. "Auchenflower" has been largely used this season in the home stud, and as Mr. Dunlop owns more than one of the Baron's sons, which are expected to crown the sire with honour and victory, it is hoped there will be no break in the record of honours attained by this truly great sire.

Mr. Dunlop's latest triumph has been at the Royal Show now in progress at Shrewsbury in carrying off the female champion and reserve for two mares from his famous stud, and in additionn "The Birkenwood," which he lately purchased, has secured the male champion prize. — Ayrshire Post, Ayrshire, Scotland.

ALGONQUIN PARK.

Algonquin Park is situated 235 miles west of Montreal, in the Highlands of Ontario, 2,000 ft. above sea level, in one of the most delightful vacation playgrounds in America. The Grand Trunk Railway have built and are operating the Highland Inn at Algonquin Park station, and a series of log cabin camps reached by stage from this point, that offer attractive features, such as, a life in the wilderness with city conveniences, splendid fishing, pure air, unlimited scope for the amateur photographer, and where health and pleasure abound. Just the out-of-the-way sort of spot that appeals to the lover of nature. Handsome descriptive literature may be had on application to B. A. Rose, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, Grand Trunk Railway, Peterborough.

Lady and the Lad.

"To uplift, get underneath," said George Ade at the Chicago Athletic club. "That is, employ a friendly spirit. Don't condescend.

"A lady in a trolley-car employed the wrong spirit the other afternoon. She stared at a ragged urchin across the aisle with unspeakable disgust. Then she said:

"Have you got a pocket handkerchief, bub?"

"The ragged urchin snuffled. Then he answered with a grin:

"'Yes'm, but I ain't allowed to lend it."

Stock Markets

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Washington is reported more and more determined to push criminal prosecution of certain big financial interests, it is said, in certain quarters of the street, to be largely responsible for the disinclination among certain wealthy men heretofore very prominent and active in affairs to take the initiative in the work of reconstruction. Evidence of high-grade absorption is observed in UP. Speculative buying is going on in SP. Substantial buying as well as short covering is reported in Steel. Europe has been a seller of steel, BO, ANC, and ACP. BRT will show about 8 per cent. in the forthcoming report, according to insiders. CL is firm on the good quarterly earnings. NH exhibits are in an oversold condition. National Lead is sold on unfavourable earnings gossip. BC shows a large shortage. NYC is understood to be bought for banking account.

NEW YORK, July 21— (Wednesday's Letter, Chas. Baring.)— The stock market rallied to-day, the same as it has been doing every Tuesday for the past five or six weeks. Texas Oil, which we said to sell, went to 134 1-2. Sell it again if it rallies near 138. Union Pac. advanced to 138 1-8. This is equal to 161. When we advised its purchase in April below 130 we stated that it would rally above 160 and this prediction has therefore come true. U.P. was a little stronger to-day than I expected, and the reason I did not tell you to stay long till it crossed 160 was that certain big interests were selling it around 157. U. S. rallied a little further than I expected, but I do not think the rally will go much further. B.O. has declined 12 points since we advised its sale, and profits should be taken. Would sell U.S. above 62. L.V. 137. R.G. 103. N.P. 111, S.T. 99 1-4, C.O. 49.—Chas. Baring.

NEW YORK, July 23.—There was some pressure here and there during the second hour, but stocks held up as well as could be expected in view of the uncertainty prevailing in regard to rate decision. L.V. was sold down in sympathy with R.I. issues. C.O. was offered down apparently for the purpose of affecting the general list. Stocks sold down to 48, where it met support.

NEW YORK, July 23.—A feature of the late afternoon was a new wave of selling in Rock Island Bonds, by which the collateral trust fours were carried down to a new low record in the neighbourhood of 39, and the debentures 5's of the railway or old company lost the greater part of their recovery from the low point of sixty made shortly after the opening of the day's period. To the declining movement in these bonds the general market opposed good resistance. While room traders seemed inclined to sell stock on strong spots, there was a little indication of reactionary tendency, and some issues showed a good supporting when they were tried to be beared.

Keep Cool !

KEEPING cool is not a matter of keeping still. The people who get the most enjoyment and the least discomfort out of summer days are those who go right along with their regular business and ignore the weather.

We can all take a lesson from the up-to-date and progressive merchants of our town. They never admit it is too hot to do business. Every working day in the year their stores are open to receive us. Every day the newspaper brings us their invitations in the form of Advertising.

Why should we not respond to those invitations as readily on warm days as on cool?

They set us a good example when they say: "Come people, we are ready to serve you even if it is hot."

The enterprise of the store that advertises for our patronage throughout the summer, as well as the rest of the year, indicates a store worth trading at.

Let us read the advertisements rather than the weather report—and let us patronize the merchant who similarly disregard the weather and who show that proper spirit of disregard by advertising continually.

You can obtain helpful advice on advertising free of cost and without obligation by consulting the Business Department of the EXAMINER.

THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

The Cure.

"Doctor," said he, "I'm a victim of insomnia. I can't sleep if there's the least noise, such as a cat on the back fence, for instance."

"This powder will be effective," replied the physician, after compounding a prescription.

"When do I take it, doctor?"

"You don't take it. You give it to the cat in a little milk."

Opposites.

"Can one person unite opposite qualities in himself?"

"Certainly. Can't he be dense and transparent at the same time?"

Particular.

A small boy who was sitting next to a very haughty lady in a crowded subway car kept on sniffing in a most annoying manner. At last the lady could bear it no longer, and turned to the lad.

"Boy, have you got a handkerchief?" she demanded.

The small boy looked at her for a few seconds, and then, in a dignified tone, came the answer:

"Yes, I 'ave, but I don't lend it to strangers."

Out of Place.

Among the guests at a reception was a distinguished man of letters. He was grave and somewhat taciturn. One of the women present suggested to the hostess that he seemed to be out of place at such a party.

"Yes," replied the hostess with a smile, "you see, he can't talk anything but sense."

A Hint.

"Harry," she said thoughtfully.

"What is it?" responded the worried business man, rather shortly.

"I wish you could re-arrange your business a little bit."

"How?"

"So as to be a bear on Wall street instead of at home."

Real Pain.

The most ghastly superstition has often its base in a ludicrous fact. It is like the case of Jones.

"Jones," said a man, "tells me that his wooden leg pained him horribly last night."

"Nonsense!" was the reply. "How could his wooden leg pain him?"

"His wife," explained the man, "hit him over the head with it!"

Uneducated.

"The idea of my marrying Blanc!" said a girl. "Why, I wouldn't know what to do with him. He doesn't know one of the new dance steps."

"He's a splendid swimmer," said her friend.

"Humph!" said the girl, "do you think I want a husband that I've got to keep in an aquarium?"

Snubbed.

"You are a relative of the Richardsons, aren't you?"

"Yes, a distant relative."

"How distant?"

"Well, as distant as they can pass you."

Small Town Scandal.

Uncle Ezra: None of the Wobble family are attending many of the social functions this year. There must have been a death in the family.

Uncle Eben: Yep. That's it. They buried old Grandpa Wobble in the family dress-suit.

The Incentive.

Mrs. Brown (in kitchen, smilingly): My! Everything is fairly shining, Olga! I fear you're spending too much time in cleaning.

New Servant: I ain't always so particular, mum, but I don't know but what me feller might call this evening!

Modern Dress.

The woman who puts all her money on her back these days looks as if she didn't have much to spend.

Kindly receive my note of a very bright sayings of a little girl of only four years of age. A friend of mine had her niece staying with her. At house-cleaning time her aunt was taking up a carpet. The child, on seeing all the dust said: "Oh! auntie, there is enough dust under there for God to make a man." I think that a very bright saying for a child only four years of age.

I have been a member of your Smiling Face Club several weeks, and would like to see my little story printed, as I am relating:

The Story of Our Cat.

We have a cat, and it is almost human, for it understands anything we tell it. It is remarkably clean and tame. It jumps almost any height at command, whichever shape we put ourselves. She thinks it her duty to come and sit on our knees and lick herself all over, which, in her way, is washing. She is a loving mother to her kittens, and a champion for rats and mice. Amongst some of her side relishes are raw potatoes, raw tomatoes, and raw cucumbers.

Dear Sir: Would you kindly send me a Smiling Face Button, as I would like to be a SMILER? When I was a little girl I would get dolly and pout; and oh! get awful cross if I couldn't get what I wanted. But now I am trying to be a SMILER, and I SMILE so much that mother said today that she thought I could belong to the SMILER Club. I belong to the humane society, too.

I send a little piece of poetry that I thought you would like.

—Alice Stonge, 41 Hillsboro avenue Apt.

Gillis: "Yes; there is no class of society in which he really behaves himself."

That's About All.

The Subject's Husband: "My wife was a model before I married her. Maybe you knew her."

The Artist: "Just barely."

Proof.

Willis: "Things have quieted down some."

Gillis: "Yes; the second-baseman's bum finger got more space in today's papers than the Mexican trouble."

The Cuddly-Smoker (to a grey-keeper, who has had a mishap with a load of manure): 'Ere, stow that bungwidge. Wot d'yer mean by it—be'avin' yerself as if yer was a full-blown member of the club?

Rubbed In.

Crawford: "What's so hard about living in a bungalow?"

Crabshaw: "When your friends visit you and you have to pretend that you like it."

When Love is Young.

"Do you think you will be able to provide my daughter with everything she wants?"

"I think so, sir. She says all in the world she wants is me."

He Had Her.

"I'll never speak to you again as long as I live!" exclaimed the temperamental girl.

"Haw, haw!" rejoined the practical youth. "You can't help yourself! I've got some of your songs and recitations on my phonograph."

Why.

Man at Desk: "Why do you claim a trombone player is less of a bore than a pianist?"

Man in Chair: "He is, because he doesn't get the chance. He doesn't add a trombone in every home he visits."

"Ah," he sighed, "if you only gave me the least hope, I——"

"Gracious!" interrupted the hard-hearted belle. "I've been giving you the least I ever gave to any man."

Time Was Up!

Binks, with a yawn, said to a fisherman. "Time ain't very valuable to you, brother, that's plain. Here I been a-watchin' you three hours, and you ain't had a bite."

"Well," drawled the fisherman. "My time's too valuable, anyhow, to waste three hours of it, watchin' a feller fish that won't fish'n a bite."

From the Readers.

Prospective Subscriber, (in office of "Wyoming Weekly Whoop"): "Don't you have any clubbing propositions?"

Editor and Proprietor: "Oh, once in a while but horse-whipping and shooting propositions seem to be the favorites around here?"

"That man must be an insidious lobbyist," declared Congressman Grump.

"What has he done?" inquired Congressman Wayback.

"He invited me to share a bottle of grape juice with him."

Wilful Heiress: "I don't care for that papa, so long as he's my equal."

Are very cold at night;
When I look out of the window
Their beds are hard and white.

The merry crocus, too.
Oh! Jane, if we were flowers,
What should we children do?

We'd have to sleep all naked,
Beneath the windy trees;
Yet we should die I know it
With even a chemise.

"And yet her complexion," replied the other, "which is much tighter and thicker, is running."

"Were you nervous on your wedding day, my dear?"

"Yes, and I never shall forget the fright I got that day!"

"I don't think I ever met your husband."

Hard Luck.

"I have the darnedest luck!"

"What's the matter?"

"We were having a little party, and a serious-looking fellow came up and said he was collecting for the Y. M. C. A. I gave him five dollars."

"Well?"

"And now I find he's a member of the Young Murphy's Cocktail Association."

Long Drawn.

"My charge for taking out a tooth, madam, is five dollars."

"But, doctor, isn't that rather dear." Other dentists only ask one."

"Ah, but you must remember, ma'am, they hurry over their work, while sometimes I spend an hour or so drawing a tooth."

"Yes, sir; and I told him I thought he was, too."

PETES GOT NONE OF THE BREAKS AND WERE BEATEN IN SECOND GAME

Ottawa Won Yesterday by 4 to 1 With Close Decisions by Umpire McPartlin Playing a Prominent Part in the Result.

HARD LUCK FOR TRACEY

Getting all the breaks and the benefit of several close decisions, Ottawa made it two straight from the Petes yesterday, winning 4 to 1. Ken Tracey was on the firing line for the home brigade and, with any luck should have registered a win. He twirled one of his best games of the season. For six innings the Champs. were held scoreless, and with only two singles. Altogether the champs. got but six bingles and two of them were fluky to say the least.

Neither team scored until the seventh. Then came the break. Shag, tappd a grounder which Fox fumbled, but quickly recovered and almost got the big fellow at first. The play was a close one, but McPartlin called Shag safe. Stewart sacrificed. Then Shaughnessy stole third. Kelly had the ball over to Byrne well ahead of the runner, but McPartlin claimed that the third baseman failed to tag the Senators' leader, and called him safe. The Peterborough players and the fans vehemently protested, and McPartlin was given a warm gruelling for the balance of the game. Lage rolled one at Tracey and Shag was trapped between third and home. Kelly, Byrne and Tracey chased him back and forward several times and finally he tore for the plate, sliding in safely, when Tracey dropped the ball in tagging him. Lage went to second on the play and scored on Dolan's single.

In the ninth Ottawa opened with two scratch hits, Rogers getting to first when his bounder to Fox took an unexpected high bound over the Shortstop's head. Powers bunted along the first base line and the ball rolling foul at first, struck the edge of the grass and shot into fair territory, eluding Dolan. Stewart's walk filled the bases. Lage then cracked one which bounded over King's head and Ottawa's last two runs were in.

Kubat, who pitched for Ottawa, was found for nine safeties, but he kept the bingles well scattered and was effective with men on the bases. The fielding features were supplied by Rogers and Welsh, each making a splendid catch of a long fly.

First Innings.

Ottawa—Mitchell fanned. Rogers grounded to Dolan. Shag popped to King. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Blount singled to right. Welsh forced him at second, Nill to Smykal. Dolan died on a high one back of second which Mitchell grabbed. Welsh was out stealing, Lage to Mitchell. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Innings.

Ottawa—Stewart flied to Rooney. Lake was out the same way. Dolan lifted to Welsh. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Rooney cracked a hit through the box. Byrne sacrificed, Kubat to Dolan. King hit to Kubat who got Roosey going into third. Fox rolled to Kubat. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

OttawaNill walked. Smykal sacrificed, Dolan to King. Kubat cracked a liner to Dolan who doubled Nill by throwing to Fox. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Kelly died on a smash to Mitchell. Tracey grounded to Smykal. Blount was out on a drive which Stewart pulled down. No runs, hits or errors.

Fourth Innings.

Ottawa—Mitchell singled, the first hit off Tracey. Rogers sacrificed, Byrne to Dolan. Shaughnessy hit to Byrne, who tagged Mitchell on the line. Stewart flied to Rooney. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough — Rogers grabbed Welsh's long foul fly with his gloved hand. Dolan singled through short. Rooney flied to Shag. Kubat got Dolan on first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Ottawa—Lage fanned. Dolan doubled to left, Welsh failing to make a shoe-string catch of the hard drive. Nill popped to Dolan. Welsh made a beautiful catch of Smykal's drive along the left field line. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough—Byrne fanned. King singled to right. Fox lined to Shaughnessy. Kelly singled through short. Tracey fouled to Lage. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Ottawa—Kubat flied to Blount. King grabbed Mitchell's fly to short right. Blount made a fine catch of Rogers' smash to centre. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Blount grounded to Dolan. Welsh walked. Dolan hit into a tailor-made double, Nill to Smykal to Dolan. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Ottawa—Shag was safe on Fox's fumble. Stewart sacrificed, Byrne to Dolan. Shag stole third. The decision was a very close one and the Petes put up a vigorous howl at McPartlin. Lage hit to Tracey who cut off Shag at the plate. He was chased back and forward and then slid in, scoring when Tracey dropped the ball. Dolan singled to centre, scoring Lage. Nill hit into a double, Byrne to King to Dolan. Two runs, one hit, two errors.

Powers replaced Shaughnessay, the big manager having been spiked at the plate.

Peterborough — Rooney grounded to Kubat. Byrne doubled to right. King rolled to Kubat, Byrne going to third. Fox dropped a Texas Leaguer back of short, scoring Byrne. Kelly singled to right. Tracey flied to Stewart. One run, three hits, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Ottawa—Smykal flied to Fox. Kubat died on a nice play by Fox. Mitchell grounded to King. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Blount fouled to Lage. The latter made another beautiful catch of Welsh's foul. Dolan went to second on Mitchell's bad throw to first. Rooney flied to Stewart. No hits, or runs, one error.

Ninth Innings.

Ottawa—Rogers scratched a hit on a bounder to Fox. Powers drew another on a bunt past Dolan. Stewart walked, filling the bases. Lage cracked one through the infield, scoring Rogers and Powers. Dolan popped to his namesake. Stewart was run down and tagged out on an attempted double steal. Kelly chased him back to third to tag him. Welsh grabbed Nill's fly. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Peterborough — Byrne lined to Mitchell. King flied to centre. Kelly flied to Powers. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FREAK GAMES OF BASEBALL

By Hugh S. Fullerton.

We had a fanning match and the talk turned to freak games. Mordecai Brown was telling of the recent game at St. Louis.

"That beat them all," laughed Brownie. "I was working against Tom Seaton, and both of us were going pretty well. We went into the twelfth inning. I had been feeling tired, but the air was cooler, adn I started feeling all right. Suddenly they started slamming the ball. Nothing I could do would stop them. They hit anything and everything, and piled up seven runs. The last two men struck out on purpose to finish the game before darkness.

"We came to bat to end it up in a hurry and started hitting. We couldn't hit the ball where it wouldn't go safe. We netted eight runs off Seaton and had two men on bases with only one out when we scored the wining run. No one could explain it."

One of the freakiest games was one played in Boston when Stivetts was a great pitcher. He had held the opposing team to one fluke hit for eight innings and struck out the first two men in the ninth. The score was 7 to 0 in favour of Boston, and suddenly the other team started hitting Stivetts, and eleven successive hits went either over or against the fences—and Boston was beaten 9 to 7.

Orvie Overall had something of that sort to happen him. It was possible to explain that. Chicago had the game won 7 to 2 in the last half of the eighh. Overall was merely breezing along, and lobbing the ball up for the Braves to hit and finish up the game.

He jerked a ball underhanded, something snapped in his arm near the elbow, and Boston was within one run of a tie, and had the bases filled before Chance got a pitcher called up and rescued Overall. Overall never was a good pitcher after that, the arm was damaged permanently, and could not regain its strength.

One of the most peculiar games ever played was betwen the St. Louis Cardinals and th. Chicago Cubs several years ago, when the Cubs were at their best. They made five runs in the first inning, which seemed to settle the question. King Cole started the game. He passed three, hit one, then passd another, and Chance, furious, rushed at him, raving and calling him names and chased him off the field. Lurid Lou Richie replaced him, passed three batters, hit one, hit another and passed another before Chance, who by that time was frothing, chased him to the club house and sent Reulback in. St. Louis tied the score, and had two on bases before a man hit the ball, and Reulback went in, cleaned up with a wild pitch, issued a couple of passes, and finaly the Cards were stopped after they had made eight runs.

When Richie reached the club house he found big Cole sitting on a bench weeping mournfully.

"Did you hear what he called me?" wailed Cole. "He called me a big, yellow, four-flushing minor league idiot."

"Cheer up, King," said Richie joyously. "He just told me I was a bigger, yellower, rottener four-flush than than you ever dared be."

Have you been watching this Indianapolis Federal League Club. It is coming, and it is playing a lot of baseball. Bill Phillips and Charlie Carr are working wonders with their raw material, and the club is playing a lot of brainy inside ball, besides hitting. Kauff, the young outfielder, promises to become one of the greatest of the finds of the season. All around the Feds circuit they are talking of him(and several managers declare he is the best young player who has been dveloped this year in any of the leagues. He certainly looks sweet, both at the bat and on the tow paths.

RESULT OF BORDEN'S FOLLY.

A few years ago Canada was scouring the earth for settlers. Now Canada would send home again those for whom she has no work. When good times return, and workmen are needed again, emigrants will fight shy of Canada.

Trout Is The Leading Hitter

Harris of Erie is second with .349. Bierbauer, London, has .336, Gillilea of Toronto .333, and Dougherty of Hamilton, and Carney of Erie the same figure. Welsh of the Petes is next with .320. The other .300 class hitters are Snyder, London, .327; Schaeffer, Erie, .326; Scott, Erie, .321; Lamy, London, .316; Hunt, Toronto, .310; Stewart, Ottawa, .301; Kustus, St. Thomas, and Nill, Ottawa, .300.

Players Win The Victory

Magnates Accede to Their Demands

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Baseball Players' Fraternity won a victory here to-day, and a threatened strike of National and American League players, members of the fraternity, was avoided when the case of Player Clarence O. Kraft was settled to the satisfaction of the players' organization and in accordance with its demands. The incident is considered closed by both the big league magnates and the players.

Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn Baseball Club of the National League, was the magnate who stepped into the breach and brought about peace. Ebbets announced the settlement of the case at the meeting of the American League representatives, who were in secret session discussing the prospective strike.

The Brooklyn Club executive, who is also a stockholder in the Newark International League Club, of which his son, Charles H. Ebbets, jr., is president, announced that the Newark Club officials had paid the Nashville Club of the Southern Association $2,500 in settlement of the latter's claim on Kraft, and that he would report and play with Newark at Providence in to-morrow's game. In addition, the Newark Club agreed to observe all the stipulations of Kraft's contract as originally in force before he was ordered to go to Nashville by the National Commission, besides paying him five weeks' back salary for the period he has been under suspension for not reporting to the Nashville Club.

Kraft's contract with Newark calls for a salary of $450 per month, and both the ten days' notice of release clause and the disability clause were stricken out before the document was signed. The Nashville Club received $1,500 for its release on claims of Kraft, and $1,000 in addition as a bonus for accepting the Newark Club's terms.

Ebbets denied that any pressure had been brought to bear upon him or the officers of the Newark Club in making the deal which cleared away the baseball war clouds. He said that as a stockholder in both the Brooklyn and Newark Clubs, he had taken the initiative in the matter without being influenced by either the National or American magnates.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Hamilton Spectator: Gabby Ivers, the Brantford first baseman, will join the Hamilton ball team to-day, and will hold down the initial sack for the Hams. This is the result of a trade which Manager Jack White pulled off last evening with Manager Deneau of the Brants, by which Hamilton gets Ivers in exchange for Roy Dudley and Barrett. Dudley and Barrett will join the Brantford team to-day and will play against Toronto this afternoon.

White made this trade believing that he is strengthening his club. He points out that Dudley has not been hitting, in fact, at the present time is not touching the .200 mark, while Barrett is only a fair hitter and a poor fielder. In exchange for these two players the local club gets an experienced player, who is a natural hitter, and who is hitting over the .300 mark at the present time. Ivers is not the smoothest fielding first baseman in captivity, but he can cover the sack, and, what is more, can hit. This ability to pole out the needed bingles is going to make him a valuable man to the local club, and there is no doubt but that White has made an exceedingly good trade.

In letting Dudley go Manager White has released a player who has been popular with the fans, and one who has given the local club his best. Dudley came here with a reputation as a good hitter, but has failed to live up to it. Barrett was slated for exchange or release this week, as with Cunningham in the game again and Infielder Pendry on the job, White intended to place Jimmy Gilhooley in right field.

Says Welsh Won In Canter

Graphic Story of the Lightweight Championship Battle

The London Sporting Life says of the Welsh-Ritchie lightweight championship bout:

"They had not been boxing thirty seconds before Welsh realised that Ritchie had a great punch in his right glove, for he thudded it on the Welshman's ribs with a bang and a rattle. Fredide boxed with an ice-cool nonchalance in this first round that pleased his friends vastly. He was—well, clever—and the round was his all right. Ritchie was often 'guessing,' as a matter of fact. As soon as the gong sounded for the second round Welsh did a wonderfully pretty bit of boxing. He led and landed with his left to the mouth, and as Ritchie tried to counter he ducked, and then swung right and left to the jaw. Fred walked to his corner with a broad grin spreading over his face. But Ritchie appeared not in the slightest degree worried.

Was All Welsh.

"It was still all Welsh in the third round, and round the ring they were freely offering 2 to 1 on the Britisher, with an occasional offer of three. The odds were justified, for at this period Welsh was coming perilously near to out-boxing the world's champion. His footwork was superlatively clever, and the way in which he stepped back out of range of Ritchie's rather obvious leads was good to see. But always one remembered that Ritchie was notoriously slow off the mark—and one waited. And then came a fourth round that sent the Welshmen present almost delirious with delight. Welsh toyed with his opponent, who leaned on in apparent distress. But he soon recovered and boxed on, grimly determined.

Ritchie is Strong.

"Welsh lost a little of his speed and precision in the fifth, and in addition Ritchie came in strong as he was the moment the first gong sounded. Welsh just about took the round, but the margin was small indeed.

"There was no doubt about the margin in the next round, for Welsh was on top beating his man in generalship and in finesse. Once or twice he dodged Ritchie's right with an ease that was almost impudent, and when it came to speedy and exact footwork it was Welsh who was the master. His defensive work was at periods most brilliant, and always it was more than useful. He was not punching very hard, but when that reservation was made all the rest was praise.

Could Not Land.

"There was another wonderful round for Welsh in the eighth stage. He was 'dancing it' from gong to gong, and Ritchie was a flustered and very harassed boxer. He was always trying to find Welsh with his right, but Welsh was never there. And again in the tenth round Welsh had the house in a roar as he boxed the world's champion to a standstill. Towards the end of the round Ritchie improved, and when the half-day stage was reached the man from Pontyridd was out by himself on points.

Waiting for Punch.

"There were glum faces in Ritchie's corner, but their man boxed on with a grim pluck. He was going on taking a hiding in the hope that the chance would come to him to land one decisive blow. Whenever he appeared likely to force an opening his elusive opponent danced away from him. But there could still be claimed for Ritchie that he was not weak, and there was yet a real punch in either glove, especially the right one. He boxed with rare dash in the twelfth round, and Welsh had to travel at his best to stand him off. He succeeded in doing so very well indeed, but Ritchie managed to land one or two telling punches.

"Where Ritchie was being consistently beaten was in the fact that he could not tumble to Welsh's exceptionally clever boxing on the retreat.

No Question.

With five rounds to go Welsh was as safe as could be from being overtaken on points. All he had to do was to proceed coolly and cautiously. Ritchie was never done with, but the job was simply too much for him. He worried Welsh by his dour tenacity in the last few rounds, and there were just a few moments when the Britisher's record looked anxious. But the end came with Welsh on his feet and his lead on points little cut into. He had won.

Won in Canter.

"That is the story of how Fred Welsh gained his world's title. He won in a hack canter; in speed and in all that makes for 'class' he was the master, and Ritchie was the pupil.

"Never did a champion win a title more worthily. Ritchie was strong, and he was plucky, but having said that, all the rest must be reserved for Welsh."

To-morrow's Game May Be Last Lacrosse Here This Year

Those who enjoy a weekly half holiday to-morrow are reminded of the lacrosse game at three o'clock. This is the last home game of the district, Peterborough visiting up game in Havelock. There is no admission to the stands. This will be the last opportunity for the citizens to see a lacrosse game this year, unless the locals get the district, and they have to win Thursday's game to stay near the runing. The efforts of some of the old lacrosse players to put the game on a new basis has not met with as encouraging a reception as it merited, only a few of the loyal being present at each game. With the half holiday it is expected that a good crowd will see the game. All the players are asked to be present sharp on time.

RUSSIAN TERRORISTS' BOMBS.

Intended to Blow Up Czar at First Opportunity.

PARIS, July 21. — The "Petit Parisien" publishes full details of the arrests at Beaumont, Suleine, of two Russian terrorists, who were found in possession of bombs, which they declared were intended to blow up the Czar at the first opportunity. The bombs appeared to be formidable affairs.

The "Matin" says the residences of the Russian terrorists in Paris have been searched, but that nothing has been found of an incriminating nature.

Postal Addresses Of Millionaires

The following clipping is from a Philadelphia paper: "Few weeks pass by without our being asked for the full name and address of Mr. Carnegie's private secretary, or Mr. Carnegie's own personal address, or whether we could suggest any means by which a letter would positively reach him. We wish we could impress it upon such of our readers as are likely to write to either Mr. Carnegie or any other of the millionaire philanthropists that they may save themselves all worry and trouble about their street address of the names of their secretaries and simply address their communications 'Mr. Andrew Carnegie, New York City,' etc. The mail intended for these persons is delivered at such places as they arrange for with the postal authorities, and when received it is handled by confidential secretaries, specially appointed therefor, before it reaches the real addresses, who could not possibly attend to it at first

BURGLAR HUNT ON ROOF.

Thief Almost Lynched by a Paris Crowd.

PARIS, July 21.—A large crowd in the Rue Faubourg Poissoniere, Paris, watched a burglar hunt on the roof.

Mme. Pages, a dressmaker, returned home and found a man searching a wardrobe in her bedroom. She screamed and fainted. The burglar made for the roof, followed by policemen, who were urged and directed by the crowd which had gathered in the street. They failed to find him and when they gave up the search the crowd hooted indignantly.

A few minutes later the crowd cheered loudly when some tenants of the building climbed on the roof and restated the search. They discovered the burglar behind a chimney, and after an exciting chase lasting three-quarters of an hour they captured him.

He was let down by a rope, and as he neared the ground, where the police were waiting, the crowd made a rush for him. After a severe fight the police succeeded in bringing the burglar, badly mauled and bleeding, to the nearest police station.

COLLECTED $19,366.67 FROM VALLEY RAILWAY

Official Without a Position in Company Suddenly Realizes That He Had a Salary of $5000 Due Him

BIG SUM FOR INTEREST

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 24.—Ralph D. Hoben, accountant for the St. John & Quebec Construction Co., was on the stand all day in the Valley Railway enquiry.

The session was devoted to tracing and locating payments, on account of interest, made by the construction company.

One of the most puzzling entries was a charge of $45,000 for interest, which was shown as part of the cost of construction. The only voucher for this was an order-in-council freeing a surety company of responsibility for $45,000 of a $60,000 guarantee of interest on bonds.

The interest on the loans, totaling $445,000, negotiated with the Prudential Trust Co. of Montreal, was paid by the construction company and charged to the cost of the road.

The deeper counsel and commissioners dug into the accounts, the more difficult it seemed to bring order out of the chaos. At every turn they were met with the obstacle that transactions which they wished to trace had been handled through the New York office and the explanations, if there are any would be found only there.

In July, 1913, A. R. Gould claimed that he was entitled to a salary of $5,000 a year from the construction company. It was not shown that Mr. Gould had any office in this company, or that any order to provide him with a salary had been passed by the company. But Mr. Gould collected $10,000 for the two preceding years.

The amounts paid to Mr. Gould reached a total, up to March of this year, of $19,266.67.

Another matter which cropped up yesterday was the claim of J. D. Seeley for $16,000. The full amount was charged up to general expenses, although only $4,000 was actually paid. The entry was classified as "organization expenses."

Sir Wilfrid's Tour Arranged.

OTTAWA, July 24.—It is announced to-day that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will speak in Vancouver on Sept. 11, and touch at Calgary, Regina and Winnipeg on his way eastward, finishing his tour in Ontario points. He opens at St. John, N.B., Aug. 17 or 24. Later, visiting Charlottetown. There will also be meetings in Montreal and Quebec City.

Criminal Libel Charged.

MONTREAL, July 24.—Dr. J. E. Biron, assistant coroner of this city, is prosecuting Gaston Maillet, a well-known dentist, 162 St. Denis street, for criminal libel, and is also suing him for $5,000 damages.

Coal-Laden Schooner Ashore.

DIGBY, N.S., July 24.—The schooner Grace Darling, Captain Caines, with hard coal from New York for Freeport, went ashore at Dartmouth Point, the St. Mary's Bay entrance to Grand Passage.

CAVALRY CHARGES MOB.

Three Are Wounded in Rioting in St. John, N.B.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 24.—A serious strike riot occurred last night, lasting from 8 to 11 o'clock. Mayor Frink read the riot act at 8.30 and at 9 several cavalrymen of the R. C. Dragoons, under Lieut. Stettin, charged through a mob of thousands of persons in Market Square, riding down rioters and striking them with the flats of their sabres, while stones and bottles flew.

Lieut. Stettin was cut about the head, and was removed to the hospital, not seriously hurt.

William Bennett, dredge-worker, was shot in the thigh by Detective Lucas, who was defending himself from members of the mob. Lucas was badly cut on the head, and he and Bennett are in the hospital.

Windows of the power house of the street railway were smashed and fixtures broken. The city lights were off at 11.30. The mob stoned the firemen of the powerhouse and drove them from their work.

Two cars were overturned in Market Square by the mob, after two hours of interfrupted disorder, and finally set on fire. The fire brigade put out the blaze at midnight. This was the most serious disorder in this city in forty years. The city was quiet at midnight. City troops will be out to-day. The trouble is mostly due to the hoodlums rather than to the strikers, though the introduction of strikebreakers precipitated many conflicts.

The riot was a result of the company refusing to reinstate President Ramsay of the employes' union, as advised by a conciliation board.

TO BACK PENNY POSTAGE.

British Dominions Will Oppose Three Cent Proposal.

LONDON, July 24.—At a conference of Postmasters-General shortly to be held in Madrid, it is stated that all the overseas Governments have signified their intention of sending delegates who will support a proposal for universal penny postage rather than in favor of 1 1-2d. rate recently suggested here. Some of the dominions, Australia in particular, are prepared to enter into reciprocal arrangements with any country that would agree to establish penny postage.

A movement is also on foot to bring the whole of the English-speaking world into line in the matter of exchanging week-end cables at reduced rates, and already most of the countries concerned have agreed.

Transportation Companies of U. S. In Default on Bonds.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The railroads of the United States are in default of interest on securities aggregating $550,000,000 according to a compilation established by authorities. It says that not since the disastrous period between 1893 and 1895, when the Atchison, Reading, Erie, Norfolk and Western, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific and other important systems underwent financial rehabilitation, have so many railroad bonds been in default as at the present time.

St. Louis and San Francisco heads the list. This system defaulted July 1 on $195,045,000, which, if taken with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois default, brings the total up to $220,500,000.

BRITISH POLITICIANS SEEKING WAY OUT

Unionist Leader Insists on Exclusion of Ulster, Including Tyrone, But Nationalists Object.

BILL HELD OVER

LONDON, July 24.—The outstanding fact in the Irish situation to-day is that the Home Rule conference is still in being, the predictions of the whole Liberal and Unionist press of yesterday that the conference was on the eve of collapse, having proved false.

After a protracted meeting yesterday the conference adjourned until to-day. Meetings and discussions of the various party leaders proceeded in the lobbies of Parliament last night with unabated activity, and moderate men, like Lord Courtenay, are working indefatigably in the direction of a compromise. Hopes and fears fluctuate from hour to hour.

One favorable sign is found in the fact that further consideration in the House of Commons of the amending bill, which was postponed until Monday on account of the conference, has been still further postponed. This justifies the belief that the conference will extend into next week.

Another hopeful indication was a meeting of the Unionist leaders, which was attended by the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Earl of Selborne, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Pantsbury, Earl Curzon of Kedleston and the Duke of Devonshire. Such a gathering of Unionist peers would hardly have assembled unless some weighty matter was to be discussed.

The Liberals from Premier Asquith down, are working tooth and nail to find a solution of the Ulster problem which will meet the views of Ulsterites and Nationalists. Should the conference fail, they hope to reach the goal by other means.

Their most persuasive followers have been busy in the lobbies trying to induce the Irish protagonists to reconcile their difference. Baron Courtney, a life-long Home Ruler and an insistent advocate of peace at home and abroad, was busy all afternoon interviewing John Redmond and the other leading members of the Nationalist party in behalf of the Liberals. The Irishmen listened courteously and smilingly to the blandishments of the white-haired peer, but, outwardly at least they declined to give way an inch.

The Carsonites apparently are just as adamant. They are standing out for the exclusion of the four protestant counties and Tyrone. The Nationalists are ready to grant them the former, but will not budge with regard to Tyrone.

The English Unionists are interested spectators of the fight. They believe that no matter how it terminates it must benefit them, at least to the extent of hastening a general election. They argue that whichever party in Ireland thinks it has received the worst deal will turn against the Liberals. If it is the Nationalists they will defeat the Government on the floor of the House, if the Carsonites, they will set up a provisional government and threaten civil war, before which, the Unionists believe, Premier Asquith will surrender.

The Liberals say that threats of civil war do not frighten them, and point to the incident of the Irish guards cheering Redmond on Wednesday as evidence that the whole army will not refuse service against the Ulsterites, should they attempt to take over the government of the province.

TROOPS MOBILIZING.

Infantry Is Being Moved to Ulster, Says London Paper.

LONDON, July 24. — C. A. P. Cable.)—The Telegraph's Dublin correspondent is sending a startling message to the effect that infantry are being despatched to Ulster, and that those who are engaged in said operations in that province are being mobilized with a view of coping with any contingency which might arise. An order has been issued from the War Office, preventing them from associating or taking part in any way with the Ulster or Nationalist volunteers. The order has been read to the men on parade. The document orders that arrest and court-martial with the usual punishment, will follow in case of its violation on the part of their giving aid or instruction to any or either of the volunteer forces now known to exist in Ireland, whose intentions or objects are partially or wholly known to interfere with the peace and good order of that portion of his Majesty's dominions known as Ireland.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable exist ence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid —the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

TWO BANKS ARE MERGED

Nova Scotia and Metropolitan Are Amalgamated

TORONTO, July 24.—The amalgamation of the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Metropolitan Bank, two of the leading chartered banks in Canada, was announced last night. The merger has progressed so far that circulars embodying the basis of the amalgamation have been prepared and approved by the directors of both institutions and are being mailed to the shareholders of each. The tendency towards consolidation among the larger banking interests has been marked for some time, and under the present arrangement the Bank of Nova Scotia, which since its absorption of the Bank of New Brunswick has been making numerous extensions in Western Canada, will secure at one stroke the business of the most important and strongest of the younger banking institutions, and an organization which is recognized among the banking fraternity as a very important asset.

Under the agreement as outlined the shareholders of the Metropolitan Bank will receive $200 in cash and one share of Bank of Nova Scotia stock for each two shares held. Although the negotiations which led to the adoption of a practicable basis of amalgamation has been in progress for a considerable period, nothing of the plans leaked out, and it is noteworthy that no trading of unusual proportions has occurred in either stock, although it is understood that during the past few years several tentative proposals have been made to the Metropolitan Bank looking towards the absorption of this institution by some of the larger banks, but in each case the directors of the Metropolitan have declined to consider any offers.

Although the Metropolitan Bank will be merged into the older business, the shareholders of the Metropolitan will be represented on the board of the Bank of Nova Scotia by the vice-president, S. J. Moore, and the general manager, W. D. Ross.

As the result of the merger the Bank of Nova Scotia will take its place as the fourth largest bank in Canada, with a paid-up capital of $6,500,000 and a reserve fund of $13,043,789 and the total assets $94,143,224. The net profits of the combined institution in 1913 were $1,392,662.

The great advantage which will accrue to the Bank of Nova Scotia through taking in its younger rival will be recognized by banking men as opening up to it new and attractive territory in which it has been hitherto sparsely represented. It also secures a staff and general organization which in the ordinary course of events would have required years of time and the expenditure of much capital to build up.

The board of directors of the Bank of Nova Scotia are: John Y. Payzant, president; Charles Archibald, vice-president; G. S. Campbell, J. Walter Allison, Hector Mclnnes, Hon. N. Curry, J. H. Plummer, Robert E. Harris, James Manchester, W. W. White, M.D.

The board of directors of the Metropolitan Bank are: S. J. Moore, president; D. E. Thomson, K.C., vice-president; Sir W. Mortimer Clark, K.C., John Firstbrook, James Ryrie, W. D. Ross.

Russian Strikers and Cossacks In Bitter Struggle.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24. — At least five striking workmen were killed and eight seriously wounded during the fighting in the streets of St. Petersburg between the strikers on the one side and the police and Cossacks on the other, which continued throughout the night and ceased only at dawn yesterday morning. Three police officials, also are known to have been severely injured and taken to hospitals.

The figures quoted are official, but it is generally understood, that the casualties among the strikers were much heavier, as it is thought probable they concealed a number of the dead and wounded.

Official returns of the number of men who have quit work give the total of 120,000 in the city itself. These include the street car employes but do not comprise many unskilled laborers in the building and other trades.

Convicts Find Clothes Hidden.

KINGSTON, July 24. — Two convicts at the penitentiary have had one month's good conduct marks taken from them as a result of the investigation into the finding of a suit of civilian clothes hidden in a coal pile. The guard whose duty it was to see that the clothes were destroyed has been exonerated, and this action has caused much criticism, as just the other day a guard, who was found asleep on duty, was dismissed. It is claimed that the offence of one guard was just as bad as the other, and that favoritism has been shown.

After visiting Port Arthur and Fort William they will proceed to Regina and Calgary and will spend a couple of weeks at Banff. After the coast visit Winnipeg and other Manitoba points will be touched en route home. They will reach Ottawa about Sept. 7.

MME. CAILLAUX ON RACK.

Her Husband's First Wife Tells the Secrets of His Life.

PARIS, July 24. — Mme. Berthe Gueydan, Joseph Caillaux's first wife, a slender woman with wasted cheeks and black eyes, came into court and faced her former husband, the ex-Premier of France, and, put as though upon a rack, the woman who had won him from her—Mme. Henriette Caillaux, now on trial for the killing of a man.

Mme. Gueydan was to tell her part in the publication in The Figaro of the now celebrated "Thy Jos" letter, but she declared she knew nothing about it, and affirmed that she had told Gaston Calmette nothing.

The emotional summit of the trial was reached when other private letters were handed over by Mme. Gueydan to Maitre Laberi, counsel for Mme. Caillaux. It was one of the most dramatic moments in the annals of the French courts. A deep and impressive silence fell upon the court room.

Mme. Gueydan then left the box after having completely dominated by her remarkable personality the whole procedure. For three hours she spoke and her voice gained strength and carried to the remotest corner of the room.

In that time she had bare many of the secrets of her life with M. Caillaux. She told of his liaison and of his throwing himself at her knees and asking her pardon. She testified that he even threatened her life.

Then she left him and hoped that he would follow her, but he did not, and she added, with a flash of her eyes and a tightening of her lips: "You know why."

PART II.

AZALEA ADAIR, fifty years old, white haired, a descendant of the cavaliers, as thin and frail as the house she lived in, robed in the cheapest and cleanest dress I ever saw, with an air as simple as a queen's, received me.

The reception room seemed a mile square, because there was nothing in it except some rows of books, on unpainted white pine bookshelves, a cracked marble top table, a rag rug, a hairless horsehair sofa and two or three chairs. Yes, there was a picture on the wall, a colored crayon drawing of a cluster of pansies. I looked around for the portrait of Andrew Jackson and the pine cone hanging basket, but they were not there.

Azalea Adair and I had conversation, a little of which will be repeated to you. She was a product of the old south, gently nurtured in the sheltered life. Her learning was not broad, but was deep and of splendid originality in its somewhat narrow scope. She had been educated at home and her knowledge of the world was derived from inference and by inspiration. Of such is the precious, small group of essayists made. While she talked to me I kept brushing my fingers, trying unconsciously to rid them guiltily of the absent dust from the half calf backs of Lamb, Chaucer, Hazlitt, Marcus Aurelius, Montaigne and Hood. She was exquisite, she was a valuable discovery. Nearly everybody nowadays knows too much—oh, so much too much—of real life.

I could perceive clearly that Azalea Adair was very poor. A house and a dress she had, not much else, I fancied. So, divided, between my duty to the magazine and my loyalty to the poets and essayists who fought Thomas in the valley of the Cumberland, I listened to her voice, which was like a harpsichord's, and found I could not speak of contracts. In the presence of the nine muses and the three graces one hesitated to lower the topic to 2 cents. There would have to be another colloquy after I had regained my commercialism. But I spoke of my mission and 8 o'clock of the next afternoon was set for the discussion of the business proposition.

"Your town," I said, as I began to make ready to depart (which is the time for smooth generalities), "seems to be a quiet, sedate place. A home town, I should say, where few things out of the ordinary ever happen."

It carries on an extensive trade in stoves and hollow ware with the west and south, and its flouring mills have a daily capacity of more than 2,000 barrels.

Azalea Adair seemed to reflect.

"I have never thought of it that way," she said, with a kind of sincere intensity that seemed to belong to her. "Isn't it in the still, quiet places that things do happen? I fancy that when God began to create the earth on the first Monday morning one could have leaned out one's window and heard the drops of mud splashing from his trowel as he built up the everlasting hills. What did the noisiest project in the world—I mean the building of the tower of Babel—result in finally? A page and a half of Esperanto in the North American Review."

"Of course," said I platitudinously, "human nature is the same everywhere, but there is more color—or—more drama and movement and—er—romance in some cities than in others."

"On the surface," said Azalea Adair. "I have traveled many times around the world in a golden airship wafted on two wings—print and dreams. I have seen (on one of my imaginary tours) the sultan of Turkey bowstring with his own hands one of his wives who had uncovered her face in public. I have seen a man in Nashville tear up his theater tickets because his wife was going out with her face covered—with rice powder. In San Francisco's Chinatown I saw the slave girl Sing Yee dipped slowly, inch by inch, in boiling almond oil to make her swear she would never see her American lover again. She gave in when the boiling oil had reached three inches above her knee. At a euchre party in West Nashville the other night I saw Kitty Morgan cut dead by seven of her schoolmates and lifelong friends because she had married a house painter. The boiling oil was stealing as high as her heart, but I wish you could have seen the fine little smile that she carried from table to table. Oh, yes, it is a humdrum town, just a few miles of red brick houses and mud and stores and lumber yards."

Some one knocked hollowly at the back of the house. Azalea Adair breathed a soft apology and went to investigate the sound. She came back in three minutes with brightened eye. She re... hall. In shuffle... about twelve, barefoot glowering at me with thu... and bulging eyes.

Azalea Adair opened a tiny, worn purse and drew out a dollar bill, a dollar bill with the upper right hand corner missing, torn in two pieces and pasted together again with a strip of blue tissue paper. It was one of the bills I had given the piratical negro—there was no doubt of it.

"Go up to Mr. Baker's store on the corner, Impy," she said, handing the girl the dollar bill, "and get a quarter of a pound of tea—the kind he always sends me—and 10 cents' worth of sugar cakes. Now, hurry. The supply of tea in the house happens to be exhausted," she explained to me.

Impy left b... back way. Before the scrape of ... hard, bare feet had died away on the back porch a wild shriek—I was sure it was hers—filled the hollow house. Then the deep, gruff tones of an angry man's voice mingled with the girl's further squeals and unintelligible words.

Azalea Adair rose without surprise or emotion and disappeared. For two minutes I heard the hoarse rumble of the man's voice, then something like an oath and a slight scuffle, and she returned calmly to her chair.

"This is a roomy house," she said, "and I have a tenant for part of it. I am sorry to have to rescind my invitation to tea. It was impossible to get the kind I always use at the store. Perhaps tomorrow Mr. Baker will be able to supply me."

I was sure that Impy had not had time to leave the house. I inquired concerning street car lines and took my leave. After I was well on my way I remembered that I had not learned Azalea Adair's name. But tomorrow would do.

That same day I started in on the course of iniquity that this unevenful city forced upon me. I was in the town only two days, but in that time I managed to lie shamelessly by telegraph and to be an accomplice—after the fact, if that is the correct legal term—to a murder.

As I rounded the corner nearest my hotel the Afrite coachman of the polychromatic, nonpariel coat seized me, swung open the dungeony door of his peripatetic sarcophagus, flirted his feather duster and began his ritual: "Step right in, boss. Carriage is clean—jus' got back from a funeral. Fifty cents to any"—

And then he knew me and grinned broadly. "'Scuse me, boss; you is de gen'l'man what rid out with me dis mawnin'. Thank you kindly, suh."

"I am going out to 861 again tomorrow afternoon at 3," said I, "and if you will be here I'll let you drive me. So you know Miss Adair?" I concluded, thinking of my dollar bill.

"I belonged to her father, Judge Adair, suh," he replied.

"I judge that she is pretty poor," I said. "She hasn't much money to speak of, has she?"

For an instant I looked again at the fierce countenance of King Cetewayo, and then he changed back to an extortionate old negro hack driver.

"She ain't gwine to starve, suh," he said slowly. "She has reso'ces, suh; she has reso'ces."

"I shall pay you 50 cents for the trip," said I.

"Dat is puffeckly correct, suh," he answered humbly. "I jus' had to have dat $2 dis mawnin', boss."

I went to the hotel and fled by electricity. I wired the magazine: "A. Adair holds out for 8 cents a word."

The answer that came back was, "Give it to her quick, you duffer."

O'Keefe's

"Gold Label" ALE

The O'K brewmaster says it is his masterpiece—enrich, old, creamy ale of matchless purity.

J. M. BROOKS & CO., Distributors, 416 Water Street, 'Phone 61.

That before dinner Major Wentworth Caswell bore down upon me with the greetings of a long lost friend. I have seen few men whom I have so instantaneously hated and of whom it was so difficult to be rid. I was standing at the bar when he invaded me. Therefore I could not wave the white ribbon in his face. I would have paid gladly for the drinks, hoping thereby to escape another, but he was one of those despicable, roaring, advertising bibbers who must have brass bands and fireworks attend upon every cent that they waste in their follies.

With an air of producing millions he drew two one-dollar bills from a pocket and dashed one of them upon the bar. I looked once more at the dollar bill with the upper right hand corner missing, torn through the middle, and patched with a strip of blue tissue paper. It was my dollar bill again. It could have been no other.

I went up to my room. The drizzle and the monotony of a dreary, eventless southern town had made me tired and listless.

King Cetewayo was at his post the next day and rattled my bones over the stones out to 861. He was to wait and rattle me back again when I was ready.

Azalea Adair looked paler and cleaner and frailer than she had looked on the day before. After she had signed the contract at 8 cents per word she grew still paler and began to slip out of her chair. Without much trouble I managed to get her up on the antediluvian horsehair sofa and then I ran out to the sidewalk and yelled to the coffee colored pirate to bring a doctor. With a wisdom that I had not suspected in him he abandoned his team and struck off up the street afoot, realising the value of speed. In ten minutes he returned with a grave, gray haired and capable man of medicine. In a few words (worth much less than 8 cents each) I explained to him my presence in the hollow house of mystery. He bowed with stately understanding and turned to the old negro.

"Uncle Caesar," he said calmly, "run up to my house and ask Miss Lucy to give you a cream pitcher full of fresh milk and half a tumbler of port wine. And hurry back. Don't drive—run. I want you to get back some time this week."

The doctor looked me over with great politeness and as much careful calculation until he had decided that I might do.

"It is only a case of insufficient nutrition," he said—"in other words, the result of poverty, pride and starvation. Mrs. Caswell has many devoted friends who would be glad to aid her, but she will accept nothing except from that old negro, Uncle Caesar, who was once owned by her family."

"Mrs. Caswell!" said I in surprise. And then I looked at the contract and saw that she had signed it "Azalea Adair Caswell."

"I thought she was Miss Adair," I said.

"Married to a drunken, worthless loafer, sir," said the doctor. "It is said that he robs her even of the small sums that her old servant contributes toward her support."

When the milk and wine had been brought the doctor soon revived Azalea Adair. She sat up and talked of the beauty of the autumn leaves that were then in season and their height of color. She referred lightly to her fainting seizure as the outcome of an old palpitation of the heart. Impy fanned her as she lay on the sofa. The doctor was due elsewhere, and I followed him to the door. I told him that it was within my power and intentions to make a reasonable advance of money to Azalea Adair on future contributions to the magazine, and he seemed pleased.

"By the way," he said, "perhaps you would like to know that you have had royalty for a coachman. Old Caesar's grandfather was a king in Kongo. Caesar himself has royal ways, as you may have observed."

As the doctor was moving off I heard Uncle Caesar's voice inside. "Did he git hole of dem $2 from you, Miss Zalia?"

"Yes, Caesar," I heard Azalea Adair answer weakly. And then I went in and concluded business negotiations with our contributor. I assumed the responsibility of advancing $50, putting it as a necessary formality in binding our bargain. And then Uncle Caesar drove me back to the hotel.

Here ends all of the story as far as I can testify as a witness. The rest must be only bare statements of facts.

At about 6 o'clock I went out for a stroll. Uncle Caesar was at his corner. He threw open the door of his carriage, flourished his duster and began his depressing formula: "Step right in, suh. Fifty cents to anywhere in the city. Hack's puffickly clean, suh. Jus' got back from a funeral"—

And then he recognised me. I think his eyesight was getting bad. His coat had taken on a few more faded shades of color, the twine strings were more frayed and ragged, the last remaining button—the button of yellow horn—was gone. A motley descendant of kings was Uncle Caesar!

About two hours later I saw an excited crowd besieging the front of a drug store. In a desert where nothing happens this was manna, so I edged my way inside. On an extemporised couch of empty boxes and chairs was stretched the mortal corporeality of Major Wentworth Caswell. A doctor was testing him for the immortal ingredient. His decision was that it was conspicuous by its absence.

The erstwhile major had been found dead on a dark street and brought by curious and ennuied citizens to the drug store. The late human being had been engaged in terrific battle—the details showed that. Loafer and reprobate though he had been, he had been also a warrior. But he had lost. His hands were yet clinched so tightly that his fingers would not be opened. The gentle citizens who had known him stood about and searched their vocabularies to find some good words, if it were possible, to speak of him. One kind "bubbly" man said after some thought, "When Cas was about fo'teen he was one of the best spellers in school."

While I stood there the fingers of the right hand of "the man that was," which hung down the side of a white pine box, relaxed and dropped something at my feet. I covered it with one foot quietly and a little later on I picked it up and pocketed it. I reasoned that in his last struggle his hand must have seized that object unwittingly and held it in a death grip.

At the hotel that night the main topic of conversation, with the possible exceptions of politics and prohibition, was the demise of Major Caswell. I heard one man say to a group of listeners:

"In my opinion, gentlemen, Caswell was murdered by some of these no account niggers for his money. He had $50 this afternoon, which he showed to several gentlemen in the hotel. When he was found the money was not on his person."

I left the city the next morning at 9, and as the train was crossing the bridge over the Cumberland river I took out of my pocket a yellow horn overcoat button the size of a fifty cent piece, with frayed ends of coarse twine hanging from it, and cast it out of the window into the slow, muddy waters below.

I wonder what's doing in Buffalo!

Consoling Thought.

Country Vicar (to widow whose best pig has died)—Well, you know, Mrs. Higgs, these little troubles are sent us by Providence for our good.

Mrs. Higgs—Oh, yes, sir. But what a comfort it is to know that there's one above as won't let Providence go too far!—Toronto Globe.

A Cleanup.

The three amateur sharpers smiled. They thought they had found an easy mark. He was well dressed and grossly inebriated. And he bore a tight roll of bills that looked like a bologna sausage.

"Boys," he thickly said, "I'm goin' to shend thish wad of shtuff to th' gov'ment laundry an' have it dry cleaned. It's sho fearful dirty. Maybe one of you gents would kindly shee it's addreshed to proper place?"

"Why, yes," replied the gang. "We'll take care of it."

"Thanks," replied the victim. "An' now I muah ashk you to lemme have a few clean bills for emergenshish, don't you know."

So they searched themselves and gave him a new twenty and a ten and a five. Then, taking the soiled wad, they hurried awry.

Two days later the three clever ones were arrested for having counterfeit money in their possession.

But the guileless inebriate was seen no more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Born Diplomat.

"Splendid!" exclaimed the old colonel as C company passed the saluting base.

"Did you hear wot ole nasty face said?" No. 2 of the front rank asked No. 4.

"Stand fast after parade, No. 4, for talking in the ranks!" snapped a sergeant from near by.

"It wasn't me talkin'!" muttered No. 4.

"You'd better not git two on us in trouble," advised No. 3 in a whisper.

"Talking while marching past!" echoed the adjutant. "What on earth did you find to talk about then?"

"As we was passing the salutin' base," explained No. 4, "the colonel sez, 'Splendid!' 'Yes,' I sez to meself, 'an' you've got the smartest officer in the British army to thank for makin' us splendid, and that's our adjutant.'"

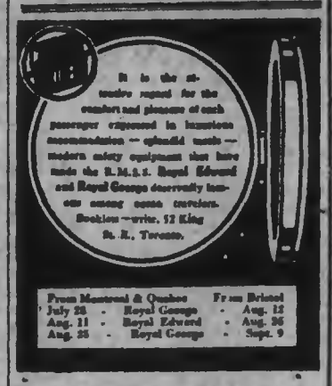
"Er—sergeant, send the man away and don't bring such frivolous complaints before me again," snapped the adjutant.—London Answers.

The Change of a Word.

"You wouldn't think there'd be enough difference between the definite and the indefinite article to matter much, would you?" said a woman who writes for a living. "I made a lifelong enemy of a woman once just by writing 'the' where I meant 'a.' It was an account of her wedding I was doing. I said something about the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's aunt, and then I added that there were present 'only the few friends of the family.' The bride never got over that 'the' in front of few. It happened five years ago, and when my name is mentioned she still froths at the mouth."—Washington Post.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD

Mr. Peterson, South Bay, Ont. writes: "For years I suffered a sore of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."



It is the attentive regard for the comfort and pleasure of each passenger expressed in luxurious accommodation — splendid meals — modern safety equipment that have made the R.M.S.S. Royal Edward and Royal George deservedly famous among ocean travelers.

Yosemite Versus Grand Canyon.

Yosemite for a home or a camp, the Grand canyon for a spectacle. I saw a robin in Yosemite valley. Think how forlorn and out of place a robin would seem in the Grand canyon! What would he do there? There is no food for him to inspect, and there are no trees for him to perch on. I would as soon expect to find him amid the pyramids of Egypt or amid the ruins of Karnak. The bluebird was there also, and the water ousel haunted the lucid waters. The reader may create for himself a good image of Yosemite by thinking of a section of seven or eight miles of the Hudson river midway of its course as emptied of its waters and deepened 2,000 feet or more, having the sides nearly vertical, with snow white waterfalls fluttering against them here and there, the famous spires and domes planted along the rim, and the landscape of groves and glades, with its still, clear, winding river, occupying the bottom.—John Burroughs in Century.

His Apology.

A recent refusal by a member of the English parliament to withdraw "one comma" of what he had said about a member of the government recalls the fact that Richard Brinsley Sheridan once declined to punctuate an apology. In the house of commons one day Sheridan gave an opponent the lie direct. Called upon to apologize, the offender replied:

"Mr. Speaker, I said the honorable member was a liar it is true and I am sorry for it."

The insulted party was not satisfied and said so.

"Sir," retorted Sheridan, "the honorable member can interpret the terms of my statement according to his ability, and he can put punctuation marks where it pleases him."

Renewed Vigor In Old Age

This Letter Brings a Message of Cheer to the Aged—Results of Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

New, rich blood is what is most needed in the declining years to keep up energy and vitality. That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a wonderful help in maintaining good health and prolonging life is attested by the writer of this letter.

Mr. Stephen J. Leard, North Tryon, P.E.I., writes: — "At seventy-five years of age my heart gave out and became very irregular and weak in action and would palpitate. My nerves also became weak, and I could do nothing but lie in bed in a languishing condition, losing strength and weight. In that condition I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would now be in the box with the roof over my nose. At eighty-one I have an energy which means go, and I am writing this letter so that old people like myself may prolong their hearth and strength by using this great medicine." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50. How to Quit Smoking.

Do not light the first cigar less than half an hour after breakfast. The more difficult this delay may be, the more need there is for a cure. The remainder of the day smoke the same as usual. It is only the first cigar with which we are dealing. Keep this up for a week, then lengthen the interval to an hour for another week, then make it one and a half hours, two, two and a half, and so on. If you have an "all gone" sensation, a longing for something and don't know what sort of feeling, eat an orange or apple or almost any kind of fruit, but don't smoke until the time is up. The nerves being deprived of their morning stimulant are crying for nourishment, which nature is hastening to supply through increased appetite to supply digestion. By the time the first cigar is entirely eliminated the cure is effected with no serious derangement of the heart or digestive apparatus. It now requires only a moderate will power to make the cure permanent.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Had the Effect.

"Yes," she said in answer to something he had said, "the old songs are very beautiful."

"Beautiful!" he exclaimed enthusiastically. "Beautiful hardly describes them. They are—they are—well, compared with them the songs of today are trash, the veriest trash."

"I agree with you, yet the old songs sometimes contain sentiments that one cannot wholly approve."

"I think you are mistaken."

"I will give you an illustration. There is John Howard Payne's 'Home, Sweet Home,' for instance. You surely do not agree with all the sentiments it contains?"

"Why not?" he asked warmly. "Why not?"

"Because," she said, glancing at the clock, which was marking the hour of 11—"because there is a line in that song which says 'There's no place like home.' You do not believe that, do you?"

Then he coughed a hollow cough and arose and went silently out into the night.

A Very Large Mine.

There was once in Cripple Creek an odd character named Burns. He was an odd person who always, no matter what his work, were what used to be called a "Prince Albert." He struck a rich vein of ore and named that the Prince Albert. Being of a generous and convivial disposition, this lucky fellow was, of course, surrounded by many self seeking friends. When he and they were in their cups some of them, with an eye to the main chance, managed to wheedle out of Burns on one pretext or another a deed of a share in his mine. With royal prodigality he scattered deeds about among his retainers and camp followers until finally something had to be done, and the case was taken into court. One of the lawyers had Burns on the stand. "Now, Mr. Burns," said the lawyer, "will you please tell the court how you can explain your conduct? The evidence shows that you have deeded away twenty-nine twenty-fourths of your mine. What have you to say to that?" "Well, sir," replied the witness, "you must remember, sir, that the Prince Albert is a very large mine."

Prepared.

IN DREAD OF CROUP

Every mother dreads croup unless she knows about Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Given in frequent small doses, at the first indication of trouble, this treatment loosens the cough and affords relief and comfort. Its use should be kept up until the child is entirely recovered.

Under the Orator's Spell.

Justice Brewer was once speaking of the oratory of John B. Gough. "I would go home after hearing his eloquence thoroughly elated, but when my father or mother asked me what Gough had said I could not tell them for the life of me. I remember once at a Yale commencement along in the fifties, about the time that I was graduated there, an incident illustrating the force of personal magnetism. Gough was to deliver an oration. He spoke, of course, on temperance. There was a distinguished audience. On the stage were many of the venerable, notable men in New Haven of that day. A large space was clear about the table, for Gough liked to walk back and forth as he talked. He described how a drunkard had beaten his wife and came to his climax with, 'Any man who would kick a woman ought to be kicked out of the universe!'

"He emphasized his words with a vigorous thrust of one foot, whereat every person on the stage, insensibly wrought up by the orator, likewise kicked outward as did Gough."—Kansas City Journal.

When Tabby Raises Her Battle Cry.

Despite the cat's softness, lightness, fullness and purring amiability, her piercing wavery in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

One of Mark Twain's wise old frontiersman had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that animal speech had rules of composition and grammar, just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat rises ye so ain't on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the nicknain' bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scalp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tingles and screams in the rasping cry.

Two Can Play.

"Waiter," called the irate diner, "there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for."

"Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter, "just a bet the cashier and I have. I'll have it fixed right away, sir."

"What do you mean about a bet?" asked the diner, detaining him.

"Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents you would see the mistake, and he bet you wouldn't, so I win, sir."

"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"

"He'd have got the dollar, sir."

"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil." And he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, folded it up and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."

The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unfolded the paper. It read:

"I'll bet you $5 that when you send this back you don't find me."

And they didn't.—Lippincott's.

Practical Help.

"Mister," whined the mendicant with the wooden leg, "can't you help a poor old sailor wot has had his leg bitten off by a shark?"

"Dear me!" exclaimed the kind hearted professor. "I believe I can, my poor man. Come around to the college."

After hobbling along for ten blocks the professor led the way through an iron gate and up to his study.

"Here you are, my poor man. Now, don't say I never gave you anything."

The beggar almost toppled over with astonishment.

"W-what's that, sir?"

"Why, that's my latest book on 'Sharks and Their Ways.' If you have that book with you when you fall overboard next time you won't lose the other leg. You'll know just how to dodge them. Good day."—Chicago News.

Earliest Theater.

What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000, nearly four times that of our largest amusement palace. The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

Not the Same.

On one occasion when "The Mikado" was being rehearsed Gilbert called out from the middle of the stalls, "There is a gentleman in the left group not holding his fan correctly." The stage manager appeared and explained. "There is one gentleman," he said, "who is absent through illness." "Ah," came the reply from the author in grave, matter of fact tones, "that is not the gentleman I am referring to."—Dundee Advertiser.

"My wife's away, and this is to remind me that I promised to think of her every day."—Toledo Blade.

Friction Matches.

Friction matches are a comparatively modern invention. They were first made by John Walker in England in 1827, but were rather crude affairs. He improved them somewhat in 1829 by using phosphorus. The first really practical friction match was made in the United States in 1836 by L. C. Allen of Springfield, Mass. Before this time a clumsy form of match was imported from France, which had to be dipped into a bottle of sulphuric acid before it could be lighted. This took a great deal of time and trouble, and Allen, seeing the necessity for friction matches, set about to make them and succeeded. He neglected to patent them, however, and on finally applying for letters patent found that a man named Alonzo Phillips, who was a peddler, had discovered through a third person the secret of making the matches and had already obtained a patent. Thus Allen, though the real inventor, was forced to become a mere manufacturer under another man's patent.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Kidnaped Brides.

In the year 902, according to old custom, all the brides for the year at Venice assembled on St. Mary's eve at the cathedral, taking with them their fortunes in small chests. There they awaited their bridegrooms, who followed them, and after mass they were married and received the bishop's blessing. In this year the sea rovers of Trieste burst in upon the expectant maidens, who were all dressed in white, with hair loosely flowing and interwoven with threads of gold, carried them off to their barks and hoisted sail. The doge of Venice summoned his men to arms, pursued the rovers, overtook them in a creek still known as the Port of the Damsels and brought the brides back in triumph. In memory of this event a solemn procession of twelve young women took place yearly, and the Marian games were observed with great splendor until the year 1379, when they were discontinued in a time of disastrous war.

Sweeping—dust contains many dangerous microbes.

SWEEPING is actually dangerous, as well as uncomfortable and almost useless, if it merely stirs up the floor's dust and dirt. Sweeping-dust contains millions of flaky atoms of dried vegetable and animal matter which carry disease-breeding germs and microbes.

DUSTBANE
"Catches Sweeping Dust"

Dustbane contains an antiseptic which kills germs, and its evaporation purifies the air, protecting women and children from dust-microbes. The bright green powder is swept ahead of the broom, falling upon and absorbing the dust, leaving floor or carpet bright and clean.

Dustbane saves labor in sweeping, saves nearly all your dusting, prevents damage by moths, keeps carpets bright, and protects the family's health. It can be used over and over again, and its cost is trifling.

Try it free—at our risk.

We know that when you've once used Dustbane, you will never again be satisfied to sweep without it. In order that you may try it without risk, we make the following.

Trial Offer

ORDER a regular 35-cent tin of Dustbane from your grocer. Use it for all your sweeping for a week. If you are not absolutely satisfied, send the partly used tin, back to the grocer within ten days and he will refund the full purchase price.

Do You Think That You Would Be Lonesome in London?

Mrs. John Hartness Says "YES!"

"I AM told that there are 40,000 Americans in London," said Mrs. John Hartness, who has lived in the English capital for some time, "and there is no meeting place where they may go and feel at home. There are a few societies and organizations where special cases are taken care of. The unusually gifted are provided for and there are ways of helping the stranded American, but for the large number of Americans, especially women, who go there for a time or perhaps to live for years existence is unnecessarily dreary. I long to see a centre for Americans in London.

"No one who has not experienced it can understand how icy the English can be. They are delightful when you come to know them, but that happy condition comes to comparatively few. I have been very fortunate personally, as through my literary and artistic connections I have had unusual oportunities to make acquaintances and to find entertainment, but I have known of so many persons who lacked these opportunities and who were very unhappy.

Would Facilitate Social Intercourse.

"You know the American church and club in Paris have been most successful. I have been familiar with the work there, and when I return to London I shall go over to Paris again and become more intimately acquainted with the details of the organization. Of course, I know that there is a larger student body in that city, and that the difference of the languages makes the need great, but I am sure that a similar enterprise would rejoice the hearts of thousands of lonely women in London. In the first place there should be an undenominational church with a good resident minister. Some one asked me if we could find the right man for such a place, and I replied that if we get the church we will surely find the man. Of course there are plenty of churches in London of all denominations, but they are not 'home' churches, and the visiting American has no share in them. Then in connection with the church there could be all manner of clubs and social features. How far reaching the scope would be and just what purposes could be served could be developed later when the idea of the institution was further evolved.

"Yes, this idea has come, in part, through my personal experience. Many women have come to me with their stories of unhappiness in the great city. They do not know any one; they do not know how to get acquainted. One cannot go sight seeing all the time, and it does not take the place of warm personal relationships. A centre of the kind of which I speak would bring together persons who would never be likely to meet otherwise and would provide social opportunities for those who lack them. Far from its interfering with any opportunities that there might be for the Americans to meet English people, it would facilitate such meetings. There could be an interchange of hospitality and civilities that would not be possible with the isolated American.

Hard to Find Site.

"The American Circle of the Lyceum Club has already endowed a bed in a hospital and the Men's Society has endowed a ward, but that is a very little thing for the 40,000 Americans in London. If there were such a centre as I hope to see established far more could be done along this practical line as well as in the social and educational way. Has it ever occurred to you how difficult it is for an American, unless she is of the rich spendthrift class, to know where to find suitable accommodations in the great city of London? What does the average American know about neighborhoods, prices and other details? Think how much assistance she could find in such matters if there were a conveniently located place where Americans were expected to come for guidance.

"It is difficult to find such a location in London, but I have every confidence that the difficulty can be overcome when we have the money in hand to pay for the site and the building."

Mrs. Hartness is the wife of an American business man and has lived in London for about ten years. She is an officer of the American circle of the London Lyceum Club, the largest and, perhaps most important woman's club in the world, and the parent of similar clubs on a smaller scale in eleven European cities. She prepared a lecture on, "What Was the Star of Bethlehem?" after much research. It is illustrated with pictures taken under remarkable circumstances, she having had the co-operation of some of the noted astronomers of the world and the use of famous observatories. This lecture was first delivered in the University of London, and since she has been visiting in this country Mrs. Hartness has given it on several occasions for the benefit of the American Circle for Americans in London. This is the club of the kind that Mrs. Hartness hopes to raise, and for which she has already received enthusiastic promises of support.

"If it wasn't for the weather London would be no more of a foreign city for the American than any other large city," said Miss Mary Lawton, leading lady in "The Philanderer," at the Little Theatre, in New York city, whose experience as an American in London extends over almost a decade. "As for homesickness, or rather, loneliness, which, I take it, is what they mean when they talk about the mental state of Americans in London, one can be lonely anywhere, especially in any large city.

"Why, think of the girls who go to the big cities from the smaller towns, who are ready to die from loneliness. They are just as badly off as those in London, every bit. It is an entirely different question from Paris or Berlin because of the language and the familiar customs. Most Americans are going "back home," among the people of the country from which their ancestors came, when they go to England. There is a home feeling that is not possible in other European countries.

"I admit that there is an attitude that is almost as difficult to come up against as a foreign language, often a jealousy of American success, on the part of the English people. Next to the weather this is the most formidable obstacle. Yet it is possible to penetrate the shell of unfriendliness that one meets, or to live happily without the cordiality that one would like to find.

"If a woman is going to be in London for any length of time and wishes to get something of the real social life there she must have introductions. After that it depends on herself as to the reception she gets and the number of persons she meets and the entertainments to which she is invited. If she makes a favorable impression she will be introduced and reintroduced until she will have no occasion to complain of loneliness. If she fails to produce an effect, she will, after the first courtesies, be left alone. An Englishwoman has no compunctions about doing that. It must always be remembered that certain American people in London and in other European cities produce a bad impression. Their unpleasant voices—and we will have to admit that they are unpleasant, even while we say that certain classes of English people have bad pronunciation, too, ugly of another sort—and their assertive manners have created a prejudice against Americans in general which the individual has to overcome.

Would Lessen Foreign Atmosphere.

"There is one fatal flaw, in my opinion, in the effort to establish an American centre in London. The best of the Americans will not want it. When a student or any other person with a serious purpose goes abroad, the last thing she desires is to see the people and have the conditions that she has at home. Why should she cross the ocean and go to all kinds of expense and trouble if she is going to have just what she has gone away from, whether it is church, or clubs, or associations? She wants the foreign atmosphere and the foreign experiences. She may have to seek a common centre with her compatriots for practical reasons in a city where she does not speak or understand the language, but there is surely no reason why she should do it London.

"There are so many things in the way of entertainment. The theatres are so numerous and so interesting, the museums are splendid and there are a thousand things that the American woman may do by herself or with her own party without suffering from ennui. The only real excuse for homesickness that I can appreciate is when the fog shuts down upon one and the electric lights in the room look like dim candles and outside one can hardly get her breath. Then it is depressing and one has to work for entertainment, a thing she never has to do in Paris, where all she has to do is to go out into the gay streets and be amused."

Miss Mary Lawton Says "NO!"

Merchants Training Customers

TRAINING the customer is one feature of the programme of the modern man of business for increasing his trade area.

If the customer can only be made to discriminate between the right thing and the wrong thing it is good for the trade, rather than otherwise, in the opinion of men who have studied the way of the consumer for many years. Especially is it good for the manufacturer who has varied his product in accordance with the progressive point of view of the more enlightened members of the community.

In the corset trade forward looking manufacturers have for years been engaged in educating the public in what they really ought to want in corsets. Different corset manufacturers have chosen different methods for achieving this result, but the general trend of their efforts has been altogether beneficial to the health of the wearers. At the same time women's figures through the wearing of corsets that are more and more adapted to their individual needs have become much more natural and graceful than in former years.

Between the manufacturer who really wished to sell to women corsets fitted to their figures and the customers there is the barrier of the saleswoman who is not instructed in human anatomy nor in the varying adaptability of different makes and styles of corsets to the widely varying figures.

In the old way of doing things this young woman, through lack of information, might send away from the counter any day in the week a score of customers whom she had supplied with corsets that distorted their figures, made them ridiculous caricatures of the mode of the moment and were seriously harmful.

Corsets May Affect Health.

It was not alone the overtight corset which threatened the health of the wearer. A corset too long or too short might be equally harmful. A front bone pressing too tight might limit the breathing capacity, injure the lungs, even affect the heart. A corset that pushed down the lower part of the abdomen instead of supporting it might cause the most serious injuries if the wearer persisted in its use.

With the object of instructing saleswomen, buyers for out of town and all other persons professionally interested in the corset trade in their duties to the customer, one enormous corset manufacturing firm has for several years been holding annual institutes at which lectures on the subject of anatomy in relation to the corset are given at morning and afternoon sessions. There are also demonstrations by the employes of the company in the actual work of selecting a corset, fitting it to a customer and putting it on.

These institutes are not for the general public, nor are they used for advertising purposes. The firm which holds them is guided by a principle of trade sufficiently progressive and broad minded to believe that an ethical manner of conducting their business will be in the end recognized and appreciated by the public.

It uses every possible means to impress upon persons who handle goods the fact that to sell to a customer a corset that is not good for her to wear is not only bad ethics but bad business.

Every time that a customer goes away with a corset that is either uncomfortable or unsuited to her figure from an aesthetic standpoint this firm considers that its prestige has been damaged. The thing is not to sell a corset but to sell the right corset to the right person. If that is done and if all eccentricities of figure are cared for by the most expert fitting, then the firm considers that it has made of that customer a friend for life.

Of course, it is desirable that its own particular brand of corset should be sold, but the modern corset manufacturer puts out so many different shapes of corsets that any figure can be fitted from them provided the right selection is made.

Because one number of a corset is out of stock for the moment a careless or indifferent saleswoman might be inclined to recommend a less well suited shape or a number too large or too small. But this method of making a sale is condemned absolutely by the progressive firms. The saleswoman is taught that she must also insist that the lines of the present fashion, although important, are not paramount in the selection of a corset.

The problem which the saleswoman must solve is to select a corset that can be fitted to the customer so that she will conform in figure as much as possible to the fashionable silhouette without sacrifice of her health or of her individuality.

Foolish to Wear Tight Shoes.

"It is as foolish for women to want all of their figures to look alike as it would be for all of them to want the same color of hair, the same complexion and the same eyes," said one advocate of the new ethics in corset selling. "The really stunning looking woman must retain individuality of figure as of face. She modifies the figure idea of the moment to her own lines."

Often a salesman will be quite outspoken in assuring a customer that if she persists in wearing shoes too short for her any longer she will presently find herself cursed with an incurable protruding toe joint. When a woman confides to a salesman that she suffers a great deal with foot troubles of various sorts he is likely, instead of assuring her that the shoes of the moment are comfortable as well as becoming, to ask her bluntly why she doesn't buy a good broad soled shoe, with a good arch, a broad heel and a roomy toe.

"But neither you nor any other man would want to go out with a woman who wore that sort of shoes," remonstrated a customer to whom one very stern shoe salesman was delivering a lecture on the folly of modern footgear.

"Wouldn't I?" replied the salesman. "Well I just would, and so would any other man, especially any man who has seen the hard feet of women accustomed to wear narrow toed shoes that are too small for them."

The woman who was forced to swallow the lecture meekly compromised on the matter. She persisted in buying narrow, high heeled shoes, but she did take a larger size.

Make Your Rooms Comfortable and Cheerful.

HOW often we fail in the furnishing of bedrooms, which ought above all others to be alike comfortable and—an oft-forgotten word—cheerful! Just at present, for instance, there is a great vogue for gray in bedrooms. Gray! Imagine the effect of a gray and purple room in the sad light of a winter morning when the courage of the most courageous is at an ebb!

How much better is the bedroom of a certain girl who works in the city, but boards in the suburbs. This room is her only home, and though it is up three flights of stairs and its outlook is over the chimney pots, yet it contrives to remind its happy occupant of the sunshine and flowers of life. And the means by which this was accomplished were so simple.

The girl selected an attic room because it was big and airy and the price asked for it was the same as that of a small room in a lower floor. To begin with, the walls were colored a warm ivory, the woodwork painted so dark a brown as to be almost black. The boards, that showed beyond the square of cross-green carpet, were treated in the same way.

In front of the fireplace the girl placed a creamy sheepskin rug which was one of her proud possessions. The fender is of brass and high, the tiles are cream and on a trivet stands a shining little copper kettle. There is asbestos in the grate instead of wood, but the reflections on a winter's night are just as cheery and much more quickly obtained. On one side of the fireplace stands an ancient rocking chair, with chintz cushions. A small table with a work basket and a rack of favorite books are at the side.

The bed is an ordinary small wooden affair, but it has a cover of rose-pink casement cloth that reaches down far enough to do away with a valance, and then there is an overcover of frilled creamy muslin, which always looks fresh and dainty.

The dressing table has shelves fixed for shoes and boots and also holds a hat box, the white arrangement hidden away beneath its pink casement cloth petticoat and frilly muslin skirt. An old fashioned glass stands upon it.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By PROSPERO

Should bidding be ruled by a compound or by rank only?

The suggestion—that a simpler figuring for bids be adopted—seems to me of such importance that I am led to attempt a geometric portrayal of the present bidding. My rough production should prove an object lesson, a graphic illustration carrying its own evidence. Indeed the course, or cross-country chase, the bids now follow resembles in its irregularity the temperature chart of a fever patient. As you observe, the first column on the left, beginning at bottom with the bid of one club (omitting the nominal spade bid), proceeds in order at present accepted, up to 7 no trumps. Next column states the value of each trick. Then the product of the two.

Thus we arrive at:—Progression of Bidding.

In fact, when bids advance only on rank or grade no breaks at all occur. Their movement upward forms a straight line, as at the extreme right; nothing out of plumb, the scale that of a thermometer, degree on degree, from lowest to highest.

Maybe it is deficient in variety, as well as in ability to confuse and mix up. On which side lies your preference?

For to-day I wish to present

QUERY NO. 1.

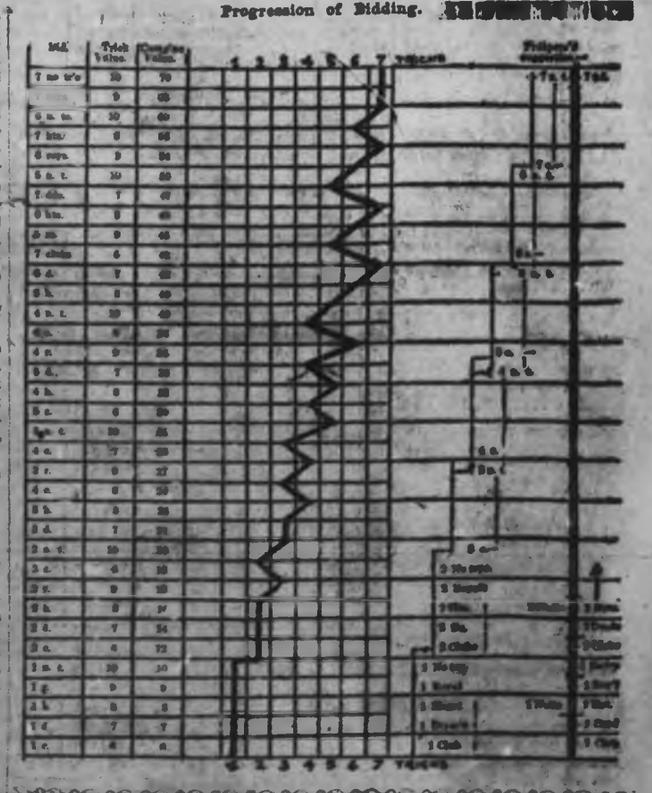
The hand is Y, sitting opposite the dealer, Z. Scores—First game, love all.

This hand is part of a deal as it recently occurred. The whole, and its actual bidding and play, will be given at a later date. Negative no trumps ("nullos") are accepted, counting as eight, but ranking under heart, in bidding. On the score they are marked similarly under the line. One "nullo" means a contract of one trick less than seven (the book); with more than six tricks the "nullo" side would be penalized fifty for each trick above the six.

The query: Z bids "diamond." A "royal."

What should Y do on this hand: Hearts, Q8532, clubs, K632; diamonds, 432; spades, X.

Progression of Bidding.



Read from bottom up. The centre furnishes the faithful picture of the corpus delicti. Progressive angularity defying description. That represents the order of your bids to-day. On its right, notice the regular graduated rise by steps of the declarations, as I have wanted to propose.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ON THE ROOF.

He Didn't Want to Seize the Opportunity, but She Did.

By HARRIET LUMMIS SMITH.
[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

"We've time enough yet to take a look at the city from the top of the Securities building. It's worth seeing, you know."

Prudence should have vetoed the suggestion. For the longer half of the blissful afternoon Viola had been aware that Raymond's eyes were saying more than they should and that their mute eloquence was singularly sweet and satisfying. Considering the fact that she was as good as engaged to another man, discretion counseled flight. A voice within, an authoritative voice, cried out that at the best the day would soon be over and urged her to make the most of it.

Viola compromised. "Mr. Raymond suggests our getting a view of the city from the top of one of the skyscrapers," she said, turning to her aunt at town [illegible]. "If you are not too tired"— And her heart leaped at the promptness of their protests.

She walked beside Raymond silently, glad that he, too, seemed to have nothing to say. She was frightened to find herself clinging so fiercely to the joy of that afternoon together. He had come upon them quite by accident, but Viola knew that but for her he would have lifted his hat and gone his way. The gladness that leaped to her eyes at the sight of him, the tremor in her voice as she spoke his name, had been his undoing—and hers. They had lunched and taken a drive along the boulevards. Viola's country cousins had had the time of their lives. And now the western sky was red, and the time for saying goodby was near.

They stood looking down upon the city. Raymond, as in duty bound, pointed out the objects of interest. The country cousins hung upon his words and declared that they would not have missed the sight for anything. As for Viola, she had no eyes for the crawling streets between the steep cliffs of brick and stone nor for the crawling creatures far below. Brazenly she feasted her eyes upon him.

He turned suddenly and looked into her eyes, and his own caught fire. A moment later they were standing together in an angle of the roof, sheltered from the view of their companions. The noise of the city below them seemed far away.

Raymond broke the spell by a downward gesture. "I wish it were all mine."

"You mean the whole town? What greediness!" she laughed.

"So that I could give it all to you."

"Thank you, but I'm not ambitious to be a plutocrat. Of course one must have the things one is used to. Poverty is the worst of all."

"Is it?" His eyes challenged hers.

"Oh, don't! You make it so hard for me!"

"You make it hard for yourself when you fight against your heart."

"Oh, you don't understand, Phil. It isn't as if I had only myself to think of."

"Do you ever give a thought to me?"

She put her hands over her ears in sudden tremor. If she listened longer she was lost. "I must go," she said hurriedly. "I've stayed longer than I should, but it was so pleasant." She turned in a panic and fled across the roof, and he followed slowly. When he overtook her her eyes were dilated.

"They're gone!" she gasped.

"Who?"

"Why, Leonard and Bessie. What could have induced them to go without us?"

"I don't know, I'm sure. But they will be waiting for us below without doubt."

He tried the door, rattled the knob sharply and met questioning her gaze with a blank stare. "We're locked up here," he exclaimed. Then as Viola laughed hysterically he added in haste "Don't be frightened. It will be very easy to attract some one's attention."

Half an hour later, flushed and dripping with perspiration as a result of his fruitless exertion, he acknowledged his mistake. "Your cousins must have thought we had gone down before them. But after they get home and we fail to make our appearance it will of course occur to somebody that we're still up here. And the only thing to do is to resign ourselves to wait with what patience we can muster."

She looked at him reproachfully, but he did not meet her eyes. He sat some distance from her, staring moodily at the roof. Furtively Viola put back her veil and smoothed her hair. Apparently her appearance was to him a matter of complete indifference. He never turned his eyes.

Her sense of resentment found voice at last. "Are you going to sit here in absolute silence? Haven't you anything to say?"

"I have plenty to say, but I can't say it without taking advantage of the situation."

A long silence; then Raymond felt the slipping of a small hand down his sleeve. "I rather think, Phil," said a tremulous voice, "that I want you to take advantage of the situation."

Help was long in coming. As the darkness fell Viola drew closer, and her hand stole into his of its own accord.

It was a night without a star, and for that reason it was the more startling when suddenly a blinding illumination lit up the space where they sat. Viola hurried and hid her face on her lover's shoulder.

"Only a searchlight, dearest. Rather startling on this pitch black night, wasn't it?"

Viola blushed in his arms. "Phil, do you suppose anybody—saw?"

The young man smiled. "Perhaps," as acknowledged. "In fact, little girl, I rather hope somebody did."

Fifteen or twenty minutes later the sound of approaching footsteps told them that rescue was at hand. Raymond shouted. There was a sound of a key turning in the lock. A grinning policeman and the watchman of the building confronted them. Explanations were exchanged. The elevator had stopped running at 6 o'clock, and the two young people descended the endless flights of stairs as blithely as if they were walking on air.

Viola's home was in an uproar. The story brought by the country cousins had aroused grave suspicions, which Viola's mother explained as she clung to her daughter.

"It couldn't have happened at a more unfortunate time. To begin with, Mr. Pickering was annoyed. He makes such a hobby of punctuality, you know. And then when Leonard and Bessie came in"—

She raised her head from Viola's shoulder and looked sharply at the young man who had escorted her daughter home. Raymond bore her scrutiny in silence. It was Viola who prompted her impatiently.

"Go on, mamma. When Leonard and Bessie came in"—

"It was, of course, entirely absurd," declared Viola's mother persistently, addressing herself to Raymond, "but one must make allowances for a lover's natural jealousy. When Leonard and Bessie said that you had been with them all afternoon and that you and Viola had suddenly disappeared the poor man jumped to the conclusion that you had—eloped."

There was an impressive silence, which Viola improved by removing her hat.

"Of course we must explain at once," Viola's mother continued. "Would it be better for you to phone him, Viola, or will you send him a note? Perhaps you had better phone him and say you are sending the note. You see, it is important that the matter should be cleared up without delay."

"I don't know that it's worth while to make explanations, mamma," she said. "It is true I didn't have any intention of eloping; but, just the same, I'm going to marry Phil."

What Wearied Him.

A friend once asked an aged man what caused him to complain so often at eventide of pain and weariness. "Alas," replied he, "I have every day so much to do. I have two falcons to tame, two hares to keep from running away, two hawks to manage, a serpent to caress, a lion to chain and a sick man to tend and wait upon."

"Well, well," commented his friend, "you are busy indeed! But I didn't know that you had anything to do with a menagerie. How, then, do you make that out?"

"Why," continued the old man, "listen. Two falcons are my eyes, which I must guard diligently; the two hares are my feet, which I must keep from walking in the ways of sin; the two hawks are my hands, which I must train to work, that I may provide for myself and those dependent on me as well as for a needy friend occasionally; the serpent is my tongue, which I must keep ever bridled lest it speak unseemly; the lion is my heart, with which I have a continual fight lest evil things come out of it, and the sick man is my whole body, which is always needing my watchfulness and care. All this daily wears out my strength."

Short End.

"I wonder why so many women are so discontented."

"Probably because of their husbands."

"How is that?"

"They are so contented."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE PET OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

A MAN may vow with solemn voice
That so and so he'll do,
And then some little circumstance
Comes wandering into view,
Some trifle that appears to be
No larger than a dot,
And then his plans go all awry
As if the same were not.

With resolutions written out
In bold and lifelike hand
He thinks he is prepared to go
The way that he has planned.
But when the day is still so young
That it is hardly born
The resolutions often look
Quite helpless and forlorn.

We cannot order forth our lives
As though they were a meal
We ordered at a restaurant—
Soup, celery and veal.
We plan to go a certain way
Some special goal to gain,
And when at length we sally forth
It's on a different train.

A man both resolute and strong
And on an easy grade
May sometimes good connections make
With plans that he has made,
But in most cases out of ten
All he can do is wait
And be the toast of circumstance,
An easy mark for fate.

Depended on the Vehicle.

"You said this place was only twenty minutes from the city," said the prospective purchaser, looking over the lovely but lonely suburb.

"So it is," said the imperturbable agent.

"But it took me an hour to get here."

"How did you come?"

"By train."

"I meant by airship."

Plain Enough.

"She is feeling very miserable."

"Liver complaint?"

"No; she says her husband doesn't understand her."

"Doesn't she talk the English language?"

"You would think so if you heard her."

Complimentary.

"What did you say?"

"Oh, nothing. Just talking to myself."

"Why, how nice!"

"What?"

"To chose a subject that you can understand."

The Other Way.

"If I were younger," said the rich old man, "I believe I might win you for my wife."

"Yes," replied the cold beauty, dreamily considering his sixty years, "or, say, fifteen or twenty years older."—Philadelphia Press.

"Cholera Infantum"

IS ONE OF THE MOST COMMON SUMMER COMPLAINTS OF INFANTS

Cholera Infantum begins with a profuse diarrhoea; the stomach becomes irritated, and in many cases vomiting and purging set in. The child rapidly loses flesh, and is soon reduced to great langour and prostration.

Mrs. George Henley, Bengrove, Ont., writes: "I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for Cholera Infantum. My little girl was so sick I did not think she could live, as we could not lift her up, for when we moved her her bowels would move. I gave her "Dr. Fowler's" and the first dose helped her, and one bottle cured her. I recommended it to my sister, whose child was sick, and it cured her also. Then again I have told other friends about it, and they have found that it is a grand medicine to have in the house all the time."

A Crow's Stratagem.

A crow had been captured by the children in a southern family and brought home and tamed. They were very fond of the crow and treated it with kindness. As in most houses where there are children, there was also a pet cat. The cat and crow were not friendly. One day an unusually nice morsel was given to the cat. This the crow not only looked at with envious eyes, but made several attempts to secure. The cat beat off each attempt, however, and the crow had to resort to stratagem. Disappearing through the open door, he returned in a few moments with a long string that had been raveled from a rag carpet. Placing this on the floor some little distance in front of the cat, he proceeded to wriggle it as he had seen the children do when playing with the cat. The cat instantly jumped to catch the string. This was, of course, exactly what the crow wanted, and he pounced upon the coveted morsel and flew away with it.—Harper's Weekly.

A Strict Dramatic Censor.

Vienna once possessed the strictest dramatic censor ever known in the person of Franz Hoegelin, who held that post in the Austrian capital at the beginning of the last century. Hoegelin published a manual for the guidance of censors. "A pair of lovers should never be allowed to appear on the stage alone. They must always be accompanied by a third person of mature years." Marriages out of one's class were also strictly forbidden by Hoegelin on the stage, and he quotes an instance of a play which he refused to pass because the author made the hero, Count Valdemar, marry a gardener's daughter. "Such misalliances have unfortunately been known to occur in real life, but that is no reason why they should be allowed on the stage," he said.

The undigested food and other waste matter which is allowed to accumulate poisons the blood and the whole system. Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is which contains no dangerous narcotics or alcohol.

It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anaemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing.

TROUBLE ON G. T. P.

Boilermakers and Machinists May Strike at Any Time.

MONTREAL, July 24.—According to local leaders of the Machinists' Union a strike of boilermakers and machinists on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, from Fort William to Prince Rupert, may develop at any moment.

D. McCallum, organizer of the Machinists' Union, who is now in Montreal, says there are about 800 machinists and a large number of boilermakers in the affected territory, but that in case of trouble, affiliated unions will join the strikers.

The machinists are said to be satisfied with the wages paid following the recent award of the conciliation board, but are dissatisfied with the working conditions, no attempt to improve which they say has been made.

Boy Shielded Father.

TORONTO, July 24. — To prove that he and not his father was guilty of theft, the 12-year-old son of Sam Gurreri lifted a crate of berries, weighing 48 pounds and placed it on a table almost the height of his own head, with comparative ease, in the police court yesterday. Gurreri was charged with stealing the berries, but it appeared that the youngster had placed the crate in his father's wagon by mistake and without his parent's knowledge. Assistant Crown Attorney Hughes complimented the lad on his strength and he was allowed to go.

Maniac Creates Terror.

OTTAWA, July 24.—Ubaldo Desiel, who on April 18 was committed to the asylum at Longue Pointe, Quebec, as criminally insane, escaped on Monday or early Tuesday of this week, and returning to his former home in North Templeton, drove his wife and children from the house and took possession. The whole countryside is in terror, for it is known that he is armed and altogether irresponsible for his actions.

Black Hander Fulfilled Threat.

QUEBEC, July 24.—Police authorities are to-day looking for an unknown adept of the Black Hand, who would extort $1,000 from Theophane Zacharia, Italian grocer, whose house was gutted by fire early Wednesday morning.

The Black Hand writer threatened to burn Zacharia in his house if he did not pay up. Zacharia refused to be blackmailed, and his house was effectively set afire.

Ouida Out of Form.

Ouida in a decidedly pessimistic mood appears in Lady Dorothy Nevill's reminiscences. In 1897 Ouida sent to Lady Dorothy a card bearing the following "jubilee epitaph:"

Full half a century of monotonous smut,
Weak wits, weak words, weak wars, and that is all.

It is amusing that Ouida could even for a moment have lapsed into such dull unoriginality. Lady Dorothy's ascription of the foolish couplet to "feelings of depression" is doubtless just.—New York Tribune.

Defining the Difference.

"Madam," said one French gentleman introducing another, "this is the Marquis de Blank, and I assure you he is not such a fool as he looks."

"Madam," quietly remarked the marquis, with a bow, "my friend has just stated the exact difference between himself and me."

Blighted Affections.

Now the ashes of my heart are entombed in my breast, as in a sepulcher of ice, yet once that heart was formed of fire and burned and raged until it perished, self consumed.—From "The Parricide."

Mean.

First Fair One—How dreadful it is to have a skeleton in the family! Second Fair One—I know, dear. Have you ever tried exercise?

Avoid popularity; it has many snares and no real benefit.—Penn.

Skin Trouble On The Scalp

Skin Dried and Cracked and Hair Fell Out—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Eczema is annoying and distressing at any time, but doubly so when it gets into the scalp and causes the hair to fall out. Here is a grateful letter from a lady who was cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. Hector Currie, Tobermory, Ont., writes:—"I was cured of a disagreeable skin disease of the scalp by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. The trouble started with itching and pain in the scalp, the skin would get dry and crack, and at times would bleed, and the hair would fall out. I tried three doctors without benefit, and suffered for three years. Reading in the almanac about Dr. Chase's Ointment, I began its use, and am now completely cured. The hair has grown again, and I am as well as I ever was. You are at liberty to use this letter, for I am glad to recommend so excellent a treatment.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has no rival as a cure for itching skin disease.

BIBLE IN MOVING PICTURES

Much interest is being aroused by the Photo-Drama of Creation now on at the Grand Opera House, at 3 and 8 p.m. daily, and the appreciation of the public is marked by increased attendance. At present Part IV., the last of the series, is being enacted; and, with a vividness only possible where moving pictures and talking machine are combined, one is carried from the life of Christ on into the Messianic reign.

The preparation of the films has involved great activities and expense. The cameras have been carried into the Holy Land, and there on the Mount of Olives and in Jerusalem, have been found the backgrounds for re-enacted tragedies. The death of the first Christian martyr, Stephen, is thus forcibly portrayed; but the taming of the lions by Marcellus transcends all else in interest, and gives a glimpse of the persecuting of the early Christian Church.

The "movies" take us into Japan, China and India, and portray street scenes and customs, the whole giving us a broad glimpse of world-wide conditions to-day, and showing us the need of the Kingdom for which we are taught to pray, "Thy Kingdom Come."

There is no question as to the popularity of moving picture shows. The present effort is how to make use of this great popularity by instruction in that which is profitable, educative and elevating. Undoubtedly the witnessing the representations of Biblical events will stimulate interest in the Book of Books, and deserves the support of all. Both sessions, 3 and 8 p.m. daily are entirely free to the public. Saturday evening Part IV. will be given for the last; but on Sunday at the usual hours, Pastor C. E. Heard, of Vancouver, will give two very interesting and instructive addresses. Pastor Heard is a speaker of rare ability, and some of the finest of the moving picture scenes will be given in connection with the lectures.

Hoyt's Hospitality.

It was the habit of Charles H. Hoyt, the dramatist, to invite almost every body he met to come up and spend a few weeks with him at his summer home in New Hampshire.

One night Hoyt, Bert Dasher, W. H. Currie, Frank McKee and several other house guests of Hoyt were sitting on the veranda of Hoyt's summer house waiting for dinner. The train had just arrived, and they saw an old farmer and his wife coming up the path.

"Who are they?" asked Hoyt. "I never saw them before."

"The dickens you didn't," replied Currie. "That is that old chap and his wife you talked to over at Spring Lick and invited to visit you."

"Oh, well," said Hoyt, "maybe they are just coming in to dinner. They will take the night train back."

Then he looked again and saw the tired man behind the farmer and his wife wheeling a big trunk on a wheelbarrow.

And they stayed a month.—Cleveland Leader.

Long and Short Story Writers.

Which are the great short stories of the English language? Not a bad task for a debate! This I am sure of—that there are far fewer supremely good short stories than there are supremely good long books. It takes more exquisite skill to carve the cameo than the statue. But the strangest thing is that the two excellences seem to be separate and even antagonistic. Skill in the one by no means insures skill in the other. The great masters of our literature, Fielding, Scott, Dickens, Thackeray and Reade, have left no single short story of outstanding merit behind them with the possible exception of Wandering Willie's tale in "Red Gauntlet." On the other hand, men who have been very great in the short story, Stevenson, Poe and Bret Harte, have written no great book. The champion sprinter is seldom a five miler as well. Poe is the master of all. Poe is, to my mind, the supreme original short story writer of all time.—Conan Doyle in "Through the Magic Door."

Beaver Tales.

The Indians say that if a beaver sent out from the parents' lodge fails to find a mate he is set to repair the dam. If he fails a second time he is banished.

An Arab writer has the same story. He tells us that those who buy beaver skins can distinguish between the skins of masters and slaves. The latter have the hair of the head rubbed off because they have to pound the wood for their masters' food and do it with their heads.

It is disgraceful to stumble thrice o the same stone.—Greek Proverb.

Made Him Doubt His Own Name.

It was the quality of sympathy that made Mrs. Cleveland's life in the White House so rich a memory, writes Dr. W. H. Crook in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. I never knew her to make a mistake of a social nature but once, and then it was shared by so many others that I may be pardoned for repeating it in public print. I know the little story is true, for I was present at the time and heard it all. At one of the president's formal receptions a man named Decker appeared, and as he drew near the receiving line he told Colonel Wilson in confidence that his name was such an easy one it could not be mistaken or mispronounced, whereupon Colonel Wilson presented him.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Crocker," said the president.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Baker," said Mrs. Cleveland.

"Mr. Sacher," murmured Miss Bayard doubtfully.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Black," Mrs. Whitney remarked with confidence.

It is said that a few minutes later Mr. Decker was seen looking at one of his visiting cards to see what his name really was.

A Surprised Landlord.

The very young traveling salesman was registering at the village hotel.

"I want a room with running water in it," he remarked.

"Running water?" excited the landlord. "What do you want to do, water—practice indoor trout fishin'?"—Argonaut.

The Gateway Follows.

"What is this 'wanderlust' you read of so often as compelling people to leave home?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Cumrox; "but, judging from my observation of people who have it, 'wanderlust' in German for 'mortgage.'"—Washington Star.

RICE BAVARIAN CREAM.

This is a good dessert for children, and it can be varied by the use of different fruits. For the plain rice foundation, take a quarter cup of blanched rice seasoned with a scant half teaspoon of salt, and one and one-half cups of milk. Cook in a double boiler until the rice is tender and you have about a cup and a half of rice. Now you can add cooked dates, figs, cooked nuts or preserved fruits at will. Add about half a cup of sugar if fruit is used, more sugar will be required without the addition of fruit. Flavour with a little vanilla and stir in half a box of softened gelatine, dissolved over boiling water. Place in a pan of water and stir occasionally until the mixture begins to thicken, then mix in carefully from a cup to a cup and a half of cream whipped dry and solid. When the mixture will not run from the spoon or paddle, turn it into a mould and set in the ice chest. This dish can be made without fruit stirred in, but fresh fruit may be placed around the mould.

Durable polishing cloths for silverware may be made by cutting lightweight flannel in a rectangle of two pieces of which each has an ounce of chalk mixed to a gallon of gasoline.

Veal Loaf.

Veal loaf is a good hot weather dish. Use three pounds of raw veal chopped very fine, butter the size of an egg, three eggs, three tablespoonfuls of cream, or milk, with a small piece of butter. Mix the eggs and cream together. Mix with the veal four pounded crackers, one teaspoonful of black pepper, one large tablespoonful salt, one of sage; mix well together and form into a loaf. Bake two and one-half hours, basting with butter and water while baking. Serve cut in thin slices.

Frozen Pineapple Custard.

Separate three eggs and beat the yolk with a small cupful of sugar, and stir into a pint of milk. Heat to nearly boiling point, stirring all the time. Then let it get cold, and add a cupful of sweet cream and the whites of the eggs beaten up stiff and white. Turn into a freezer and turn until almost solid; then stir in a small pineapple which has been chopped and allowed to stand for three hours, mixed with a cupful of sugar. This is a delicious and not expensive dessert for a hot day.

SENTENCED TO MERCER FOR SHOP LIFTING

Mary Nixon, Trained Nurse, is Sentenced by Police Magistrate Dumble This Morning.

A MORPHINE "FIEND"

For stealing a dress, the value of which was $35, from the Turnbull's new store, Mary Nixon, a local nurse, was sentenced to six months in the Mercer Reformatory, by Magistrate Dumble this morning.

It will be remembered that on Friday last week a dress was stolen from Turnbull's, and later one of the lady clerks saw Miss Nixon wearing the dress in the store when she came in to do some shopping. The clerk at once notified Mr. Might, the manager of the store, who telephoned the police station, and P.C. Patterson came over. Outside of the store a cab, with one of her patients was awaiting her. The constable told her to get into the cab and told the driver to go over to the police station, where she was placed under arrest.

A charge of theft was laid against her and she was remanded for a week.

In March, 1912, Miss Nixon was convicted of the same offence in Toronto and was let go on suspended sentence.

Mr. Gordon, who appeared on the prisoner's behalf, made a strong plea for Miss Nixon on the grounds that she is a morphine fiend, which would in some way account for her actions, and that she is married, with a small child to support, as she is separated from her husband.

Magistrate Dumble said that shop-lifting had become an evil so common in Canada that it must be stamped out.

Machine Shop and Restaurant Give Evidence This Morning That the Scugog Town's Stores Are Not Yet Safe

NOT MUCH MISSING

Examiner Special:

LINDSAY, July 24 — Although no definite clue has been secured that promises to lead to the capture of the C.P.R. safe breakers, the town was this morning apprised of the fact that two stores had been entered during the night, thus adding to the long list of burglaries that have occurred during the past year.

Last night George Shepherd's machine shop on William Street, was entered and the cash drawer rifled. Unfortunatey for the burglars only a dollar or so had been left in the till. However they picked up a Hercules break, a wheel, two tires and considerable oil in tins, thus completing a fairly profitable night's work.

Powers' restaurant was entered from the rear and this morning the front door was found open, indicating that the thieves scorned to return by a back entrance. The shop gave indications of a once over mauling, but nothing of importance has been missed so far.

Burglars Busy At Campbellford

Safe Was Removed From Grand Trunk Station But No Money Was Taken

(Campbellford News.)

The numerous cases of housebreaking which have occurred here this summer, are being succeeded by verandah thieves and attacks upon safes. A bicycle, a hammock and cushions were among the recent articles swiped, and on Wednesday night two large iron safes were taken out of offices.

One of the safes belonged to Mr. John Harris, the west side flour and feed dealer. It was hauled to the railway and taken on a hand-car about a quarter of a mile west of the station. There it was broken open with an axe and sledge hammer, taken from Mr. Arthur Graham's blacksmith shop. Finding little or no money to reward their efforts, the burglars mutilated and burned the books contained in the safe, entailing a serious and embarrassing loss to Mr. Harris.

The other safe was the one in the Grand Trunk station. This was taken outside on the platform and left there, indicating that the marauders had been disturbed in their work. Some money in a drawer close to the safe had not been noticed and was intact.

A railway detective arrived here the following day, but did not make any discovery of the burglars' identity. It is reported that a young lady, residing near the station, saw the men going towards the station with a rig after midnight on the night mentioned.

Are burglars going to be allowed to continue their operations in this place unmolested? One of these mornings people will come down town and find one of the banks or stores has been carried to the woods and pilfered.

UNCONSCIOUSLY RICH.

It is figured that a man saves thousands of dollars a year by not owning an automobile. At that rate a lot of us must be richer than we imagine.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH WAS THE VERDICT

Inquest Into the Tragic Death of John Belleghem Concluded at Havelock

WALKED BETWEEN CARS

Mr. J. O. Wearing appeared for the Crown, and Mr. Basil Hall was present in the interest of the C. P. R. Belleghem was walking between two cars of a standing freight when an engine shunted the cars and he was caught and crushed.

WORK PRAISED BY PRESBYTERY

Rev. Wm. Johnston Has Resigned After Twenty Years of Service

At the recent meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, which was held in Fort Hope, the Rev. Wm. Johnston resigned his Church. He had just completed twenty years of service. It was his first Church, he having come to Millbrook direct from Knox College, from which he graduated in the year 1894. Mr. Johnston has been widely known throughout the Presbytery and by many of the people of Peterborough. His removal from Millbrook will be a distinct loss to the community, as well as to the entire Presbytery. The Presbytery appointed a committee to draw up a suitable resolution in reference to his removal. The resolution reads as follows:

Seldom in the history of the Presbytery has it been called upon with such deep regret to sever a pastoral tie as it is now called upon to do in the case of Rev. Wm. Johnston of Millbrook and Garden Hill. The term of his pastorate is remarkable in that it has been Mr. Johnston's first charge, and has continued for the unusual period of twenty years. In these days of change this is most worthy of note. Through this long term he has ministered to the various needs of the people with the utmost fidelity sharing with them their joys and sorrows, and through these various circumstances has ever sought to lead them into closer relationship with the Church and with Christ, its Head. As a preacher he has continued to deliver the same, high, evangelistic message with varying means of presentation. He has continued to hold his hearers with ever increasing attention. As a Presbyter he has been exemplary and has borne a large share of its numerous duties and responsibilities.

Sharing all of these experiences, and by her counsel and sympathy making him the more effective in these ministeries, Mrs. Johnston has won the love and loyalty of both congregations. Her services to the Church and Presbytery, through its numerous organizations are worthy of warm praise. We would record our deep sorrow at their departure. We keenly feel the loss of Mr. Johnston's presence and the influence of his strong, Christian character. We follow them both with our humble and sincere prayers and trust that God's richest gifts will be their portion through time and eternity.

GYPSIES ARE ROUNDED UP BY THE POLICE

ARE CHEROKEES

A party of gypsies, who stated that they were Cherokee Indians hailing from Oklahoma, were arrested this afternoon and taken to the police station. The dusky hued contingent which consisted of two men, two women and seven children, came from Lakefield to-day and informed the police that they were on their way to North Bay.

Soon after the arrest of the bunch a young man from the Oriental hotel called at the police station and accused one of the women of stealing $5 from him. He said that the woman in telling his fortune had asked him to hold in his hand some of his paper money and wish on it. He produced $7, and the Cherokee belle said she had better hold it. She did so until the fortune telling process was over and then she apparently put the money back in the complainant's pocket. After she had gone he discovered that $5 was missing and only two $1 bills had been returned to his pocket.

The woman vehemently denied the charge.

The party will be held for investigation. They are travelling in waggons.

Two Dances To Be Held Each Week

On Thursday and Saturday Evenings For Balance of Summer.

The weekly dance at Chemong Park last night didn't materialize owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the one who was to take Mr. Asa Hayche, pianiste, to the Park. However, the postponed dance will be held on Saturday evening, and for the balance of the summer, dances will be held on Thursday and Saturday evenings of each week. Good music will be provided, and best of times is assured to all those who attend.

FARMS AROUND MATHER'S CORNERS SHOW ARMY WORM

Richard Doris' Fields Have Been Hit Particularly Hard—List of Others on Defensive

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

The active army worm is attacking the fields of the following Otonabee farmers, most of whom reside on or near the Keene road: Daniel Hayes, Joshua Smithson, John Manley, Donald McFarlane, Herb. Kylie, Robert Adamson, Richard Doris and Christopher Howson.

Reeve Garbutt, of Smith, states, that a peculiar worm has invaded a cornfield on his property.

Douro, Smith and Monaghan have not reported any serious attacks yet.

The devastating progress of the army worm in this county is confined mostly to a section of Otonabee around the 12th concession, and particularly in the vicinity of Mather's Corners.

On the farm of Richard Doris they were first noticed in a field of barley on Monday, and their numbers greatly increased as they progressed through the standing grain. Ditches were dug in the hope of obstructing their progress, and a mixture of bran and Paris green was deposited in the trenches. However, to-day new forces were found in the oat field and small hope is held out of saving it.

On Joshua Smithson's farm the worm has been checked, but it was not until Mr. McCrea, the farmers' district representative at Norwood, was called up to conduct the warfare.

When the information was spread through the neighbourhood that the worm was a reality in one of the best sections of Otonabee the other farmers were exceedingly vigilant and caught the first evidences of the invader.

Otonabee Hard Hit.

In comparison with the other townships Otonabee is hit hard. In fact there has been no report at all from Douro and Monaghan, and Reeve Garbutt was not sure that the enemy stalking in a field of corn on his farm is the army worm or not.

Reason for Situation.

Mr. F. E. Ellis, editor of Farm and Dairy, stated that the principle reason for the present numbers of the army worm is the failure of its inimical parasites to successfully combat the worm. This is the second dry season in succession presenting a condition which is favourable to the breeding of the worm, while it is an unfavourable condition for the parasites. Among the latter, what is known as the devil's darning needle, is an active enemy of the worm when it is not outnumbered too considerably.

The worm is a grayish black in colour, with sixteen legs, three stripes on its back and no hair. In Otonabee it is working in fields of corn, oats and barley.

AUSTRIA AND SERVIA ON VERGE OF WAR

Germany Will Do Everything Possible to Localize the Conflict, Says Official Statement.

MAY BE WORLD WAR

Examiner Specials:

BERLIN, July 24—Austria and Servia are to-day upon the verge of the conflict which has been expected by all Europe since the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand. It is understood that Servia will refuse to comply with the ultimatum and Austria has made all preparations for war. The German Government foreign office issued this statement: "If war is declared Germany will do everything possible to localize the conflict and keep it confined to Austria and Servia." It also approved the Austrian programme. All German officers on leave of absence have been notified to be ready to return any time. The Berlin Zeitung says the note comes as a startling, glaring lightning flash through the breathless, fearful cloud hanging over Europe. "One opinion is that unless Servia backs down Europe will see the beginning of a "world war" with Russia and France mentioned.

WILL CO-OPERATE IN CELEBRATION

Mr. Burnham Receives Encouraging Replies From Other Constituencies on the Canal

WILL HELP PETERBORO'

The preparations for the celebration of the opening of the Trent Canal this fall are beginning to take form. Alderman Johnston stated at the special Council meeting a few nights ago that the committee was beginning to work with Mr. Burnham, and the details would be gradually evolved. The importance of this celebration may not be deeply realized by the body of citizens, and it will be therefore something of a duty to put before the people those aspects which make the event one of great significance to this city.

Mr. Burnham has apparently been impressed with what it means to put Peterborough among the lake ports, and especially to let the rest of the country know that this end has been effected. He has recently written to federal members in constituencies along the canal and has already received several favourable replies. Sam Sharpe, writing from Uxbridge, says: "I received your favour of July 21 in regard to celebrating the opening of the canal, and in reply beg to say that I think your idea is a good one, but I am going away on Monday and will be away four or five weeks, and consequently could not contribute anything of any account to the carrying out of the same.

M. J. Walker, of Warkworth, writes: "I will be much pleased to join in celebrating the fact of Peterborough becoming a lake port."

These letters indicate a favourable and generous attitude toward the idea which the local member has been attempting to impress upon the Council and the people as an opportunity of indelibly connecting Peterborough with the canal and possessing the advantages of a lake port.

INFORMATION ABOUT HYDRO POWER WILL BE GLADLY GIVEN

Ald. Johnston recently stated that with the Hydro-Electric system in operation by Sept. 1st, citizens who required any information regarding light or electric power, should apply to Mr. Hones, the superintendent, at his office on Simcoe Street. The Power committee desires that this be done as early as possible and not left until the last minute.

The New Empire Theatre Opened To Public To-day

Peterborough's Handsome Moving Picture Show House a Credit to its Enterprising Proprietor

The handsome new Empire Theatre on Charlotte street, which has been under construction for the past six months, made its first opening bow to Peterborough's amusement lovers to-day at 2:30 p.m. The proprietor extends his sincere thanks to the public for the hearty recognition of his enterprise, and the encouraging prospects for its success.

From the first it was the aim of Mr. Robinson to build an up-to-date theatre, that would mark a higher type of progress and development in the moving-picture show business; and the model which he set before him has been carried out successfully, and reflects credit on his genius as an amusement caterer.

Handsome Exterior.

One of the first things that impresses the visitor to the new "Empire" is the first-class manner in which the details have been carried out, and the careful and painstaking treatment given to make the entire new playhouse ornamental, luxurious and safe.

The handsome white marble-like front of the "Empire" is designed in Roman architecture surmounted by a balcony and supported by four heavy circular columns. There are two main entrances, the doors of which are mounted with heavy brass fittings. The ticket wicket is a convenient and neatly panelled design with plate glass effects and with plenty of room for service.

Model Interior.

The interior of the theatre is designed with an inclined floor and an end gallery, and has a seating capacity for 800. The seats are the folding design, with ample room for comfort and ease, and nothing crowded or cramped, in their construction. Patent ventilators in the walls and fresh air inlets and fans provide for ample fresh air and ventilation.

The aisles are covered with pretty designs of carpeting and mattings, and front and rear exits ensure safety and convenience.

A handsomely designed metallic ceiling painted in a light shade of green makes a pleasing arched effect, from which are suspended four large ornamental arc chandeliers, which add to the dozen other electric light effects fitted to the walls.

The pictures are not flashed upon a white sheet, as is usual, but on a soft white solid wall, which has the effect of overcoming the disagreeable "staggering" of the pictures. The sides and top of the picture wall are handsomely draped with fancy hangings, and above is displayed the Union Jack in pleasing folds.

The orchestra is conveniently arranged with ample room for the musicians and has suitable furnishings.

Operating Room, Etc.

The operating room in the rear of the gallery has been installed with the very latest electrical devices and moving-picture machines including a perfecting motor, an Edison Kinetoscope, a Simplex projector, a Taberge economizer, and an economy transformer. The fittings in the room have been carefully safeguarded, the walls being lined with iron and otherwise rendered fireproof.

Well furnished private lavatories have been installed on each side of the ground floor entrances—one for ladies, the other for gentlemen. A Garney smokeless boiler has been utilized for heating the building in winter, and radiators are generously distributed all over the building.

The services of Mr. A. Balet has been secured as manager of the Empire. This gentleman has devoted much attention to giving efficiency to the general details of the theatre in the interests of its patrons.

Mr. R. N. Jones was the contractor and builder, and the remarks passed on the workmanship and skill in its construction were quite complimentary to that gentleman. The ornate ceiling was the work of Messrs. Adamson and Dobbin, and the painting by Mr. Shadgett.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1914

DIFFERENT WELCOMES.

Both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden will tour the West this summer. Sir Wilfrid will enter the Province at Winnipeg and will be welcomed by triumphant Liberalism, which is triumphant, though its success is not technically complete. Sir Robert will find himself confronted by Sir Rodomond Roblin with a wet blanket ready for his leader's shoulders.

FANCIED WRONG.

Nothing can be more inconsistently farcical than Sir Edward Carson presenting colours to one of the rebel regiments of Ulster — presenting the flag against which deliberate intentions of outrage are being shown. Ulster proposes to carry the flag that represents constituted authority in a fight of resistance to constituted authority and majority rule. Ulster has not suffered from Home Rule, and probably will not suffer when it is applied, and in its present attitude, or rather in the attitude of the partisan self-seekers, it is only fighting a fancy, a surmise. Apply Home Rule and it it works hardship to Ulster, that contravenes the principles of British fair play and equal treatment of all classes, then, and then only, will Ulster have a reason to object. It will be time enough then to raise the standard of rebellion, which may not, even then, be justified. A man that assaults his neighbour for a fancied wrong that has not been committed, puts himself outside the pale of consideration. The fomenters of trouble in Ulster, the political intriguers, are a good deal like Lady Macbeth:

Not so sick, my lord,
As she is troubled with thick-coming fancies,
That keep her from her rest.

CHURCHES AND GARBAGE COLLECTION.

In the common acceptance of the word, garbage, there is no accumulation of garbage excepting ashes, requiring removal in or around our churches. There may be considerable accumulation of moral garbage that might desirably be removed; but that does not come within the provisions of "The Municipal Act, 1913, King Edward VII," which provides that no land whatever in a municipality shall be exempt from garbage collection rates. Section 406 of the Act authorizes the imposition of a special rate upon "lands"—mark on lands only — and clause (a) of subsection 6 reads thus:

No land shall be exempt from the special rate, (garbage collection) anything in any general or special act, or in any by-law to the contrary, notwithstanding.

This is ample warrant for imposing a pretty stiff amount against churches for garbage collection. Apart from the policy of this impost it is inevitable. The churches, if they object, cannot blame the city authorities, that have the issues of life and death in their hands, or what is almost as serious a matter, the imposition of taxes. The Ontario Legislature and the Ontario Government are to be blamed. While this tax upon the churches is inevitable and compulsory upon corporations, it is a question whether it is fairly levied. It is not known, how the amount, upon which the rate is computed, is arrived at, but the reading of the law indicates that the tax is levied on the basis of land values only. The section quoted speaks only of lands—"no land shall be exempt". It seems to be plainly inferrable that only land values shall be considered in apportioning the amount of the respective garbage rates; and if improvements—buildings, etc.—are included, the levy is illegal and unauthorized. Sir James Whitney and his government steadily refuse to consider the proposal of legislation to permit the imposition of a higher tax on lands than on improvements; but in enacting the clause provisions of the Municipal Act they seem to have adopted the principle of taxing land only in the matter of imposing garbage rates. Logically, therefore, if there is any relation between law and logic, any rate for garbage collection imposed upon any assessment valuation outside of land is illegal and unauthorized. If this consideration is ignored in the case of the churches they seem to have cause for complaint. Their buildings and lands are exempt from ordinary taxation, and their lands are only liable for garbage rates.

The churches, however, have little ground of complaint. They enjoy, according to human law, but contrary to divine law, as implied in divine example, exemption from the general burden of taxation, and should not consider a garbage collection rate as a hardship. The general ratepayer would be mightily well pleased if he could escape the general rate of taxation and have only to pay his garbage collection tax. This tax is necessary in the interests of the public health, and if the collection is properly done no one can reasonably object to bearing a share of the cost.

THE N.P. AND HARD TIMES.

Has the tariff anything to do with the dull times? The national policy was once presented as a panacea for every business ill. But the national policy is in force and the Mail tells a most lugubrious story of poverty, want, and distress in Toronto. There is something wrong with current political philosophy.—Kingston Whig.

RESULT OF BORDEN'S FOLLY.

A few years ago Canada was scoring the earth for settlers. Now Canada would send home again those for whom she has no work. When good times return, and workmen are needed again, emigrants will fight shy of Canada.—Buffalo Express.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

This is a familiar national attitude to us, though we outgrew it long ago, and are ready enough now for the free trade Canada begged of us for so long. Conditions have changed in both countries. Though the foreign trade of the Dominion has risen to a billion, two-thirds of it is imports and two-thirds of this comes from the United States. Canada is as ready to foster infant industries and cultivate railroads at any cost to the revenues of the people, as we were half a century ago.—Minneapolis Tribune.

CANADA'S VOICE IN FOREIGN POLICY IS NO NEW THING

Canada has been "placed on the map," and a glow of joy lightens the lives of the Conservative press. Hon. George H. Perley happened to be in London when there was a meeting of the Imperial Defence Committee. He knocked at the door and was admitted, or he was invited. At any rate, he was there. The deep significance of this occurrence is expected to thrill all Canada.

The Toronto Mail and Empire reminds us that Sir Robert Borden, in 1912, spoke to Parliament of an "acceptable basis upon which the great dominions cooperating with the Mother Country in defence can receive and assert an adequate voice in the control and moulding of foreign policy." He suggested that the solution of that problem and one which the Imperial Ministers had accepted," as least pending a final settlement of the question of dominion voice and influence in Imperial councils, was that a Canadian Minister resident in London most of the year, should be deemed a permanent member of the Imperial Committee of Defence, and be called to participate in its deliberations."

Now we are told that "The sequel of this important advance in Imperial policy occurred on Tuesday, when Hon. Geo. H. Perley, Acting High Commissioner in London, took his place at the Imperial Defence Committee. The precedent thus created brings into being a principle around which the important constitutional phases of future imperial co-operation defence will revolve." The precedent—if it is to be considered a precedent — was established before Premier Borden made his speech to th Canadian Parliament; before he was in a position to make any authoritative announcement of the kind.

Steps were taken in 1909 to lay the foundations of a practical organization for Imperial Defence, in which the self-governing States of the Empire should share the duties with the Mother Country. The conference on Imperial defence of that year was convened with the specific object of discussing general questions concerning the naval and military defence of the Empire, with reference to proposals from New Zealand and Australia, and to resolutions passed by the Canadian Government. A system of cooperation in defence was then inaugurated, which is common to the several States of the Empire, with localised naval forces and troops, organized to suit local requirements, but upon a system of tactics and drill which would make possible effective cooperation in war. Conferences at the Foreign Office, and the sub-conferences at the Admiralty and the War Office, led to complete agreement on all the points brought forward in memoranda prepared respectively by the Admiralty and the Army General staff, and the conclusions were approved by the main Conference and Committee of Imperial Defence.

This Committee is purely advisory. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia and Defence in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet, was made a member of the body at its inception, so that was when the precedent was established. The body has nothing whatever to do with "the control and moulding of foreign policy." Its composition is elastic, but it has for some time consisted of the British Prime Minister, four Secretaries of State, other than the Home Secretary, the First Lord of the Admiralty, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the First Sea Lord and the Director of Intelligence representing the Navy, and the Director of Military Operations, representing the Army; and, in addition to these official members, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Fisher, Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, and Lord Esher are members. From time to time members have been added for special purposes, and the Committee has on several occasions conferred with representatives of the Dominions.

This briefly sets forth the status of the Committee, with which the late Canadian Government was in constant touch, as no doubt the present is, and future administrations will be, ex officio, but the foundation for this understanding was laid and the precedent established five years ago. —Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

PRACTISING DECEPTION

Unknown Man Sends Others to Bogus Situation in the Country

Last evening an unknown man accosted some others near the G.T.R. Station and informed them that a job awaited them in the country at some spot about ten miles west of Lakefield. The men, eager for work, set off for the place only to discover that they were not wanted. There were in the party two Italians and four or five Englishmen, and all save two were obliged to walk back, having no money wherewith to pay their fares.

Now in some of the larger cities, of late, it is known that men will send an out of work to a bogus situation in return for the payment of a dollar. Whether such a person is operating here cannot yet be determined, for all the men, returning early this morning, referred only briefly to the occurrence to some men around, and dispersed before they could be interviewed on the matter. The offender is said to be a big man.

STURGEON POINT REGATTA, AUG. 3

Annual Event Promises to Be Better Than Ever

The Cottagers' Association at Sturgeon Point, on the Kawartha Lakes are holding their tenth annual regatta on Monday, August 3rd. This event has always been a pleasurable one at this popular summer resort and this year it promises to be a bigger success than ever. There are numerous sailing, canoe and motor boat races, which afford much pleasure for the crowds and good sport for those taking part. The many cottagers and campers on Sturgeon Lake are enthusing over the event.

Sturgeon Lake is one of the prettiest of the Kawartha chain and is reached by either Grand Trunk or the Canadian Pacific railway to Lindsay, thence by steamer, a distance of nine miles.

Debated On Women's Suffrage

Men and Women of St. John's Bible Class Held Interesting Meeting

A very interesting debate took place on Wednesday evening on the beautiful lawn of St. John's Church, between the ladies and men of the Adult Bible classes. The subject being, "Resolved, that women should have the right to vote." Mrs. H. May occupied the chair, whilst Miss Hawkins led for the affirmative and Mrs. Tooms the negative.

After an hour had been spent in debating the question in which most of the members took part, it was put to the vote and was given a verdict of 14 to 8 in favour of the negative, many of the ladies agreeing to be quite willing to forego the pleasure of the ballot in order to give themselves entirely to the home duties, whilst others stood on neutral ground and therefore would not vote.

Both leaders were accorded warm praise, for the excellent papers which they had so studiously prepared, and also for the spirit maintained during the debate.

Refreshments were served by the men's class, and after arrangements had been completed for their first annual combined excursion, the meeting closed at 10 p.m. by the singing of the National Anthem.

The excursion will take place on Saturday afternoon to Chemong.

Buses will leave the church at 2.15 p.m. sharp.

POLICE COURT

"Well, Mr. Hobson back again," greeted Benjamin as he appeared in the prisoner's box this morning.

"Well, I must admit I did wrong," said Ben, as he was fined $2, taking 10 days on the hill instead.

Lena VanNorman was charged with being a common prostitute. P. C. Deannard arrested her last night as she was drunk while driving a horse and buggy.

The girl said that a local man supplied her with the liquor.

Mrs. McElheney has the young girl in charge as the case has been adjourned for a week.

Buggy Damaged At Hunter St. Corner

While Wm. L. Taylor, seated in his buggy, at the corner of Hunter and George streets, was talking to a man at the curb this afternoon, another vehicle drove directly at Mr. Taylor's twisting the dashboard and causing the horse to back up on to the pavement almost ruining a bicycle that was leaning against the Bank of Toronto building. It was stated that the second buggy was driven by a young man named Elmhurst of Otonabee. The horse was something of a pacer, and after the collision it continued in an easterly direction toward the Hunter street bridge. The damage to the buggy did not appear to be great, but the wheel was well battered. A cycle cop followed after the cause of the mix-up.

MURDERER CUTS THROAT

BOSTON, July 24.—Lawrence Robinson, charged with the murder of Police Inspector Thomas J. Norton, was found dead in his cell at the Charles Street jail this morning.

Robinson had bled to death from a wound in the neck and another on the left wrist. The police had looked upon Robinson as one of the most desperate criminals with whom they had to deal in many years. Robinson cut his throat with a steel shank which he had removed from one of his shoes. Letters found in Robinson's effects, dated July 18, indicate that he contemplated suicide before his trial had begun.

HAS RETURNED AFTER 32 YEARS

Mr. Eugene Tangney, of Desmoines, Iowa, is in town to-day. Mr. Tangney is an old Peterborough boy, and left for Iowa 32 years ago. In the meantime he has been very successful in business and at present owns an hotel and two farms, one of which he operates himself. He is renewing old acquaintances in the city.

UNFAIR.

(Chicago Tribune)

The London police probably have been strangers to astonishment for at least a year. They have met the fury ladies in many activities, and they accept the most untoward event as the commonplace of a day's work. Wondering what the ladies will do next has ceased to have thrills; speculation is easily answered: Anything.

Nevertheless, something very like an emotion must have startled in the seasoned policeman who had his suspenders cut by the lady he was taking into custody. These, indeed, are superwomen. They have no inhibitions. The policeman being a man, had his limitations. He let go of his prisoner and caught hold of his trousers. The combat is unequal. her at once. Within five days Miss

POLICEMAN ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

ROCKVILLE CENTER, N. Y., July 23 — One-half of Rockville Center's police force of six men are accused of burglary by warrants issued here to-day. Two of the three men—Patrolmen Amos Veritsan and Henry Wicker, were arrested while on post; the third, Rulof Peterson, on his vacation, is believed to be in Holyoke, Mass. The Holyoke police have been requested by wire to apprehend him.

Three trunks containing articles of every description valued at approximately $5,000, were found in the chicken coops of Veritsan and Wicker. The village trustees are trying to induce the prisoners to explain how the trunks happened to be there.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Surrounded by Posse Man Tries to End His Life

COATESVILLE, Pa., July 23. — Surrounded in a woods by a posse which had pursued him after he had shot and slightly wounded Mrs. Roy Martin, wife of his former employer, to-day, Tyson Dolan, a farm hand, attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a penknife and shooting himself in the head. He was removed to a hospital here where it is declared that he is mortally wounded. He was a former circus employee, but had been employed on the Martin farm for about three years.

He was discharged yesterday and is said to have blamed Mrs. Martin for his dismissal. This is alleged to have caused him to attack her to-day. She grappled with him when he first pointed the revolver at her and succeeded in wresting it from his hand. He later regained the weapon and fired three shots at her, one striking her in the cheek and another in the hand. The third went wild.

PRIEST FORBIDS KISSING BRIDE IN CHURCH

CHICAGO, July 24—These are the rules that hereafter will govern wedding ceremonies in Our Lady of Lourdes Church:

1—Don't kiss the bride in Church, at the train or anywhere in public.

3—Don't throw flowers like pagans.

4—Don't throw old shoes or placard cabs.

The rules were promulgated by Father James M. Scanlan, who three months ago took charge of the parish. He came from St. John's Church, in the First Ward, where for 14 years he was Pastor.

Our Lady of Lourdes Church is located in a neighbourhood where there are many young people, and where social gaieties throng the calendar. Hence the announcement of Father Scanlan created more interest than anything that has occurred in the parish for months.

We must maintain the solemnity of the marriage ceremony, says Father Scanlan. "Bridal parties forget that it is a sacrament when performed in the Church, but the customs that have grown up, silly and meaningless except for some superstition, are survivals of barbarism. It is brutal to kiss the bride en masse, to mob her in public and to pelt her with rice or shoes. Such customs foster brutality and superstition. I don't object to some fun at home. It may be all right to kiss the bride there, but rice throwing should be barred everywhere."

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Always cut hot bread with a hot knife.

To remove machine oil, use cold water and soap.

Raw, lean beef will relieve a bee sting.

Always bottle up the syrup from pickled peaches or pears to add to your mince meat.

If almonds are put into cold water and allowed to just come to the boil, they will blanch easily.

"He is growing more like her mother every day."

"Yes," said the proud father. "You had noticed it?"

"Sure, she's always asking for money."

Grand Opening.

"I see the king and the emperor opened a ferry."

"Was that all they opened?"

"The report didn't mention anything else."

"It wasn't necessary."

Want Supplied.

Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as others see us.
It wad frae mony a blunder free us
And mony a scrape.
Dear, bonny woman—heaven bless her—
Knows how it is, for each professor,
Met oaring how it may distress her,
As on the job.

Felt Like Two.

"My, how important he is!"

"It's a shame the way they treated him too."

"What did they do to him?"

"Only counted him once in the census."

No Success.

"That man annoys me continually."

"Why don't you have him arrested?"

"What for?"

"That you may have peace."

"Then some one else would annoy me."

Quick Work.

And now his hand is thinner
At least by half a finger's length,
But he's a smart head waiter.

LABOUR MARKET DURING JUNE

Labour Gazette's Monthly Report of Local Conditions

Referring to conditions locally during the past month, the Labour Gazette says:

The condition of the labour market during June was rather quiet in all branches of industry except the building trades, which have shown great activity, although the building contractors have no difficulty in obtaining plenty of both skilled and unskilled labour. While most of the factories were not working to their full capacity, the Lock Manufacturing Company and the De Laval Dairy Supply Company reported busy conditions. The William Hamilton Company have received some big contracts lately, and report business better than during the same month last year.

Considerable work was being done on the principal streets of the city in the way of asphalt paving, construction of sidewalks, etc.

A trunk sewer will be constructed this summer, which will give employment to a large number of unemployed.

The weather was very dry the most of the month, the rain not coming until the last week, and the grain has suffered accordingly. The straw and hay will be very short. The rest of the crop was doing well.

At a sale held on June 4 cheese sold for 12 9-16 cents. A later sale brought 12 8-16 cents.

Lumbering was brisk at most of the mills. The Peterborough Lumber Company have had to close down their mill for want of logs, but expect to start again the first week in July. Their drive of logs has been detained by the low water this spring.

LINDSAY WANTS HYDRO ELECTRIC RADIAL LINE

Toronto Star—The town of Lindsay wants the proposed Hydro-Electric Radial Railway to Port Perry extended to Lindsay, and a meeting of the Ontario Municipal Railway Association will be held at Agincourt in about two weeks' time, at which the proposal will be considered.

The municipalities affected are preparing their by-laws and informing their electorates.

Western Ontario is ablaze with Hydro radial enthusiasm, according to reports reaching the commissioners office, and the railway idea promises to spread as fast and far and wide as did the power and light one.

WELL KNOWN CURLER PASSES AWAY

TORONTO, July 23.—Percival Jas. Edwards died this morning at the residence of his father, C. H. Edwards, 103 St. Clair Avenue, West. For the past four or five weeks he has been in bed, and was ill before that time. His trouble was from brain fever, brought on by overwork.

He was born at Bobcaygeon thirty-nine years ago, but was educated in Toronto. He went into the lumber business in his earlier days and remained at it until some three years ago, when he took up the brokerage business, continuing it until the time of his death. He was a member of the Granite Club and was a noted curler, belonging to several clubs in the City. He is survived by the widow, his father, one brother and four sisters.

100,021,992 IS ESTIMATE OF THE U. S. POPULATION

NEW YORK July 23—There were 100,021,992 persons living within the territory embraced by the United States on July 1, 1914, according to a bulletin containing the estimates of population for the years subsequent to the thirteenth census, made in 1910, prepared under the supervision of C. S. Sloane, geographer of the Department of Commerce, and published in Science on July 17. Official copies of the bulletin may be obtained soon from William J. Harris, Director of to Census Bureau in the Department of Commerce.

The population of the United States in 1910 was 104,748,262, so there has been a gain in population estimated at more than 7,000,000 in the last four years. The population of the forty-eight States of the Union and the District of Columbia in 1914 is 98,781,324, whereas in 1910 it was 91,972,266. The bulletin shows also the estimates of population in 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914 for States and Territories and for cities which had 8,000 inhabitants or more in 1910. There is also presented in the bulletin a statement of the white and coloured population on April 15, 1910, together with estimates of the white and coloured population of July 1 of each of the years following.

PRICE OF SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

(Ottawa Citizen)

To place the cost of protection at $30 annually, taken from every resident in Canada, would be a moderate estimate; it is probably nearer $40. Thus the Canadian citizen with a wife and two children has to pay, on an average, fully $200 a year extra because of the protective tariff; a generous donation to special privilege, costing rather too much for the average bread-winner.

The Pounds and the Talents. Luke xix:11-27. (Compare Matt. xxv:14-30.)

Golden Text—Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord. Matt. xxv:21.

1. Verse 11—What idea did the people and the apostles have at that time of God?
2. What evidence is there that Jesus will ever set up an earthly kingdom?
3. Verse 12—What would you say was the purpose of Jesus in giving this parable of the pounds?
4. Who is the "nobleman" here referred to and to what country did he go?
5. What kingdom did he go to receive and what did it imply?
6. When will Christ come back to the earth and what will be the nature of his reign when he returns.
7. Verse 13—To whom has Christ committed the care of the interests of the world in his absence?
8. What do the "pounds" represent, one of which was given to each of the ten servants?
9. What is the measure of every man's responsibility?
11. Verse 14—What is the nature of the hatred that the world has for Christ, and how it is manifested?
12. Why did the Jews reject Jesus?
13. Verse 15—When will Christ call her servants to reckon with them?
14. What is the nature of the increase that God expects every man to make in life?
15. Verses 16-17—What kind of a man, according to present day conditions, is he whose pound has increased to ten pounds?
16. Wherein do we learn from this parable that the future life will be one of great activity and happy service?
17. Verses 18-19—Was the man whose pound had increased to five pounds equally faithful as the man with ten pounds, the difference in the increase being due to ability and environments? Why?
18. What would you say will be the nature of the activity and service in the future life?
19. In how many respects do you think the inhabitants of heaven will differ?
20. Verses 20-23—What was the false conception that the man with one pound had of his master?
21. What class of persons to-day is represented by the man who laid up his pound in a napkin?
22. Verses 24-27—What becomes of any human power, physical, mental, or spiritual, which is never used?
23. What will be the final fate of those who reject Christ?

Lesson for Sunday, Aug. 2, 1914. The Triumphal Entry. Mark xi:1-11.

FEWER HARVESTERS NEEDED IN WEST.

Attempt Will be Made to Utilize Men Already in Provinces.

WINNIPEG, July 23. — That the railways will not hand out as big inducements to the harvesters from the East this year as formerly, and that an effort will be make to keep the number down in order that labourers already in the country may secure employment in the harvest fields, is the opinion expressed by local officials of the various railroads.

A meeting between the representatives of the Western Provincial Governments and the railways will take place in the C. P. R. office next Monday, when the situation will be discussed and plans formulated for the handling of this year's crop.

NEW LOCK BEING CONSTRUCTED

OTTAWA, July 23.—A new lock is to be constructed on the Trent Canal system at Bobcaygeon. The present lock at this point is in disrepair and leaks so badly that vessels have great difficulty in locking through. Land for the new lock has been purchased by the Department of Railways and Canals, and tenders are to be advertised for at once.

ELOPED ON EVE OF HER WEDDING DAY

Now She is Sorry and Wants Mother to Come and Take Her Home.

SAVANAGH, Ga., July 23 — The romance of Florence Martha Pickard, daughter of Dr. W. L. Pickard, the new President of Mercer University, who eloped last Friday with her old sweetheard, Mr. Everett Harrison, of Halifax, N. S., while her announced fiance, Mr. Karl Gustave Karsten, was on his way from London to wed her, ended sadly in New York after a honeymoon of four days.

Mrs. Pickard received a communication from her daughter, yesterday, urging her to go to New York, and bring back the bride. The information was hardly sufficient to determine whether Mrs. Harrison has been abandoned by her husband, or whether she has merely grown dissatisfied with her choice. Mrs. Pickard will leave immediately.

On the day the engagement was announced Harrison arrived in Savannah, and visited Miss Pickard. He was said to have been engaged to her once. Karsten reached America on the same day.

King Feels Criticism

Examiner Special:

LONDON, July 24 —The sharp criticism of the civil war reference in the speech of the King is said to have been keenly felt by the King. His Majesty is reported as saying "Once it was said the King can do no wrong, but now it seme the King can do no right."

WEALTHY FATHER ASKS ARREST OF ELOPING DAUGHTER

BOSTON, July 23.—Miss Fern Hallian, the beautiful 18-year-old daughter of J. H. Hallian, a wealthy merchant of this city, has eloped with the family chauffeur, the father is convinced. His appeal to the police of New England cities and Canada to arrest the couple was sent broadcast in the hope of finding the couple in time to prevent a marriage.

There is no trace of them, thus far, from the time they were driven in an automobile to the Boston & Maine railroad station, but the father is not even sure that they departed by any train.

"We are still hoping," said Mr. Hallian, "that our warning went out in time to stop the issuance of a license or their finding any one who would perform the ceremony. We asked the police of all towns in Maine, chiefly Portland, and those of Montreal and Quebec, to be on the watch."

Chauffeur Had Money.

Louis Eiseman, the chauffeur, had considerable money in the bank for he had been frugal, the girl's father explains, and he believes the eloper withdrew this money to finance the trip.

"I do not believe my daughter had more than three or four dollars in money, although she wore some very valuable jewels at the time she disappeared," he said.

"But if Eiseman had planned in advance he probably has all the funds necessary to carry them a long distance before attempting to look for a marrying official."

Fern left her home early in the evening to attend a theatre near the Bayside station. When she did not return at a reasonable hour we made inquiries, for we were anxious for her safety. We learned that she had been seen walking in Uantasket avenue with Eiseman about 8:45 p.m."

Miss Hallian was active in the social life of the Summer colony, where they have a residence, and she is very well known in Arlington.

MORE SIKHS COMING?

Phantom Ship Off B. C. Coast Worries British Columbians.

OTTAWA, July 24.—The glad tidings of great joy flashed to Ottawa yesterday morning, of the departure of the Komagata Maru, were followed by another message from the immigration authorities at Vancouver indicating that they are seeing the dusky Hindus at every turn. The latest report is that another shipload of the Sikhs are off Cape Flattery, but the news is not confirmed, and the wireless station is being communicated with in an endeavor to ascertain if it is a real ship or a phantom, due to the highly nervous condition of the coast people.

The Department here is not inclined to place much credence in the report, but if it should turn out to be true, the party on board would be turned back in precisely the same manner as those on the Komagata Maru.

The permanent solution of the Hindu immigration problem will next receive the attention of the Government by communication through British channels. If an arrangment cannot be made with the Indian Government to keep the Sikhs at home, the question will come up at next year's Imperial Conference.

TRAIL OF THE WORM.

Middlesex Is Victim of Scourge—Moving Towards Windsor.

LONDON, Ont., July 24.—The army worm has invaded Middlesex and has been seen in large numbers in the Township of Delaware, on the first concession. In several other places in this district the pest has been observed and in certain districts fields of grain are being burned and trenches dug to stop the ravages of the invaders. In Delaware the insects are making great havoc. Appin, Avon and other places report the presence of worms.

Pest Appears at Ayr.

AYR, July 24. — The army worm has been discovered in small quantities in this vicinity. The pest occupies fields on three farms south of the town, and one section has been found in larger numbers on a farm to the west.

Leamington Suffers.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., July 24.—The army worms are doing a good deal of damage in this district and are believed to be moving toward Windsor. Several fields of oats have been destroyed near here.

CANNOT FORGIVE SLAYERS.

Carranza Says Murderers of Madero Will Get No Leniency.

VICTORIA, Mex., July 23 (via Laredo, July 24.)—Speaking at a banquet in support of leniency for the Federals, Gen. Carranza said it must never be forgotten that all Mexicans are brothers, but he declared he could not extend the hand of brotherhood to those directly implicated in the deaths of Francisco Madero and Pino Suarez. No leniency, he said, could be expected for those who took an active part in overthrowing the Constitutional Government of Mexico and the murder of its President and Vice-President.

The law would be observed strictly, he said, and those charged with participating in the crime would be judged according to the law.

Patient Leaps Five Storeys.

TORONTO, July 24. — Mrs. Josephine Wren, aged 37, of Uxbridge, jumped from the fifth storey of the private patients' building at the General Hospital last night at 8.30 o'clock and was killed by the fall to the courtyard pavement. She had been a patient since last Saturday and was suffering from nervousness. Her husband and friends at Uxbridge were notified. Three children survive. An inquest is likely.

Suffragettes Are Arrested

Examiner Special:

LONDON, July 24.—Endeavouring to enter Buckingham Palace with a petition framed by Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, Lady Berkeley and Edith Fitzgerald, both prominent in society, were arrested to-day, as a result of efforts to reach the King. The petition decared the militants were no worse rebels than the Ulster leaders, and says the King not only received the Ulster leaders, but condoned their lawless, violent methods.

REGINA, Sask., July 24—Hon. G. Langley, Minister of Municipal Affairs, in a statement said the need for harvesters from outside points will be very limited, owing to the number of unemployed in the western cities and towns and that no men from the East will be needed this year.
